Lander Ready For Elizabethtown Tennis Campaign

Garrett County native Heather Lander and her teammates on the Elizabethtown (Pa.) College women's tennis squad are primed for a stellar season after coming off a program-best 14-0 mark last year. The Blue Jays also claimed the Commonwealth Conference championship in 2005.

A junior at Elizabethtown, Heather plowed through her competition last season in No. 5 singles play, running up an 18-2 mark, the best known record at E-town. She won the 2004 MASCAC number five singles flight championship, and went 14-3 in doubles action over the course of the campaign. In just two years of collegiate play she has tallied 28 singles wins and 23 doubles wins.

The Northern High School graduate is the daughter of Joyce and George Lander of Accident.

NHS Duffers Hit Greens In Busy Opening Week

The Northern High School golf team hit the links running this week with three matches, while a fourth was canceled because of rain. The Huskies come out of the early action with a 3-4 record heading into a weeklong layoff.

Northern came in second in a home course triangular at the Wisp last Thursday, Aug. 25, finishing eight strokes behind Keyser's winning mark of 182. NHS carded a 190, far ahead of Union's 255. Low medalist honors went to the Huskies' Zak Brosnihan, who turned in a 41, while Keyser was paced by Travis Kidwell's 44.

Northern took a four-stroke victory over Beall Monday at the Maplehurst Country Club, where the Huskies turned in a 188 to the hosts' 192. Edward Herpel led NHS with a 46, Neil Kamp carded a 47, and Brosnihan and David Vagnetti both had 48s. The lowest individual scores were recorded by the Mounties' Sam Kennell and Josh Plummer, who both finished at 44.

NORTHERN HIGH GOLF SCHEDULE

Date	Opponent	Loc.
9/7	Preston	Preston
9/8	Southern	Oakland
9/12	WMIL Tourn.	Oakland
9/14	Preston/Ft. Hill/ Allegany	Wisp
9/20	BW/Allegany	Cumb.
9/27	Regional Black Rock Tournament
9/28	Southern/Beall	Wisp
10/3	Bishop Walsh	Wisp
10/6	Garrett Championship	Oakland

Host Keyser led the field in a five-team tourney yesterday at Polish Pines, where low medalist Dustin Turbin recorded a 37 to lead his squad to a 164. Fort Hill was second at 177, followed by Frankfort with 180, Northern with 192, and East Hardy with 199. Northern's Brosnihan carded a 46. Keyser, a region powerhouse with a number of matches under its belt already, took its record to 19-6.

Northern is idle until Wednesday, Sept. 7, when the Huskies visit Preston for a 4 p.m. match at the Preston Country Club outside of Kingwood, W.Va.

SEASON PREVIEW

The 2005 Husky golf squad is "young but hungry," NHS coach Warren Glotfelty said as he previewed the fall campaign. With three wins under their belt already, the Huskies will soon top last year's 4-12 mark. "This is a group of young men who will give it their all," stated Glotfelty.

In addition to Brosnihan, Herpel, and Vagnetti, this year's Huskies roster draws on Matt Margroff, Taylor Cabe, and Andrew Joslin. Mike Bergstrom and Ben Margroff were lost to graduation from last year's team.

"These guys are very eager and attacking hard," said Glotfelty. "We are looking forward to a productive season."

Ram Golfers Downed By Tucker Lions

The Southern High School golf squad came up six strokes short against Tucker County in a match played last Thursday, Aug. 25, at the Oakland Golf Club.

Tucker recorded a 173 behind low medalist honorees Ryan Michael and Skyler Roberts, who both carded 42s. Joe Albert paced the Rams to a 179 with his individual score of 44.

Southern (5-2) will play Beall on Wednesday, Sept. 7, at the Maplehurst Country Club.

Oaks' Rally Falls Short In State Semi-Pro Final

A late rally by the Oakland Oaks in the Maryland Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament championship game never got the chance to fully play out, as the game was called because of rain with one inning to go and Oakland down by an 8-5 margin.

A three-run home run by Brunswick's Branden Roebuck helped stake his squad to a 4-0 first-inning lead. The Oaks rallied from a 6-0 sixth-inning deficit to score four times in the seventh and once in the eighth, while Brunswick added two more runs to its tally in the top of the eighth. The rains came before Oakland could take its turn at bat in the ninth inning.

The Oaks' Jeremy Fitzwater doubled, singled, and knocked in a run, and Matt Miller stroked a pair of singles and handed one RBI. Bryan Lenhart doubled and Tyler Daniel stroked an RBI single.

Winning pitcher Joey Hart struck out 10 and did not walk a batter in seven innings. Jeremy Fitzwater pitched all eight innings for Oakland, allowing eight hits and whiffing 10 Oaks while giving up just three walks.

The 2005 Oaks came on strong after a slow start to their Pen Mar League campaign, and finished second in that circuit. Oakland's year-end record stands at 23-13.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest is sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Results for the week ending Aug. 27 are as follows:

Smallmouth bass: 1 lb. 2 ozs., 13 ins., caught by Connor Motsko, Owings Mills.

Yellow perch: 12 ozs., 12 ins., caught by Kenneth Weller, Latrobe, Pa.

Weekly winners receive a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must take their catches to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House, 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry.

Women Golfers Hold Meeting, Play Scramble

Members of the Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club held a meeting last Thursday and then played a scramble.

Tying for first place with scores of 71 were the teams of Natalie Winter, Pearl Daniels, Fran Bell, and Ruth Kight; and June Bray, Diana Winter, Sandy Bello, and Debbie Weissgerber. Finishing in third place with a 75 was the team of Rosie Versteegen, Cheryl Wotherspoon, and Pat Filsinger.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

GOOD SAILING ALL WEEKEND, BELIEVE IT OR NOT

by Dan Muss

It had rained most of last Friday night and the weather Saturday morning looked pretty discouraging. It looked like rain and there didn't seem to be much wind. The group of Masters Fleet sailors, standing around the deck of the Turkey Neck Club, was on the point of bagging the race when Ed Peters came up and said that there was a nice breeze out in the slot. I called the race committee on the radio, and they confirmed that they were starting on time. That did it; we went out to rig.

There weren't many boats out, with the weather looking so bad, but there was a lovely SE breeze about 3-5 knots and hardly any motorboat wakes. In many ways it was just great sailing. There were only three boats sailing in our fleet so we had the long starting line to ourselves, but the committee boat was favored, and that's where Peters and I started. We managed to get our nose out far enough to give him bad air and then we opened up the lead. Rounding the first windward mark, I had plenty of room but, for some reason, I brushed the mark and we immediately did a 360-degree penalty turn. We were still ahead, but I had burned up some of that lead. We stayed out in front for the next four legs, but on the final beat to the finish, Elster came charging up. We kept a close cover on her, but still she came on. We took her by a few boatlengths, but she was sailing well.

On Sunday the weather broke, and we had wind that was about 0 to 7 knots westerly under partly sunny skies. (It was mostly about 5 knots, but there were some dead spots.) Just before the start it looked like the pin was going to be favored, but on our last run down the line the wind moderated and shifted to the SW, so we could not weather the line on the starboard tack. Ten seconds before the start I put the helm over and we started on port tack, as did everyone else.

We were doing OK in terms of the weather, but Elster said she had altered course on a port-starboard crossing, and so we did our two penalty turns and it was catch-up from there on. The course was unconventional, with the fleets criss-crossing the lake. It was interesting, but there was only one actual down-wind leg; the rest were beats and reaches.

Meehan did a horizon job to finish first in our fleet, as Peters and I had a close battle for second. He nosed us out at the finish.

Joni Palmer, at the helm of Frank Wolffe's FS 160, won the Championship-Gold race by a bunch, with Frank crewing. Frank said, after the race, "It's not the boat; it's the hand on the tiller." "Flyin" Ryan Schubert and crew Lucy Kammer continue to dominate the Championship-Silver Fleet with two first places.

And there were three generations of Kemps out there. Grandpa was sailing with us in the Master's Fleet; son Ed Kemp sailed well with his daughter Tara, while his other son Ralph sailed with his wife Donna Hansen and their daughter Melinda.

This week is Labor Day weekend with the Commodore's Regatta. There will be lots of action on the water Saturday, Sunday, and Monday. Motorboats are welcome spectators; just remember, no wake; give us a brake!

WEISSGERBER CLAIMS OAKLAND GOLF CLUB TOURNEY – The Oakland Golf Club hosted its Men's Golf Tournament recently, and Bill Weissgerber took the crown by working his way through a field of 32 players in a match play, double elimination format. The final championship match pitted Weissgerber against Rob Sharps, who had fought his back from a third round loss. Sharps won the first of two battles, but Weissgerber held on in the second match to claim the title. Coming in third place was Jason Finch, while his brother Scott Finch claimed fourth place. The Senior Championship crown was won by their father, Bob Finch. Pictured from the left are Jason Finch, Weissgerber, and Sharps.

Owners Will

contributors of nutrients entering the bay via waterways.

The new law states that a $2.50 monthly fee is to be collected from each home served by a wastewater treatment plant. Commercial and industrial users are to be charged at the rate of $2.50 per month per "equivalent dwelling unit."

The MDE anticipates that $65 million per year will be generated in flush fees from wastewater treatment plant customers. From that revenue, 66 major facilities that are discharging into the bay will receive help to upgrade their systems. Garrett County, however, has no treatment plants in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed and is not slated to receive funding.

The annual fee from septic tank owners is expected to generate $12.6 million per year. Sixty percent of these funds will be used for septic system upgrades, and the remaining 40 percent will be used for cover crops, according to the MDE.

Local opponents of the flush tax have pointed out that Garrett County is not a major contributor of bay pollution and question why people here should have to pay to clean up the bay.

"I think to some people it's the principle," Commissioner Ernie Gregg said. "But I guess we need to keep in mind that it's for the greater good of the state."

Each Maryland county is responsible for collecting the flush tax. But the new law gives no guidelines on how to collect the tax, and some counties are apparently struggling with the task.

"We're ahead of the game," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt about the efforts of Financial Services.

Septic tank owners will have 30 days to pay their bills. Yoder said the new law requires that penalties be imposed for late payments. But it also states that it is up to the counties to determine what those penalties should be. Financial Services is still in the process of making that determination.

After septic system owners receive their bills in October, they can call Public Utilities with questions they may have about the flush tax. A dedicated phone line will be available for two or three months with prerecorded basic information about the tax and who is responsible for paying it.

Persons who feel they cannot afford the flush fee may apply for a hardship exemption. Those who meet certain criteria will be eligible. Residents can call Public Utilities for a hardship exemption application. Along with the application, they will need to provide proof that they are receiving certain types of state assitance and have copies of their income tax returns, Yoder noted.

More information about the Bay Restoration Fund is available online at mde.state.md.us.

Fewer Issued

Single-family home permits for the first half of this year are down 16 percent for the entire county, 33 percent in the lake area alone. Torrington also noted that the building declared value and square footage of those homes was down compared to 2004.

The number of commercial and institutional permits, however, is up 23 percent, compared to the first part of 2004. Torrington's office has approved 32 so far this year, compared to 26 in '04, 25 in '03,16 in '02, and 35 in '01 for the same time period.

Also up are the number of duplexes being built. Nine permits for the structures have been issued so far this year for the Deep Creek Lake area. No permits were issued last year, and only one was approved each year for '03, '02, and '01. Torrington noted that there may be a trend toward more duplexes being built.

Director John Nelson, Planning & Land Development, also told the commissioners that DC Developers LLC was in the preliminary stages of getting a large project approved by the Garrett County Planning Commission. The developers plan to build town houses, containing between 2,300 and 2,500 units, near the Adventure Sports Center on Marsh Mountain.

The company had previously donated 550 acres for the center.

More GC Scholarships Awarded

HEIDI ANN HARE

RACHEL STANTON

ASHLEY ZIEGLER

JONATHAN ZIEGLER

The Garrett College Foundation has announced that four students – Heidi Ann Hare, Rachel Ann Stanton, Ashley Ryan Zeigler, and Jonathan Eric Ziegler – have received the Daniel Edward Offutt II Achievement Award Scholarship, which is intended for agricultural management majors and computer science majors.

Hare, a graduate of Northern High School, is unsure of her major at this time, but said she knows she wants to help people.

Heidi was president of the NHS Honor Society, secretary of Youth For Christ, played first flute in the concert band, and lettered in track and participated in soccer. She was on the honor roll throughout high school, and among the awards she earned were Most Outstanding Student of the Year in 10th grade, Minds in Motion, Science Fair regional awards for botany projects, Chemistry Student of the Year, and the Behavioral and Social Sciences Award. She was also selected for Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Heidi has entertained at nursing homes, provided special music at her church, was a state park volunteer, and a DARE role model, and was active in her church youth group. She also worked as a hostess at Uno's. Her hobbies include music, soccer, writing, and church activities.

The daughter of James and Mary Ann Hare of Swanton, Heidi is a direct descendent of original Garrett County settler Philip Hare.

Stanton graduated from the Cornerstone Christian Academy in Grantsville in 2002. She is majoring in elementary education with a career goal of becoming a teacher and inspiring children with a lifelong love of learning. She was an honors program participant at Garrett College, and has volunteered at the Accident Library to coordinate children's reading activities.

Rachel is involved with Wycliffe Associates children's ministry, having participated in a vacation Bible school in Kenya in the summer of 2004, and she is currently planning a similar trip to Malaysia. Rachel is the daughter of Joseph and Mary Stanton of Grantsville, and she said she enjoys working on the farm which has been in her family for seven generations and where she manages the goat herd. She also enjoys reading, sewing, and quilting traditional and original designs.

Siblings Ashley Zeigler, a 2002 graduate of Ferndale Christian School, and Jonathan Eric Zeigler, who graduated from Ferndale the following year, have very different career plans.

Ashley is majoring in secondary education, with the intention of teaching math and using her degree to "best serve" her family and the church. She volunteered several times at Christian Aid in Charlottesville, Va., and is interested in working with missions, especially overseas. She has also volunteered at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, the Salem Children's Home near Avilton, and Frostburg's HUD after-school program, and was an active member of FSU's Intervarsity Club.

Jonathan Zeigler is majoring in Business Administration and hopes to eventually have his own business. He participated in the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship and American Youth Soccer organizations, and was a referee for the United States Soccer Federation. His hobbies include soccer, fishing, hunting, and playing guitar.

Ashley and Jonathan are the children of Carla and Jon Ziegler of Oakland. Jon owns and operates Garrett Medical Transport.

smoking device bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue was located in their vehicle during a traffic stop on North Fourth Street.

Brandon Chad Whitacre, 21, Oakland, received a stet ruling on a possession of marijuana charge filed by Narcotics Task Force officers after he allegedly sold a quantity of marijuana.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

Several DUI and DWI (driving while impaired) cases were heard in traffic court recently.

Eric Lee Miller, 39, Md., was deemed to be in violation of his DUI probation agreement by visiting judge Edward Malloy, and was sentenced to six months in jail.

Darrin Leroy Frambes, 34, N.J., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but one day of which was suspended, and was fined $455 and placed on one year of unsupervised probation by Judge Burnett.

Michael Wayne Brantner, 37, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $455, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

James J. Gralish, 43, Pa., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $400 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation.

James William Kamalsky Jr., 24, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $300, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Charles Rosenberger, 63, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $300.

Daniel E. Eggleston, 34 Md., was deemed in violation of his DUI probation, withheld as the probation although sanctions were term was continued.

The Arts

New Exhibit To Feature Turned Wood, Paintings

A new exhibit opening today, Sept. 1, at the Gallery of the Garrett County Arts Council in Oakland features turned wood art by Gene Gillespie and original oil paintings by Lynford Yoder. The exhibit will be on display through Oct. 8.

Gene Gillespie has been working with wood for more than 40 years. He began turning wood in 1993, integrating the natural characteristics and imperfections of wood into finished pieces of fine art, ornamental vessels, unique bowls, and functional objects.

"He shares his passion for his craft through the pieces he creates and by teaching and demonstrating the art of wood turning," said a spokesperson.

His work is sold in galleries and fine art and craft shows throughout the mid-Atlantic region.

Lynford Yoder studied art at Garrett College and Frostburg State University, where he focused on painting and graphic design. He creates and sells original oil paintings as well as giclee reproductions, teaches drawing and painting, does portrait painting by commission, and works as the custom designer and framer at a Cumberland gallery.

His work is exhibited locally at Manhattan Golf & Gallery, Arts at Canal Place, Rocky Gap Lodge, 60 N. Centre Gallery, Penn Alps Craft Shop, and the Somerset County Artists Association, where his work won Best of Show in a recent exhibition.

"We invite the public to enjoy the work of these two accomplished local artists," said Steve Schlosnagle, executive director of the Garrett County Arts Council. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Additional information is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580 or by visiting the council's web site at www.garrettarts.com.

H. Hare To Sing For '05 Schrock Memorial Concert

Music at Penn Alps will present the 2005 Alta E. Schrock Memorial Concert, featuring lyric soprano Holly Hare, on Saturday, Sept. 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Penn Alps Great Hall. The young singer will present a program of German Lieder by Franz Schubert, Johannes Brahms, Hugo Wolf, and Richard Strauss, with piano accompaniment by Betty Jane Phillips.

A native of Bittinger, Hare is studying voice as a scholarship student at S.U.N.Y. Purchase School of Music in New York. She currently studies with soprano Kaori Sato and is preparing two separate roles in Purcell's Dido and Aeneas. In addition, she frequently performs with Collegium Westchester of Ossining, N.Y.

While in high school, Hare studied voice at Frostburg State University with Kathryn Sincell-Corwell and became the youngest member of the Frostburg Opera Workshop class. She was also a member of the Maryland All-State Choir and played clarinet for three years with the marching band. For six years, she studied piano with Gale Ringer.

Proceeds of this concert will assist the performer with her educational expenses. The suggested donation for admission is $10 per person.

The late Dr. Alta E. Schrock was a philanthropist and founder of the Music at Penn Alps summer concert series that recently concluded its 13th season. The Schrock Fund currently supports a student recital program that allows music teachers the use of the Great Hall and concert Yamaha piano. All contributions are tax-deductible.

For more information, persons may contact Nancy Salmon, chair of the Schrock Memorial Fund, at 301-729-4171.

For information about Music at Penn Alps, persons may visit the web site at www.musicatpennalps.org or call the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

Yough Fest To Get A Rockin' Sendoff With The Remedy Tomorrow Evening

The Little Yough Summer Music Festival will go out in style tomorrow night when local favorite The Remedy pays a visit to downtown Oakland to answer the eternal musical question posed during encores by the likes of James Brown and Bruce Springsteen: "Is there a doctor in the house?"

A rollicking 11-piece band, The Remedy will start raising the roof of the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion at 7 p.m. for the free concert event. The laid-back atmosphere of tomorrow night's venue perfectly fits a band that takes pride in being rooted in area garages, high school gyms, and barns.

With an expanded repertoire of rocking tunes, the band might play until curfew, or the dancers drop from exhaustion, whichever comes first. Known for having more degrees than a thermometer, the Remedy delivers its prescription for fun with sterling musicianship and good-time showmanship, and its members are known for sometimes following their muse off the stage and right up the aisles.

Lead guitarist Jim Jones, an Oakland optometrist, takes his riffs from the Rolling Stones and his on-stage wardrobe from "wherever." His bass vocal on "Low Rider" has become one of many signature sounds for the group.

Keyboardist Monty Pagenhardt has one foot in the blues, one in jazz, and both hands in the whole-lotta-shakin' style of Jerry Lee Lewis. Monty and Jim first started playing rock and roll together back in Southern High School in the late 1960s.

The band's soul sound comes from the pair of females out front, Oakland audiologist Jana Brown and Broad Ford Elementary School teacher Kim Grimm-Weimer, a singing pair that can belt the hits out of the park, or slow things down, individually and as a duo. Patsy Cline, Martina McBride, and Van Morrison have nothing on those two.

New to the band is bass player Bob Browning, a county native and local businessman, who backed nationally known bands including the Lovin' Spoonful, the Coasters, and Exile while a young musician in Washington, D.C.

Fred Hazelwood, a blues and rock aficionado, blows the harmonica and fills out the sound with rhythm guitar when he's not tapping on teeth as an Oakland dentist.

Drummer Chuck Walch lives up to his college nickname of "Keith Moon" when the surgeon unleashes his alter-ego on the skins. His show-stopping solos have fast become crowd favorites.

What makes the band truly unique is its "Bittinger Brass" horn section, which gives the outfit the sound of the Asbury Jukes, the Tower of Power, Winton Marsalis, and more – all while nattily attired in Hawaiian shirts that are even louder than their horns.

Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty, who for years hosted one of the earliest incarnations of the band every Labor Day

Frostburg State Cultural Events Series Features Broad Range Of Performers

The 2005-2006 Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series will launch this September its broadest range of artistic performances to date, according to an FSU spokesperson. With two series — Main Stage and Jazz Club — CES will feature events ranging from orchestral music to jazz to classic rock, musical comedy to serious drama, and ancient and traditional works to contemporary multi-media collaborations.

The CES Jazz Club, sponsored by Kauffman Music, will open the season with John Fedchock's New York Sextet on Saturday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. in FSU's Alice R. Manicur Assembly Hall. Fedchock established his career as a jazz trombonist in 1980 when he joined the legendary Woody Herman Orchestra. He now leads a 16-piece New York Big Band, comprising alumni from major big bands and stars from New York's jazz scene. This performance is sponsored by Vision Embroidery, supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and is funded in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts and in part by the Allegany Arts Council.

The Main Stage Series will begin Saturday, Oct. 1, with Circus Nexus, sponsored by Century 21 Potomac West-Tom Kurek, at 8 p.m. in FSU's Cordts Center Main Arena. This highly theatrical production is considered the "new circus," with international, award-winning dancers and acrobats, accompanied by "an exciting score and evocative décor, costumes and lighting," according to one critic.

The Maryland Symphony Orchestra will return this year on Friday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. in FSU's Pealer Recital Hall, thanks to sponsorship by the Allegany Arts Council. The MSO, under the baton of critically acclaimed conductor Elizabeth Schulze, will present a program featuring the works of Carl Maria Von Weber, Johannes Brahms, and Anton Dvorak, and will include a performance by award-winning guest violinist Rachel Barton-Pine.

FSU's 2005 Homecoming "will rock" with the songs of the 1980s, as 38 Special and Eddie Money, sponsored by Billy Bender Chevrolet, will take to the stage on Saturday, Oct. 22, at 9 p.m. in FSU's Cordts Center Main Arena. The Southern-rock style of 38 Special gained attention in the early 1980s with two breakthrough numbers, "Rockin' into the Night" and "Hold on Loosely." A string of hits followed, including "Fantasy Girl," "If I'd Been the One," "Back Where You Belong," "Like No Other Night" and "Chain Lightnin'."

Straight-up rock and roll icon Eddie Money has been making music since the mid 1970s. "With hits like 'Two Tickets to Paradise,' 'Baby Hold On,' 'Walk on Water,' 'Think I'm in Love,' and 'Shakin',' Money continues to be one of the hardest working men in rock and roll," stated one critic.

Windwood Theatricals will present a new musical, based on the international best-seller by Stuart Hample, Children's Letters to God, on Tuesday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 p.m. in FSU's Pealer Recital Hall. Taken directly from the letters of young people writing to God, the work is humorous and serious, and reflects the directness of youth and the challenges of childhood. This performance is sponsored by Best Western — the Braddock, Belt Construction, and several other area businesses, including Sincell Publishing Company.

Drummer, vocalist, composer/arranger T.S. Monk will perform at Manicur Assembly Hall on Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m. Monk, chairman of the Thelonius Monk Institute of Jazz, named in honor of his father, is known for his spectrum of styles, from R&B to traditional jazz. This performance is sponsored by Tri-State Hand and Occupational Therapy, supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and funded in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts and in part by the Allegany Arts Council. This tour of T.S. Monk is made possible by a grant from Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation, in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program.

The holiday season will feature the Vienna Boys Choir "Christmas in Vienna," sponsored by Best Western — the Braddock and NBC 25, on Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in Pealer Recital Hall. Founded in 1498, the choir originally performed exclusively for the Austrian royal court. Today there are about 100 choristers between the ages of 10 and 14, divided into four touring choirs.

Windwood Theatricals will present the stage version of the 1949 Marilyn Monroe musical Gentleman Prefer Blondes on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Jan. 25, 26, and 27, in FSU's Drama Theatre. Set in the Roaring '20s, the story focuses on two ex-chorus girls as they chase men, get into trouble, and sing a bevy of hit songs, including "A Little Girl From Little Rock," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend." The official hotel of the Cultural Events Series, Best Western — the Braddock, is sponsoring this event.

The David Leonhardt Jazz Group will perform Friday, March 10, for two shows, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., at Cumberland's newest performance venue, Windsor Hall, at 39 Baltimore Street. This critically acclaimed acoustic ensemble plays a blend of mainstream and modern jazz, including both standards and original compositions. The performance is sponsored by Allegany Aggregates and is partially supported by a grant from Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by the Vira I. Heinz Endowment; the William Penn Foundation; the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, a state agency; and the Pew Charitable Trusts. It is administered by Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation, and supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and funded in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts and in part by the Allegany Arts Council.

Aquila Theatre Company will present Hamlet on Tuesday, March 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Drama Theatre. William Shakespeare's classic tragedy of familial discord, personal ambition, love, and revenge is directed by Robert Richmond. This engagement of Aquila Theatre Company of London is part of a Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation Tour funded by the foundation in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program. It is supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and is funded in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts.

In Pealer Recital Hall on Thursday, March 30, at 7 p.m., audiences will experience Andean music, one of the few authentic prehistoric culture forms to survive the 500 years of European occupation of South America. Andes Manta features the Lopez brothers from Ecuador who play more than 35 traditional instruments. This engagement of Andes Manta is part of a Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation Tour funded by the Foundation weekend in his Bittinger barn for jams of Motown tunes, plays trumpet. He first picked up the instrument in fourth grade at Accident Elementary School.

On sax and clarinet is Gino Mauricci, the band's resident "music doctor," who repairs instruments and works as a computer consultant during the day. Gino has a master of music degree from the prestigious Eastman School of Music, where he performed with the Rochester Philharmonic. (Could he have had an inkling then that one day he would be leading a line of happy dancers throughout the Oakland Elks Lodge with a howling rendition of "Tequila"?)

Dave Paolini, another local surgeon, traded his trumpet for study time during his college days in Philadelphia, but since moving the Garrett County says he is happy to have found his lip again with The Remedy.

Greg Was, proficient on sax, flute, and clarinet, hails from the musical hotbed of Buffalo, N.Y., also home to acts as diverse as 10,000 Maniacs, the Barenaked Ladies, and Rick James. The chief musical interest of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital chief financial officer is jazz.

Diamond sponsors of the 2005 Little Yough Music Festival have been 92.3 the Train, WKHJ, 1050 AM WMSG, Wal-Mart, The Republican, the Garrett County Arts Council, the town of Oakland, and the Greater Oakland Business Association. Platinum sponsors are Susquehanna Bank and the Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour. Gold sponsors were Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations, WQZK, and the Maryland State Arts Council. Silver sponsors were the Fireside Deli, HME Associates, WEPCO Federal Credit Union, and the Oakland Rotary. Bronze sponsors were Domenick Signs, the Dental Health Group, Good Timber Bed and Breakfast, the Will O' the Wisp, and the Inn at Point View/Sweetwater Grill. Additional support was provided by numerous other donors.

For information on how to become a sponsor of the 2006 Little Yough Music Festival, persons may contact Oakland Main Street Program manager Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026, or visit the festival's Web page at www.littleyough.com.

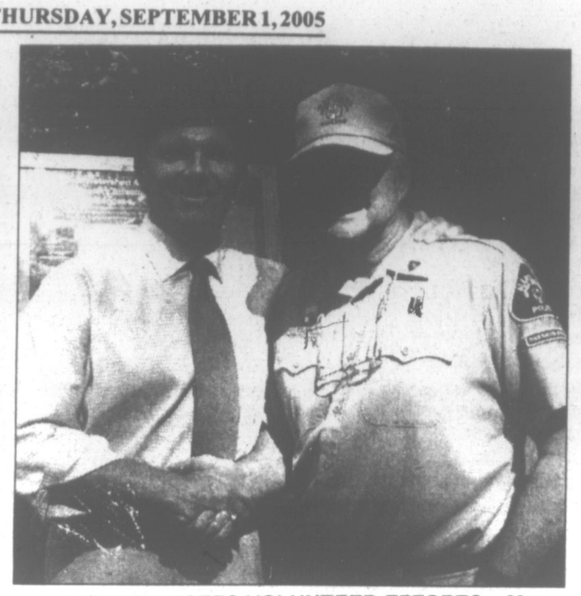
Governor's Visit Highlights Crucial Role Of Volunteers In State Parks

During his recent visit to western Maryland, Governor Robert Ehrlich underscored the role volunteers play in all facets of the community, especially noting the efforts of those who dedicate volunteer service to our state parks and forests.

"We owe much of our success to volunteer citizens participation and friends groups who provide essential assistance to our state parks – here in Garrett County and across the state," Ehrlich said as he profiled the county's strong tourism, coal, and wood and timber industries, each of which relies in some measure upon the availability of and access to public lands.

"Last year, more than 8,300 volunteers provided 297,000 volunteer hours in Maryland State Parks," the governor stated. "I'd like to take this opportunity to recognize the newly formed Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers (WGCSPV), who have pulled together the Friends of Deep Creek Lake, Herrington Manor, and Swallow Falls State Parks with a goal of pooling resources and doing more for all of these facilities.



EHRLICH NOTES VOLUNTEER EFFORTS – Maryland governor Robert Ehrlich's recent swing through western Maryland included a stop at Swallow Falls State Park, where he paid tribute to the many volunteers who make the state's parks and forests more enjoyable and accessible for area residents and tourists. Among the volunteers on hand to greet the governor was Oakland resident John Cobb, right, a member of the Maryland Natural Resources Reserve Officer Program. See story for details on volunteer opportunities with the organization.

"I'd also like to recognize the Friends of New Germany State Park, and the Maryland Conservation Corps, which helps with projects and park operations."

Ehrlich's remarks came at Swallow Falls State Park, where he spoke about the strong volunteer ethic of Maryland residents and personally thanked Oakland resident John Cobb, a volunteer Natural Resources Reserve Officer.

Cobb is a retired CBS vice president, formerly employed in New York City, who has been visiting and residing in Garrett County for over 50 years. "It's all about giving back," he said. "I find it very rewarding to work with fellow officers to help protect and make our state parks safer places for Marylanders and our visitors to enjoy.

"This volunteer job is very unique and has many different facets," Cobb continued. "One week I can be conducting boating safety tests, and the next directing traffic for the Art in the Park festival or the Walk for Hospice of Garrett County. We staff DNR booths at different sportsman's shows around the state, and often perform vessel safety checks at the Deep Creek Lake State Park boat ramp."

Volunteers with the Maryland Natural Resources Reserve Officer Program are committed to performing non-law enforcement duties that would otherwise be performed by commissioned police officers. This complementary effort enhances the Natural Resources Police ability to Preserve and Protect Maryland's natural resources. Among the qualifications for an individual interested in becoming a volunteer officer are: must be a U.S. citizen age 18 or older; have no felony convictions whatsoever, and no Natural Resources or other misdemeanor convictions within the last five years punishable by imprisonment or a fine in excess of $500; and possess a valid driver's license and have a good driving record.

For further information on the Maryland Natural Resources Reserve Officer Program, persons may call Western Region program coordinator Cpl. Lester Engle at 301-777-7771.

FUNK, SPAID EXCHANGE VOWS

Crystal Funk became the wife of Daniel Spaid in a 1 p.m. ceremony on Aug. 27, at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, with the groom's father officiating. A reception at Alpine Lake followed the wedding.

Daniel is the son of the Rev. D. Robert and Peggy Spaid, Eglon. The bride's parents are Anna and Michael Funk of Moorefield, and Mary Ann Mongold of Maysville. Joe and Clara Spaid of Eglon are grandparents of the groom.

PAIVA, DIXON WED

Krystal Paiva and Shane Dixon exchanged wedding vows at 4:30 p.m. on Aug. 5, on Wailea Beach, Honolulu, Hawaii. The bride attends West Virginia University and is the daughter of Paul Paiva Sr. and Miyoung "Lee" and Dr. William Schweiker of Morgantown. The groom is the son of Gary and Cheryl Dixon, formerly of Amboy, and now living in the Elkins area. He is a West Virginia University graduate and is employed in Canaan Valley. William and Joyce Dixon of Amboy are the paternal grandparents. The groom's parents were in Hawaii for the wedding.

PERSONAL MENTION

Emily Snyder celebrated her 7th birthday two days early when her parents, Alan and Lesa Snyder, and brother, Wyatt, hosted a family spaghetti dinner on Aug. 26 for the following: Jackie and Alma Snyder, Sue and Jessica Shillingburg, Jack, Barbara, Justin, Ricky, Tabitha, and Anthony Snyder, John and Jeanette Adams, Greg and Averi Adams, and Jo-Ann Helton and son, Jim Helton.

Visiting family and friends in this area during the past two weeks were Slaubaugh, David and Michelle Wiles, Raymond Knotts, Connie Harsh, Dale and Mildred Stemple, Dick and Connie Knotts, Gary, Denise, and Willie Bachtel, Don Uphole, Homer and Tammy Adams, Rosemary, Chester and Brenda Curry, Mary Pyles, Bradley, Melly and Aiden Curry of Massachusetts, Steven Knotts of Columbus, Ohio; Wanda White and Daniel White and wife, Shirley, Detroit, Mich.; Aaron and Maria Knotts, Haley, Jacob, and Regan Knotts, Grace and Gerry Winter, Justin, Jason, and Gage Bachman, Linda Bachman, Leola Robinson, and Steven Criss, all Fairmont; Lanny Knotts, Xavier Knotts, Betty Freeland, Stan and Beth Wiles, and Margaret Wiles, all Kingwood; Bob and Cheryl Knotts; Romney; Paula Logan and Sandy Knotts, Shepherdstown; Robin, Kevin, and Jarrett Burkhart, Brandi and Josh Trenum, Jim and Rhonda Saville, Aimee and Olivia Saville, and Lisa Moats, Morgantown; Robbie and Amy Brown, Charles Town; and Kim Switzer.

SHAFFER GRADUATES WITH HONORS

Pfc. Andrew Shaffer returned home to Aurora on Aug. 23 from Fort Lee, Va. He had just completed training at the Quartermaster Center and School in basic petroleum and logistics and was given a Certificate of Achievement. He graduated with honors, being third in his class. His GPA was 92.85.

Andy's grandmother, Kate Shaffer, his mother, Kathy Wise, and his girlfriend, Ashley Close, left Aug. 22 to be there for his graduation, and he returned home with them.

RECYCLING

September 10 is the day set for taking recyclable plastics, paper, metal, or Mrs. Wanda White and Daniel and Shirley White, all of Roseville, Mich. Mrs. White's husband, Victor White, 93, died in early June after a long illness. Mr. White was a native of this area.

Homer Knotts of Manheim is recuperating from a stroke and is in the rehab unit at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Linda McWilliams McGinn left Aug. 26 to return to her home in North Carolina after spending the week at Aurora with her mother, Viola McWilliams.

Carolyn Laurie also returned Aug. 26 to her home in Aberdeen, Ohio, after a two-week visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Margaret and Leroy McWilliams, at Horse Shoe Run.

Returning Saturday evening from a week at Virginia Beach were David and Delores Stemple, Wanda Melton of Buffalo, B.J. and Debbie Fike, Kim Fike Moyers of Morgantown, and Darla Stemple and friend, Cindy, of Parsons.

Kim and Anthony "Moose" Moyers will be staying temporarily with her parents, B.J. and Debbie Fike, at Aurora while Kim assumes new employment in this area and they seek housing here.

At the annual Gnegy reunion, held Aug. 28 at the Deale Gnegy Farm, Gnegy Church, several couples were honored for their years married. Lorain and Norma Gnegy of Oakland and Don and Nettie Gnegy of Hambleton have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversaries recently. During the past year, Jessie and Harold Gnegy of Oakland, and Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon, reached their 60th wedding anniversaries. Ed and Velma Gnegy, Flintstone, have reached their 61st.

MISS ROBERSON WEDS MR. SECOR

In an Aug. 27 ceremony at Richmond, Va., Jamie Roberson was united in marriage to Capt. Rod Secor. The bride is a daughter of Ed Roberson of Ohio and Linda Carol Roberson of Blacksburg, Va. She is a granddaughter of Glenn and Ilene Fint of Old Fields, formerly of Aurora. Attending the wedding from this area were aunts, uncles, and cousins of both the Fint and Roberson families. The couple will continue to reside in Richmond following a honeymoon to Aruba.

in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program, and is sponsored by Best Western — the Braddock.

The multi-media dance company BodyVox will grace the FSU Drama Theatre stage on Monday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. Founders and co-directors Jamey Hampton and Ashley Roland have created choreography for the Academy Awards, for music videos for Sting, U2, Pat Metheny, John Fogerty, and David Bowie's concert production, The Glass Spider. This tour of BodyVox is made possible by a grant from Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the National Endowment for the Arts Regional Touring Program, and is sponsored by Best Western — the Braddock.

The CES season will conclude Saturday, May 6, with jazz from Chris Vadala. Two performances, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., will be held at Windsor Hal in Cumberland. One of the country's foremost woodwind artists, fluent on both clarinet and saxophone, Vadala has performed and recorded with jazz greats including Chuck Mangione, Dizzy Gillespie, Quincy Jones, B.B. King, Chick Corea, Ella Fitzgerald, Aretha Franklin, and Sarah Vaughn. This performance is sponsored by Mark DiNola, DDS, supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, and is funded in part by an award from the National Endowment for the Arts and in part by the Allegany Arts Council.

Discounts are available for both the Main Stage and Jazz series. Purchasing series subscriptions guarantees the best seats in the house at a discount off individual event tickets. Additional packages, including Arts Getaway Packages, will also be available this season. To purchase tickets and/or obtain more information, persons may call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at 301-687-3137, or toll-free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

Officials Address GC League Of Women Voters At Annual Picnic

by Jo Donaldson

"The state is still broke, but not as much as we were, Delegate George Edwards told those present at the League of Women Voters picnic last week.

Revenue is up and the state has a surplus now, he said. The economy is strong in Maryland, but there are still structural deficits.

"We have to be careful how we spend this," Edwards stated. "We have an opportunity to get out of the structural deficit."

The budget will not be as much of an issue as it was, but he wants the state to stay within the amount of revenue being received. If a bill is passed, the money must be there to support it, in the future as well as in the present.

Edwards had just arrived back in Garrett County after a morning meeting in Annapolis on employee rights of protection.

The legislature may draft some kind of resolution, with policies to be followed in the future. Some of what is being discussed now is just politics, but legislators on both sides need to be involved, he said.

Employees affected by executive decisions have been "at-will" employees, said Edwards. "This governor hasn't done anything different than the past three governors in releasing people."

Dave Beard spoke about the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo), which offers an opportunity to network with leaders of other counties. Some workshops offered dealt with parks and recreation, which is an issue of concern, since Garrett is the only county without a parks and recreation department. He had an opportunity to talk with officials from other counties about what they do.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg mentioned how some of the county's current projects will benefit the young people. When the Garrett College Community Recreation and Athletic Center is completed, the county's swim team will have a close place to practice. The college will manage and operate the facility and use it for classroom training and internship, but it also will be available to the public. A three-tier fee structure is planned, he noted, with Garrett residents paying the least amount, other state residents a little more, and a higher fee for out-of-state visitors.

A physical training area also is planned, which seems a perfect fit, he said. "It's the icing on the cake."

The $23 million recreation and athletic center is being supported by the county commissioners and state funding, plus there will be an endeavor to garner some donations. This is just one of a lot of things happening in the county, said Gregg.

Commissioner Fred Holliday, who is on the board of directors of MACo, said the recent convention is helpful to county leaders in a variety of ways. Facilities like the recreation center and a senior center are needed. Money invested in these types of facilities is money invested in the health of Garrett County, he said.

Economic development is still a major thrust of the current board, said Holliday. All three industrial parks are almost full and more are being planned.

Distributing copies of the Education Superlatives, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Brenda McCartney said the Board of Education was planning on putting something like this together each year to let people know how their schools were doing. Garrett students in most areas met or exceeded state standards in testing, and the drop-out rate was declining. Students entering ninth grade will have to meet state standards to graduate.

She spoke about renovations at several schools, the new Junior ROTC program at the night schools and a new technical pre-engineering course now available in the ninth grade. There are 26 new certified teachers in Garrett County schools this fall.

"Most crimes in the county are fueled by alcohol and drug abuse," said State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch. She asked community members to support alternative activities such as after-school activities and other programs that help keep young people from alcohol and drugs.

Henrietta Lease, president of the Garrett County League of Women Voters thanked the officials for attending. The annual picnic offers community members an opportunity to speak one on one with government officials and to meet with candidates.

MARYLAND SCHOOL OF TAE KWON DO

We are now enrolling students to join our after-school program. To help develop better grades, attitudes, and discipline at home and in their school. Students enrolled in the program must be in grades 1 through 12.

Enroll now while openings are still available.

Mountain Fresh Producers To Hold Annual Corn Roast

Fresh cooked corn-on-the-cob will be available at the Mountain Fresh Produce Association's annual Customer Appreciation Day corn roast, slated for Saturday, Sept. 3, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. It will take place at the pavilion in Oakland. In addition to the corn, a market basket filled with items donated by the vendors will be given away.

"We have had the corn roast customer appreciation day for at least 10 years," said Cathy Sanders, market coordinator. "We just want to thank our loyal customers for coming to the market every week."

The fresh-picked corn, also donated by the vendors, will be cooked at the market and given to customers to eat on the spot. Butter, salt, and napkins will be provided as well.

"There is hardly anything better than fresh corn-on-the-cob," said Cheryl DeBerry, agriculture marketing specialist for Garrett County Economic Development. "We hope lots of folks come out to join us Saturday for the corn roast."

For more information, persons may visit www.MountainFresh.org or call 301-334-4580 or 301-334-6960.

MSP Traffic Stop Leads To Drug Arrest In Cove

A Baltimore man was jailed for drug possession Friday following a traffic stop on Garrett Highway at Cove Road, according to Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack.

Brandon Ian Curry, 24, was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia during the 3:05 p.m. incident.

When Curry was stopped, he allegedly attempted to hide or obtain something from the center console area, police observed. A search led to the discovery of suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Curry was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

Grantsville VFD Hosting Chicken, Ribs Barbecue

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department will host a chicken and rib barbecue on Saturday, Sept. 3, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The dinners will be $6 each and will include 1/2 chicken or ribs, baked beans, coleslaw, and roll. Persons may also order just the chicken or ribs for $5.

The Grantsville Ladies Auxiliary will hold a bake sale in conjunction with the barbecue.

Sept. 11 Memorial Assembly Slated At Southern High

Southern High School will hold a memorial service commemorating Patriot's Day on Friday, Sept. 9. The assembly will begin at approximately 8:45 a.m. and last for 20 minutes.

Students and staff will present songs and reflections surrounding the events of Sept. 11, 2001. The assembly will take place in front of the memorial park built in 2002 honoring those lives lost during this national tragedy. The park is adjacent to the school library.

In the event of inclement weather, the assembly will be held in the gymnasium. The public is invited to attend and participate in the assembly.

Maryland Concludes Fiscal Year '05 With Surplus Of $1.2 Billion

Comptroller William Donald Schaefer has announced that the state closed fiscal year 2005 with a surplus of nearly $1.2 billion, of which $571.1 million has been appropriated for FY 2006 and $603.3 million is available for future operations. For the year, general fund revenues totaled more than $11.5 billion, an increase of 13.2 percent over FY 2004.

"This surplus is the result of strong revenue growth that we've seen building for several months," Schaefer said. "While nearly all revenue sources finished at or above estimates, it's not likely the economy will keep up this high level of performance for the long-term."

The comptroller said that tax revenue growth can be seen "nearly across the board," and is highlighted by the real estate and stock markets, increases in the employment rate, completion of the first full year of the federal government's 15 percent income tax rate for long-term capital gains, as well as unprecedented corporate income tax revenues due, in large part, to the closing of the Delaware Holding Company loophole.

A final look at FY 2005 shows general fund revenues finished $422.5 million over estimates. Individual income tax revenue for FY 2005 totaled more than $5.66 billion, an increase of 11.5 percent over FY 2004, representing the first time income tax revenues have outperformed FY 2001, the previous peak for the state. Sales and use tax collections finished 7.1 percent over FY 2004 totals, at more than $3.1 billion. Tax on insurance companies (-1.9 percent) and motor vehicle fuel taxes (-1.2 percent), are the only two sources of revenue to finish below estimates.

Fiscal year 2005 corporate income tax collections totaled $663.3 million, increasing by $334.7 million, or 102 percent over FY 2004. The Delaware Holding Company settlement accounted for $151 million of corporate income taxes for the fiscal year. Without this one-time injection to the year's tax revenue, corporate tax growth would still have been a solid 55.9 percent. The comptroller, recognizing all of the one-time sources of tax revenue in FY 2005 and the uncertainty of a long-term economic boom cautioned, "It's important to plan responsibly in the coming years, as increasingly more needs to be done to address education and healthcare demands."

Other sources of tax revenue that increased from FY 2004 include interest on investments (142.1 percent), state lottery receipts (4.5 percent), and tobacco taxes (1.3 percent). FY 2005 also included an adjustment to reduce cash by $37 million, or 0.3 percent of general fund revenues, made by the State Treasurer's Office.

State law requires the governor to appropriate all surplus funds that exceed $10 million into the Revenue Stabilization Account, also known as the "Rainy Day" fund, was created in 1986 to supplement state revenues during rough or uncertain economic times.

Peterson Promoted To Vice President

Julie Warnick Peterson has been promoted to the position of vice president and commercial loan officer at First United Bank & Trust, William B. Grant, chairman and chief executive officer, announced this week.

"We are proud of Julie's accomplishments," Grant said. "She has done an excellent job of serving her commercial customers, and is extremely valuable member of our commercial lending team. Her vast experience and expertise with our commercial customers, as well as her dedication for customer service, certainly merits her promotion to vice president."

Julie has more than 16 years in the Commercial Loan Department. In 1989, she graduated from Garrett College with an associate's degree. She is a graduate of the American Bankers Association National Commercial Lending School at the University of Oklahoma and is also a graduate of the association's Graduate School of Commercial Lending at Southern Methodist University, Southwestern Graduate School of Banking.

Julie also attended the University of Maryland, where she was a graduate of the Maryland Banking School and the Advanced School of Bank Management.

She is a licensed Maryland Life and Health Insurance agent, and a member and choir director of Lakeside Assembly of God Church. She resides in Oakland with her husband Ed.

Julie is currently serving the commercial banking needs in Garrett County and is located at First United's Deep Creek Lake community office.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY EXPLORERS
by Katelyn Gnegy

The August meeting of the Country Explorers was held on August 4 at the home of Greg and Eric Tichnell. The members went on farm tours to see Eric and Greg's market steers and Nathan and Faith Tichnell's steers.

After touring the two farms, the members went back to Eric and Greg's to work on birdhouses. Club members made bluebird and bat houses. They also practiced for the lawn tractor contest at the fair.

Reports were given by Eric and Greg, and by Aaron and Levi Lantz on selling drinks at the rodeo. Aaron, Levi, and Mikail Perrine gave reports on the youth market.

Members who participated in the county bicycle workshop and contest on July 8 were Eric, Greg, Nathan, and Faith Tichnell, J.B. and Katelyn Gnegy, and Aaron and Levi.

Participants in a computer workshop and contest were J.B., Katelyn, Aaron, Levi, and Catlin Carrico.

Aaron, Levi, and J.B. also participated in a small engine workshop and contest, and an electricity workshop and contest on July 19.

The first place winners in the above workshops/contests – Aaron, Levi, J.B., Katelyn, Catlin, Eric, Greg, Nathan, and Faith – all qualified to represent Garrett County in their events this week at the state fair, Aug. 24 - Sept. 6.

A workshop was held on July 16 for shooting sports and was attended by Aaron, Levi, J.B., Katelyn, Eric, Greg, Nathan, and Faith. The members were allowed to shoot 22-caliber rifles and participate in archery.

Members who attended 4-H Camp were J.B, Katelyn, Aaron, Levi, and Mikail.

A 4-H shooting sports training workshop was held July 29-31, and was attended by leaders Dan and Mary Gnegy for air rifle and Arlene Lantz for archery.

A softball game was held at Swan Meadow School on Aug. 1 for Garrett County Lighthouse clients. Country Explorers who attended were Noel and Landon Custer, and Catlin, Eric, Greg, Nathan, Faith, Aaron, and Levi.

Everyone was reminded of the fair clean-up, and check-in times for exhibits and livestock.

The club hosted the Corn Booth on Saturday, Aug. 20, at the fair.

The club's next meeting will be held Sept. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Swan Meadow School.

FRIENDSVILLE FIREFLIES

The July meeting of the Friendsville Fireflies 4-H Club was held at the home of leader Alice Long.

The meeting was called to order by Teresa Friend. The American Pledge was led by Ryan Jacques and the 4-H Pledge was led by Keaton Thomas. Roll call was taken by naming things that "go bang." The snack was provided by Brian Friend.

Club members worked on a 4-H fair booth during the regular monthly meeting and during a followup meeting of five days later.

The next meeting of the Friendsville Fireflies will be on Tuesday, Sept. 20.

Pig Roast, Fall Festival Set By North Glade 4-H

The North Glade 4-H Club will hold its second annual pig roast and family fall festival on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 2 to 6 p.m.

Dinner will be served from 3 to 5 p.m. Cost is a $10 donation for adults, and a $5 donation for children ages 6 through 12. All proceeds benefit the 4-H building remodeling effort.

"Come for a day of good food, bingo, games, and prizes for the kids," said a spokesperson.

NAMI To Host Family To Family Course This Fall

The Garrett County Chapter of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI) will host a Family to Family course at Garrett College each Monday from 6:30 until 9 p.m. from Sept. 26 to Nov. 11. Lessons will be taught by trained NAMI presenters.

The course is open to family members of individuals with mental illnesses, including bipolar disorder, clinical depression, and schizophrenia. Clinical treatments, knowledge, and skills for these illnesses will be discussed to help family members cope more effectively, noted a NAMI spokesperson.

All instruction and course materials are free for class participants.

For more information and registration, persons are asked to call 301-533-0552 by Sept. 19.

Meeting Slated To Discuss Location Of Relay For Life

A two-part Relay For Life forum is scheduled to begin Monday, Sept. 12, in McHenry to evaluate and discuss possible Relay location sites for the 2006 event. Participants will meet at 6 p.m. at the Fair Board office at the Garrett County Fairgrounds (accessible from the Route 219 entrance). After touring the fairgrounds, the forum will move to the parking lot near the gymnasium of Garrett College, and a question-and-answer session will take place in the college auditorium.

"Participants will be able to see firsthand the options being considered, and logistical issues will be addressed," said Linda Fike, one of the relay's organizers. "All Relay participants are strongly encouraged to attend this forum. You, the 'Relayers,' are the backbone of Relay, and we want to keep your best interest up front in making the location decision. Because of you, lives are saved and lives are changed."

Johnson Joins Long & Foster

Oakland resident Kathy Johnson has joined Long & Foster Real Estate Inc. as a sales associate with the firm's Deep Creek Lake Office, located at 23789 Garrett Highway. Johnson specializes in the Garrett County market area.

As a member of the Garrett County Board of Realtors, Johnson has successfully completed Long & Foster's Fast Start training program, which includes nearly 60 hours of instruction in real estate law, prospecting, sales and contracts, negotiating, finance, and marketing.

A lifetime resident of Garrett County, Johnson started her career in health care administration. She later moved on to being a full-time mother. Now that her daughter Ann is a student at Frostburg State University, Johnson has begun her third career as a realtor.

She has been involved in numerous volunteer organizations. She is currently a Garrett Lakes Arts Festival board member, and has been a member of the Garrett Community Concert Band since its inception. She serves on the band's executive committee.

In her free time, Johnson can be found on a tennis court or on the back of a tandem bicycle with her husband Tom.

Kenseth, Jeff Gordon gain ground in Chase after race at Bristol

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Bristol, Tenn.

Matt Kenseth's third-place finish at Michigan wasn't enough to earn him serious consideration as a candidate for the Chase to the Nextel Cup.

His runaway win at Bristol Motor Speedway on Saturday night might not only mean he will make the 10-race run to the title, but he also will be among the favorites to win it.

Kenseth and car owner Jack Roush were skeptical just a few weeks ago. Kenseth was 17th in the standings, 204 points out of the final 10th-place position after Pocono's 500-miler on July 24.

Now he's 11th, only 11 points out of the 10th spot for the Chase. He's scored three top-five finishes in the past four races.

Kenseth led 415 of 500 laps at Bristol on Saturday and expects the trend to continue this week at California.

"I never like to get overly overconfident about anything, but I think unless something goes wrong, which it certainly could easy enough, I think we'll be very competitive," Kenseth said.

It shouldn't be a surprise that he's coming on strong. His four Roush Racing teammates — Greg Biffle, Mark Martin, Carl Edwards and Kurt Busch — all are in the top 10 in points with two races to run — at California and Richmond — before the start of the 10-race Chase that will determine the season champion.

"We've got a really nice group of cars that can do pretty much on any given day what anybody else can do in the business," Roush said. "If we don't put them in the top 10, it's going to be because I've done something to mess them up, and I sure don't want to face that."

Like Kenseth, Jeff Gordon was on the ropes after Pocono, but he has moved from 15th in the standings to 10th.

Gordon was pleased to be gaining points again after losing them most of the summer. He was second after Darlington but fell to a low of 15th before Bristol.

"[Saturday night] is one of those nights we wanted and needed to happen," Gordon said.

Kenseth is driving the hottest of cars at just the right time.

"I know that in our business, momentum is very important," he said, adding that if he does get in the Chase, he feels very good about his chances to finish the season as champion.

"Our performance is so good that I feel like we could slide our way in there right now. We're on a high note. I think we could be a threat to challenge everybody," he said.

NOTEBOOK

Bangin' at Bristol hurts drivers' Chase chances

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Bristol, Tenn.

Fender crunching is fairly common at Bristol Motor Speedway but two of Saturday's skirmishes took on additional significance because they scrambled the standings just three weeks before the start of the 10-race, 10-driver Chase for the Nextel Cup.

JARRETT

The troubles started when Ryan Newman and Dale Jarrett wrecked on Lap 301. Then, 16 laps later, Jarrett appeared to retaliate against Newman for the earlier spin, wrecking both their cars and the No. 29 of Kevin Harvick.

Newman, who finished 39th and dropped from eighth to ninth in points, said the second crash was uncalled for. "Mine was unintentional; [Jarrett's] was intentional," he said. "NASCAR can do what they want with it."

Harvick, who was 14th in points entering the Sharpie 500, wound up 37th in the race and dropped to 16th in points. He was equally disgusted.

"I thought I had the wreck cleared," Harvick said. "I just ran into the side of [Newman]."

NASCAR held Jarrett for two laps as a penalty for rough driving, and his 31st-place finish essentially squashed his hopes of making the Chase. He's now 14th.

Junior just having a 'good time'

Dale Earnhardt Jr. recovered from a miserable start Saturday at Bristol, in which he started on the back row and lost three laps to the leader. He rallied to finish ninth. He gained only one spot to 15th in the standings, however, and is 117 points away from a spot in the Chase.

"I'm not even worried about it," Earnhardt said. "I'm having fun driving these race cars, and that's all I think about. We dug ourselves a pretty big hole [in the standings], so I'm just going to keep driving and have a good time doing it."

Lester looks for a solid seat

Bill Lester, the only black driver racing in any of NASCAR's top three divisions, said last week that he has been racing his No. 22 Toyota Tundra on a one-year contract and so far has no solid prospects for next season.

"It remains to be seen what I'm doing next year," he said. "The key thing is I want to be in a competitive ride. I hope one materializes."

Lester, a four-year veteran of the Craftsman Truck Series, is 18th in points with two poles this season, one top-five finish and three top-10s. He finished 25th after starting 12th in last week's O'Reilly 200 at Bristol.

It's official: Riggs joins Evernham

Scott Riggs and Ray Evernham confirmed one of the worst-kept secrets in the NASCAR garage on Saturday. Riggs will continue driving his No. 10, Valvoline-sponsored car next season, but it will become a Dodge and be a part of Evernham's stable.

Drivers race hard despite new deals, Kenseth says

Matt Kenseth said the fact that drivers are signing contracts with new teams more than a year in advance shouldn't adversely affect the performance of the teams they're leaving.

His Roush Racing teammate Kurt Busch is set to drive for Roger Penske in 2007, and Jamie McMurray will move from Chip Ganassi's team to Roush in 2007 as well.

"Kurt could have won the race [at Michigan]," Kenseth said. "He led the most laps and was in position to win until he got off a little bit on that last long run, so I don't think that affects that at all, especially these days.

"As big as the business is, everybody is pretty professional in the garage area, and everybody is out there to do a job."

He said he doesn't plan to find himself in that situation.

"I'm not worried about it at all because I'm happy where I'm at, and I'm certainly planning on being there," he said.

Craven leaving Roush Racing

Ricky Craven, at one time a candidate to drive the No. 6 Ford for Roush Racing next season, won't be with Roush next season, according to a statement issued by the team. Craven drives the No. 99 Ford for Roush in the Craftsman Truck Series.

Sorenson's team accused of cheating

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Bristol, Tenn.

Busch Series rookie Reed Sorenson and his Chip Ganassi-owned team are facing stiff penalties from NASCAR after officials determined that the crew had improperly softened the tires on the team's No. 41 Dodge at Bristol Motor Speedway on Friday.

Tire soaking is a big no-no in NASCAR, as evidenced by the fact that crew chief Brian Pattie and crew member Brandon Stafford were escorted from the track soon after the infraction was discovered.

Sorenson was not allowed to make a qualifying run for the Food City 250, although he was allowed to race and finished 11th. He and his team likely will be assessed hefty points and monetary fines, and Pattie is looking at a lengthy suspension.

Drivers and mechanics throughout the garage say the team deserves little sympathy given the blatant nature of the accusations.

SORENSON

Tire-softening chemicals, which are used to make tires better adhere to the track, are allowed in some short-track racing circuits, but NASCAR officials strictly forbid their use.

"I always heard rumors of tire soaking, but I'm surprised anybody would do it at this level," said driver Jeff Burton. "You've got to know that if you get caught, you're going to be out for a long time."

Busch Series Director Joe Balash said an inspector saw Sorenson's crew rubbing a substance on a tire Friday.

He said he had no indication the team had used softeners before, but many in the garage thought otherwise.

"They didn't just start doing that today," said Burton.

Two-time Busch Series champion Randy LaJoie was among those speculating that Sorenson, who has two wins and two poles this season, has had an unfair advantage all along.

"Nine times out of 10, if you do it once, you've done it before," he said, adding that the team should be punished severely. "There's definitely no room for that here," he said.

Kyle Petty joined the chorus of those who were stunned by the accusations.

"It's stupid, that's all you can say about it," Petty said. "There needs to be a suspension for a long, long time, and there needs to be a big, big fine."

Petty pointed out that in addition to being strictly forbidden, tire soaking is a safety issue because tampering with tires could cause them to fail and trigger a crash. He said the fact that drivers haven't been hurt in wrecks associated with tire soaking doesn't mean there's no risk.

"It's like being a drunken driver and making it home safe," he said.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled for this week at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Daily: 3 p.m. – Monarch Tagging – A naturalist will explain the life cycle of monarch butterflies, then will "tag" a butterfly to keep track of its movements on the way to Mexico (program dependent upon availability of newly hatched butterflies).

•Fri. 9/2: 2:30 p.m. – Canoeing the Meadow Mountain Cove – A naturalist will lead a guided canoe trip on the secluded Meadow Mountain Cove marsh, where evidence of beavers can be seen (90 mins.; $10 per adult, $5 for children 12 and under; must pre-register as space is limited); 7 p.m. – Campfire Program: Yellow Snow Dog Sledding – The company's owners will speak about the dogs and equipment, present a harness demonstration, and display the dogs (1 hr.; in case of rain, meet in the Discovery Center).

•Sat. 9/3: 10:30 a.m. – Historic Brant Mine Hike – Participants will hike along Meadow Mountain to visit an old 1920s mine site (90 mins.; wear appropriate footwear for the rocky trail); 1:30 p.m. – Snakes & Amphibians Alive! – Meet some of the live creatures and learn how to identify poisonous snakes (45 mins.); 6 p.m. – Ice Cream Social – A "farewell to summer" ice cream social will take place in the campground amphitheater (1 hr.); 7 p.m. – Campfire Program: Scales and Tales – Live birds of prey and reptiles will be presented by a naturalist in the campground amphitheater (1 hr.; in case of rain meet in the Discovery Center).

•Sun. 9/4: 1:30 p.m. – Slitherin' up Snakeroot – A leisurely hike that often allows participants to view wildlife, tracks, and plants (1 hr., rocky trail); 7 p.m. – Camper Church – Pastor Don Wilson will lead a service at the campground amphitheater, and special gospel music will be provided by the Heaven's Mountain Band (1 hr.; in case of rain, meet in the Discovery Center).

NEW GERMANY STATE PARK

The following activities have been slated at New Germany State Park. Further information can be obtained by calling 301-895-5453 or 301-746-8359.

•Fri. 9/2: 9 p.m. – Night Hike – Begin with a blindfolded hike to allow eyes of participants to adjust to total darkness, then experience the forest at night; the naturalist will also attempt to call in a barred owl (90 mins.; meet at the Nature Center).

•Sat. 9/3: 7 p.m. – Campfire Program: Yellow Snow Dog Sledding – The company's owners will speak about the dogs and equipment, present a harness demonstration, and display the dogs (1 hr.; meet at the nature center).

SWALLOW FALLS/HERRINGTON MANOR/ POTOMAC STATE FOREST

The following activities have been scheduled for this weekend at Swallow Falls and Herrington Manor state parks, and Potomac State Forest. Further information can be obtained by calling the parks' office at 301-334-9180.

•Sat. & Sun. 9/3-4: 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. – Apple Butter Boil – An Appalachian apple butter boil and corn roast will take place at Swallow Falls; 8 p.m. – Bob Hansel's Acoustic Music – Hansel will perform a wide variety of music, including original compositions, in the Swallow Falls amphitheater (in case of rain, the program will take place in the park pavilion).

DAR MEETINGS FEATURE LOCAL HISTORY – Members of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution hosted guest speakers at two recent meetings who provided information on local history. The July meeting at the Mtn. Lake Park Ticket Office and Museum featured Karen Wooddell, pictured at the left, who presented a program on the history of the town while attired in period dress. The chapter made a donation which will be used to purchase artifacts or pictures for the museum. Alice Eary, right, spoke at the August meeting about one-room schools in Garrett County. Eary, who is writing a book on the one-room schools, had many interesting stories to tell on her research and travels to gather information. Many of the schools were only known as numbers, some were named for the community where the school was located, and some for the family that donated the ground. The September Yough Glades chapter meeting is slated for Monday, Sept. 19, at the General Store in Aurora, where Virginia Martin will speak about her collection of bells. Chapter members will tour the recently dedicated store and its contents, much of which is original store merchandise.

Shrimp, Bull Roast Set At St. Peter's Church In Oakland

An all-you-can-eat shrimp and bull roast is slated for Saturday, Sept. 17, in the parish hall of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. Food will be served from 6 to 9 p.m., and dancing and entertainment will take place from 6 to 10 p.m. The event is a fundraiser of the Knights of Columbus, Council #1771.

The menu includes steamed shrimp, pit beef, homemade shrimp soup, homemade salads, Italian sausage, Kunzler hot dogs, rolls, and desserts, plus beer, soda, and coffee. No carryouts will be available. There will be games of chance and door prizes.

Only 200 tickets will be sold at a cost of $20 each, and adult patronage is requested. To purchase tickets, persons may contact Bill Heise at 301-334-4781 or 240-321-1151.

Volunteers Sought To Assist Local Girl Scout Troops

Girls Scouts – Trillium Council (GSTC) is in need of volunteers to assist troops throughout the area.

"Becoming a Girl Scout volunteer is a great way to get involved in the community, create new friendships, and make a difference in a the life of a girl," said a Trillium spokesperson.

A number of flexible, short-term, and long-term positions are available, including leaders, special events volunteers, public relations assistants, and administrative volunteers.

GSTC serves adult volunteers and girls in nine counties in three states: Allegheny, Fayette, Greene, Washington, and portions of Somerset and Westmoreland counties in Pennsylvania; Monongalia and Preston counties in West Virginia; and Garrett County.

"Without adults playing many pivotal roles, Girl Scouting couldn't happen," said the spokesperson. "Girl Scouts provide plenty of opportunities to become involved according to your needs."

Locally, leaders and assistant leaders are needed in the following areas: Daisy (kindergarten), Cadet (6-9), and Senior (10-12) Girl Scout leaders throughout Garrett County, and an assistant leader for a Brownie Girl Scout troop in Oakland.

"Girl Scouting gives girls the opportunity to participate in new experiences while making friends and having fun," said Nancy Schaefer, assistant director of membership for GSTC. "The memories made through Girl Scouting activities often become some of the most cherished moments in a girl's life. An adequate amount of volunteers is crucial to the succuss of our programs. By volunteering through Girl Scouts, you are helping countless girls become successful adults."

Persons interested in volunteering for GSTC may contact Donna Simpson, membership coordinator for Garrett, Greene, Monongalia, and Preston counties, at 724-435-7918 or 800-248-3355, ext. 2528, or e-mail dsimpson@grstrillium.org.

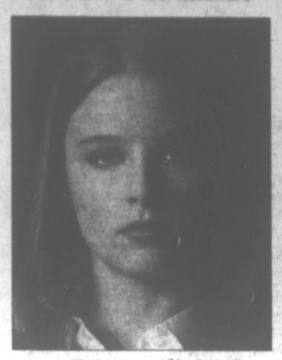
Inside Fox's shortened run of 'The Inside'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: OK, what's the story with "The Inside"? Has it been canceled? –John Norgauer, Sacramento, Calif.

A: OK, here's the story. After several weeks of scheduling episodes of the dark, Rachel Nichols-starring crime drama and then yanking them several days before they were supposed to air – usually for extended editions of "So You Think You Can Dance" – Fox finally threw in the towel and declared the summer run of "The Inside" over. The network added that it hopes to schedule the remaining episodes from the summer run in the future, but no precise dates for that had been given as of this writing.



Rachel Nichols

Q: Are Ted McGinley ("Hope & Faith") and John C. McGinley ("Scrubs") related? –Amanda Wilson, Fort Wayne, Ind.

A: Nice try, but no.

Q: I have a bet with my brother that "Douglas" is not the real family name of Michael Douglas. Who is right? If I am, what is his real family name? –Robert Butler, Prospect Heights, Ill.

A: As mentioned in the current HBO documentary about Michael and his father, Kirk – "A Father ... a Son ... Once Upon a Time in Hollywood" – Kirk's real name is Issur Danielovitch Demsky. However, Michael's birth name actually is Michael Kirk Douglas.

Q: We recently watched "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," and we could recognize some of the cast, but not everyone ... especially the women. Could you help us out with the names? –V. Burke, West Berlin, N.J.

A: Producer-director Stanley Kramer's 1963 comedy movie featured cameos by numerous performers, but the principal female stars were Edie Adams, Dorothy Provine and stage superstar Ethel Merman.

Q: I was a huge fan of the show "Northern Exposure." Have the reruns ever been put on tape or DVD? –Jacqueline Scott, Kokomo, Ind.

A: The first three seasons of the acclaimed, award-winning comedy-drama series are presently available on DVD from Universal Studios Home Video. The other seasons are likely to follow in the near future.

Q: I am really enjoying Tracy Smith on "The Saturday Early Show" on CBS, but what happened to Gretchen Carlson? Did she move to some other program? –Jo Musson, St. Louis.

A: She actually moved to another network, namely Fox News Channel. In fact, Carlson recently substituted for the vacationing Juliet Huddy as a co-host of the weekend editions of "Fox & Friends," pitting her directly opposite her former "Early Show" cronies.

As shorter days lead into cooler nights and summer vacations are behind us, it is back to work...business as usual...with one exception, Labor Day. It's recognized as a holiday, a chance to honor all who "labor."

In our country, we labor in many different ways. In stores and offices, inside homes and outside, using minds, muscles or machines, we all contribute our talents toward getting the job done. Some work for pay, some for nothing. Our "labor force" is all around us, giving of strength and intellect, compassion and courage.

Reward yourselves on Labor Day for the tasks you perform and the services you render. Likewise, remember to give thanks to God as you worship Him on His day, for our Heavenly Father has blessed us with those resources with which we labor throughout the year.

Each day, as you work hard to give of your best, may your strength remain constant as you affirm, "I can do all things through Him who strengthens me."

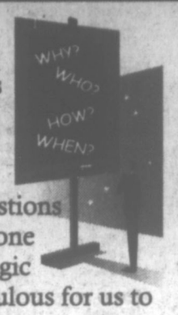
DIFFICULT QUESTIONS



Some questions that are often asked are, "Why do bad things happen to good people?" and "How could God let this happen?" Surely, these are difficult, if not impossible questions to answer, especially for someone who has just experienced a tragic event. And although it is ridiculous for us to think that we will never encounter problems in our lives, we still have the tendency to wonder why certain bad things happen.

It seems that we more often question God for the seemingly bad things that happen to us, but neglect to praise or thank Him for all of the good in our lives. Prayer is as important in our lives during good times as it is in difficult times.

It increases our faith and builds a relationship with our Creator. Because we cannot truly know why God permits certain unpleasant events to happen, and in order to have peace in our hearts, we should focus on what we do know. God is our Heavenly Father, and He wants us to love and trust Him.

Give yourself to the Lord;
trust in Him,
and He will help you.

Vitamin C May Reduce The Incidence Of Colds

Vitamin C is a water-soluble vitamin that is necessary for many bodily processes. It is involved in energy production, the reduction and storage of iron, the activation of folic acid, the synthesis of collagen and elastin, and the synthesis of several neurotransmitters and hormones. It is also an anti-oxidant that neutralizes the free radicals that can often damage bodily tissues.

In a recent review of numerous studies of vitamin C, it was reported that vitamin C can reduce the length of the common cold. The review examined the incidence of colds in patients taking preventative doses of vitamin C that were participating in 30 different studies. In the review, vitamin C reduced the incidence of colds in the study patients by 8%. The RDA (recommended daily allowance) of vitamin C is 75 mg per day for women and 90 mg per day for men. The tolerable upper limit is 2000 mg per day for women and men. Foods that are high in vitamin C are green peppers, citrus fruits and juices, strawberries, tomatoes, broccoli, leafy green vegetables, sweet and white potatoes, and cantaloupe.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• An Italian man named Paolo Fusari was discovered to have been cheating on his wife. In a rage, his wife tried to shoot him, but she missed: the bullet lodged in a nearby oak tree. It seems Fusari got a lucky break there, but that bullet must've had his name on it. Thirteen years after the attempted murder, he was trying to remove the tree — using explosives. The blast "shot" the bullet again, this time killing Fusari.

• Another of Ambrose Bierce's cunningly accurate definitions: "Optimism: The doctrine or belief that everything is beautiful, including what is ugly." Noted wit Kin Hubbard put in his two cents' worth on the topic, too: "An optimist is a fellow who believes what is going to be will be postponed."

• In its early days, the Atlantic City Boardwalk was actually removed every winter after the tourist season.

• Are you a fan of word games? Do you, like uncounted people across the globe, get your daily fix from a newspaper's crossword puzzle? If so, you have Arthur Wynne to thank: He's the journalist who invented the addictive little pastime. The very first one appeared in "The New York World" newspaper in 1913. Wynne actually named the puzzle "Word-Cross," but the man setting the type accidentally changed it to "Cross-Word" — and the name has stuck ever since.

• Jim Nabors — better known as TV character "Gomer Pyle" — once worked as a typist at the United Nations.

• Had you been a visitor to the 1893 World's Fair in Chicago, you could have seen the world's first pay toilet, the first application of a zipper, the first souvenir postcard and the first chocolate bars. (The chocolate, by the way, was not made by Hershey.)

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 9, 1850, California becomes the 31st state in the union after Mexican diplomats cede the territory. They might have had regrets had they known that gold had been discovered at Sutter's Mill in Coloma, Calif., nine days prior to signing.

• On Sept. 11, 1921, San Francisco police arrest actor and director Fatty Arbuckle on suspicion of manslaughter. Starlet Virginia Rappe had died of a ruptured bladder several days after an alleged sexual assault by the 350-pound Arbuckle. After two hung juries, Arbuckle was acquitted in 1922, but his films were banned.

• On Sept. 7, 1936, rock pioneer Buddy Holly is born in Lubbock, Texas. Holly popularized the standard rock band format of two guitars, a bass and drums. His blockbuster hits included "Peggy Sue," "Oh, Boy!" and "Maybe Baby."

• On Sept. 5, 1957, Jack Kerouac's "On the Road," one of the first novels of the Beat movement, is published. Kerouac wrote in fits of inspiration, fueled by amphetamine binges and lack of sleep. The entire book was written on a 120-foot scroll of paper and took only 20 days.

• On Sept. 8, 1960, Aguri Suzuki, one of Japan's most successful race-car drivers, is born. Suzuki began his winning career in the Japanese Kart Championship, and eventually moved on to Formula 1 racing.

• On Sept. 6, 1976, a Soviet air force pilot lands his MiG fighter jet in Japan and asks for asylum in the United States. After a thorough analysis of the MiG-25, American experts concluded that the plane was quite fast, but also unwieldy and almost incapable of close-quarters combat.

• On Sept. 10, 1981, Spanish artist Pablo Picasso's monumental anti-war mural Guernica is received by Spain after four decades of refugee existence. In 1939, Picasso gave the painting to New York's Museum of Modern Art on an extended loan and decreed that it not be returned to Spain until democratic liberties were restored in the country.

Fleas!

Q. My son has a very loving and caring year-old feline named "Stupid." He was an indoor cat, until one day we came home to find him outside the house. Now our dilemma is fleas. (Yikes!) My son loves cuddling up with Stupid at night but has been waking up in the mornings with small bites along the nape of his neck. And I and my other sons feel like we're also being attacked by these blood suckers. What shall we do? We've been giving him weekly baths as well as having him wear a flea/tick collar, but to no avail. I do believe we have an infestation. — Scratching in South Carolina

A. Yeeouch! Fleas really are troublesome, especially during the warm months. It looks like you've got a battle on your hands.

You've got to wage a full-scale war against these little fiends. Take Stupid to the vet's office for a weekend to get a full flea treatment, and while he's gone, take every scrap of cloth in the house — bedclothes, clothing, towels, rugs, you name it — to a Laundromat. Wash them in warm water with detergent to clear out the fleas and their eggs.

It's important to address those flea eggs because even if you repeatedly spray for live fleas, the eggs — safely tucked away under bed sheets or in an area rug — will hatch in a few days and the infestation will start up again.

So, once the cat and the clothes are away and being cleaned, thoroughly clean the house — vacuum in the corners, the rugs, the floors, even the bare mattresses, the couch cushions, everything. Immediately discard the vacuum bag (or empty the canister) in an outside garbage can. Remove everyone from the house and treat for fleas, either with store-bought products or by a professional.

Once everything has been treated, ask the veterinarian about monthly flea treatments. These are applied directly to the cat's fur at the back of its head. It costs more than flea collars, but can be much more effective at preventing fleas.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Sewing Patterns

Q. My mother has been a dressmaker for 64 years and has several thousand patterns. The collection includes everything from clothes for children to bridal dresses, her specialty. Is there any place where we can market this unique collection? — Ann, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y.

A. Saundra Altman is the owner of Past Patterns, a wonderful little shop that specializes in sewing patterns. Her address is P.O. Box 2446, Richmond, IN 47375. For a second opinion, you might want to contact Joy Emery, curator of the Commercial Pattern Archive, URI Library Special Collections, 15 Lippti Road, Kingston, RI 02881.

Q. I have a large collection of Smurf figures, including several with accessories. Do you know of anyone who collects them? — Barb, Northglenn, Colo.

A. Smurfs were introduced in 1959 as secondary characters in a comic strip drawn by Belgium illustrator Pierre Culliford. The little creatures were popularized in America by the studios of Hanna Barbera.

Greg Quire bills himself as the world's largest Smurf reseller and might be able to help you. Write to him c/o The Cooll Toy Shop, 1008 Fairview St., Stroudsburg, PA 18360.

State's Tourism Rate Takes Big Jump In 2004

A successful advertising campaign featuring Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr., coupled with a robust economy, has boosted visitors to Maryland to a record high, as more than 211 million domestic visitors flowed into the state in 2004. That compares to an impressive 20 million domestic visitors in 2003.

According to figures obtained this month by the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED), Maryland's visitor volume in 2004 increased by 4.8 percent, which was more than double the national increase of 2.1 percent. The visitation figures are provided to states annually by the Travel Industry Association of America (TIA), but do not include the number of international visitors. In 2004, Maryland welcomed more than 200,000 foreign visitors.

"It is really no surprise that visitors to Maryland continue to increase, given our aggressive advertising campaign, our strategic location and the fact that our state truly has something for everyone to enjoy, from the mountains to the beaches and all of our great sites in between," said Governor Herlich. "Of course, this increase in visitors will mean a significant boost to the economic impact of tourism, which was an impressive $9.3 billion in 2003. The additional one million visitors will likely help us to surpass our goal of a $10 billion tourism industry in Maryland."

Tourism officials attribute the gains to several key factors – a robust economy in Maryland, the state's strategic location on the Mid-Atlantic corridor, and a successful advertising campaign. The "Seize the Day Off" campaign ran in 2004 from April through July, and again in September and October. The ads ran on regional cable stations and local channels in the Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Hartford, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Providence areas.

"Every indication is that our ad campaign was a huge success, and now we have these outstanding figures to support that," said Dennis Castleman, assistant secretary for tourism, film, and the arts. "We believe that our prime location on the Mid-Atlantic corridor and our proximity to nearly 60 percent of the nation's population is also a significant factor in the increase in visitors."

According to the TIA report, the majority of visitors to Maryland – 81 percent – came for leisure purposes. Many of them traveled to Maryland to visit family or friends. Among the most popular activities for visitors are attending social or family events, shopping, beach activities, and visits to historical or cultural sites.

Tourism remains one of Maryland's largest industries. In 2003 (most current data available), the economic impact of tourism reached a record $9.3 billion, according to a TIA study. The study also showed tourism generated an estimated $788 million in state and local taxes. In addition, 112,000 people were employed in Maryland's tourism industry in 2003, remaining steady from 2002, mainly in the areas of food service, public transportation, and lodging.

FOP DONATES TO LOCAL SCHOOLS – Garrett County Lodge 99 Fraternal Order of Police recently purchased a hog during the Garrett County Fair. The lodge donated one-half to Crellin Elementary School and the other half to Kitzmiller Elementary School. Pictured above left is Dr. Dana McCauley, principal of Crellin Elementary, with Capt. Larry Gnegy, FOP chaplain. McCauley stated that proceeds from the hog would be used to supplement a number of school projects throughout the year. Pictured at right with Gnegy is Candy Opel, principal of Kitzmiller Elementary. She said she hopes to conduct a fundraiser later this year, which will assist in supplementing school activities.

Residents Reminded That Sept. Is Cholesterol Awareness Month

by Kearstin N. Hinebaugh, marketing & development specialist, GCMH

Garrett County Memorial Hospital reminds residents that September is Cholesterol Awareness month.

According to the American Heart Association (AHA), cholesterol is a soft, waxy, fat-like substance that the body needs to function normally. Cholesterol is found in the bloodstream and in all of your body's cells, including the brain, nerves, muscles, skin, liver, intestines, and the heart.

Your body uses cholesterol to produce many hormones, vitamin D, and the bile acids that help to digest fat. It takes only a small amount of cholesterol in the blood to meet these needs. So when there is too much found in the bloodstream, the excess is deposited in arteries, including the coronary arteries.

Like any muscle, the heart needs a constant supply of oxygen and nutrients, which are carried to it by the blood in the coronary arteries. When the coronary arteries become narrowed or clogged by cholesterol and fat deposits, and can't supply enough blood to the heart, the result is coronary heart disease.

If not enough oxygen-carrying blood reaches the heart, the result may be chest pain called angina. If the blood supply to a portion of the heart is completely cut off by total blockage of a coronary artery, the result is a heart attack.

Heart attacks can be sudden and intense, like the ones seen on television, where there is no doubt what's happening. However, most heart attacks begin slowly with mild pain and discomfort.

The AHA tells us that there are three main warning signs to look for: chest discomfort, discomfort in other areas of the upper body, such as in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw, and/or stomach. Shortness of breath may also occur with or without chest discomfort. Additionally, some victims may experience nausea, lightheadedness, and/or a cold sweat.

"Every second counts when you are the victim of a heart attack," says Judy Simson, GCMH Wellness coordinator and cardiac rehabilitation instructor. "If you have any of the warning signs call 9-1-1 immediately. Emergency medical services staff can begin treatment rapidly upon arrival.

"Managing your cholesterol intake and levels is crucial in reducing your risk of coronary heart disease, which is the number one killer of adults in America," explains Simson. "In addition to knowing the warning signs and how to respond, it's also important that you know the risk factors."

When evaluating risk factors, people with total cholesterol levels between 200 to 239 mg/dL are said to be in a borderline-high risk range, where about a third of American adults fall. A total cholesterol level of 240 or more puts a person at high risk, nearly twice that of a person with a level at

200. Nearly 20 percent of the U.S. population has high cholesterol levels, but research has clearly shown that lowering your cholesterol can reduce the risk of developing coronary heart disease.

"Since your body makes all the cholesterol it needs to function, the cholesterol you eat may raise your body's levels. Eating foods that are low in saturated fat and cholesterol is extremely important," suggests Simson.

In addition to a healthy diet, the AHA's checklist for lowering cholesterol suggests that if you are on cholesterol -lowering medication, know how to use it properly. When not taken as prescribed, medication can be harmful.

A consistent exercise regimen is also highly recommended. "Try to build up to 30 minutes of activity on all or most days of the week," suggests Simson. "Exercise should be enjoyable so try different activities until you find one that suits you."

Lastly, the AHA suggests making lifestyle changes. "This includes things such as learning how to read food labels – so that you understand what you are putting in your body – quitting smoking, and becoming an active participant in your healthcare," says Simson.

For more information, persons can visit the American Heart Association's web site at americanheart.org or contact the Wellness Department at 301-533-4295. Additionally, a presentation on "Cholesterol, Stress and Coronary Heart Disease" is available through the GCMH Speakers Bureau program. Groups interested in scheduling a presentation, may call the public relations office at 301-533-4041.

Becky Berkebile Crowned 60th Garrett County Farm Queen

This year marked the 60th anniversary of the Garrett County Farm Queen contest. In honor of the event, all past farm queens were invited to attend the crowning on Sunday, Aug. 14, and 38 were in attendance.

The 2005 title was given to Becky Berkebile, with first runner-up going to Nicole Bender. Second runner-up was Nichole Harvey.

Becky is the daughter of Gary and Nancy Berkebile, Accident. She is a senior at Northern High School this year, where she serves as senior class president.

Becky lives on a fourth-generation family farm that covers 50 acres. In addition, her family utilizes a 230-acre farm owned by her mother's family. While their main activity is beef production, the Berkebiles also have animals such as pigs, sheep, a pony, a mule, and poultry that includes chickens, peacocks, guineas, and turkeys.

Throughout her high school years, Becky has been involved with the North Garrett FFA chapter, serving as secretary, vice president, and president. She has participated in many state and national FFA activities, participated on two state champion judging teams, and was awarded a state FFA degree. She also received the FFA Star Farmer award for the western Maryland region.

Becky has served as a student council representative for three years, and is a member of the National Honor Society, Who's Who Among American High School Students, and the United States Academic Achievement.

Outside of school, Becky is involved with the Garrett County Farm Bureau, the Garrett County Livestock Association, the Garrett County Fair Board, and the National Junior Shorthorn Association. She is also entering her 11th year in the Oak Hill 4-H Club, has participated in the fair since she was 8 years old, and has participated in the Maryland State Fair for the past three years.

Becky is a member of Zion Lutheran Church and Lutheran Braille Workers.

"I enjoy being outdoors, hunting, fishing, and showing my cattle projects around the tri-state area," Becky said. "I also enjoy raising cattle, and in the future I hope to have a successful beef herd, starting out with the five cows I already own."

Becky plans to attend college and get a degree in agricultural education and extension. She wants to be an agricultural education teacher.

Nicole is the daughter of Robert and Alice Bender, Accident. The family lives on a 166-acre farm that includes 140 registered Holsteins. In addition, they raise 130 replacement heifers. The farm also includes six horses, a small beef herd, three sheep, four dogs, and many cats.

The family rents five additional farms, resulting in approximately 450 total acres of farmland. Their crops include corn, timothy, alfalfa, clover, orchard grass, oats, and occasionally barley and spelts.

Another venture for the Bender family is the Cove-Run Corn Maze, which is in its fifth year this fall, running from August to October.

"The maze is a great way to get individuals involved with agriculture," said Nicole. "Especially individuals who come to Garrett County to vacation who do not get to see what really happens on a farm."

2005 Garrett County Fair One For the Record Books

by Terri Rodeheaver
Fair Board Member
Livestock Association Member

The 49th Garrett County Agricultural Fair is now history, and in several ways it was literally one for the record books. The farm queen competition, during which Becky Berkebile was named the 60th Farm Queen, drew a very respectable crowd. Among those in attendance were nearly 40 of the previous farm queens, many of whom traveled back to Garrett County from quite some distance just to be part the activities surrounding this anniversary event. This event symbolizes the official start of the fair and it set a very positive tone for the week's activities.

The week was filled with a wide variety of events, all of which held special interest and meaning to various folks. The event that traditionally signifies the close of the fair Saturday night is the 4-H and FFA livestock market animal sale, and this year's sale was nothing short of amazing.

The grand champion lamb, owned by Justin Fitzwater, was the first animal through the sale ring, and when the gavel came down, the tone was set for the entire sale. Justin's lamb sold for a record $10 per pound, and this was one of countless records established during this year's sale. A total of 249 market animals were sold, and total sale proceeds will break the $300,000 mark. The 4-H and FFA livestock exhibitors were thrilled beyond belief, while parents and onlookers were frankly left slightly dazed and confused by the evening's course of events.

There is always a handful of animals, typically those winning top honors, which bring prices that will net a hefty contribution to the exhibitor's college fund. But this year there seemed to be no end to the support and generosity of the buyers who filled the stands.

After having a few days to reflect on the sale, I would credit the success of the event to several factors. First, the quality of the livestock being presented by the 4-H and FFA youth exhibitors is improving greatly each year. It is clear that they are participating in these livestock projects not to just reap the benefits of that sale check. The exhibitors are doing their homework. They are learning more each year about animal selection and feeding. They are learning from each other, their 4-H and FFA leaders, and their parents and teachers. They are making good decisions when opportunities are presented to them.

Secondly, these young people are also doing a great job at marketing this sale. The number of new buyers continues to grow year each year, and this can be attributed to these young people building relationships with individuals, businesses, and organizations in the community, and educating them about the sale.

Third, the buyers recognize the value of the investment they are making in the young people of this county, and know that this investment stands to yield great rewards in the future.

And lastly, I cannot help but credit the agricultural heritage of Garrett County with contributing to the success of this activity year after year. I know with certainty that many of the buyers sitting in the stands at the sale have walked in the footsteps of these young people who raise and sell these animals. They too benefited from a buyer's generosity at another point in time, and have gone on to make good on the investment that someone made in them.

Most of the youth who benefited from the generosity of the buyers at Saturday's sale will go on to careers that may have no direct connection to agriculture. But to each 4-H and FFA livestock exhibitor, I challenge you to recognize the positive impact these agriculturally related projects have had, and will continue to have, on your life. There will be a time in the future when you will be in a position to reach out and continue the tradition of investing in the young people of Garrett County. Regardless of where life takes you, make good on the opportunity you will have someday to do the same for another young person who is following in your footsteps.

4-H Shooting Sports Trailer

A new addition to the Garrett County Fair this year was the 4-H Shooting Sports trailer. From first-time shooters to experts, young and old alike had the opportunity to test their marksmanship skills with air riles. A $1 donation allowed participants to shoot 12 rounds.

"Youth development is the number one goal of the National 4-H Shooting Sports program," said Ann Sherrard, 4-H Extension Agent. "It provides an outstanding way of providing human growth and development. The program promotes the highest standards of safety, sportsmanship, and ethical behavior. Teaching the safe and responsible use of firearms and archery equipment can lead to an enjoyable lifetime sport of the entire family."

Shooting reportedly ranks third in popularity among international sports, only behind track and field and swimming. Young adults credit the 4-H Shooting Sports Program with teaching them to concentrate on target or goal, to practice diligently, and to aim for the highest level of success in life.

Sherrard offered a special thanks to those who supported the program at the fair. The donations will be used to start a Shooting Sports program in the county. Plans are to set up family shooting events (for youth ages 8 to 18), which will include learning workshops and hands-on archery and air rifle target practice.

"The 4-H shooting sports program uses the time, talents, and dedication of the Cooperative Extension Agents and shooting sports-certified 4-H leaders who instruct 4-H members in firearm safety and marksmanship.

Persons interested in participating in this program or in making a donation to help get the program started are asked to call Sherrard at 301-334-6960.

Nicole is a member of the Oak-Hill 4-H Club, currently serving as vice president. She is a member of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church and the Accident Volunteer Fire Department. She plans to attend Garrett College for two years, then transfer to Frostburg State to become a teacher.

"After college, I would like to get married and start a family on a small farm of my own," she said. "I would like to have a small beef herd and several horses. I know how much I enjoyed being able to grow up on a farm, and hope that my children can experience the same happiness and responsibility. The rewarding feeling I get when I look out the window and see all our fields growing is amazing, and I can't imagine how some people don't even realize the beauty in agriculture."

Nichole is the daughter of Scott and Sandy Harvey, Oakland, and attends Southern High School. The family has a 60-acre farm that includes beef cattle, sheep, hogs, geese, cats, dogs, chickens, and ducks.

She is a member of the Oakland FFA chapter and the Country Kids 4-H Club, where she serves as secretary. She enjoys playing softball in a summer league and for the Southern Rams.

Nichole noted that she would like to stay in the farming business, and hopes to raise red pigs.

The Different Ages Of Growing Up At The Garrett County Fair

by Pamela K. Lewis

Age 1 month: You went to the fair, but you really didn't notice – you were sound asleep in the Snugli on your mommy's chest.

Age 1 year: Mommy took you to the fair. She brought your stroller, your blankie, your change of clothes, your diaper bag, your bottle, your snack crackers, your jacket... you wonder why Mommy seemed so tired after she made it up the hill in front of the exhibit barns!

Age 2: Fair time again! The exhibit barns were okay, but it would be more fun if you were allowed to eat those yummy berries and cakes! Mommy really got upset when you tried to grab a handful of cookies in the 4-H barn!

Age 3: They let you ride in the Kiddie section and you couldn't wait – until that big green dragon looked over his shoulder right at you! You couldn't wait to get off of that thing!

Age 4: Mommy took you and your friend to see the horses and you could only see under the fence. Mommy's face got so red when you asked what that thing was under the stallion!

Age 5: You saw everyone at the fair – you tasted Grandma's cotton candy and Uncle Bob's candy apple, and then your snow cone started leaking out of the bottom. By the time you left, your fingers were nearly glued together!

Age 6: The Kiddie rides just don't seem as fast and as high as they were last year. You want to try a bigger ride but your head just doesn't reach the top of the stick, no matter how much you stretch!

Age 7: Finally! Your head reaches the top of the stick! Then your cousin who came to ride with you still isn't tall enough!

Age 8: You can't wait to try the Round-Up, the Casino, and the Tornado! Oh, how you wish you hadn't had those extra fries and that candy apple!

Age 9: Riding is so much fun! You have a wonderful time until the summer storm turns the whole fair grounds into a mud pit and you can't find Mom or Dad!

Age 10: Fair time again and showing a lamb is great, especially when you won a ribbon for her. Livestock Sale? Oh, you'd forgotten about that part.

Age 11: You show up at the fair in your coolest summer outfit only to find that everyone else is wearing a totally different style now!

Age 12: You would like to ask the cutest kid in your class to ride with you, but your hopes are crushed. You hope that was a cousin he was riding with!

Age 13: Mom and Dad pick Wednesday to go the fair, because your family is going away for the weekend. Don't they know all of the cool kids go on Friday?

Age 14: He finally asks you to ride the Hurricane and you're sure those butterflies are going to fly right out – it's the best moment of your life! That is, until you tear the seat out of your jeans getting off the ride!

Age 15: There are three cute guys you would love to go out with and you haven't quite decided yet! Oh, no, there they all are together and they chuckle when they see you! What were they talking about?

Age 16: You get to drive to the fair this year – that's so cool...ummm...how many rows back in that field did you park? It didn't seem so far back in daylight!

Age 17: You promised your folks you'd be home by 12. Will they forgive you for being in a two-hour traffic jam when the derby ended?

Age 18: The fair is cool, but you're getting ready to go off to college and your heart just isn't in it this year.

Age 21: You happen to be in the area, so you slip down to the fair. Wow! All of your old friends from school have babies already!

Age 25: You come back to Garrett County just to take your little girl to the fair. You can't wait to get her on to that dragon ride you loved as a child...and she can't wait to get off of it!

– Pamela Kay Lewis grew up in Oakland, and now resides in Terra Alta, W.Va.

Sweet Rewards Scholarship Recipient Noted

The Sweet Rewards Scholarship Award was presented again this year by Don and Pam Adams of McHenry during the 4-H awards ceremony. The couple committed to giving the scholarship each year for a total of 20 years.

The award was presented to Katelyn Gnegy. She received a framed certificate of achievement and a check for $500.

Other applicants included Aaron Lantz, Abby Sherrard, Amanda Beitzel, Barry Upole, B.J. Upole, Ethan Broadwater, and Levi Lantz. Each member received a framed certificate of achievement.

The past winners are Catlin Carrico and Lacie Berkebile.

All members involved in the 4-H goat program are encouraged to participate next year.

Don and Pam live in Carroll County, but have been active weekend residents of McHenry for the past 24 years. In 2002, they purchased Klotz Farm, and have changed the name to Sweet Rewards Farm. They noted that as they started to refurbish the farm, they felt that it was important to continue the agricultural education of children. Since they raise pygmy and Boer goats, as well as red angus cattle, on their farm in Carroll County, they decided that they would implement a scholarship program for students raising goats.

The requirements are that the student must be younger than 18 years old, must have participated in a 4-H goat program, and must submit an essay.

In the essay, applicants are required to explain how raising goats has taught them the following: personal self-discipline, skills that he/she might not have gained by not raising animals; an appreciation for agricultural education/farming; how to make decisions with the animals in their own personal lives; budget management; and how to manage animals.

In addition, members are required to explain the steps required to prepare their animal for the fair, and how working with 4-H or FFA has helped build leadership skills.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Ag Forum Will Focus On Various New Technologies

Agriculture is entering the age of computers and geo-spatial imaging, seeking better yields, lower costs, and environmental enhancement. Whether Maryland farm operators will gain by costly investment in these new technologies is the subject being explored at the Precision Agriculture Forum on September 21, sponsored by the Nutrient Management Program of the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA).

"The volume of information and rate of technological change in agriculture today presents many opportunities, and often confusion for farmers," said Agriculture Secretary Lewis R. Riley. "This forum is one way that MDA can help farmers weigh the options to determine what technology might be useful in their operations, and why."

Aerial photography and geo-spatial information assist in collecting precise field information. Yield monitoring, optical sensors, and mapping allow the grower to monitor and respond to crop needs as they grow, increasing productivity. Variable rate applicators save money on fertilizer and reduce nutrient run-off that harms water quality. The forum will invite participants to join research specialists in weighing the costs versus the benefits.

Presenters at the forum will include: Dr. Bobby Grisso, professor of biological systems engineering at Virginia Tech, speaking on "Usage of Geo-Spatial Information and Application to Agriculture"; Dr. Craig Daughtry of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, who will speak on "Spectral Properties of Crops and Soils"; and representatives of the Mosaic Company, Dr. Ron Olson and Dr. Dan Froehlich, who will present "Variable Rate Nutrient Systems."

"Aerial Photography and Field Data Collection" will be presented by Marty Campfield, a consultant with NSIA, Inc. Scott Quinn of Farmsite Technologies will speak on "Yield Monitoring and Mapping." Then the "voice of experience" will come from a Maryland farmer, Trey Hill of Harborview Farms, who will share his experience with precision agriculture. The day will conclude with an economic perspective by Andrew Martin of Pennsylvania State University, and a panel discussion by all the day's presenters.

Registration forms are available by calling 410-841-9595 or on the MDA website www:mda.state.md.us — Nutrient Management — 2005 Schedule of Nutrient Management Classes. Six continuing education credits are offered for the day. For further information about the forum, persons may contact Sandra M. Thomas, training coordinator for the Nutrient Management Program, at 410-841-5959.

FSA REPORTS CONSERVATION RESERVE ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM SIGNUP CONTINUES

Signup in the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) to protect water quality and wildlife habitat continues through the Preston County Farm Service Agency. This is an enhancement of Farm Service Agency's Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) that uses federal and state resources to safeguard environmentally sensitive land through special CRP enrollments.

The West Virginia CREP offers rental payments to farmers who voluntarily convert highly erodible cropland and other environmentally sensitive acreage to vegetative cover, such as riparian buffers, filter strips, and/or wetlands. Additionally, CREP helps reduce runoff from entering the Cheat River.

The goals of the West Virginia CREP are to:

- Enroll up to 9,160 acres of eligible cropland and/or marginal pastureland located within the project area;
- Reduce agricultural runoff, sediment, and nutrients from entering designated watersheds;
- Promote improved water quality and enhance wildlife habitat in recognized drainage areas;
- Protect soil, water, and wildlife habitat in the project area.

The following conservation practices may be eligible for land enrolled in a West Virginia CREP contract:

- Establishment of permanent introduced grasses and legumes;
- Establishment of permanent native grasses;
- Hardwood tree planting;
- Filter strips;
- Riparian buffers;
- Wetland restoration.

Eligible producers will be able to enroll in 10- to 15-year contracts. Cropland must have been cropped at least two of the past five years and be physically and legally capable of being cropped in a normal manner. Marginal pastureland is also eligible for enrollment, provided it is suitable for use as a riparian buffer planted to trees.

In addition, producers must generally have owned or operated the land for at least the last 12 months prior to enrollment. Persons who have an existing CRP contract or an approved offer with a contract pending are not eligible for CREP until that contract expires.

West Virginia CREP participants are eligible for five types of payments:

- Signing incentive;
- Practice incentive payment;
- Annual rental payment for the life of the contract;
- Up to 50 percent cost-share assistance for the installation of eligible conservation practices;
- One-time state of West Virginia lump-sum incentive payment.

Haying and grazing are not allowed during the contract period unless FSA permits it for emergency purposes under normal CRP rules.

For further information on the West Virginia Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, contact the Preston County Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923, or e-mail eric.mccartney@wv.usda.gov. Information is also available on FSA's web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Corn Production and EQUIP Field Day

The Robert Bender family of the Cove area (near Northern High School) will be hosting a Corn Production and EQUIP Field Day on Friday, Sept. 16, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The Bender family has cooperated with Maryland Cooperative Extension to plant a demonstrational corn plot which compares different rates and methods of corn fertilization. The Benders have also sub-soiled half of one of the fields to look at the effect sub-soiling will have on crop production. Chad Bucklew, USDA NRCS District Conservationist, will review ways the EQUIP program is being used on the Bender farm and other opportunities with the EQUIP program. Dr. Robert Kratochvil, University of Maryland Extension specialist in agronomic crops, will be the featured speaker. Dr. Kratochvil will discuss corn nutrient needs and crop growth as well as discuss phosphorus needs of corn in soils with high phosphorus levels. Lunch will be provided.

Directions to the farm are: From Rt. 219 just north of Northern High School take Cove Road and the farm is the first farm on the left. Please contact the Garrett County Extension Office if you plan to attend so we can get a count for lunch.

Pastured Poultry Field Day

Garrett College will host a Pastured Poultry Field Day on Saturday, Sept. 17, at the Center for Adventure and Outdoor Studies just past main campus on Mosser Road. The field day will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at noon. Field day participants will be able to see chickens in pasture pens. Richard McCrobie and Paige Dopson will discuss raising chickens on pasture. Participants will also have a chance to view other projects at Garrett College, including laying hen production, pasture turkeys, and poultry processing. For more information, contact Richard or Paige at 301-387-3329.

Commissioners Hear About Role Of Health Department Volunteers

Volunteers make Garrett County a nicer place to live, work, and visit, Health Department personnel told the Garrett County commissioners last week during an update meeting.

Holding activities for youth, helping people to quit smoking, sponsoring blood drives, initiating fundraisers, and providing health education information are just a few of the many ways the volunteers help their communities.

Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty, Health Education director Kendra Todd, and volunteer coordinator Sam Moon went over their volunteer year 2005 impact report for the commissioners. The year ran from May 2004 to April 2005.

Moon, who oversees the volunteers in addition to his Health Education division duties, said 292 volunteers contributed more than 7,200 hours last year. Had they been paid the minimum wage, it would have cost nearly $40,000. He stressed, however, that the cost savings was just one of the many benefits of having volunteers.

Last year, they were involved in Community Planning Groups, youth volunteer groups – such as Pandora's Box Teen Theatre, "The Group," and Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors (STEAM) – and numerous coalitions and committees. Also contributing their time and talents were AmeriCorps members, who receive a small stipend, and VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) members.

Community Planning Groups were started by the Health Department in the early 1990s to promote health education at a grassroots level, Moon said.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted that people are often more receptive to grassroots activities and their messages than government-sponsored events.

There are now nine planning groups: Kitzmiller Empowerment, Gorman Go-Getters, Friendsville Community Watch, Bethlehem Bunch, Accident Community Planning, Mtn. Lake Park Youth Activities Committee, Crellin Paw Prints, Oakland Planning, and Grantsville Involvement.

Commissioner Fred Holliday noted that most areas of the county were covered, except for the northeast corner. The Health Department personnel indicated that a group may be started in that area.

With the help of a Health Department outreach worker, groups are formed wherever there is at least one motivated person interested in keeping community spirit alive, even in pocket communities such as Gorman and Bethlehem.

Commissioner Dave Beard said it was important that pocket communities also have activities to participate in, as other areas of the county do.

The various groups have sponsored dances, family activities, after-school programs, National Night Out events, smoking cessation classes, and recreational and Adopt-A-Highway programs. The Gorman Go-Getters have also been able to acquire a grant to purchase playground equipment. Moon said all group activities stress some aspect of health education.

Todd said towns often rely on the groups to help provide activities for residents that the towns might not otherwise be able to provide. For example, the Friendsville Community Watch plays an important role in the town's Fall Fest, Flay Day event, and Christmas celebration.

Recently, during Friendsville Days, the group also held a Walk the Walk for Cancer, raising nearly $3,000 for Cindy's Fund. The fund provides cancer screenings for Garrett County residents who cannot afford them, Gregg noted.

The Kitzmiller group also held a River Run, with proceeds going to Cindy's Fund.

The planning groups' activities are funded through mini-grants from the Health Department, Garrett County Partnership for Children & Families/Local Management Board, Community Action, and other agencies.

"Grants pay for events, not staff," Glotfelty stressed. Moon added that the main role of the outreach workers was to provide information for the groups.

Todd also noted that last year, the nine groups shared about $19,000, which meant they each received just over $2,000.

"They make a little go a long way," she said about the groups' funding.

Moon called the grants "seed money" to help the groups go on and do other things for their communities. Some of the groups and/or their activities may even become self-sustaining. The Friendsville Community Watch, for example, is in the process of becoming a non-profit organization.

Youth volunteer groups also play important roles at the Health Department. STEAM members at Northern and Southern high schools educate students about the health risks of tobacco and assist police with tobacco sales compliance checks. Two members, Stephanie Lee and Shaina Custer, also testified before a Maryland General Assembly committee this year on behalf of a bill which would restrict minors' access to tobacco products in stores.

The legislation was later approved by the General Assembly and signed into law by the governor.

"I truly believe this is why the bill passed," Todd said about the students' testimony. Holliday concurred. He said testimony from young people makes a tremendous impact on legislators.

Effective Oct. 1, tobacco retailers in Garrett County must keep their products in an area that is only readily accessible to employees and vendors. Persons wanting the products will have to ask for them, making it less likely for minors to shoplift the products. The Health Department is working with retailers to help them comply with the new law.

Pandora's Box Teen Theatre actors give performances addressing issues such as AIDS, drinking and driving, and domestic violence. Last year more than 1,000 people saw their performances, Moon said.

"The talent is really amazing," he said about the performers.

Another teen organization known as The Group was created to help with the department's Play Hard, Live Clean campaign to discourage underage drinking and to promote a positive lifestyle.

Moon said The Group helps design events to make them more "youth friendly." Those events include snow tubing at the Wisp, the summer Beach Blast, Roctoberfest, and afterproms.

AmeriCorps members also help with the child safety seat, highway safety, floride rinse, Medbank, and other Health Department programs. Under the direction of one member, the department recycled 2½ tons of office paper.

VISTA volunteers help during the summer with various projects, such as high school service learning activities.

Additionally, numerous adult volunteers provide much needed help, serving on committees and coalitions, such as the Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition, Western Maryland Health Care Corporation, and the Tobacco-Free Coalition.

Todd noted that the number of volunteer-sponsored activities has grown since the department initiated its volunteer program in the early 1990s – so much so, that in 1995, a volunteer coordinator was needed. She added, however, that as with any group, volunteer support waxes and wanes. Groups sometime need motivational support to help keep them going.

Each May, the Health Department holds an apprevolunteers. This year's theme was "Thanks for Going the Extra Mile."

For more information about volunteering, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7777 or 301-895-3111.

March Of Dimes Seeking Teams For WalkAmerica

Family, business, and organization teams are wanted to participate in the third annual March of Dimes WalkAmerica on Saturday, Sept. 10, at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Check-in begins at 8 a.m. Walk start time is 9 a.m.

A family team forms around a child who was born prematurely or with birth defects or who may not have survived. The family team typically consists of immediate family members or relatives of the child and may or may not represent a church, an organization, or a business. The team members walk and raise money to help the March of Dimes save more babies from prematurity, birth defects, and death.

Team ambassador families and business or organization teams also are wanted to participate in the event. A team ambassador family typically works together with a business or organization team captain, and walks and raises money to illustrate and support the March of Dimes mission. The team ambassador is a child who has overcome the odds to survive an early ordeal, perhaps as a preemie having spent time in a neonatal intensive care unit or a newborn having undergone surgeries to correct a birth defect.

Teams registered so far are Susquehanna Bank, First United Bank & Trust, the Terra Alta Bank, Miners & Merchants Bank, Railey Mountain Lake Vacations, Civic Club of Oakland, Garrett Memorial Hospital, Garrett Rehab Services, and Team One Auto Mall.

The WalkAmerica route begins at Oak Shelter at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Parking is at the trail head or boat lots. From Oak Shelter, the route continues an approximate three-mile trek through the park campground and back to Oak Shelter. A one-mile alternate flat track also is mapped on the route card handed to each walker.

Bank Days are scheduled Sept. 7-9 at Susquehanna Bank in Oakland. During Bank Days, team captains or individual walkers may turn in their money collected and pick up incentives earned, as well as preregister prior to WalkAmerica day.

Local sponsors to date include Susquehanna Bank, Citi, and NBC25, Western Maryland Division; Miners & Merchants Bank and the Terra Alta Bank, checkpoint/gold; WEPCO Federal Credit Union, Railey Realty, and Yellowstone at Deep Creek, silver; and Nu-Finish Collision Center, Southern States, Team One Auto Mall, and Nu-Way Interiors, bronze.

For more information on how to register a team or a team ambassador, one may call the area March of Dimes office at 301-722-5818. To register to walk, persons may call 1-800-525-WALK or visit walkamerica.org.

The March of Dimes is a national voluntary health agency whose mission is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects, premature birth, and infant mortality. Founded in 1938, the March of Dimes funds programs of research, community services, education, and advocacy to save babies, and in 2003 launched a campaign to address the increasing rate of premature births.

More information about the March of Dimes can be found online at marchofdimes.com.

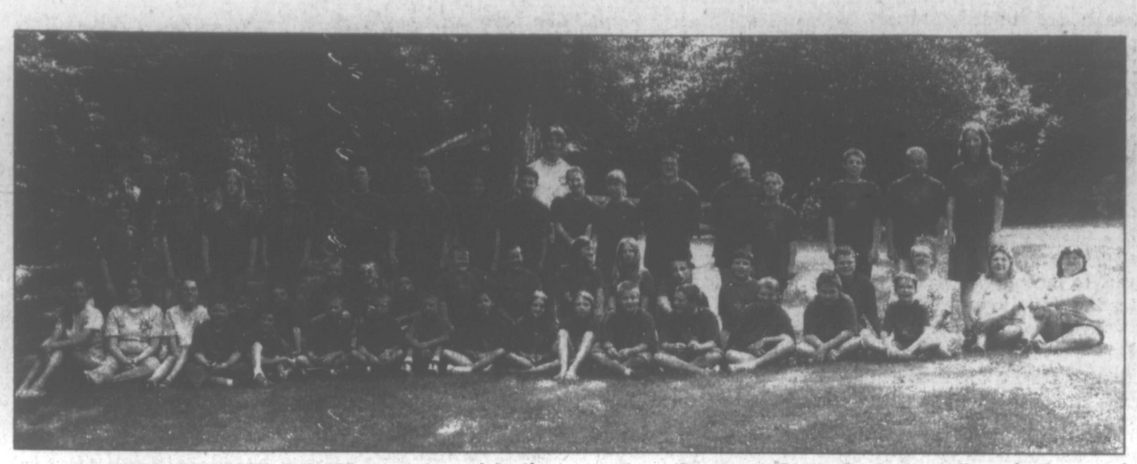
Partners After School Finishes 8th Summer

The Partners After School @ Grantsville's summer program recently completed its eighth summer of activities. The group is directed by Linda Green, coordinated by Karen Wood, and staffed by Dee Fazenbaker, Jeannette Bland, Wayne Menges, Sandy Beachy, Chloe Bauermaster, and Katrina Durst.

This summer, 55 students were involved in the program. They spent Tuesdays at New Germany State Park, where naturalists Eric Savage and Marcie Stubler led the youth in Junior Ranger classes ranging from team-building to boating. In addition, Tammy Humberson, Cooperative Extension office after-school coordinator, taught campfire cooking. They made mountain pies, eggs, cakes in a can, and other recipes on an open fire.



A GROUP OF 55 STUDENTS participated in the Partners After School @ Grantsville program over the summer. Activities ranged from junior ranger classes at New Germany State Park to roller skating and swimming lessons. The new program will begin Tuesday, Sept. 6. See story.

Tennis lessons were taught on Wednesdays by Northern High School coach Linda Wengerd at the Grantsville Park. They also took swimming lessons at the Riverside YMCA in Cumberland. Sharon Menges from the Garrett County Health Department's Outreach program taught summer safety.

Special trips were planned for Thursdays, with visits to the Woodland Zoo, roller skating rinks, the Slinky Zone, and Del-Grosso's Amusement Park.

The summer program ended with a camp-out at New Germany State Park.

Students earning Service Learning hours were called CITs (Counselors In Training). They included Amanda Beitzel, Lara Beitzel, Amber Hare, Sarah Wilcock-Howe, Elizabeth Knox, Kasia Merrill, Blair Silbaugh, Caleb Walters, Hannah Walters, and Aaron Wilburn. The group of CITs volunteered a total of 1,112 hours.

The students achieving perfect attendance were Bradley Hoyman, Christa Lowery, Courtney Lowery, Michelle Miller, Ryan Wilburn, Elizabeth Knox, and Aaron Wilburn.

The most improved swimmers at the YMCA were Bradley Hoyman, Kaitlin Engle, Christa Lowery, and Justin Durst.

The most improved tennis players were Andrew Mason, Ruthanne Walters, Matthew Paape, and Michelle Miller.

The group read a total of 36,426 pages to earn an incentive trip to Idlewild Amusement Park. The top readers were Sarah Wilcock-Howe, with 7,905 pages, and Jessica Baker, with 3,662 pages.

A closing ceremony was held at the New Germany State Park recreation hall, with over 125 in attendance.

The Partners After School @ Grantsville is sponsored by Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., 21st Century Learning Grant, and Grantsville CSAFE.

The Partners After School @ Grantsville 2005/2006 school year program will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 6. For more information, persons may contact Linda Green at 1-888-877-8403 or Karen Wood at 301-895-5818.

Hymn Sing Set At Deer Park

A hymn sing will be held at the Church of God of Prophecy, Deer Park, on Saturday, Sept. 3, starting at 6 p.m.

The public is invited to attend. For more information, persons may call Pastor Osborne at 301-533-3227.

Sept. Schedule Of Bloodmobile Is Announced

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will make five visits to Garrett County during the month of September, the first of which will be this Friday, Sept. 2, at the American Legion hall in Oakland.

Donors will be welcomed at Proctor Kildow Post 71 along Memorial Drive from noon to 6 p.m.

A visit is slated for Friday, Sept. 9, at Kitzmiller Elementary School from 2 to 7 p.m.

The bloodmobile will be hosted by Zion Lutheran Church in Accident on Monday, Sept. 26, from noon to 6 p.m., and blood will also be collected that same day at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The final visit for the month will be on Tuesday, Sept. 27, at Garrett College in McHenry, where blood will be collected from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

According to the ARC, the blood supply continues to be "dangerously low" in the region, and that situation is expected to worsen because of the impending Labor Day holiday weekend, as well as the potential need for blood products because of Hurricane Katrina, which devastated many areas in the South. Persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health can typically donate a unit of blood every eight weeks.

Persons desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Garrett County office of the Red Cross at 301-334-3810, or e-mail redcross@allconet.org.

New Cholesterol-Lowering Drugs

Hyperlipidemia is a medical term referring to abnormally high levels of fat like cholesterol and triglycerides in the bloodstream. If these levels remain high they can lead to health problems such as coronary artery disease, heart attack, and stroke. Cholesterol is "packaged" naturally with blood proteins to form what is called lipoproteins. Cholesterol carried by LDL (low-density lipoprotein), commonly thought of as "bad cholesterol," greatly increases the risks of health problems. HDL (high-density lipoprotein) can actually have benefits of lowering the risks of health problems, thus it is sometimes called "good cholesterol."

Recent years have led to several new cholesterol lowering drugs. Rosuvastatin is a newer member of the statin family. Drugs in this class block the natural synthesis of cholesterol in the liver during sleep. Crestor has similar side effects to others in this class, such as muscle breakdown. Ezetimibe, the first in a new class, actually prevents some absorption of the cholesterol in the foods one eats, an important source in those with high cholesterol. Ezetimibe/simvastatin combines a drug in the statin family with ezetimibe, attempting to lower the cholesterol by two different methods at the same time. Talk to your pharmacist if you have general questions related to cholesterol drugs.

Evening Training Classes Set By Hospice Of GC

Hospice of Garrett County will sponsor evening training classes for Hospice patient care volunteers on Sept. 8, 15, 22, 29, and Oct. 6, 20, and 27. The classes will be held from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. each evening.

The class will begin Thursday, Sept. 8, with "Working With the Volunteer Coordinator" presented by Ida Maust, volunteer coordinator. Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, will present an overview of Hospice. Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich, MSW, social worker for Hospice, will teach "Listening Skills," "Family Dynamics," and "Stress Management" on Thursday, Sept. 15.

Cheryl Scheffel, RN, director of clinical services, will teach a class on "Confidentiality," "HIPAA," "Documentation, Universal Precautions," "Infections Control, and Safety".

"Personal Care and Signs and Symptoms of Dying" will be taught on Sept. 29 by Sheffel. Audrey Kennedy, PT, of Garrett Rehab will teach a class on "Transfer Skills." The class will visit the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, to learn funeral home skills on Oct. 6.

Jane Sealing, director of bereavement for Hospice, will do a program on "Grief Counseling Skills" on Oct. 20, and Pastor Paul Yoder will teach "Spiritual Aspects."

A graduation dinner will beheld at the Hospice office on Thursday, Oct. 27.

"Hospice extends an invitation to you to become part of the Hospice team and to be a patient care volunteer," said Butscher. "You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be very rewarding. Keep in mind that doing good for others is doing good for yourself."

To register or obtain more information, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, 800-521-5252 (Grantsville area), or 800-735-2258 (TTY).

BUY THE LOAN BEFORE THE HOME!

Ready to buy a home? More to the point, ready to finance a home? Begin by finding the right lender, using these guidelines to make a wise choice.

The biggie is the interest rate, and whether variable or fixed. If variable, determine when you can lock it in and if it will cost you anything to do so. If you have excellent credit, you should get the lowest rate offered.

Establish what points you will pay, and if there is any penalty for prepayment. A "point" equals one percent of the loan's value, and when paid up front, can reduce your overall interest rate. Sometimes accepting a prepayment penalty also allows you to negotiate a lower rate.

Get quotes for closing costs and minimum down payment. The more you can pay down the better, but expect to pay 5 to 20 percent of the purchase price. Closing costs include appraisals, recording fees and more, but the lender should provide a "good faith estimate" of all out-of-pocket expenses.

Ask how long it will take to process your application, and what factors might cause delay. A lender may say two weeks, but 45 to 60 days is a more realistic time-frame. Provide the required documentation and let the lender know of any changes during the process.

Compare lenders before you start comparing homes, and experience a happier purchase!

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

FOR SOMEONE SPECIAL

Dear Kids,

Suppose . . . someone told you that you are special?

Yet, sometimes you feel sad because your family changed.

Or you are angry because you have so many chores . . .

Or feel out of place when you see friends with Mom and Dad together . . .

Or you feel you must keep your parent happy, especially when they are sad?

Or there is some other painful loss in your family.

There is finally a time set aside just for you to get together with other kids your age and talk about what is happening in your life.

Fill out the registration form below if you would like to be a part of this special group for all children just like you.

Fore more information or to register, please call Cheryl at 301-387-9151 or Carla at 301-334-6067

RAINBOWS

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The parking lot at Emmanuel Lutheran Church was even more crowded than at Easter since it was a farewell, joint service to wish our Pastor Pat Pittsnogle goodbye, as she is ready to hit the road to Milton, Pa. (in northwestern Pennsylvania), where she will be serving as pastor at Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church.

All three congregations in our three church parish were in attendance. Just about everyone was there, except for our college-bound young people who have already left for their respective colleges. Pastor Pat, accompanied by her guitar, sang a song preceding the service created especially for this event. It was titled "On the Mountaintop." Her refrain went as follows: "On the mountaintop you can hear them singing, see their hands in prayer. Jesus calls them partners and sends them out into the World, Emmanuel, Zion, and St. John's."

Following the children's sermon a special song was sung by the children, and they each presented her with a red rose. Pastor Pat collected an even dozen. A fellowship luncheon was served following the service. Lots of tears were shed and many hugs exchanged. My final goodbye words were "God speed." We have been truly blessed by her time with us in our parish.

Her new address is Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1125 Mahoning Street, Milton, PA 17847. The church phone number is 570-742-7473. As of now they are searching for a home.

Another bittersweet event was the departure of Blakely Glotfelty and Matthew Bass to the University of Maryland in College Park. Although we rejoice at the new experience they will have, still we will miss them very much. They will join Robbie, as he is entering his sophomore year.

Another member of our congregation who will attending the University of Maryland is Geoffrey Newman, who has spent the past two years at Frostburg University. The Newman, Glotfelty, and Bass families will be big rooters for the Terps ball teams, and especially interested in watching Robbie participating in the band.

Thirty years ago when I moved out of Carroll Hall I did not think that someday a nephew of mine would call Carroll Hall his home away from home, but it has happened. It is an old, small, cozy dorm close to the library and dining hall.

The Southerly family took Landon to St. Mary's College over the weekend to begin his junior year. Also last week, Ellen and Sam Housley took Brent to Mount Saint Mary's College in Emmittsburg.

On Sunday following church, Ruth DiPaolo attended a birthday party for Violet Finzel at Penn Alps and then headed for the home of her friend, Betty Sacra, in Winchester to further celebrate her own birthday on the 28th. Betty has been confined to her home for the past two weeks with pneumonia.

Even though we were blessed by a refreshing rain last weekend, I still don't think we got enough. However, it looks like we will be getting some more this week from the hurricane "Katrina." According to the Weather Channel, we could get heavy rain and strong winds which may cause power outages. I think the households around the Peat Bog better have their flashlights ready. At least it is not yet winter so we do not have to worry about our furnaces shutting down. Even though we don't have to worry much about flooding, we do have strong winds many times. Luckily, we don't have the hurricane winds. I will welcome this heavy rain and will not feel all right until Rock Lodge spring is running again.

Mary Ellen Presgraves and husband Steve were weekend guest of the Poholsky family. They were in town for Mel's 40th NHS (class of 1965) reunion.

Cindy and Sam Stanton and Ferne Beachy enjoyed a weekend visit of some old friends from Hagerstown, Gary and June Stemper and their two children.

It is not news that McKenna Stanton is simply adorable. She looked like a plump, ripe cherry tomato in her red romper outfit at church last Sunday. It is hard to believe she is almost 1 year old. Although she can walk she still prefers crawling, as it is much faster. She is a very busy little girl, according to her grandmother Cindy.

Bittinger Woodmen of the World lodge held its annual shrimp dinner at the fire hall Saturday evening. About 25 members and children attended. Plans were made to do some community projects in the near future. Bill Buckel presided at the meeting. Hopefully, we will be able to get some air conditioners in the kitchen to give some comfort to those who work so hard preparing the delicious meals for community events.

The Area Christian Women's Fellowship will hold its meeting at the Bittinger fire hall on Sept. 14 at 6:30 p.m. A dinner of baked steak will be $9 per person. The program will be presented by the Cherry Grove Ladies. Let Margie Menges, at 301-895-5307, know if you would like to attend. Bring canned goods for the Food Pantry.

It was good to see Lottie Brenneman recovered from her recent. hospital visit. Margaret Brenneman Wagner continues to go to the hospital in Morgantown for treatments.

Pastor and Mrs. James Mitchell have arrived from Colorado and are now residing in the Bittinger Lutheran Parsonage. Pastor Jim will be serving the parish as interim pastor.

Registration For Evening High School Slated

Individuals who wish to enroll in Evening High School in Garrett County may register Wednesday, Sept. 7, from 6 to 8 p.m. Registration will be held at the offices at both Northern and Southern high schools. Students may also sign up with the counselors at the high schools during the day beginning Tuesday, Sept. 6, and concluding Thursday, Sept. 8.

A textbook deposit of $20 per course and a $50 registration fee is due at the time of enrollment. Total cost per student will not exceed $100. The Evening High School textbook deposits will be refunded upon the return of texts and other school-issued materials that are in good condition. All costs are payable at the time of registration.

Classes for Evening High School students will begin Monday, Sept. 12. The courses offered are subject to sufficient enrollment, with consideration being given to graduation requirements. Classes will meet one or two nights per week depending on the number of students enrolled and the school site. Enrollment for second semester classes at Southern High School will occur in January 2006. Transportation to these classes is not provided for participants.

Persons who have not completed high school requirements and wish to take required courses for credit may do so through the Evening High School Program. Typical offerings include classes meeting the general requirements for English, mathematics, science, and social studies. Other courses, such as art I and health, are offered based on student need and sufficient enrollment.

For additional information, persons may contact the guidance office at NHS, 301-746-8669; the guidance office at SHS, 301-334-1660; or the Garrett County Board of Education, 301-334-8930.

Family Reading Night Slated At Hickory Center

The Hickory Environmental Education Center will offer a Family Reading Night on Thursday, Sept. 8, from 6 to 7 p.m. Interested persons are encouraged to bring their children and a favorite book.

The center has a limited number of books in the library, but there is ample space for those wishing to read aloud. A guest reader will also be present. Refreshments will be served.

The future of the Hickory Reading Night will depend on the interest shown on Sept. 8, said Bruce Taliaferro, director at Hickory. An open discussion will help to shape future Reading Nights at Hickory.

"Reading is one of the most important parts of education," he said. "Children should not only be taught the fundamentals of reading but also the sheer joy of it. Students having trouble learning to read often become non-readers, and this has a dramatic negative impact not only on their academic careers but also throughout their lives.

"Family Reading Nights have proven to be an excellent way to get students involved in reading. They have all of the necessary ingredients: books that are selected by the individual and are of interest to them, parents or siblings to read with or to, an environment that is safe, and the fun of listening to guest readers."

DCL Art & Wine Festival Slated To Benefit Red Cross

The Deep Creek Lake Art and Wine Festival has been scheduled for Friday through Sunday, Sept. 9-11, to raise funds for the American Red Cross, Western Potomac Chapter.

The Garrett County Fairgrounds at Deep Creek Lake will be the hub of Saturday's activities from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. (rain or shine) with artisans displaying and selling fine arts and crafts, wine tastings from regional and national wineries with celebrity pourers, grape stomping contests, carriage rides and more. Children will have an opportunity to become their own artists by painting a giant paint-by-number mural and/or make special ornaments. Live musical entertainment is on the bill, and a silent auction will take place until 4 p.m.

The new Art & Wine Festival actually begins Friday evening with area restaurants offering special prefix wine pairing dinners, art demonstrations, and other special events. A number of area restaurants and gourmet shops are participating in the evening activities, and food at Saturday's festival will be supplied by several vendors. Some of the items featured will be smoked salmon, crab cakes, zucchini patties, pulled pork, chicken fingers, specialty breads, cheeses, and desserts.

Artists and artisans will have a number of works on display, including pottery, slumped glass bottles, bears, pressed flowers, woodcrafts, plush creatures, fiber hats, soaps, wool creations, chainsaw carvings, slate paintings, painted rugs, painted glassware, jewelry, oil paintings, and photography.

Tickets for Saturday's festival are $20 for adults 21 and older, and include entry fee, 10 wine tastings, a commemorative wine glass, and entertainment. Entry-only tickets are $5. Children 5 and under may enter for free.

For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386 or visit the chamber's web site at www.deepcreeklakeinfo.com.

Moe Seeks Seat

ganizations successfully lobbied the Board of Garrett County Commissioners to phase out the business personal property tax.

During his tenure as chamber president and a director of the Garrett County Promotion Council, he worked with former Garrett County commissioner Roger Glotfelty Sr. and promotion council president Jerry Geisler to develop testimony in support of the state grant used to build the current Visitors Center.

Moe worked with Geisler to develop the successful merger of the Promotion Council and the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce into the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, which now occupies and administers the operation of the Garrett County Visitors Center.

"As a result of my work over the years with Senator Hafer and Delegate Edwards, contacts gained from my work with various community groups, my lobbing and testimony in the Maryland state legislature for the 'One Maryland' legislation and my business experiences, I feel I am uniquely qualified to represent the citizens of Garrett County and the Georges Creek area of Allegany County," said Moe. "I am aware of the need for the Route 36 Lonaconing bypass in the Georges Creek area as a result of my work with the Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force and Governor Ehrlich's Western Maryland Economic Development Commission. If elected I pledge to work with the Western Maryland Delegation in seeking the development of the Lonaconing bypass.

"Looking at issues that will be facing the General Assembly, I believe the issue of health care insurance costs must be addressed. While the state has to some extent addressed the malpractice insurance premiums for physicians and hospitals as well as health care for children and pregnant women of low-income families (the Maryland Children Health Insurance Program – MCHIPS), it hasn't addressed the skyrocketing cost of premiums to private individuals and industry.

"In the 2004 and 2005 legislative sessions Maryland state delegate David Boschert (R-Anne Arundel County) introduced a bill (HB 52), the Maryland Association Health Plan Act, which would allow the creation of regional geographic health care plans. This would afford insurance companies the ability to offer a minimum group policy to a larger population group.

"A larger population group contributing premiums at a lower dollar amount reduces the potential catastrophic liability the insurance carrier could be liable for and benefits both the insurer and the insured. If elected and no progress on this issue is made in the 2006 legislative session, I would join Delegate Boschert in this effort."

In addition to his membership on the Development Corporation and Gubernatorial Economic Development commissions, Moe continues to serve on various state and county government advisory committees, including the Garrett County Airport Advisory Committee and the U.S. Route 219 Citizens Advisory Committee. He is also chairman of the transportation committee of the Garrett County Development Corporation.

Moe is a member of the Oakland Elks Lodge 2481 and treasurer of the Oakland Golf Club. He has been a member of the Oakland Rotary Club since 1988, and was president during 1994 and 1995. He is also the recipient of its distinguished Paul Harris Fellowship award.

"I am proud to announce Robert Heilig, owner of Heilig's Plumbing, Heating and Electrical, will serve as my election committee chairman and Andrew Fike owner of the Oak-Mar Motel & Restaurant and the Oakland Motel, will serve as my campaign treasurer. The support of these local independent businessmen with their work ethic, leadership and business philosophy is indeed gratifying to me and reinforces my commitment to serve all the citizens of Garrett County and Georges Creek," he said.

Moe is married to the former Linda Eneix of Clarksburg, W.Va. They reside on Four Hooppole Hill.

Md. SAT Scores Hold Steady; More Take Test

"Good things are happening in Maryland schools," state superintendent Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick said this week as she released the SAT results for the state's schools showing that verbal and math scores continue to hold steady as more students, including African American students, take the nationally recognized college entrance test.

"We are seeing the results of our intense effort to close achievement gaps, particularly between our African American and white students. Our classroom teachers are doing an incredible job with more rigorous instruction and higher expectations for our students," said Dr. Grasmick.

Overall, 71% of last year's seniors took the test, an increase from 68% the previous year and six percent more than five years ago. Maryland's score of 511 on the verbal section was highest among the states in the middle states region, and the math score of 515 was among the top two.

Minority students made up 38% of the state's test takers.

Scores for African American students in Maryland's class of 2005 were up over the previous year. The average verbal score jumped four points to 434 while the math increased three points to 426. Nearly 17% more African American students took the SAT than did in the previous year. African American students made up 24% of the state's test takers.

SAT results are based on the most recent SAT Reasoning Test scores of graduating seniors in the class of 2005.

More Maryland students took Advanced Placement (AP) exams during the 2004-2005 school year than ever before. Overall participation was up 11% with just over 11% more exams taken and 10% more exams receiving scores of three to five, the highest scores on the exams. Many colleges use the results of AP exams to award college credit or advanced standing to entering students.

Twelve percent more African American students took AP exams, and nearly five percent more of their exams received a score of three, four or five compared to the previous year. The number of African American students who received scores of three to five has doubled in the last five years.

For at least the last four years, Maryland has seen an increase in the number of minority students taking AP exams and in the number of exams that receive high scores, indicating that it is possible to increase the number of test takers and improve scores at the same time.

Early Childhood Added To Teacher Shortage List

The Maryland State Board of Education this week declared teacher shortages in 20 key subject areas, adding early childhood education to its list of critical content area needs.

Also added to the shortage list were dance and theater science teachers. These joined content areas that have historically suffered from shortages, such as mathematics, chemistry, physics, special education, and English for speakers of other languages.

The state board found teacher shortages cropping up in all 24 systems, and noted a lack of teachers who are male and teachers who are members of minority groups.

As classes begin in most Maryland school systems this week, several hundred positions remained open – most in the hard-to-fill areas cited in the report.

"Schools need to be aggressive and creative when recruiting highly qualified new teachers," said Nancy S. Grasmick, Maryland state superintendent of schools. "Our research shows that there is no end in sight for the teacher shortage."

Shortages in Maryland go beyond the classroom. This year, based on new data, the state board also declared a need for more principals and speech/language pathologists.

Maryland's annual teacher staffing report, presented to the state board today, found that 6,617 new teachers were hired last year, an 11.6 percent increase from the previous year's 5,929. Of the teachers hired last year, 3,184 were new teachers, having recently completed teacher training programs. The remaining 3,433 were experienced teachers.

The percentage of minority new hires increased from 26.4 percent in 2003-2004 to 28.5 percent last year. At the same time, however, the percentage of teacher candidates at Maryland colleges and universities who are members of minority groups fell from 19.2 percent in 2003-2004 to 18.4 percent in 2004-2005.

Although there remains a need for more teachers, there are some positive trends. For example, it was anticipated that 2,774 students would graduate from Maryland teacher education programs in 2004-2005, a record total. Nearly 3,000 (2,996) were on track to graduate in 2005-2006.

Still, there is no sign that shortages would end anytime soon. The report estimates the systems will have to hire more than 7,500 new teachers this school year, the most since a record 7,649 were hired in 2000-2001. Moreover, local systems estimate they will need to hire another 7,500 teachers next fall.

The Maryland Teacher Staffing Report, which MSDE began publishing 21 years ago as the Maryland Teacher Supply and Demand Study, uses information from local school systems and Maryland higher education institutions with teacher training programs.

The information is based on the most current available data (fall 2004), and the projected needs of school systems for 2005-2007.

Teacher hiring projections have changed from a few years ago, when Maryland was hiring more than 7,000 teachers per year. Hiring is expected to remain around 6,000 per year for the next few years.

The state board's action serves as the basis for the Sharon Christa McAuliffe Awards given by the Maryland State Scholarship Administration and for the federal government to identify students eligible for deferment or cancellation of student loans.

WOW TO HONOR AMERICA'S HEROES

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will conduct a special patriotic ceremony to honor the heroes and victims of Sept. 11, 2001, and to salute the local heroes who protect the community.

The ceremony, called "In Honor and Remembrance-Woodmen Salutes America's Heroes," will include recognition of the police officers, firefighters, members of the armed forces, and others.

Lodge 45 will hold its ceremony on Sunday, Sept. 11, beginning at 6 p.m. at Friendsville Town Park. The ceremony will include the Accident Concert Band, VFW, Maryland State Police, Garrett Co. Sheriff's Dept, and the Friendsville Fire and Rescue personnel.

This is the 4th year that Woodmen has sponsored this project, with more than 1,600 ceremonies having been conducted by WOW lodges since 2002. For more information, persons may contact Mary Frantz at 301-746-5331.

TOWN NEWS

Before building additions, putting up fences, signs or placing new sheds, residents are asked to contact Town Hall as a zoning/building permit may be needed.

Persons wanting to have curbside pickup of their trash should call Town Hall at 301-746-5919.

The next Mayor and Town Council meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 12, at 7 p.m.

The next Community Legacy Meeting will be held Sept. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Residents are asked not to allow their pets to roam the streets. According to the Garrett County Dog Ordinance, they must be leashed or contained unless accompanied by the owner or trainer.

RECYCLING NEWS

Recycling will be held this Friday, Sept. 2. Paper, glass, aluminum, etc., should be separated. Items should be at curbside by 9 a.m.

General Services Releases Permit Winner Names

The Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, General Services Department, has announced the winners of its drawing for 2006 residential refuse permits. Selected by random drawing during the recent Garrett County Fair were Danielle Friend, Scott Trundle, and Ernie Metz, all of Swanton; Joy Helbig, Oakland; Shari Gravely, McHenry; and Stacy Stein, Grantsville. Fair goers could sign up for a chance to win the permits at the division's booth.

"The Solid Waste & Recycling booth was very successful, said Kimberly Madigan, recycling coordinator. "Many residents and visitors stopped by with refuse permit questions or to discuss the future of recycling in Garrett County; and the kids had a great time with the daily trivia questions."

The public may purchase 2006 residential refuse permits beginning Oct. 1, 2005. The Solid Waste & Recycling Division recommends that purchasers affix their permits to their vehicle windshields immediately to avoid accidental loss.

"By participating at the fair, Solid Waste & Recycling had a greater opportunity to discuss issues and ideas one-on-one with residents; and spend quality time educating visitors on our free recycling program," Madigan said.

For more information about the residential refuse permit or recycling in Garrett County, persons may call Madigan at 301-387-0322.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

TRI-STATE DENTAL ARTS LABORATORIES

Tri-State Dental Arts Laboratories opened today, Thursday, Sept. 1, at 258 Maple Street in Friendsville.

This is a full-service lab offering high quality restorations to all dentists in the tri-state area, according to owner Gary LaMarca, who has 30 years of experience.

"I have chosen the town of Friendsville, not only because of the central location to Morgantown, Uniontown, and Cumberland, but I was overwhelmed by its simple charm and beauty," he said. "Everyone that I have had the pleasure to meet so far has been very welcoming. I look forward to a successful business venture, long lasting friendships, and a strong involvement with the community."

LaMarca said he would like to thank Joe Sessa Barbar for helping him orchestrate the whole effort; Marlin Lawson, the former owner of the building; Spencer Schlosnagle, mayor; and Jim Naeseth of Wihinape Natural Foods.

Miss Grieu-Bess Weds Mr. Alcott In August Nuptials At Deep Creek

Renna Thayer Grieu-Bess and John Trevor Allcott exchanged wedding vows on Wednesday, Aug. 10, in a Hazelhurst Cove ceremony on Deep Creek Lake. The couple were united in marriage by the Rev. Kyle Brown, who met the couple while they were working as missionaries for the Presbyterian Church at the Christian American School of Lyon, France.

The bride is the daughter of Jerry and Renna Thayer Shaver, Keyser, W.Va., and Dr. Bob and Connie Bess, also of Keyser. The groom is the son of Trevor and Barbara Allcott, Crimond, Scotland.

The event featured the first official outing of "The Swan" boat since its restoration. The Swan, skippered by Larry Madson, carried Ms. Grieu-Bess and her daughters, Amanda of Washington, D.C. and Ariana of New York City, to the ivy, lavender and daisy decorated dock where the ceremony took place. The Swan was escorted by a vintage Chris Craft skippered by Bill Weissgerber and crewed by Rob Michael, which carried the bride's two attendants, both sisters of the groom, Mrs. Sarah McPhilippes of Dubai and Marian Allcott of London, England.

Dressed in an art deco style, tea-length wedding gown, the bride carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and fern which was a recreation of the bouquet her grandmother, Margaret Johnson, carried at her own wedding in 1928.

Allcott was escorted to the altar by his three children, Jacqui Birch of London, Barry Allcott of Ayr, Scotland, and Emma Allcott of Aix-en-Provence, France. The groom was attended by the bride's three brothers, James Bess, Dr. Charles Bess, and Larry Shaver, all of Keyser.

The couple were preceded to the altar by flower girls Alexandra and Gracie Hill, both of Ridgeley, W.Va., who pulled an ivy and daisy decorated wagon carrying the youngest members of the bridal party, brother and sister Rennick, 2, and Alexa Bess, 2 months, both of Keyser.

The reception featured music by the bluegrass band Stewed Mulligan and disc jockey Jonny Rock. Party boat rides were provided by Johnny Ferrell. Wendy Friend was the wedding coordinator, and Dawn Hallidy, Le Havre France, was in charge of the guest book.

The cake table featured a French wedding cake, Piece Monté or Croque Bouche provided by Chef Pascal of the Deer Park Inn. A toast was offered by John's son-in-law, Craig Birch of London.

The couple spent that night at Deer Park Inn, then honeymooned at the Greenbrier in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va. They currently reside at 205, rue du Diot, 69270 Fontaines St. Martin, France.

Jennifer Pope, Christopher Yoder United In Marriage At Cherry Glade Church

Jennifer Pope and Christopher Yoder were united in marriage on June 18 at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident, by Pastor Daniel Tice.

The bride is the daughter of Gail Hay, Hooversville, Pa. The groom is the son of David and Esther Yoder, Grantsville.

The bride is a 2001 graduate of Salisbury Elk-Lick High School and a 2004 graduate of Allegany College of Maryland. She is currently employed with School Therapy Services of Cumberland as a physical therapist assistant.

The groom is a 2000 graduate of Northern High School and a 2005 graduate of Frostburg State University. He is currently employed by Beitzel Corp. in the automation department as well as by Grassy Cabin Farms.

Ashley Hollada served as the maid of honor, and Russell Miller was the best man.

The rest of the bridal party included Crystal Yoder, Tiffany Perez, and Jessica Mast as bridesmaids and Jimmy Yoder and Scott Maust as groomsmen. The flower girl was Emily Berkebile, sister of the bride. The ring bearer was Alan Berkebile.

A reception followed the wedding at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church fellowship hall.

The couple honeymooned for a week in Niagara Falls, and now reside in Grantsville.

Fash-Raynsford Wedding Slated

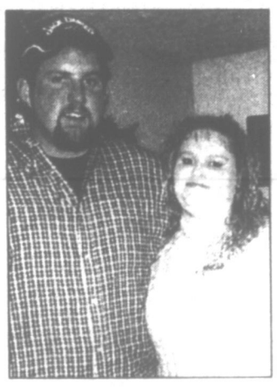
Moya Noreen Fash and Ian Alan Raynsford, along with their parents, announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Frank and Joan Fash of Grantsville. She attended Northern High School and is currently employed at the Meadville Tribune in Crawford County, Pa., as its Internet sales co-coordinator.

The prospective groom is the son of Michael and Glennis Raynsford, Wasaga Beach, Ontario. He attended North Park Secondary School in Brampton, Ontario, and is employed as a production supervisor in Ontario.

The couple's wedding will be hosted at the Blakeslee Farm in Corry, Pa., on Oct. 8.

Miss Colmer To Wed Mr. DeBerry



Mr. and Mrs. Joseph (Joe) W. Colmer, Grantsville, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Crystal Ann, to Jamie Aaron DeBerry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary DeBerry, Oakland.

Miss Colmer is a 2000 graduate of Northern Garrett High School and a 2003 graduate of Garrett College. She is currently employed at the St. Vincent DePaul Nursing Home in Frostburg.

Mr. DeBerry is a 1996 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, and is currently employed at CSX transportation in Cumberland.

The wedding will be held on Saturday, Oct. 1, at Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren, Grantsville, with a reception immediately following at the bride's parents' home on Foster's Inn Road, Grantsville.

Although invitations have been sent, the couple invites all family and friends to attend.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Twelve couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

Thomas Francis Weimer, 61, Lonaconing, and Clarice Ann Saulpaw, 55, Grantsville.

Please Note: The Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center will be closed Monday, Sept. 5, in observance of Labor Day. Have a safe and happy holiday weekend!

Starting September 1 more group exercise classes will be added to our schedule. Stop in and check one out:

•Join Peggy Santamaria for a Pilates session on Monday evenings at 5 p.m. and work on strengthening and lengthening the core muscles.

•Since our stability ball class has become more popular, it will also be offered it at 3 p.m. on Fridays.

•If you think you do not have time to exercise, try a circuit training session on Tuesday or Thursday at 3 p.m. for a 30-minute program that will give you a strength and cardiovascular workout all in one.

•Join us Wednesdays at 3 p.m. for an outdoor walk across the street at the Accident Park.

As always, all of our group exercise classes are open to the public for a fee of $3 per person per class. For more information on classes being offered, please call 301-746-8050.

A Sweeter Way to Improve Your Health

New research has shown that dark chocolate may help lower blood pressure by an average of 10 percent while improving the body's insulin sensitivity. This benefit applies only to dark chocolate, which is rich in flavenoids. Flavenoids are the same antioxidant compounds found in fruits, vegetables, and whole grains that are known to help lower blood pressure.

Jeffery Blumberg, a professor at Tufts University, found that 3 ounces of dark chocolate per day over several weeks reduced the blood pressure in patients with essential hypertension, and it also seemed to benefit their insulin sensitivity. During their research, the individuals in the study had high blood pressure, but were not controlling it with medications. The average drop in systolic blood pressure (top number) was 11.9 mmHg, and there was an 8.5-mmHg drop in diastolic pressure (bottom number).

John Katz, a professor at Yale Medical School, is also conducting research on chocolate and has found that chocolate is not only rich in antioxidants, but also fiber and magnesium. Furthermore, stearic acid, the predominant saturated fat in dark chocolate, does not raise cholesterol or harm blood vessels.

Milk chocolate and white chocolate do not offer any known health benefits, and they provide more calories, sugar, and potentially harmful oils than dark chocolate. Dark chocolate can be incorporated into your diet and is something that you can enjoy and not feel that you are violating the principles of dieting. However, you cannot just add it on top of your diet. It is still a high-calorie food, and you do not want to have excess calories or put on more weight if you are already hypertensive.

Democratic Club Slates Meeting

The Garrett County Democratic Club will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m. in the Garrett College Continuing Education Building. Member Ron Krug will present a PowerPoint presentation highlighting activities, goals, and aspirations of the club's future.

The club would like to thank Joyce Andrews and all who helped make this year's fair booth a success. They also wanted to thank those who volunteered to work in the BPW's food booth.

The public is welcome to attend. For information about the club and its activities, persons may contact Betty Pritt, GCDC president, at 301-334-9339.

CUB SCOUTS CELEBRATE END OF SUMMER – Pack 31 Cub Scouts and their families said farewell to summer with a rainy day picnic at Herrington Manor State Park recently. "Everyone enjoyed a potluck dinner by the warmth of an indoor fire, and then headed outside for fun and games," said a Pack 31 spokesperson. "The highlight of the evening was when the winning team of the relay race got to 'Cream the Cub Master.'" Pictured is Cub Master Jim Walking being creamed by his eager Cub Scouts. Cub Scouting is open to first through fifth grade boys and their families. Pack 31 will hold registration on Monday, Sept. 12, at 7 p.m. at Dennett Road Elementary School. For more information, persons may call Walkling at 301-334-5295.

Landscaping Class Slated At College

"Landscaping for the Seasons" will be offered from 6 to 8 p.m. over four consecutive Tuesdays beginning Sept. 13 at Garrett College in McHenry.

During this course, students will learn about the plant materials that work best for each season to provide interest, discuss the preparations that need to be made to address the varied local climate, learn about pruning and fertilizing techniques, and develop a final design plan based on the needs of the four seasons. The instructor is Cheryl Lough, a local landscape designer who holds a degree in landscape architecture.

For further information or to register, persons may call the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College at 301-387-3069 or e-mail jyoder@garrettcollege.edu.

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in all that parcel of land situate in Election District No. 14, Garrett County, Maryland, containing 0.56 acre, more or less, known and designated as Lot No. 34, Section 1, Block A, Piney Mountain Corporation, and described in deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Dale A. Cable and Mary L. Cable, husband and wife, dated November 3, 1966, and recorded November 7, 1966, in Liber No. 275, folio 328, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Complaint states, among other things, that the amounts for redemption have not been paid, although more than six (6) months and one (1) day from the date of sale has expired.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 19th day of August 2005, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, ORDERED that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 16th day of September 2005, warning all persons interested in the said property to be and appear in this Court by the 18th day of October 2005, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint, or thereafter a Judgment will be rendered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

REAL ESTATE – 12:00 NOON
135.2 Acres +/-

Known as "Lily of the Valley," this is a beautiful, secluded parcel of real estate proudly boasting the true amenities of Garrett Co. It is a very short distance to the bountiful Savage River State Forest & only minutes to nearby Deep Creek Lake and major arteries such as I-68 and Rt. 495. It is a true "working farm" that has proudly been taken care of for many years as shown by the contour strips that circle the hills like lines on a picture. The property is improved by a 2-story, 10-room farmhouse and 2 modern wells. Don't forget about the 2340' +/- of road frontage that borders the very well-maintained county road that opens this property to endless possibilities! If you are looking for a quaint get-away, or an investment this is the opportunity you've been waiting for!

Terms for Real Estate: 5% down day of auction, balance due on delivery of deed! Sale is subject to confirmation by the Personal Representatives, and the ratification by the Orphans' Court of Garrett Co.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
1457 Blue Goose Road
Friendsville, MD 21531

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Tina L. Sisler dated May 25, 2000, recorded in Liber 806, Folio 503, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, with an original principal balance of $97,500.00, and an original interest rate of 10.79, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett County, at the Rotunda Entrance at the Court House Door, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland, on September 13, 200,5 @ 03:00 p.m. ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon located in Garrett County, Maryland, more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind. Terms of Sale: A deposit of $10,000.00 in the form of cash or readily available funds acceptable to the Trustees required at the time of sale. Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. All other public charges or assessments, including water/sewer charges, ground rent, condo/HOA dues, whether incurred prior to or after the sale, and all other costs incident to settlement to be paid by the purchaser. All transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be paid by the Purchaser. Purchaser is responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property, and assumes risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale. If ratification or settlement is delayed for any reason there shall be no abatement of interest. The sale is subject to post-sale audit of the status of the loan with the loan servicer including, but not limited to, determination of whether the borrower entered into any repayment agreement, reinstated or paid off the loan prior to the sale. In any such event, this sale shall be null and void, and the Purchaser's sole remedy, in law or equity, shall be the return of the deposit without interest. If Purchaser fails to settle within ten days of ratification, he agrees to pay attorneys' fees in the amount of $750.00, plus costs, if the Trustees have moved to resell the property. If Purchaser defaults under these terms, deposit shall be forfeited. The Trustees may then resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. The defaulted purchaser shall not be entitled to any surplus proceeds resulting from said resale even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulted purchaser. If Trustees are unable to convey either insurable or marketable title, or if the sale is not ratified by the Circuit Court for any reason, the Purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit without interest. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to the Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents. Howard N. Bierman, Jacob Geesing, Carrie M. Ward, Ralph J. NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
GARRETT COUNTY
Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, September 20, 2005, at 10 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider an Amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendment to consider is as follows:

By letter dated August 11, 2005, Ronald J. Harvey and Chad T. Harvey of Ag Future, Inc., petitioned the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities to annex Map 78, Parcel 157 by its entirety into the Shady Acres Sanitary District. The request was made with the intent of purchasing sewer taps for future development. The Department of Public Utilities proposes to expand the Shady Acres Sanitary District to include Map 78, Parcel 157. This will be done upon approval of the Board of County Commissioners via resolution. Map can be viewed at the Department of Public Utilities office at 2008 Maryland Highway–Suite 2, Mtn. Lake Park, Maryland 21550.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on September 20, 2005, to determine if the amendment to the Water and Sewer Master Plan is necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the project is feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

By order of the County Commissioners of Garrett County
R. Lamont Pagenhardt
County Administrator

Two Injured In Cycle, Vehicle Mishap Sunday

Two people were injured when their motorcycle was struck by a vehicle at the intersection of Maryland Highway and Sand Flat Road Sunday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Brian K. Neff, Cumberland, was attempting to turn left from Sand Flat Road onto Maryland Highway on his 1996 Harley Davidson. According to police, he pulled the motorcycle into the westbound lane then stopped before being struck by the 2003 Chevrolet, operated by Barbara Bodkins, Independence, W.Va.

Damage was minimal to both vehicles, according to police, Neff and his passenger, Edna Neff, were transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Mr. Neff was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Deer Park firefighters also responded to the 2 p.m. scene.

THE WEATHER HAS BEEN BEAUTIFUL here in Garrett County over the past several weeks, with days of bright sunshine and brilliant skies, and nights of starry skies and chilly temps. There's little question that rain is needed, though, and it is predicted for tonight and tomorrow. The leaves are taking on just the beginnings of their fall colors, and the scent of autumn is in the air. The four seasons each certainly have their day on the mountaintop. Photo by John McEwen.

Board Of Education Discusses Master Plan Update, Test Scores

The Garrett County Board of Education members were briefed at this month's meeting on the annual update to the Bridge to Excellence Master Plan for the school system and the most recent test scores.

Dr. Pat Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation, and information, and Dr., Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, explained that all grades and schools have showed improvement, but the special education students are still below the Annual Measurable Objective (AMO), which is established by the state. In reading at the elementary level, the special education students scored 44% proficient, which is up from 30.5% last year, but is still below the 57.8% AMO, said Mullinix.

Each year updates are made to the master plan, and a portion regarding the areas where the school system faces challenges was discussed by McCartney. According to McCartney and her staff, the strategies that were developed targeting improving achievement for all students as well as the underperforming subgroup of special education students will be still implemented the same as last year.

"While the special education results have not progressed as rapidly as desired, there is significant improvement," said McCartney. "Based on the improvement shown and considering the short timeframe for implementation, strategies will be continued."

There are several new strategies that will be implemented, McCartney explained. The first strategy is to expand the Instructional Consultation Team Development to include Friendsville and Route 40 elementary schools as well as Southern Middie School.

The second strategy is that Southern Middle will become a participant in the Strategic Instruction Model sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education, Division of Special Education, Early Intervention Services. This three-year staff development project will begin with sixth grade teachers during the 2005-06 school year.

The third strategy is to

Many Evacuees Find Housing, Leave Camp Dawson; Sexual Assault Alleged

In the continuing rescue operation following Hurricane Katrina, local persons are being advised of various updates about donations, volunteering, and the status of displaced persons currently housed at Camp Dawson in Kingwood, W.Va.

CORRECTED PHONE NUMBER

Persons should note that the telephone number for WV Helps, reported in last week's issue of The Republican, was not correct. The correct number is 1-800-WVHELPS, or 1-800-984-3577.

Persons may call this number to find out exactly what is needed at this time to assist in helping the individuals staying at Camp Dawson, or to help in any other capacity in the wake of the disaster.

NEARLY NEW NO LONGER DROP-OFF

Rev. Chip Lee of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland, which operates the Nearly New Shop in Oakland, reported this week that the shop is no longer serving as a drop-off point for goods donated for the hurricane victims.

"At Camp Dawson, they now only need monetary donations to help with transportation for the evacuees," Lee said.

CAMP DAWSON UPDATE

An update from Camp Dawson was posted online yesterday (at www.volunteerwv.org) and reads as follows, in part:

"More than 90 evacuees have been assisted to leave the camp, and staff and volunteers of many state agencies and non-profit organizations are working around the clock to assess the needs of the guests who remain. In the next four weeks, they will be helped to make informed decisions about their next move. We will be needing to use the many offers of jobs, housing, and other support that have been received to settle them in West Virginia communities.

"We are looking for community support coordinators to help them get settled in the following communities: Clarksburg, Charleston, Fairmont, Parkersburg, Wheeling, Beckley, and Bluefield/Princeton.

Driver Arrested, Juvenile Charged By Task Force

A Friendsville woman was arrested following a traffic stop and search of her vehicle Wednesday evening along Rt. 42 at the I-68 overpass, according to the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

Sherry Lynn Stanton, 35, was arrested and charged with possession with intent to distribute crack cocaine, possession of crack cocaine, possession of CDS paraphernalia, and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. She is currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

A 17-year-old juvenile was also charged with possession of crack cocaine and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Police recovered 11.4 grams of suspected crack cocaine from the vehicle.

Six Injured In Monday Night Oakland Crash

Oakland police officers investigated a two-vehicle collision Monday night that injured six people and resulted in charges for a Preston County driver.

The 8:32 p.m. crash occurred as Chad Edward Bolyard, 18, Rowlesburg, W.Va., who was traveling east on Oak Street, reportedly made a left turn into the path of a northbound vehicle operated by Barbara Katherine Pitt, 56, Aurora, W.Va.

Pitt, Bolyard and his passengers, Dalton Taylor Bever, 10; Carolyn Sue Bray, 38; Whitney Bever, 17; and Stacy Lynn Sisler, 19, all of Rowlesburg, were

Barton Woman Charged After I-68 Accident

A Barton woman faces a negligent driving charge filed by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated a vehicle crash Monday morning near Friendsville. The 6:41 a.m. mishap occurred on Interstate 68 east of Sand Spring Road.

Kimberly Ann Bennett, 38, was traveling west in a 2005 GMC Envoy when a deer reportedly ran in front of her vehicle, causing her to lose control. Bennett's SUV skidded across the median and into the eastbound lane of I-68 before striking a 2005 Ford Freestyle operated by William Joseph Mertens, 59, Parkton. Bennett's vehicle then overturned and struck the guard rail.

Mertens and Bennett Both were taken to Ruby Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. Police said that both drivers escaped serious injuries because of the proper use of seat belts and the deployment of airbags. Personnel from the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department and the Maryland State Highway Administration also responded to the scene.

In other state police accident investigations, four passengers of a large pickup truck were injured when a tire blew and the vehicle went out of control and crashed on I-68 near Avilton Friday afternoon. The 3:12 p.m. mishap occurred near Green Lantern Road.

Tony Bequette, 38, Frostburg, was driving in the eastbound slow lane when the left front tire of his 2001 Ford F-250 pickup truck failed, causing the truck to travel from the eastbound slow lane across the fast lane, the median and both lanes of westbound I-68 and striking a ditch before coming to rest 60 feet off the roadway.

Bequette and one of his three passengers – Tania

State Comm. Sets Local Public Hearing On Wind Plant Proposal

The Maryland Public Service Commission, the state entity charged with making the final decision on whether wind power plants, or any other type of electrical generating facilities, can be located anywhere in the state, has slated a public hearing to solicit citizen comment on the second proposed wind turbine facility in Garrett County. The hearing is slated for 7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 22, in the Southern High School auditorium in Oakland, concerning an application by Synergics Energy Services to place a line of 17 to 19 wind turbines along the ridgeline of Backbone Mountain for its proposed 40 megawatt Roth Rock Wind Facility.

Earlier that same day, a PSC hearing will take place at the Garrett County Health Department to receive input – pro and con – from official parties only about the project's potential socio-economic impacts on the county. That 2 p.m. meeting, which will address tax revenue, job creation, and view shed impacts, among other concerns, is open to citizens who wish to listen but not comment.

The legally-mandated public hearings stem from an application made by Synergics to the PSC in June 2004, when the company initially applied for permission to place 24 turbines along a three-mile stretch of ridge top to the southeast of Red House. The proposed project overlooks Pleasant Valley to the west and the Mettiki mining facility to the east.

This April the Annapolis-based renewable energy company applied in a supplemental action to decrease the number of turbines to 19 while increasing their size and individual electrical output with new generation 420-foot tall turbines, and yesterday Synergics founder and president Wayne Rogers offered to eliminate two more turbines from the project during the opening of PSC hearings on the application in Baltimore, which continue today and tomorrow.

Rogers told PSC officials that the company was proposing the reduction in response to concerns voiced by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, which had earlier reported to the PSC that the northern portion of the Roth Rock facility posed potential adverse impacts to a native population of mourning warblers, mountain wood ferns, and summer sedge. The bird species and the two plant species are each on the Maryland Endangered Species list. The reduction does not on the surface meet the concerns raised by supplemental DNR testimony delivered to

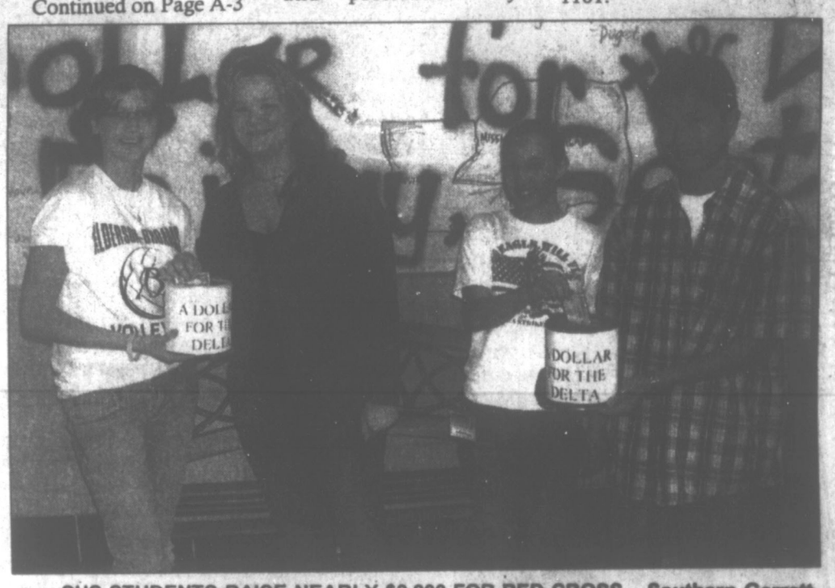
MSP Seek Leads In Recovered Stolen SUV Case

Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack are seeking the public's assistance as they investigate the circumstances concerning a stolen vehicle that was recovered on Bittinger Road near Dung Hill Road at approximately 1 a.m. Tuesday morning.

After observing a traffic violation, Tpr. Wagoner attempted to stop a 1997 Mercury Mountaineer that was traveling north on Bittinger Road. The driver of the SUV drove it into a ditch, then fled the scene on foot. The vehicle was subsequently determined to have been stolen from the area of Rock Lodge and Accident Bittinger roads.

Persons with information on this incident are asked to contact the MSP barrack at 301-895-1101 or 301-387-1101.



SHS STUDENTS RAISE NEARLY $2,900 FOR RED CROSS – Southern Garrett High School students and the school community raised a total of $2,854.56 for their "Dollars for the Delta" campaign. Led by peer counselors with collection cans, the student body and school staff donated over $2,600 on the morning of Friday, Sept. 9. Following the collection of donations, the student body filed outside for the 9/11 remembrance ceremony. The crowd joined teachers Lowell Leitzel and Kim Sweitzer, teaching assistant Debbie Friend, and senior Kenzie Craig in the singing of patriotic songs. Principal Tom Woods led the students in reflection of the 9/11 tragedy and the current turmoil in New Orleans. Later Friday evening, peer counselors volunteered to collect again as Ram fans gave at the home football game against St. Vincent Pallotti, contributing nearly $200 to the hurricane relief effort. "The generosity of the students, staff, and community was overwhelming. It seems that no matter what the need, everyone affiliated with Southern Garrett High School always rises to the occasion," said Woods. All funds raised will be donated to the Red Cross. Above, from left to right, are peer counselors Alex Barnard, Amber Bittinger, Amber Joseph, and Bryson Harvey. Below are students during the remembrance ceremony.

WOW DEDICATES FLAG AT NEW HALL — The dedication of a new United States flag was held Sunday afternoon at the nearly completed, new Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad headquarters, located along Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park. A number of elected officials were on hand for the celebration, which included a recognition of rescue volunteers, especially in light of the event date (Sept. 11). The new facility is not yet officially open, as there are a few more construction details to be finished. A ribbon-cutting will be held in the near future, a squad spokesperson noted. Delegate George Edwards, Mtn. Lake Park mayor Leo Martin, and all three county commissioners spoke briefly at the event, commending the volunteers who operate the squad, as well as all fire fighters. Local police agencies were also commended for their daily efforts. Oakland Police Chief John Sines, also the vice president of Woodmen of the World Lodge 11, served as the master of ceremonies. The Kingwood Young Marines took part, as shown above, providing an honor guard and demonstrating the proper way to fold a U.S. flag, while Ellen Zimmerman, WOW member, read the significance of each fold. It was then presented for raising to David Moon, president of the squad. Following the dedication, current members, past members, and the special guests shared a buffet dinner, which was followed by awards for various squad members. Photo by John McEwen.

Local Red Cross Helping Hurricane Katrina Victims

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross is actively involved in the efforts to bring aid and comfort to the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

More than 74,000 Red Cross volunteers and staff are currently meeting the challenges of helping thousands of disaster survivors in the Gulf States region, according to Bill Crawford, executive director of the regional chapter.

"That figure includes 12 local volunteers who have made time commitments of three weeks or longer, and who have already been deployed to the affected areas," he said.

Since Hurricane Katrina made landfall, the Red Cross has housed more than 207,000 survivors in more than 700 shelters across 24 states and the District of Columbia. Red Cross workers have served 7.6 million hot meals and more than 6.6 million snacks to date, and the figures are rising everyday, Crawford noted.

In addition, the caseworkers will also be assisting the evacuees with short- and long-term relocation assistance, replacement of prescription medicines, and mental health counseling, he added.

"Many area residents are conducting fundraisers to benefit the evacuees, and the chapter has already received nearly $50,000 in donations for the evacuees," Crawford said.

Area residents who wish to help in the relief effort should make a check payable to the American Red Cross, noted for the Hurricane Katrina Relief Fund, and send it to the chapter's headquarters at 400 Cumberland Street, Cumberland, MD 21502. To make a secure donation over the phone persons may call 1-800-HELP NOW, or visit online at redcross.org.

Crawford noted that the Red Cross is not able to accept donations of clothing and other household items because of space limitations, and because of the cost and logistics of accepting, sorting, transporting, and distributing donated goods.

"We ask Americans to send cash donations because they can be quickly and easily transmitted to the evacuees in the affected areas, who can then buy clothing that looks like what they wore before the disaster, in the correct sizes, and for the season," he said.

He went on to point out that giving disaster victims some control over their lives helps them regain their self-esteem, and aids them in returning to a sense of normalcy after the devastating losses they have incurred. And the added benefit is that the flow of cash into the region also aids the local economy, which is critical to the further recovery of their home towns.

Anyone wishing to find out more about the relief efforts, or wanting to become a volunteer, may contact the chapter at 301-334-3810, 304-788-3955, or 301-722-1760.

Classes for new volunteers who wish to help in the relief effort are being held in Baltimore every week, and it is expected that volunteers will be needed for at least the next few months, and possibly longer.

The American Red Cross is a member agency of the United Ways of the Potomac Highlands.

administer the Princeton Review formative assessments aligned with MSA (Maryland School Assessment) indicators four times annually.

The final new strategy is that all principals and appropriate central office staff will participate in ongoing staff development focused on data driven leadership.

Mullinix and McCartney also touched briefly on numerous goals that were outlined in the master plan.

One goal was to have all students taught by highly qualified teachers by 2005-06. According to the report, 90.9% of classes are taught by highly qualified teachers. This number increased from 85% the previous year. McCartney noted that this is a leading indicator for the state. "We are very pleased with this," she said. "We have quality education taught by quality educators."

Another goal is that all students will graduate from high school. The state set the AMO at 83.24%, and Garrett County students scored 85.34%.

"We are very pleased with the FARMS (Free And Reduced Meals) students," said Mullinix. "They scored 100% compared to 98.63% from the previous year."

In regard to the special education students, for 2004-05 the number was 76.6% compared to 68.42% for 2003-04.

"We have definitely been improving," said Mullinix. "We are just fine tuning our strategies."

McCartney said she thought these numbers were excellent. "This is amazing," she said. "This really shows our excellent instruction."

The graduation goal is also tied into the dropout rate, which is below the state average, according to the report. The state set the number at 3%, and Garrett County students scored 2.49%. Two goals were added to the master plan to help achieve the graduation rate and dropout rate goals of 100%.

The first strategy is to develop and pilot an out-of-school work-release program for special needs students. The second strategy is to have diagnostic prescriptive teachers identify special education students.

Another part of the report highlighted the students' performance on the High School Assessments in biology, government, and algebra.

All students performed above the state average in biology, although scores were slightly down from 2004, McCartney noted. Students also performed above the state average in algebra also. Students did score slightly below the previous year, but Mullinix pointed out that there was an overall state decline in algebra.

Mullinix said that she felt very comfortable with the scores of the government HSA. She noted that this coming year there may be a difference because the students will take government in 10th grade instead of 11th.

Reported Assault In Progress Leads To One Arrest

An arrest was made early this morning when police responded to a Deer Park Avenue residence for a reported assault in progress, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Bernice Steuber, 30, was arrested and charged with assault. Steuber was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Robotics Team Issues Challenge To Area Students

The Garrett County FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology) High School Robotics Team will host its first Garrett County Engineering Challenge (GCEC) on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 16. The event is open to students currently enrolled in grades 5 through 9.

Teams can be formed through schools, community organizations such as Girl or Boy Scouts, 4-H clubs, and home school groups, and must consist of a maximum of three students and at least one adult mentor.

The Robotics Team used the events it competed in last year as a model to structure the GCEC. Once the challenge is released, teams will have approximately one month to design and build a machine to be used in the challenge event on Oct. 16.

This year's challenge will be released by noon on Friday, Sept. 16, and can be viewed at www.ga.k12.md.us/garrettfirst.

The web site will contain official rules detailing the event and registration details. Registration is free, but limited to the first 30 teams received.

Flyers will be distributed to all Garrett County public schools. The competition will take place on the lawn beside the gymnasium on the campus of Garrett College.

For more information, persons may e-mail team-1629@ga.k12.md.us or call 301-334-8909.

FIRST is an organization that promotes science and technology through a variety of international robotics competitions for students ages 8 through high school.

The Garrett County High School Team (Number 1629) just completed its rookie year in the FIRST Robotics program.

More information about FIRST and its various programs can be found at www.usfirst.org.

Former Steeler Mel Blount To Speak At OutSpokin' Banquet

Former Pittsburgh Steeler cornerback Mel Blount will be the keynote speaker at the seventh annual OutSpokin' Banquet and Silent Auction benefiting the Maryland Salem Children's Trust on Saturday, Sept. 24, at Frostburg State University.

Set for 5 p.m. in the Lane Center, the silent auction will feature an autographed football donated by Blount as well as a variety of other items from local merchants. Also during the event, Blount will autograph official photographs (no memorabilia) for dinner guests. The meal will be served following the auction at 6 p.m.

Blount was drafted by the Steelers in 1970, following a stellar career in high school and college. By his third year in Pittsburgh, he was in the starting position at cornerback, which he held for the next 12 years, winning awards and setting records throughout. Playing in Super Bowls IX, X, XIII, and XIV, he missed only one of 200 games in his career and was inducted into the NFL Hall of Fame in 1989, his first year of eligibility.

Upon his retirement in 1983, Blount founded the Mel Blount Youth Home in his boyhood home of Vidalia, Ga. A second home in Claysville, near Pittsburgh, followed in 1989.

"The vision here is kids enjoying their childhood and learning about Christ, becoming educated, and really building a foundation to become great leaders for tomorrow," he noted.

"The Maryland Salem Children's Trust shares the vision for equipping children with the skills and tools for a life of faith, responsibility, and joy," said a Salem spokesperson.

Located on a 380-acre farm off Lower New Germany Road, Salem provides home, family, therapies, and education to children who have been abused, neglected, and abandoned. Salem School provides special education services to both Salem residents as needed and day students referred by the Garrett County Board of Education. Its programs are licensed and monitored by the Maryland State Department of Education and the Department of Human Resources. Salem is a United Way agency.

Tickets to the OutSpokin' event are $25 and include both the auction and dinner. For information or reservations, one may call 301-689-8176.

Evacuees Find

"Each coordinator will take the responsibility for mobilizing group sponsors for the evacuees who settle there. Call Moya at 1-800-WVHELPS if you are interested in playing this role."

According to reports, the camp may be able to transport most of the evacuees to more permanent housing in the next two to three weeks.

ALLEGED SEXUAL ASSAULT

The progress at the nearby military camp was disrupted late last week as two evacuees staying there were arrested following an alleged case of sexual assault against a 13-year-old girl. Damien Batiste, 24, was charged on Friday by West Virginia State Police with third degree sexual assault. His brother, Tyrone Batiste, 28, was charged with intimidation of a state witness, as he is alleged to have threatened the girl's family if they reported the incident.

This case was reportedly not the first at the camp since the arrival of the hurricane victims, as another woman accused a man of sexually assaulting her on the trip from New Orleans to Camp Dawson. This man was reported to be an illegal alien and was taken to Pittsburgh for federal processing.

VERIZON HELPS

The community in and around the camp has continued to offer support, goods, and monetary donations. This past weekend, at 4 a.m. on Saturday, Verizon was contacted and a request was made for some extra phone lines to help with the search for family members and for new housing. According to John White, a Verizon staff member, there were 50 free phone lines and phones installed at the camp by 10:30 p.m. that day, courtesy of the communications company.

Woman Charged

Bequette, 37, also of Frostburg (who was six months pregnant) – were flown to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Trooper 5, the Maryland State Police medevac helicopter. Two additional passengers – Westminster residents Anita Bullock, 64, and Robert Bullock, 68 – were transported to Cumberland Memorial by the Northern Rescue Squad and Frostburg Area Ambulance Service. The Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed by state police.

SHS Duo Place 10th In National Competition

Andrew Kight and Christopher Deem, 2005 graduates of Southern Garrett High School, placed 10th in the recent 2005 National Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) conference in Orlando, Fla. There were more than 5,800 students and advisers in attendance representing the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Kight and Deem began by competing as a team in the Desktop Publishing event at the Maryland State FBLA conference in April. There, they placed first, which qualified them for the national competition and conference. At the national competition and conference, they took a test relating to the Desktop Publishing field and placed 10th in the nation. There were over 50 teams competing in this particular event.

In addition to competing, Kight and Deem served as voting delegates representing Garrett County in the Eastern Region vice president elections. Students also had the opportunity to attend numerous motivational workshops on team building and leadership development.

Kight is the son of Frank and Susanne Kight, and is currently attending Clemson University. Deem, son of Carroll and Marsha Deem, is currently attending Pittsburgh Technical Institute.

FBLA is a nonprofit national organization for students who are interested in pursuing a career in the business and/or computer field. FBLA builds students' character, leadership skills, knowledge in business/technology subject areas, and enables them to be more competitive in the job market upon graduation.

Maria Zumpano-Lipscomb is the FBLA adviser at Southern High School.

Investigation Of Suspicious Vehicle Leads To Arrest

A New York resident was arrested after police investigated a suspicious vehicle parked at Keyser's Ridge Trading Post shortly after midnight Wednesday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Russell Lute, 32, Troupsburg, N.Y., was charged with driving on an out-of-state suspended license. After appearing before a District Court commissioner, he was released on $1,000 bond.

Not Apples to Apples...

U.S. District Judge Lawrence Karlton ruled yesterday that the reciting of the Pledge of Allegiance in public schools is unconstitutional, as it is his opinion that the words "one nation under God" violate students' rights to be "free from a coercive requirement to affirm God." The case will likely end up in the Supreme Court once again, having been tossed out the last time on what is described as "a technicality."

It is a fact that the Supreme Court itself begins each of its sessions with the phrase "God save the United States and this honorable court," and that Congress begins each session with a prayer. It is also true that the Declaration of Independence refers to God or to the Creator four different times, and that the federal government places the words "In God We Trust" on every coin and currency bill. To date none of these practices has been deemed unconstitutional, and there is certainly no plan that we know of to rewrite the Declaration of Independence or rule that it is unconstitutional.

However, it is also true that we are not exactly comparing apples to apples here, and the tendency of this writer (despite the fact that he considers himself a staunch Christian) is to agree, at least to a certain extent, with Judge Karlton. It is one thing to have the aforementioned words on our currency, and for elected and appointed bodies of adults to engage in prayer to God. But it is another thing to essentially force impressionable children to recite a pledge — which is a promise — that includes the absolute affirmation of the existence of a Creator, especially if they happen to belong to a family that does not believe in a deity. Reciting a pledge, or making a promise, is a highly personal, individual (not group) practice.

One of our great freedoms in this country is that of religion, and like it or not, citizens who elect not to subscribe to any religion at all are not only absolutely entitled to make that choice, but also to have the exact same rights as those of us who do believe in God.

Ruling the recitation of the pledge in schools as unconstitutional and forbidding it altogether, though, is overkill, and not fair to those students who believe our nation is indeed "under God." So it seems that a reasonable compromise would be that reciting of the pledge in schools should not be prohibited, but should be 100% voluntary. Students whose parents object to the words "under God" could simply stand for the pledge and either not recite it at all, or recite the pledge and omit those two words.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Imus, on the MSNBC show every morning, mentioned that the director of the Red Cross earns $500,000 a year. It doesn't seem right for a salary to be so high for a program designed to help others. This is more than the president earns.

I would like to know if the TV stations are donating their air time to the Red Cross, or are funds being used for it.

It is sad to hear that homeless people and poor people are giving to the Katrina hurricane victims only to help pay the director's salary. These people were emptying their pockets of what little change they had.

I am giving to the Katrina hurricane disaster relief through Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, which is offering a matching gifts program, so not only will my gift go directly to the hurricane victims, it will be matched by 50¢ on every dollar donated.

The director of the Thrivent Financial for Lutherans may have a huge salary, but their program is designed to pay for salaries rather than take it from funds collected.

Sincerely,
Charlotte Harkins
Swanton

To the Editor:

I would like to recognize Garrett County Memorial Hospital for a job well done recently while I was a patient there.

I had never been admitted to a hospital before although I had been in many as a visitor. To quote a famous Led Zeppelin song, "Don't let them tell you that they're all the same." Our area should be d--- proud of the work that these health care professionals are providing. I not only received above standard care, but also received it from an honest and extremely knowledgeable staff.

The camaraderie between workers, no matter what department, made the experience a pleasant one. I felt as though a family were taking care of me like I was a long lost cousin. Even the food was above standard (I know, you're saying that I must have had great pain killers), but seriously, nutrition is a pillar to good health.

Although the hospital is the last place people want to check into, take great comfort that we have the best individuals in our area striving for your well-being.

Lastly, I would like to thank the entire 3rd-floor staff, especially Dr. Walch, nurses Martha and Brenda, and the wonderful nurses aides! Raise your heads high, because you deserve it.

Recovering nicely,
Colin Finan

To the Editor:

We are being hosed, not flushed. How can you put a price on something if you do not know how much you need, much less the total number of people who have to pay?

Two-thirds of the land area in Garrett County drains westward to the Gulf of Mexico. My land is west of the Backbone and Meadow mountains, which mark the Eastern Continental Divide. If government can prove 100% that water from my farm drains to the Chesapeake Bay, then I will pay.

The county commissioners will not say no to any Chesapeake Bay funding, as they have and will continue to receive money from bay projects.

The finger was first pointed at agriculture and timber; now it's at everyone. I point the finger at the Port of Baltimore. Of course, that is not for the greater good of the state. The channel has to be dredged, but where is the dredge going? Are the ships checked to see if their ballast tanks are empty before entering the bay? Are you 100% sure? These ships bring non-indigenous species (NIS) into the bay, which have and continue to have an effect on bay life. Know all the facts before imposing a tax and penalties.

All I ask for is honesty in government, and hope the intelligence level matches the salary of decision makers.

Sonny Newhall

To the Editor:

September is designated the 16th annual National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month. This is a federal initiative designed to help local communities celebrate the victories that individuals make through recovery from alcohol and other drugs.

The theme for this 16th annual event is "Healing Lives, Families, and Communities." As in years past, September is set aside to recognize the advances made in substance abuse treatment and to help continue to support individuals and their families in their recovery process. When we observe Recovery Month, it demonstrates that alcohol and drug addiction are treatable illnesses.

Garrett County is indeed fortunate to have the support of the entire local community in its recovery efforts. Our substance abuse program personnel work closely with our local government officials, law enforcement agencies, the judicial system, social services, and other agencies to continue to support those who suffer from these treatable diseases. Any member of the community who has specific questions or needs assistance toward a personal recovery is asked to call us at 301-334-7670.

Respectfully,
T. Brooke Schneider, LPC, MAC
Director of Behavioral Health
Garrett County Health Department

To the Editor:

Gasoline prices are out of control. We as American citizens should contact our local representatives (who can be replaced at the time of election) and start voicing our opinion(s). Gasoline companies are blaming it on politicians and politicians are blaming it on the companies, and on the recent Hurricane Katrina, and before that, the blame was placed on the war (that President Bush declared was over a year ago) in Iraq. What is it?

I don't know who is to blame, but I know that I, as a disabled American, who lives from month-to-month and check-to-check, can no longer afford gasoline for my car that I need in this rural area to go get groceries, to go to my doctor appointments, to go to church, and so on. I don't see how the "working class" can make it either. They're paying out as much as they earn, in order to pay for gasoline. Why not stock up on what we need for a few weeks (like we do in a major snowstorm), call it a "state of emergency," with only policemen and other needed personnel on the roads, and cut back on buying gasoline? With the supply greater than the demand, prices would lower.

It's terrible that our neighbors in Louisiana and Mississippi and surrounding areas are suffering from diseases, no water, no food, no homes, and so on, but how can we assist them if it's taking all of our money to pay for gasoline?

To the Editor:

The August 18 Republican contained my letter regarding our property located on Backbone Mountain and my family's high regard for the land, woods, and clean air.

The August 26 Republican contained a letter from a couple from Morgantown, W.Va., who indicated in their initial sentence that my letter was "riddled with misinformation."

Had this couple read the letter a bit more carefully they would have noticed that the only "contestable" bit of information was that "we all see the results of acid rain on plants, and even on our vehicles as they corrode away. "The rest of the letter dealt with "uncontestable" items, like how long we have owned the property, my kids love the place, we live in Montgomery County (MARYLAND), and we feel wind plants would be a good thing–hardly "misinformation" as these West Virginia residents implied. I might suggest that they spend their good efforts on their state, as West Virginia needs their constructive advice a bit more than Maryland. I can say this with first-hand knowledge, as we also own property in West Virginia.

Possibly the wind farms will not solve the problems we have, but it will be a first step on a long journey. Generally, every journey starts with a first step. Let's take this one and be doing something, as opposed to nothing. I wish our neighbors in Morgantown well, and hopefully steps like these will keep them well for years to come.

Sincerely,
Bob and B.J. Lindgren

To the Editor:

A big thank you to a group of local residents who stood ready to serve the hurricane Katrina evacuees now housed at Camp Dawson in Preston County. Last week I began an effort to go to Camp Dawson to offer some yoga sessions for kids and adults. It's not much, but it is what I know how to do. I called Carol Calhoun (All Earth Eco Tours) to see if she wanted to join me. With enthusiasm she and her husband Crede offered all the resources of their business to take to Camp Dawson an intergenerational activity program including arts and crafts, face painting, drum making, drumming sessions, and more. For the next three days Carol and I took turns placing calls, waiting for return calls, and lining up a group of volunteers so we could reach as many as possible of the 400 or so displaced people at the camp.

Each person we spoke with from the Red Cross as well as at Preston County Health Department thought our plan to have great merit, but we would need to get final approval from "one more source." Our scheduled time to depart Garrett County had been tentatively set for 6 p.m. Friday. Accompanying our local volunteers would be 20 men from the leadership program at Morgan State, who were in Garrett County for a weekend training with All Earth.

At 5:30 p.m. I finally got a call through to a gentleman who apologized for not calling me back as promised and said the program could not take place. I thank all of you who stood ready to go on Friday evening. Thank you for your spirit of generosity and willingness. "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Accident

To the Editor:

I am so glad that President Bush has called for a day of prayer. I'm sure we're all happy to continue. I know one of my prayers has been answered already, now that the president has taken responsibility for some of the delays in getting help to the victims. After all, he appointed the highly un-qualified Mr. Brown. And, that appointment was criticized at the time, even before his bogus resume was revealed. Then the president was so out of touch with the mess around him that he praised Brown on the spot. Finally Brown resigned, saving us from one of Bush's weaker character traits–the inability to fire someone who is doing harm to the system.

Bush appears to be unrealistically loyal to friends and political supporters but lacking in loyalty to the principles of democracy, which include dissent, disagreement, debate, and more importantly, do no harm to the systems that support and protect the citizens and our way of life.

I'm praying for Congress, too, and for all those in responsible positions who need to own up to the fact that they, along with FEMA, made mistakes in judgment. People died, their lives are hugely disrupted, our economy is struggling–and what is the spin we hear? "Don't play the blame game. First we support and repair." Can these folks not do more than one thing at a time? I'd hate to see them as parents coordinating a household. Don't we teach our children to accept blame for the mistakes they make, take responsibility as part of learning and growing, and at the same time clean up the mess together as we move on? Why do I suspect that those who duck responsibility now are counting on our tendency to have short memories and to be too distracted by surviving the cost of fuel and gas and life itself to stay on their case?

The American people do have short memories and give too much trust. It's a matter of principle. Congress set up the Department of Homeland Security so they should make it right. And, the president should be more responsible in his hiring and firing and staying in touch with more than just spin and public relations.

Sincerely,
Cynthia Knight

To the Editor:

As your readers know, the Senate Judiciary Committee began confirmation hearings for the vacant chief justice seat this past Monday.

These hearings can be seen in their entirety, punditfree via C-Span (the only truly unadulterated channel for political news) and will be re-broadcast several times throughout the day. Live video streaming and satellite radio are other options for those folks who want to plug-&-play for up-to-the-minute information.

Not only is John Roberts, President Bush's nominee for chief justice, on the proverbial hot seat during these hearings, so are the senators who occupy positions on this very prestigious committee as well as those on the sidelines fueling sidebar conversation.

Civic-minded citizens will pay attention to these hearings and take the time to weigh in, first via communication with U.S. elected officials expressing their perspectives on the hearings, and then later, via their votes in future election cycles. Candidate platforms for Maryland's upcoming elected posts, while generally having very peripheral impact on broad-based federal decision-making, should also be examined, as these elected officials often organize grassroots efforts and do the backdoor caucusing for nominees for future political appointments at every level.

Filling the two vacant positions on the Supreme Court will be among the greatest, if not the greatest, political decision to be made in the 21st century. And, only a Pollyanna would believe decorum and reason will prevail over the next few months of hearings. This process will not be for the faint-of-heart nor thin-skinned, as the fracas will be high. However, maybe, just maybe, the fragile world-scene coupled with the American tragedies over the past few weeks will act to blunt otherwise sharp tongues and subdue ideologues.

The American public deserves full disclosure and complete transparency to set stage for thoughtful discussions during these very key political times. The American public must see that these proceedings serve their interests and not special interests. Making sure that our civil liberties, including our right to privacy, are protected and that the balance of powers are maintained is crucial–our future depends upon it.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

After Hurricane Katrina devastated the Gulf Coast, millions of Americans donated money (a fine and noble way to help those affected). Some of us who wanted desperately to help simply did not have the money to spare.

Pam Schroth and Teresa Baker organized a massive effort to get needed items donated to shelters in Texas and Mississippi. From Pam's garage in Accident everything was loaded into vans, cars, and trucks and taken to Marvin Murphy's garage in Grantsville, where it was picked up this week!

Thanks to Tri Con for donating the dump truck to carry a full load to Grantsville.

Thanks to the staff and management at Perkins in McHenry for donating items.

A big thank-you to the parents and children at Pam's Curtain Climbers daycare who donated so many items that it was impossible for Pam to park her car in her garage! Teresa spent much of an evening hauling things from Pam's in Accident to the pick-up point in Grantsville.

A special thank-you to the staff, parents, and students of Broad Ford Elementary. The amount of clothing, toys, cleaning supplies, diapers, wipes, water, etc., you collected in only four days was astounding. You filled the stage at the school and beyond!

Thanks to Kenny and Hunter Schroth, Jessica Baker, and her friend and Tyler Masters, who helped unload all the trucks in Accident.

Thank you also to Don Sincell and Helen Schrock, who helped load the trucks. Thank you to Teresa Browning, and Alex and Amy Flanigan, who not only helped load all the stuff onto four pickup trucks, but also drove them to Accident and unloaded them.

Thanks to Lynne Elmlinger, who sorted the mountain of items, loaded and unloaded the trucks and also drove to Accident.

Thanks to Austin Browning, D.J. and Brooklynn Flanigan, and Joe Louie who gave up the better part of a Friday evening to help load and unload the trucks.

And finally, a huge thank you to Suzie Sincell, principal of Broad Ford. She supported this idea, ran off a list of items for every student to take home, offered the stage as storage, loaded and unloaded the items at the school and Accident, and drove a truck to Accident as well. We could not have done it without you!

As result of all of this generosity, it is quite possible that we have filled an entire tractor-trailer, with things left over!

Thanks again to everyone who gave.

With appreciation and admiration,
Emily Elmlinger

To the Editor:

Your editorial of Sept. 8 stated "Try as they might, a large segment of the media has evidently failed in shredding the Bush administration for its alleged slow response to last week's hurricane disaster on the Gulf Coast, as a poll conducted this week by CNN indicates only 13% of the American public is blaming the White House for what did seem like a dawdling, disorganized effort. A much larger number of those polled level the blame at state and local officials..."

Oh yeah? I read the CNN poll and found there was a little more to the story. The same poll you quote found that 42% of respondents characterized President Bush's response to the disaster as "bad" or "terrible," while 35% said it was "good" or "great." According to a Newsweek poll just released, President Bush's personal approval number has plunged to 38%, the low point of his presidency. Only 28% are satisfied with the way things are going in the country, and, most telling of all, 52% say they do not trust the president "to make the right decisions during a domestic crisis."

I completely agree with your assertion that we must remained primarily focused at this time on assisting those in most need, but to not start quickly examining why these failures occurred only invites more problems. In several years of reading your newspaper I have been

by Jo Donaldson

Carly Chase, a senior at Northern High School, is doing her part to help the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Watching the news every morning with her mom, she saw pictures of what people were going through.

A part-time employee at the Creamery, she went to her employer, Bill Meagher, with the idea of putting out a bucket at each location for donations. One was placed at the Creamery, one at the Café, and one at the Popcorn factory. As of last week, the buckets had already raised more than $600.

"We made a lot of money," said Chase, who is not sure how long they will keep the buckets out. "They need the help now. We have to get things down there to them now."

Meagher is proud of Chase's efforts and pledged to match funds raised. He said one of his customers also offered to match some of the money raised.

"If we make enough, we may give some to Red Cross and some to the things going on at Camp Dawson," Chase said. "We plan to give it to a variety of charities."

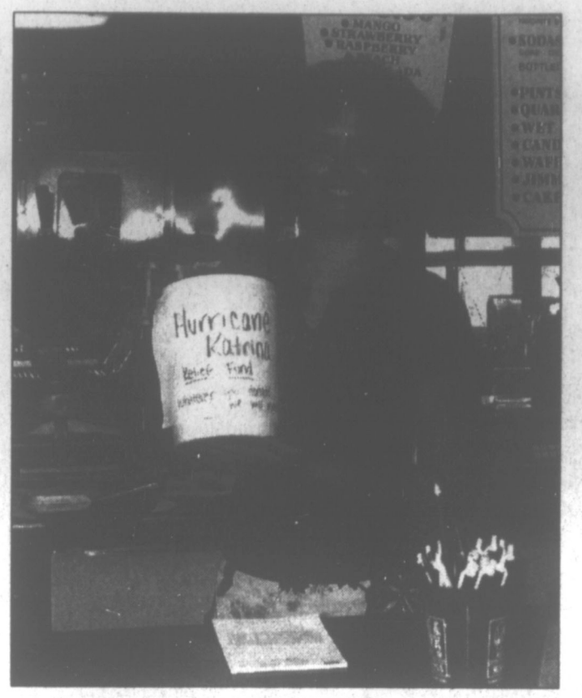
The Grantsville resident also is involved in fundraising at Northern High, where money is being collected during lunch periods, probably until September 30, she said. "All that money will go through the school and be sent to the Red Cross. Almost all the schools in Maryland are doing something like this."

A member of the Student Council and yearbook staff, Chase also is involved in Best Buddies and plays volleyball.

"We are proud of what our young people are doing," said Charlie Ross, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and himself an NHS graduate. "These young people may be our future, but they also are a very important part of our present."

Ross also expressed pride that members of the business community in Garrett County as well as churches and civic organizations are doing their part to help victims of Hurricane Katrina.

Volunteers, working with the Red Cross, also raised $5,000 at the Sept. 2 Little Yough Music Festival season-closing concert by the Remedy, which helped promote that fundraising effort.



AMONG THE MANY EFFORTS taking place locally to alleviate the suffering of those displaced by Hurricane Katrina is a relief fund collection taking place at the two Creamery locations and the Popcorn Factory. Creamery employee Carly Chase (shown above), a senior Student Council member at Northern High School, is coordinating the collection effort, which is being matched by her employer Bill Meagher and a regular customer as well. As of last week, the buckets had already raised more than $600. See story.

Witnesses Report Accident, Police Charge Driver

An Oakland man was arrested after two witnesses reported a motor vehicle accident in the Gorman Road area Sunday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

They reported that while camping off Gorman road they heard an accident occur and observed a damaged passenger car leaving the scene. The campers followed the damaged vehicle to the Loch Lynn area, according to police.

A deputy reported to the scene of the accident and observed grooves in the pavement left behind by the vehicle. The grooves led from the accident scene around Bethlehem Road to Pleasant View Drive in Loch Lynn, where the vehicle was located. The reported stated that he vehicle was extremely damaged and was missing the front passenger side tire, which explained the grooves in the roadway.

Mark Lewis Riley, 38, was arrested after failing field sobriety tests. He was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, driving while impaired (DWI), leaving the scene of an accident, and negligent driving. He was later released.

In other police news, Donald Owen Crowe, 55, Lonaconing, was arrested for drunk driving after deputies stopped his 1995 Dodge van at the Avilton Inn off Avilton-Lonaconing Road for speeding.

After failing field sobriety tests, he was charged with DUI, DWI, and speed greater than reasonable. He was later released.

New Mexico Man Faces Assault, FTA Charges

Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack jailed a New Mexico man Friday night after being summoned to a reported assault at an East Main Street residence in Grantsville.

Christopher Michael Martinez, 20, Aztec, allegedly shoved and slammed the victim onto a couch. Police stated that he was intoxicated at the time of the 10:50 p.m. incident.

In addition to the second-degree assault charge, Martinez faces a failure to appear (FTA) charge that stems from a pre-existing arrest warrant filed when he allegedly left the scene of a motor vehicle accident.

Martinez is being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on $20,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner.

In other arrests made by state troopers, a Sunday traffic stop on Interstate 68 near Friendsville resulted in the arrest of two individuals on drug charges.

Michael R. Johnson, 21, with residences listed in Bridgeport, W.Va., and Dunellen, N.J., and his passenger, Tina M. Conanan, 19, Dunellen, were stopped for speeding in the eastbound lanes near Sand Spring Road at 11:23 a.m. When the trooper detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana and observed drug-related paraphernalia in plain view in the car, he undertook a search that revealed a marijuana cigarette, a smoking device, and other paraphernalia.

Both Johnson and Conanan were arrested on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges, and were later released when each posted a $2,000 bond.

PREPARING FOR ANNUAL HARVEST SALE – Swan Meadow School students are finishing posters for the PTO's 56th annual Harvest Sale, which will be held Friday, Sept. 23, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, south of Oakland off Rt. 219 along Joni Miller Road. Doughnuts, homemade caramels, fudge, cinnamon rolls, taffy, apple cider, taco salads, and hot dogs will be on sale starting at 5:30 p.m. Students will sing at 6:45 p.m., and the auction of local farm produce, homemade items, and some "famous" baked goods will begin at 7 p.m.

generally pleased that you often present a balanced prospective on the present administration, though with a clear bias toward the GOP. However, recent editorials seem to reflect a growing defense of the President, in spite of increasing evidence of his incompetence in handling the job. Are we seeing a "circling of the wagons" by you and others who simply refuse to accept the possibility that President Bush has been a failure, both abroad and here at home?

If any good should come out this horrible tragedy, I hope it is the realization that the "survival of the fittest" and "let them eat cake" approach to governing preached for so long by the Republican Party has been a disaster for many in our society and it is time to discard those failed policies. We must, for the sake of this nation and the vital role America plays on the world stage, move from a focus on serving private interests to ensuring the public good.

Dear Mr. Lambert,

Perhaps you missed the following sentence in the same editorial: "Perhaps investigation will show that the Bush administration is to blame for some, or much, of what may have been a slow response time."

LAST CHANCE TO GIVE YOUR OPINION ON 19 MORE WIND TURBINES FOR BACKBONE MOUNTAIN

The Maryland Public Service Commission (PSC) has already approved 40 wind turbines for Clipper Windpower on Backbone Mountain north from US 50. The PSC is planning to hold a public hearing at the Southern High School Auditorium on Thursday, Sept. 22, 2005, at 7 p.m. on the proposal of Synergics Wind Energy LLC to build 19 more wind turbines on Backbone Mountain south from U.S. Route 50. Each turbine will reach 423 feet in height, have blade lengths of 144 feet and a "blade sweep area" 50% larger than the area of a football field.

You may not have felt included in the approval process, but the application was posted 6/30/2004, and given the full support and approval of the Garrett County Commissioners on 9/21/2004. Three days of hearings are being held in Baltimore City, Sept. 14-16, 2005. The details of the PSC activities can be reviewed on the web at www.psc.state.md.us, select"Document Room," then "Case Files," then enter case file # 9008 for Synergics project and select (Clipper is Case File 8938). Even this month, 6 new documents have been posted.

What are your concerns?

Tourism - Will more of these turbines promote Tourism?

Jobs - Are two long-term jobs a good trade-off for the costs and the adverse effects?

Property Rights - Does your neighbor have the right to build these structures near their property line and create visual, noise and flickering light effects onto your property, reducing the value of your property for recreation, tourism, or human habitation? Neither the PSC nor our county can/will mandate setbacks.

Corporate Welfare - This corporation will get an estimated $20 million in "tax credits" for this project— that means they will pay that much less in taxes on profits they make, leaving others to pay the taxes needed to run the government, fight terrorism, etc. With all the tax breaks, will Synergics pay the amount of local taxes they have promised?

Energy Crisis - Do you believe that the power generated by these turbines will assure that you will have electricity as the energy crisis worsens? The Mt. Storm Power Plant can generate in less than two days the power that would be generated by this project in one year, and at a lower price. We are served by the "PJM Network," the electricity pool that serves our county and several of our large Atlantic coast states. Electricity from this project would contribute 3/1000ths of one percent of the total of this pool. Would a new "clean" coal plant be a better balance of benefit, cost, and disruption of the environment?

Global Warming - We could shut the Mt. Storm power plant down if we only had 2000 of these turbines, and if we could tell the wind when to blow. Conventional power plants generate electricity at the times when the power is needed. The Mt. Storm plant (or other fossil fuel facility) would have to keep running to be ready for all the hours of the day when people want power and the wind isn't blowing enough.

Economic Development, Effects on Birds, Bats and Endangered Species - What are your concerns?

Whatever your opinion, come and present it to the Public Service Commission on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7 p.m., at the Southern High School Auditorium.

REV. CELO V. LEITZEL

REV. CELO V. LEITZEL

The Rev. Celo Vincent Leitzel, 79, Selinsgrove, Pa., joined the church triumphant at 10:57 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 10, 2005, in the Williamsport Hospital, where he was admitted the day prior as a surgical patient.

A native of Richfield, Pa., he was born Sept. 12, 1925, and was a son of the late Paul V. and Orpha (Graybill) Leitzel. On May 30, 1953, he married the former Doris May Snyder, who preceded him in death on Dec. 22, 1999.

He was a 1943 graduate of Freeburg High School. The Rev. Leitzel furthered his education at Susquehanna University and graduated summa cum laude in 1945.

After graduation from the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia (Mount Airy) in 1948, he served on the Mount Airy Seminary faculty, teaching English Bible (Old and New Testament), Christian Education, and New Testament Greek. At the same time, he served on the faculty of the Lutheran Deaconess School of the Philadelphia Motherhouse and was supply pastor for St. Andrew's Lutheran Church, Summit Lawn.

Following his marriage in 1953, Pastor Leitzel began to serve the Muddy Creek Parish (Center, Bergstrasse and Muddy Creek churches) in Lancaster County. From 1958 to 1965 he served the Wolf's Cross Roads Parish (Em-manuel, St. Elias, and Eden churches) near Sunbury. During his pastorate, these congregations merged to be-come the United Lutheran Church of Sunbury.

From 1965 to 1974, he was pastor of First Lutheran Church, Selinsgrove, which merged with Trinity Lutheran Church to form Sharon Lutheran Church during his pastorate. From 1974 to 1981 he was pastor of the Eastern Snyder County Lutheran Parish (Kratzerville, Middlecreek Dam, Freeburg, and Grubb's churches).

During five of those years he served as supervising pastor for seminary interns from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg. From 1981 until the end of 1987, the Rev. Leitzel had served as pastor of the Salem Lutheran Parish (Salem Church, RR1 Selinsgrove, and St. Peter's Church, Kreamer.)

Since coming to the Sunbury-Selinsgrove area in 1958, he served as a lecturer for six semesters at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, in Old and New Testament and Introduction to Christianity courses. Pastor Leitzel served the Central Pennsylvania Synod and the Sunbury District of the Lutheran Church in America as a member of the executive board of the Synod, member and chairman of the Board of Home Missions and Parish Development, and dean of the Sunbury District (which consists of 31 Lutheran congregations in Northumberland, Snyder, Perry, and Juniata counties.) He had been a delegate to the Lutheran Church in America conventions in Detroit, Pittsburgh, and Kansas City.

He also served as president of the Lutheran Pastoral Association of Sunbury and vicinity, a member of the Sunbury District Cabinet, chairman of the Sunbury District Task Force on Mission and Strategy, and a member of the advisory council of the Buffalo Valley Lutheran Village Nursing Center, Lewisburg. He had been active in community affairs as chairman of the Snyder County Board of Assistance, a member of the Drug and Alcohol Planning and Implementation Council of Columbia, Montour, Snyder, and Union counties (Governor's Council on Drug and Alcohol Abuse,) secretary and president of the Selinsgrove Area Ministerium, and member of the Snyder County Bicentennial Commission (chair-man of the subcommittee on church observances).

Pastor Leitzel authored articles for The Lutheran Quarterly, The Parish School Magazine, The Luther League Review, Light for Today, a devotional booklet, and the Augsburg Uniform Sunday School Lesson Series or the Home.

He pursued graduate studies at Mount Airy Seminary and the University of Pennsylvania, in New Testament studies, religious thought and education. Since his retirement in 1987, Pastor Leitzel served St. Paul's (Leininger's) and Zion (Arbogast's) Lutheran churches in RR2, Mount Pleasant Mills, for over 15 years. In June of 1993, he was the recipient of the Henry Melchoir Muhlenberg Medal, presented by the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, in recognition of his 40 years of exemplary service in ordained ministry.

Pastor Leitzel formally retired from the ministry in September 2003. He was a member and pastor emeritus at St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church, Richfield.

Rev. Leitzel was an avid reader and kept current with world and local news events through CNN and MSN. He had a passion for preaching the gospel, and through his love of the English language, he delivered his teachings and sermons with a poetic quality.

Surviving are four children: two sons, Lowell L. Leitzel of Oakland and Lindsey L. Leitzel of Lockport, N.Y.; two daughters and sons-in-law, Lois L. and Douglas Moser of Boothwyn, Pa., and Laureen L. and Raymond J. Baldwin of Linwood, Pa.; five grandchildren, Brian M. and Craig V. Baldwin, and Sarah E., Amanda K. and Emily R. Moser; and one sister and brother-in-law, Lura J. and Lloyd Sollenberger of Everett.

Family, friends, and colleagues will gather for the viewing from 6 to 9 p.m. Friday evening, Sept. 16, at St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church, Richfield, where a Service of Christian Burial will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday, with the Rev. Andrew C. Weaver officiating, and Bishop A. Donald Main, Upper Susquehanna Synod ELCA, assisting. Following the evening viewing, the casket will be closed.

Burial will follow the service in the Richfield Union Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorial gifts may be directed in loving memory of Rev. Leitzel to St. John Evangelical Lutheran Church, Endowment Fund, c/o Mr. George Snyder, Treas., RR1, Box 1008, Richfield, PA 17086.

Funeral arrangements were entrusted to the George P. Garman Funeral Home Inc., Mount Pleasant Mills, Pa.

DR. ARNOLD G. McGREEVY

DR. ARNOLD G. McGREEVY

Dr. Arnold Gerard "Gerry" McGreevy, 65, Braddock Heights and Deep Creek Lake, died Saturday, Sept. 10, 2005, at the Georgetown University Hospital, Washington, D.C.

Born Oct. 5, 1930, in Cumberland, he was a son of the late Dominic Arnold and Mary McGreevy. He was also preceded in death by one brother, John McGreevy.

He graduated from LaSalle High School, Cumberland, and attended Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, where he graduated with a bachelor of science degree in biology in 1961. The University of Maryland Dental School awarded him a degree of doctor of dental surgery in 1965. He later served in the U.S. Navy from 1965 to 1967.

Dr. McGreevy had been employed in private practice in Frederick since 1967. He was a member of the Frederick County Dental Society and served as its president in 1971 and again in 1996, and served on the executive committee from 1968 to 1976 and from 1995 through 1997, as well as on numerous other committees. A member of the Maryland State Dental Association, he served on the board of governors from 1974 through 1981, and also on numerous committees, including serving as president-elect from 1997 to 1998, and as president of the Maryland Dental Association in 1998.

Professionally, he was also a member of the American Dental Association and was a fellow of the American College of Dentists in the Pierre Fauchard Academy. He was also a member of the International College of Dentists. He was honored in 2001 as recipient of the Thomas S. Eader Award for outstanding service to the profession of dentistry.

He was also involved in many community activities. He was a member of the Rotary Club of Frederick and served as president from 1988 to 1989. He also coached and officiated in the Middletown Valley Athletic Association, served as cub master for the Boy Scouts, and was president of the Middletown middle and high school PTAs. He also served as president of the Sports Booster Club of Middletown High School. He was active in the Mount Saint Mary's Club since 1985.

Dr. McGreevy served on the land acquisition committee and fund development committee of the Holy Family Catholic Church, Middletown, where he was an active member and served on the parish board.

He is survived by his wife, K. Joyce Mullan McGreevy, whom he married Aug. 31, 1963; five children, Maureen Kathryn McGreevy, Houston, Texas, Michael Gerard McGreevy, Martinsburg, W.Va., Matthew Christopher McGreevy, Frederick, Mark Patrick McGreevy, Middletown, and Martin Andrew McGreevy, London, England; one brother, Patrick B. McGreevy, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and three grandchildren.

The family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today, Thursday, Sept. 15, at the Keeney and Basford Funeral Home, Frederick.

A service will be held at 10 a.m. on Friday at the Holy Family Catholic Community, Middletown.

A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated by Father J. Kevin Farmer.

Interment will be in Mount Saint Mary's Cemetery, Emmitsburg.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorial donations be directed to the Bishop Walsh School, 700 Bishop Walsh Road, Cumberland, MD 21502.

KITZMILLER STUDENTS HELP RECYCLE – With the help of a grant, Kim Madigan of the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division has given all schools in Garrett County recycling bins for office classroom paper. "This will, in part, help our students understand the importance of recycling and saving our environment from unnecessarily filling the landfill," said Madigan. Kitzmiller students are pictured above. "Kitzmiller School and community would like to extend a special thanks to Kim and the landfill staff for helping all of us to achieve this goal," said a school spokesperson.

Coalfields For Katrina Fund Seeks Donations

The Coalfields for Katrina fund has been established by Pioneer Conveyor, located in the Southern Garrett Business & Technology Park, and in association with the Salvation Army and the West Virginian Council of Churches. They are seeking monetary donations.

All donations, which are tax deductible, will be used to purchase bulk items that will be hauled to Mississippi at the beginning of next week. Pioneer Conveyor has donated the truck, and Larry Wagner Trucking has donated the trailer for this trip.

"We plan on having the trailer packed full of supplies to take to those in need," said a spokesperson.

The spokesperson added that any monies received beyond what is needed to fill the truck will be split between the Salvation Army and the West Virginia Council of Churches.

Donations may be dropped off at the Pioneer Conveyor office located in the business and tech park on Resource Avenue or by visiting ww.wvcc.org. Donors should click on the contribution/donation section and fill out the form. In the comment box they must write Coalfields for Katrina to make sure the donation is directed to that fund.

For more information, persons may call 606-422-9500 or 301-334-8186.

BUSINESS DONATES TO KATRINA VICTIMS – Black Bear Tavern & Restaurant at Deep Creek Lake held a fundraiser over Labor Day weekend, resulting in a $750 donation to help the victims of Hurricane Katrina. "We normally fundraise with the Maryland State Police for the Special Olympics of Maryland, but after seeing the devastation in New Orleans and the Gulf Coast area, and watching the heroic efforts by law enforcement, fire, and military personnel, we decided to do a special fundraiser," said Keith Handyside, Black Bear owner. "Our original goal was to help the Red Cross, but we changed our donation to the New Orleans Police Foundation after seeing a story by Dr. Phil about the emotional and physical hardships of those involved in the rescue and cleanup operation in New Orleans. Additionally, we wanted to see that our money went directly to an organization that our small donation could directly affect." He added that Black Bear will continue to hold fundraisers throughout the year to raise money for Special Olympics of Maryland, culminating with the Deep Creek Dunk and Post Dunk Party on Feb. 25, 2006. Pictured with Handyside is Kathy Hall, Black Bear general manager.

Meeting Set By Moms In Touch

Moms in Touch will hold an informational meeting on Monday, Sept. 19, at 7 p.m. at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Accident-Bittinger Road near Accident.

Moms in Touch is a nondenominational prayer group that meets once a week to pray for children, schools, teachers, and administrators.

In addition, anyone who is interested in starting a group for the middle and high schools in the northern end of the county is asked to contact Christine Brenneman at 301-895-5191 or jbren@mindspring.com.

First People's Is Red Cross Collection Site

First People's Community Federal Credit Union of Allegany, Mineral, and Garrett counties has been designated as a cash collection site for the American Red Cross to assist the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

For more information, persons may contact any branch office or call 301-784-3000.

COUNTRY FEST DEEMED A SUCCESS – Despite the cool, rainy weather, the recent 12th annual Country Fest and Auction at the Garrett County Fairgrounds was financially the most successful to date, grossing more than $60,000, according to an event spokesperson. "While attendance was down slightly and the rides and ice cream booths had less activity, other indoor venues were busy," she said. "The auction building was well filled, especially during the quilt auction." One quilt, called "Tree of Life," alone garnered nearly $4,000. The average price paid for the 22 queen and/or king size quilts that were available was $1,190. Pictured above are Glen and Jesse Maust displaying one of the many other items that were available to bidders. Below, a little tyke competes in the pedal tractor pull. Proceeds from the Country Fest benefit the Bittinger Mennonite Church's building program and school. In addition, 10 percent of the proceeds goes to Christian Aid Ministries, a Mennonite relief agency. Next year's event is set for Aug. 26.

Md. Seat Belt Use Rate Is One Of Nation's Highest

Maryland motorists are buckling up in record numbers, giving the state one of the highest seat belt compliance rates in the country, Gov. Ehrlich announced yesterday. Ninety-one percent of Maryland motorists are now using their seat belts as they travel, a full 2 percent increase over last year's seat belt usage, according to the Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA).

This means that 100,000 additional Marylanders are buckling up. That figure represents nearly the entire seating capacity of the Baltimore Ravens' M&T Bank Stadium and Oriole Park at Camden Yards combined.

"Buckling your seat belt can be the difference between life and death," Ehrlich said. "While we are pleased that we have surpassed the 90 percent mark in Maryland, we must remain focused and continue to treat traffic safety as a very serious public health and law enforcement issue. Our ultimate goal is to save lives. Buckling your seat belt is one of the most effective ways to do it."

To convince those still not wearing their seat belt, the governor issues the message "Buckle up Maryland" in a new television public service announcement (PSA). The PSA features an SHA employee who was propelled into a guardrail and down an embankment after being struck by a tractor-trailer. His smashed and shattered vehicle illustrates the severity of the crash. A converted seat-belt user, the employee not only survived the crash but was home with his family that same day. The PSA will air later this month.

"Educational efforts such as these complement Maryland's strong seat belt law, which allows for primary enforcement of seat belt violations, along with a comprehensive enforcement and educational campaign," said an SHA spokesperson.

A primary enforcement seat belt law allows police officers to stop a vehicle if the driver or a front-seat passenger is not wearing a seat belt. Maryland is one of 21 states, including the District of Columbia, with this type of law.

This year's campaign also features the use of overhead variable message signs on state highways, which help to enhance awareness of the campaign and the need for seat belt use.

"Even though 91 percent of Maryland's motoring pubic are buckling up, we are very concerned about the remaining 9 percent who continue to jeopardize their safety each and every time they ride in a motor vehicle," said Col. H. Frederick Keeney, president of the Maryland Chiefs of Police Association and chief of the Mount Rainer Police Department.

Maryland's seat belt usage results were obtained from observational surveys conducted at more than 100 sites throughout the state, according to SHA. Passenger car occupants were observed to buckle up 92 percent of the time, while pickup truck drivers and passengers buckle up less frequently at nearly 84 percent of the time, for a combine use rate of 91 percent.

Local Contestants Being Sought For Miss Teen Pageant

Contestants for the Miss Teen Garrett County and Miss Teen Swallow Falls are currently being sought. The pageant will be held on Oct. 29 at Garrett College in McHenry. An entry fee will be charged.

To be eligible to compete, young women must be between the ages of 13 and 17. They must also live, work full time, or attend school in Garrett County.

Miss Teen Garrett County and Miss Teen Swallow Falls is an official preliminary pageant leading to Maryland's Outstanding Teen. This program is designed to initiate future contestants into the Miss America system.

Orientation will be held Saturday, Oct. 1, at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland from noon until 3 p.m.

"Your attendance at orientation is important, and your parents are encouraged to attend," said the pageant's executive director Diana Graham about those interested in competing.

For more information, persons may contact her at mdpgntmom@hotmail.-com.

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY TO OBSERVE MILESTONE – The Garrett County Habitat for Humanity volunteers, staff, and board of directors invite the public to celebrate a milestone with them – the dedication of their 49th and 50th homes. The event will be held Saturday, Sept. 24, at 2 p.m. at Hopeland Village, located along Rt. 135 near the VFW in Deer Park. "Our Habitat affiliate has been in existence for just 22 years, and we have built 50 homes," said Doug Riley, executive director. "These homes were built for people who would never have had a home of their own." Organizations, churches, or companies that would like to know more about helping Habitat for Humanity may call Riley at 301-533-0600 or e-mail him at driley@garrettcac.org. Pictured is the 50th home.

The Remedy Providing Kick To Autumn Glory Fest Kickoff

The Remedy will perform at the Autumn Glory kickoff dinner reception, set for Wednesday Oct. 12, at the Lodge at the Wisp, where the popular local ensemble will entertain with its enthusiastic high energy music. The evening starts with a 6 p.m. cocktail hour, and the sit-down dinner begins at 7 p.m. The reception ticket includes an open bar, hors d'oeuvres, sit down dinner and "first class entertainment," noted a chamber spokesperson.

"Well known throughout the area, the Remedy is an impressive addition to our kickoff and will certainly add to the energy level and excitement," said Charlie Ross, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

"On Wednesday, this is the place to be," he said. "This is the hottest ticket in town. The kick off reception and dinner is a great way to start enjoying our Autumn Glory events," Ross continued. "This is Garrett County's leading event for our most important festival."

The 2005 Honorary Golden Ambassador will be announced at the dinner, which also includes the coronation of the Autumn Glory Royal Court and recognition of the parade marshals.

This year the first inductees into the Whitewater Hall of Fame will serve as 2005 Grand Parade Marshals for the Autumn Glory parade, which will take place on Saturday, Oct. 15. This selection recognizes the county's whitewater heritage and the importance of events leading up to the construction of a recirculating whitewater course on top of Marsh Mountain. The Whitewater Hall of Fame and Museum is one of the buildings that will be part of the Adventure Sports Center International complex.

Each person attending the kickoff reception will receive a collectible Autumn Glory pin and Golden Ambassador Pass, which entitles the holder to admission and priority seating at the Cooter's Garage Band concert and the Banjo Contest on Friday night. For fans of the television series The Dukes of Hazzard, the General Lee will be on display.

The Golden Ambassador Pass also includes admission to the Fiddle and Mandolin Contest on Saturday night, as well as priority seating on the reviewing stand for the Grand Feature Parade Saturday afternoon.

"Gifts from the business community underwrite a good portion of the festival expenses," said Ross.

Tickets are still available for the Autumn Glory Festival kickoff dinner reception. For reservations persons may call Jessica Schmidt at 301-387-4386.

Lucinda Williams Assumes Role Of GLAF's Exec. Dir.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has announced that Lucinda Williams has taken over as the new executive director of the organization as of Sept. 1.

Williams has replaced Elizabeth Johnson, who is stepping down for family commitments, a spokesperson said. Johnson will continue her affiliation with GLAF in a board position.

Prior to moving to Garrett County full time, Williams was the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra's vice president of Artistic, Education and Community Programming. Prior to that appointment, she served as the orchestra's assistant general manager and personal assistant to music director David Zinman. During her tenure at the BSO, Williams toured Japan and Europe with the orchestra. She said that some of the highlights of that tenure included having the opportunity to work with and get to know Yo Yo Ma, Bobby McFerrin, Lang Lang, and Isaac Stern.

As BSO's vice president, Lucinda managed the orchestra's pops series, working extensively with Marvin Hamlish, former BSO pops music director.

In addition to becoming the new executive director of GLAF, Williams serves as executive director of the Garrett Performing Arts Center, which is in the architectural planning stages.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization in the state of Maryland and is the largest presenter of performing arts and arts education in Western Maryland, the spokesperson said. Its performance season runs from March through September.

The final performance of GLAF's 2005 season will be the Sept. 24 performance of the Alliance Chorus.

GLAF is supported in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts. Further information about GLAF is available on its web site: www.artsandentertainment.org or by calling the office at 301-387-3082.

Open Auditions For Comedy Set At Our Town

Our Town Theatre will hold open auditions for the musical comedy Animal Crackers, written by George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind. The play will be directed by Richard Hill, with music direction by Susan Peterson.

Hill said this show is a big-cast musical with many small parts. Auditions will be held at Our Town Theatre, 121 Center Street, Oakland, on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 2 until 5 p.m., and Monday, Sept. 19, from 5 until 7:30 p.m. Special auditions can be arranged after Sept. 19 by calling the theatre.

The show will be given Nov. 29 and 30, and Dec. 1 through 4.

Specifically Hill is looking for: the four Marx Brothers, males or females, age 20-50, (the ability to play piano by Chico preferred but not mandatory). Some singing ability is required. The role of Harpo is not a speaking part, but the actor must be able to do strong physical comedy.

In addition, there are lead roles for two females age 16 to 35, singing parts; two females age 30 to 60; two males age 30 to 60; one male age 16 to 35, a singing part. There are many small parts for males and females ages 16-60, with some younger women to be chased around by Harpo, Hill noted.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-5640.

GLAF To Present The 55-Member Alliance Chorus

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will present the Alliance Chorus (a men's a cappella multi-part harmony chorus) on Saturday, Sept. 24, at the Garrett College auditorium.

The performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15 for adults and $5 for youth 12 years and younger. Persons may contact the GLAF office for tickets or further information at 301-387-3082.

The (55-man) Alliance Chorus is the 2005 6th place Barbershop International medalist and the 2004 5th place Barbershop International championship chorus. The group was formed to promote the singing of four-part barbershop harmony at the highest possible level, a spokesperson said. "It consists of a chorus, ensembles, and quartets, which are dedicated to developing vocal, visual, and performance skills of all members, recruiting and retaining active members who share the chapter's values, and maintaining the chapter's performance at an 'A' level, the spokesperson said.

Like the other 800 SPEBSQSA (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) chapters in the United States and Canada, the Alliance of Greater Central Ohio is a 501(c) 3, nonprofit organization. Members of the chorus also participate in registered quartets. Among the chapter's active quartets are Uptown Sound, MatriX, Rhythmix, You Bet!, Noteworthy, Class Ring, Wavelength, Rhythm 'n' Rhyme, Chord of Appeals, and Apple Core 4.

The sponsor partner for the Alliance Chorus event is Uno Restaurant. GLAF's season sponsors are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the Sprenger-Lang Foundation, and Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort. GLAF is supported in part by grants from the Maryland State Arts Council and the Garrett County Arts Council.

MSAC Seeking Applications For "Traditions" Grants

Maryland Traditions, a partnership of the Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC) and the Maryland Historical Trust (MHT) to develop statewide infrastructure for folk arts and folk life, is accepting applications through Oct. 18 for its new Project Grants Program.

The program will support research and programming that adds significantly to Maryland communities by documenting, preserving, sustaining, and presenting Maryland's traditional arts and culture. The state arts council, an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, will provide grants ranging from $1,000 to $5,000 to eligible projects that take place between Jan. 1, 2005, and June 30, 2006. Projects will be reviewed based on the value of the project in sustaining Maryland traditions, project design, artistic and cultural significance, ability of the applicant to carry out and evaluate the project, impact for the identified community, and financial feasibility.

Maryland Traditions is a statewide network that enables communities to discover, share, preserve and sustain their traditional arts and culture. Maryland Traditions identifies, documents, and interprets communities, genres, and practitioners that compose the state's folk and traditional arts and folk life. The program supports the dissemination of information to wider audiences through publication, presentation, and other educational activities; and works directly with individuals and cultural institutions in order to preserve and conserve living traditions and folk arts.

Partnerships and affiliations have been established in southern Maryland, the Upper and Lower Shores and in the Catoctin region and are planned for Mountain Maryland and Baltimore City. The program is supported with funding from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Grant applications are due to the Maryland State Arts Council by Oct. 18 and are accepted from not-for-profit arts and non-arts organizations, as well as colleges, universities, and units of government. Organizations other than colleges, universities and units of government must have been both incorporated in Maryland as not-for-profit and received tax exempt status from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service by March 31, 2004. All organizations must have operated for one full fiscal year at the date of application.

Registration or license to do business in Maryland is not a substitute for Maryland incorporation. An organization may be involved in only one Maryland Traditions Project grant per deadline. Individual artists and for-profit businesses or organizations are not eligible to apply to the grant program.

For more information about the Maryland State Arts Council, persons may call 410-767-6555 or TDD/TTY 410-333-4519, or connect to the MSAC web site at www.msac.org.

Annual Meeting Slated At Our Town Theatre

The board of directors of Our Town Theatre will hold the annual meeting for members on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 7 p.m.

The theatre's events of the last year will be discussed, including the new Backstage building which is under construction, the vote to acquire a loan to finance that construction, the past theatre season, fundraising efforts, and membership drive.

A run-down of the new season will be given, and special committees will present their activities and goals. New and returning board members will then be elected.

The public is encouraged to attend in order to contribute ideas and voice concerns.

How easy
with a belly full to look at those who hunger.
How easy
with lips not parched to look at,
with indifference
those who thirst.
How easy
with the comforts of roof and bed
a purse that's full, to judge those who have not.
And why should they,
the victims,
not ask and wonder where their nation is who can land upon the distant moon and return again yet could not somehow, some way find the means to save its own.
Sadder than the storm itself is their forsaking.

Laurland Quartet Set In Grantsville

GC's Truck Driving Institute Paves Way For Teams And Solo Drivers

by Jo Donaldson

Team commercial tractor-trailer driving is becoming more popular, according to Garrett College Grantsville Outreach Center coordinator Terry Beachy, who is preparing for the next session of the college's Mountaintop Truck Driving Institute (MTDI). Registration is still being accepted for MTDI classes (see the end of this article for contact information), and weekday classes begin Monday, Sept. 26, while weekend classes begin this Saturday, Sept. 17. The next MDTI offerings will begin in early December.

"Team driving offers comradeship," explained lead MTDI instructor Troy Wilburn. "Sometimes friendships are formed that last a lifetime. It is a comfort to drive with someone you can trust with your life, especially in adverse conditions such as snow, ice, fog and rain. In case of an emergency, there are two people to handle the situation.

"The biggest advantage is when you are tired, your replacement is in the back bunk," Wilburn stated. "The once rough sleeping quarters have been transformed into luxurious living accommodations complete with microwave, refrigerator, and even shower facilities. When fatigued, you go to the bunk and a fresh driver takes the wheel."

Wilburn noted several other advantages to team driving, including: having a familiar person to converse with on breaks and at meals, and at fuel stops; unloading is easier with two people; for inner city deliveries, there is someone to watch for street signs and markers, for low clearances and blindside turns, double-parked autos and other obstacles of the inner city; and there is also someone to watch rear of trailer when backing into tight clearances.

More money per mile is paid to each driver, according to course instructor Dave Ackerman, who also pointed out that a team can drive approximately 6,000 miles per week, as opposed to 3,000 per week for an individual driver.

"There's always someone who can read the map while the other drives," Ackerman noted, "and someone to share expenses. Driving long distances is not as lonely if you have someone to talk to. If you are married to your driving partner – as is the case with John Jr. and Sueann Fundis of Rockwood, Pa., who are taking classes now – you can spend more time together. Trucking is also a great avenue to take if your kids are grown, and if you want to see the country while making good money."

Team drivers are highly sought after in the transportation industry. "The flexibility of their driving hours makes them essential to 'Just in Time' delivery schedules," said Don Davis, director of driver recruiting for D.M. Bowman. "First-year team drivers can make $50K, and teams get better than average pay compared to solo drivers – the highest pay in the industry. Teams also usually get the newest and best equipment, as most teams get a new truck yearly because they run 225K to 250K miles each year."

Beachy concurred with that assessment, saying, "A good reason to get into the trucking industry is the money. While in many job fields it's becoming harder to make a good living, by completing our short program an individual driver or a team can begin earning a paycheck in a matter of a few months."

"The paycheck gets better as one gets more experience," Beachy added. "If you are willing to drive cross country, it gets even better; and ultimately if you are willing to drive as part of a team it gets much more lucrative. Team drivers can make $100K between them.

"Read the local classified ads," Beachy stated. "Truck driving jobs take center stage in the classified ads of the local newspapers. The trucking industry continues to expand with a national shortage of commercial truck drivers. Many trucking companies also offer health insurance and benefits packages."

A Class A Commercial Driver's License will allow an individual to drive most single or combination vehicles on the road today. Garrett College's training qualifies students for entry-level positions as a driver in regional or dedicated (local) runs. "A key feature of the MTDI is hands-on behind the wheel training," Beachy stated. "In the past year alone, MTDI has trained over 30 people to become CDL drivers. Financing is available to those who qualify, along with tuition reimbursement from trucking companies.

"Many individuals are coming to us requesting weekend courses," she noted. "They are [often] in low-paying jobs and can't afford to quit [in order to take the courses]."

MDTI registration is still being accepted, and for further information persons may Beachy at 301-895-3368 or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

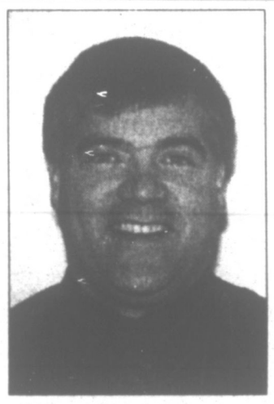
GCMH Offering Drug Check For Senior Citizens



Garrett County Memorial Hospital will offer a "brown bag drug check" for senior citizens as part of the Speakers Bureau program. Lance Rhodes, director of pharmacy at the hospital, will be available on Monday, Sept. 19, at the Swanton Senior Center, and on Thursday, Sept. 22, at the Kitzmiller Senior Center. Both sessions will begin at 11:30 a.m.

Rhodes will discuss prescription drugs with the senior citizens, and will check to make sure the drugs they are taking are safe to take together. He will answer questions about side effects, reactions, and over-the-counter medicines. Persons should bring their prescription medicines to the locations for Rhodes to inspect.

For more information, persons may contact Kearstin Hinebaugh in the public relations office at 301-533-4041.

House Committee Probes Gas Prices

by Elizabeth Coe, Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Oil industry officials on Tuesday defended the high cost of gasoline in Maryland, telling a legislative committee that price is a matter of supply and demand, and predicted that current prices would not be permanent.

While the national average for a gallon of regular gas has fallen below $3, according to AAA Mid-Atlantic, the average in Maryland is higher than in all but two other states at $3.17 per gallon.

Drew Cobbs, executive director of American Petroleum Council, said the main reason Maryland residents pay so much at the pump when compared to other states is the lack of supply from the damaged Gulf region.

Four refineries in the Gulf region are still shut down as a result of damage from Hurricane Katrina, and two are operating at a reduced capacity, he said. Two pipelines, the Colonial and the Plantation, deliver about 70 percent of Maryland's gasoline. Because Maryland is toward the end of the line, the state sometimes loses supply to other locations as the gasoline travels north.

Meanwhile, Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. told the hearing before the House Economic Matters Committee that Maryland needs an anti-gouging law and that he would like to propose one to the General Assembly. He said he is working with other attorneys general in the country on the issue.

"Twenty-seven states and the District of Columbia have a gouging statute," he said, "and I suggest that Maryland become a state that has one."

But Curran faced questions from some delegates on how to define price gouging, and on whether such legislation would be effective. Calling his proposal a "strong recommendation," Curran said a price gouging law could make a big difference in preventing large price increases.

"Does it make a difference? It certainly has in Florida and it certainly has in Tennessee," he said. "It may make someone think twice about doing it."

Most of the nearly three-hour hearing, though, was devoted to questioning Cobbs about high gas prices, and things the state could do to bring them down.

He refused to take a position when asked if the industry would support freezing the state's 23.5 cents a gallon gas tax – suggested by some as one sure thing the state could do to make gas cheaper.

"We feel you should let the marketplace work, and the laws of supply and demand will work to lower the cost," Cobbs said.

Richard Carey, director of the Motor Fuel Tax Division, said Maryland has received about $767 million in gross revenue from the gasoline tax so far this year.

Most of the revenues from the tax in Maryland go to the state's Transportation Trust Fund, which is used to support transportation services and other projects.

Del. Brian J. Feldman, (D-Montgomery) said while residents of his county are concerned with the high cost of gas, they don't want to see construction projects halted.

Del. Susan W. Krebs (R-Carroll) said she wants to ensure the public that the market is driving the gas prices and not opportunists who are out to make money.

"People don't realize once you start to regulate prices you're talking about even more shortages," she said in an interview after the hearing.

Cobbs told the legislators that current prices are temporary. "It is a supply issue, and as soon as the supply becomes available, prices will go down," he said. "The market reacts to what happens with supply."

Information from the Energy Information Agency indicates the supply from the Gulf region will fully recover in December.

SENATOR RECOGNIZES RESCUE SQUAD – The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad received a certificate from Senator Barbara Mikulski during the dedication of its new squad hall this past weekend. The document commended the squad members for their "exemplary public service" and new facility. In loving memory of our mother, Verna A. Friend on her birthday, April, 19.

She was born in the days of no electric or running water.
She never complained she was a farmer`s daughter.
She washed clothes by hand and canned foods for the family.
With her nine children the canned foods were delicious and handy.
She would always stress, "Help your fellow man."
She left a short message, "Do the best that you can."

Rams Fall To Panthers After Building 16-0 Lead

After dominating the first half of play and taking a 16-0 lead into the locker room at intermission, the bottom dropped out for the Southern High School varsity football team in the second half, as the Rams were topped by visiting St. Vincent Pallotti, 18-16, in their season opener, played on the Rams' field last Friday evening.

It was "déjà vu all over again" for Ram head coach Fred Gregg and staff, players, and fans, since a similar scenario took place in last year's game with the private school. Southern shut out the Panthers in the first half of that contest, leading 8-0 at intermission, only to fall apart in the second half and lose the game, 36-16.

The Rams could almost do no wrong, both offensively and defensively, in the first half of action. Senior quarterback Andrew VanBogelen put the first points on the board, capping a drive in the first quarter with a one-yard touchdown run. Bret DeWitt ran successfully for the two-point conversion.

The Rams made it 16-0 with a four-yard touchdown run by Jeremy Gregory late in the second half, and a two-point conversion run by VanBogelen.

It took the Panthers until the 1:14 mark of the third quarter to finally get on the board with a touchdown, but the score also seemed to signal a momentum shift that would ultimately do the Rams in.

Harold Morton scored the touchdown on a seven-yard run. The run for the conversion was stopped short, leaving the Rams on top by a 16-6 margin.

What really seemed to turn the tide for good, though, was a high snap by the Rams with 11:28 remaining in the fourth quarter, which was recovered in the end zone by Derek Saunders for a Panther touchdown. Again the run for the extra two points failed, making the score 16-12.

On the next possession by the Panthers, speedster Trevin Parish found a hole in the Ram defense and raced 44 yards for what would be the winning touchdown, recorded with 5:49 left in the game. The conversion kick was no good.

Leading the Rams' ground game was DeWitt, who finished with 106 yards on 19 carries, while VanBogelen picked up 62 yards on 16 attempts.

Spearheading the Southern defensive effort was Brandon Roberson, who finished with eight tackles.

Parris led the Panthers' rushing attack with 102 yards on 15 carries.

Each team recorded 11 first downs, and St. Vincent Pallotti finished with a 301-261 edge in total offense.

It was the opening game of the season for both teams.

"We really played assignment football in the first half," Coach Gregg said. "Defensively, we were able to stop their great speed before it got started. Offensively, we ran right at them with great line surge and very hard running by our backs.

"But then they made a couple of big plays in the second half, and we made some big mistakes," he said. "We were unable to recover from those big plays and our mistakes, which is something that we have to learn to do in order to defeat teams of this caliber.

"The bright spot is that our play in the first half proves that we know how to play as a fundamentally sound football team. The films show that we executed well, we were aggressive, and our technique was solid, which really pleased us. We just have to learn how to overcome the mistakes and adversity that occur in every game," he said.

It will take a "fundamentally sound" effort in both halves of this Friday night's game for the Rams to record their first victory of the season, as a senior-dominated Beall team will be anxiously awaiting the Rams in Frostburg.

"They are a very good team, with a lot of players back from last year," Gregg said.

Among the good players he cited is senior quarterback Logan Thomas (6-0, 175).

"He is the key guy in their wishbone offense, and he runs it very well," Gregg said. "He is a very good runner and a more than adequate passer."

The rest of the offensive backfield includes senior halfback Jimmy Kline (6-0, 185), senior halfback Josh Harper (5-11, 180), and junior fullback Pat Winebrenner (5-9, 200).

"All three of these guys are very good runners, and up front they have good size and decent speed," Gregg said. "They are much like us in that they don't throw the ball much and like to just pound it out with time-consuming drives."

Defensively the Mountaineers are led by a strong corps of linebackers in Harper, Winebrenner, Kline, and junior Clifton Martin (5-10, 157). The line is anchored by a big senior, Jason Wilson (6-3, 260).

"Beall has run a 5-3 defense for many years, but because of the strength of their linebackers they have switched to mostly a 4-4 formation this year," Gregg said.

Another blow to the Rams last Friday was the temporary loss of senior fullback and linebacker Nick Gregg, who went down very early in the game with a dislocated shoulder. Gregg has been nursing a shoulder problem for nearly a year, through basketball and baseball season as a junior.

"Nick really wants to play this week, but we have him listed as doubtful," Gregg said, adding that Adam VanBogelen, the pre-season pick for starting quarterback, will be out again this week.

"We have a lot of other guys who are pretty banged up, but nothing serious enough to keep them from playing," Gregg said.

Friday's game will be played on the Frostburg State University field, as the Mountaineers' field is unusable because of construction at the school. The kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

IT WAS A TOUGH OPENER for Southern High School last Friday night, as the Rams saw their 16-0 halftime lead disappear late in the game, giving the visiting Panthers of St. Vincent Pallotti an 18-16 victory. In the photo above, Southern's Bret DeWitt, who finished with over 100 yards rushing, dives across the goal line to record a two-point conversion. The first Ram touchdown of the season had just been scored by quarterback Andrew VanBogelen, pictured above left (#43), on a one-yard plunge. The leading defender for the Rams was Brandon Roberson, pictured below making one of his eight solo tackles for the evening. Southern will face another difficult challenge this Friday when they play at Beall. Photos by John McEwen.

Huskies Get Off To Blazing Start Against Clear Spring

It was "off to the races" for the Huskies Friday night as the Northern High School varsity football squad reeled off 403 rushing yards in a 47-6 win over Clear Spring. Senior halfback Tyler Warn stepped to the fore to pace the way with 171 yards and two touchdown runs, while NHS's tenacious "Grave Digger" defense intercepted three pass attempts by the Blazers' talented quarterback, with strong safety Nick Payne returning one of the picks 30 yards for a score.

While every football squad dreams of opening a campaign with a 41-point win – especially one that opens with three first-quarter touchdowns in less than a two-minute span of the first quarter – NHS's romp carries with it the reality that the Blazers are fielding a team for only the second year, and the program is still searching for its first win.

"It was a typical first game," Northern skipper Phil Carr commented as he downplayed the significance of the lopsided score in order to remind his troops that much work remains to be done. "We may have won big, but we also made some mistakes and committed some penalties that could have cost us in a close game. We'll have to play better against a tough Berkeley Springs team this week."

Northern fumbled the ball three times (including two botched exchanges between center and quarterback), and lost the ball once. "We're not overly surprised by the mistakes on the exchanges because we have a new quarterback just getting into the swing of things," Carr remarked. "We're working real hard on extra snaps in practice this week to correct the problem." The Huskies were also whistled for five penalties, and although the total yardage lost due to the miscues was only 35 yards, two of those infractions erased a pair of Husky touchdowns.

Northern's offense was clicking from the opening kickoff, as the Huskies took the opening boot and embarked on a 63-yard scoring drive that initially appeared to end with a 25-yard option scamper by senior quarterback Casey Kamp, a nice way to end his first drive in a varsity uniform; however, a holding penalty nullified the play. Undaunted, NHS eventually scored on the same possession when Warn sped to the right side of the line on an off-tackle power play, following some excellent blocking by tight end Brock Glotfelty, tackle Adam Rounds, and guard Anthony Lewis. The 12-play, ball-control scoring drive took 3:45 off the clock.

The Huskies soon lit up the scoreboard again when, after the defense held the Blazer offense to three plays and a punt, NHS rolled 65 yards in a scoring drive capped by a 2-yard right side off-tackle plunge by Warn with 7:21 to go in the first quarter, to go up 12-0.

The Grave Diggers got in the act less than a minute later when a zone coverage scheme fooled the Clear Spring quarterback, and Payne made a fine read to pick off a pass attempt at the right hash mark before speeding 30 yards down the sideline and into the end zone untouched. "Coach Ewing had been giving the Blazers different looks by mixing up his man-to-man and zone coverage," commented Carr. "We were in a zone on Nick's interception, which was set up by his athletic ability and the confusion caused by all the defensive changes.

NHS got another touchdown early in the second stanza when Mitch Fost took a handoff and hit the left side of the line behind some superb blocking by tight end Payne, tackle Eric Diehl, and guard Dom DiRienzo. Fost didn't stop until he hit the goal line 41 yards later, putting the Huskies up 26-0 with 9:37 to go in the first half.

Northern's defense suffered an uncharacteristic lapse on Clear Spring's subsequent possession. Blazer quarterback Tyler Braitwaite, who found some breathing room after rolling out to the left, uncorked a tight spiral (while still on the run) that found receiver Donny Lapole 40 yards downfield. "A tremendous throw," as Carr put it, the strike split a pair of NHS defenders perfectly, and the untouched Lapole was off to the end zone on a 67-yard scoring play at the 8:35 mark.

The yellow flag raised its head again on the next play, as a 74-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by speedy sophomore Blair Silbaugh was called back because of an illegal block in the back call.

Early in the third quarter, NHS senior Corey Yoder streaked in from the right side to block a Clear Spring punt and give the Huskies the ball on the Blazer 45-yard line. The Huskies then put together a scoring drive early that ended with Kamp keeping the ball on an option play for a 3-yard touchdown carry.

Later in that same stanza, halfback Silbaugh capped another 45-yard scoring drive by taking a handoff, hitting the middle of the line, and breaking several tackles on his way to rushing 21 yards for a score. Then in the fourth quarter, Silbaugh struck again when the Huskies' second string put the finishing touches on a 70-yard drive by running the ball in from three yards out with 10:16 remaining in the contest.

"Blair may not look big (5-4, 150), but he plays big and is the second-fastest player on the squad behind Tyler Warn," said Carr.

Silbaugh had only three carries in the contest, but scored twice while gaining 30 yards. Fost rolled up 79 yards on 10 carries, including his long touchdown scamper. On defense, secondary members Fost and Bryce Manges both had interceptions in addition to Payne's pickoff.

As a team, Northern had 15 first downs to the Blazers' six, and out gained Clear Spring in total offensive yardage, 439-240.

UPCOMING GAME

It will be a different ballgame at Berkeley Spring tomorrow evening, Carr predicted. Although the Yellow Jackets are playing at .500, and the Huskies chewed them up last season in a 54-28 home field win in Accident, the NHS skipper is not counting on a cakewalk by any means.

"Berkeley is never an easy place to play," said Carr. "We've gone down there for the last two road games and out gained them by good yardage margins, but lost both times. We could have won both those games, but didn't because of mistakes, penalties, and fumbles."

The 1-1 Indians, who lost this year's opener to Hampshire before rebounding to crush Grafton 35-8 last week, have lost topflight quarterback Tony Belt to graduation but field a new weapon in their backfield. Sophomore tailback Cody Hess rushed for over 200 yards against Grafton, and Berkeley Springs most often runs out of a Pro-I formation that utilizes Hess to best advantage.

The Huskies expect to see BS line up in a 5-2 Monster defense, pulling a safety forward to act as a third linebacker. The Indians are also known to slip into a 4-3 scheme, and last year even tried stacking the line with 11 players at one point (to little avail).

"It's going to be a good game," said Carr. "We're very similar in size and speed, which is different for us usually we're smaller and faster than our opponents. This time we're going up against a squad that matches up pretty evenly with us; and that can be a cause for concern."

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night at Berkeley Springs, a 90-minute drive from Accident. NHS fans can reach the Berkeley gridiron by taking Interstate 68 east to Rt. 522 south, continuing through the downtown area, and looking for the school on the right.

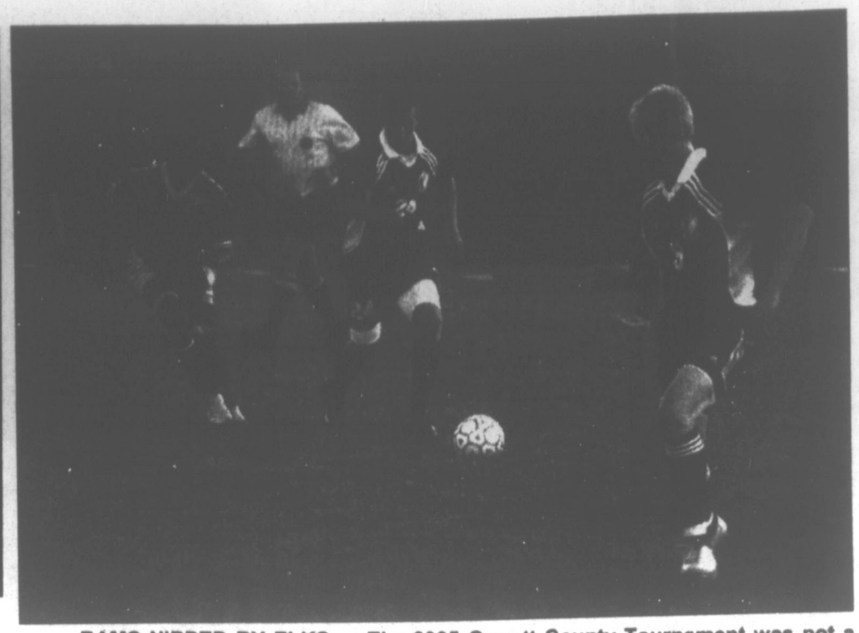
HUSKIES PERFECT AT 4-0 — The boys' varsity of Northern High School upped its record to 4-0 this past week, winning the Garrett County Tournament over Southern and Salisbury on Saturday, and then handing Westmar a 5-1 defeat on Tuesday. The photos here were taken during the Huskies' match with Salisbury, which they won by a 2-1 margin. Pictured at left is Northern's Chris Speicher. Above, Husky Randy Wilhelm gets set to take a short pass from teammate Derek Cutter, who would ultimately score the winning goal. Cutter also had four goals in the win over Southern and two more against Westmar. Photos by John McEwen.



RAMS NIPPED BY ELKS — The 2005 Garrett County Tournament was not a good one for the Southern boys' varsity, as the Rams were thumped by county rival Northern, 7-2, and nipped by the Elks of Salisbury High, 2-1. Taking aim on the ball in the photo above is Ram Sean McCreery, while teammate Matt Morgan (#19) moves forward to take McCreery's pass. Going up high and heading the ball in the photo below is Southern's Ethan Chorpenning (#18), and behind him is Matt Burton (#13). Chorpenning had an assist on the Rams' lone goal, scored by James Naylor, but recorded a hat trick in a 5-0 victory over Keyser on Tuesday. McCreery also had a goal in that match. Huskies Defeat Rams, Elks, Wildcats; Record Now 4-0

For the second straight year, the Northern High School boys' soccer team won the Garrett County Tournament on Saturday, whipping county-rival Southern, 7-2, and edging Salisbury, 2-1. Both matches were played on the Huskies' pitch.

Coach Tom Ables' squad then upped its overall record to 4-0 Tuesday evening by handing host Westmar a 5-1 defeat in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest.

The Rams of Southern were nipped by Salisbury in the Garrett County tourney (see other story).

Against Southern on Saturday, the Huskies dominated in shots on goal by a 25-9 margin, and Derek Cutter finished with a hat trick plus one for Northern, scoring two goals in each half of the match, all unassisted.

Cutter put the Huskies up 1-0 with a goal at the 27:00 mark of the first half, and just two minutes later made it 2-0 with his second score.

Southern's Ethan Chorpenning cut the Huskies' lead in half about three minutes later with a goal, but Northern's Chris Speicher cancelled that one with a goal at about the 20:00 mark, and Zach Cupler gave Northern a commanding 4-1 lead with a goal with about 11 minutes left before intermission.

The second half was scoreless until about midway through when Cutter completed his hat trick with a goal. Teammate Speicher recorded his second goal of the night just a minute later to give the Huskies a 6-1 advantage.

Southern's Sean McCreery made good on a penalty kick with about 14 minutes to play to make it 6-2, but Cutter responded with his fourth goal of the night at about the 10-minute mark.

Eric Wood had nine saves in goal for the Huskies.

The Huskies' match with Salisbury was much tighter, with Zach Lipscomb recording an unassisted goal for the Huskies about 13 minutes into the match, and Tyler Harvey answering for the Elks less than five minutes later, scoring off a feed by Mike Podlesnik to knot the score at 1-1.

The score remained tied until the 11:20 mark of the second half when Northern's Cutter scored what would be the winning goal off an assist by Zach Beitzel.

Husky keeper Wood was credited with 15 stops.

The Huskies trailed for the first time this season Tuesday night at Westmar, as the Wildcats drew first blood with a goal by Bradley McKenzie off an assist by Justin Dawson with 27:01 left in the first half.

But the home team would enjoy that advantage for only about four minutes, as Zach Lipscomb knotted the score at 1-1 with a goal off a feed by Cutter at the 22:50 mark.

Zach Beitzel put the Huskies on top for good at the 5:27 mark of the first half, scoring off an assist by Cutter, and then Cutter made it 3-1 with a goal off a feed by Cupler just 29 seconds before halftime.

Cutter scored his second goal of the evening just over two minutes into the second half, this time off a feed by Elijah Lais.

Lipscomb recorded his second goal of the night with 6:08 left in the match, with Beitzel getting the assist.

The Huskies led in shots on goal by a commanding 37-16 margin and in corner kicks, 8-4. Wood turned away nine of the Wildcats' shots, while Adam Stott recorded 25 saves for Westmar (0-2).

The Huskies will try to keep their unbeaten streak going this evening when they host Beall. They will travel to Allegany next Tuesday, and entertain Southern next Thursday. The junior varsity matches will get under way at 6 p.m., and the varsity contests will kick off at 7:30.

Rams Defeated In Tourney, But Rebound To Top Keyser

The varsity boys' soccer team did not fare well in the annual Garrett County Tournament, hosted this year by Northern High, but the Rams did turn things around Tuesday evening at home by shutting out Keyser for their first win of the young season.

The Rams, coached by Jeff Browning and Fred Polce, were crushed by Northern, 7-2, in their first match of the tournament (see other story for details), and were then edged by Salisbury, 2-1.

Derek Knopsnyder put Salisbury up 1-0 at the 25-minute mark of the first half with a goal off an assist by Andrew Saylo.

The Elks took a 2-0 lead at the 10:17 mark of the first half when Mike Podlesnik scored off a feed by Dan Root.

The Rams defense held the Elks scoreless the rest of the match, and cut their lead to one goal when James Naylor scored at the 11:25 mark of the second half, with Ethan Chorpenning getting the assist. But that would be the final goal of the match.

Chorpenning recorded a hat trick in the Rams' big 5-0 victory over Keyser on Tuesday, scoring two goals in the first half and one in the second.

Sean McCreery put the first goal on the board for Southern when he scored off an assist by Taylor Crabtree with 17:37 left in the first half.

Chorpenning followed with two goals in a span of less than one minute, hitting first off a feed by James Naylor with 1:02 remaining in the half, and then scoring off an assist by Allen Gnegy just three seconds before intermission.

Midway through the second half, Crabtree put the Rams up 4-0 with a goal off an assist by Matt Morgan.

Chorpenning just barely completed his hat trick, scoring off an assist by Tanner Polce with just 50 seconds left in the match.

The Rams dominated play, finishing with a lopsided 32-6 advantage in shots on goal and a 5-0 lead in corner kicks. Mike Edwards and Drew Proudfoot each turned away three shots, while Golden Tornado keepers Cole Anderson and Lakota Spencer combined for 24 saves.

The Rams will go for their second win this evening in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match at Fort Hill, and will travel to Northern next Thursday.

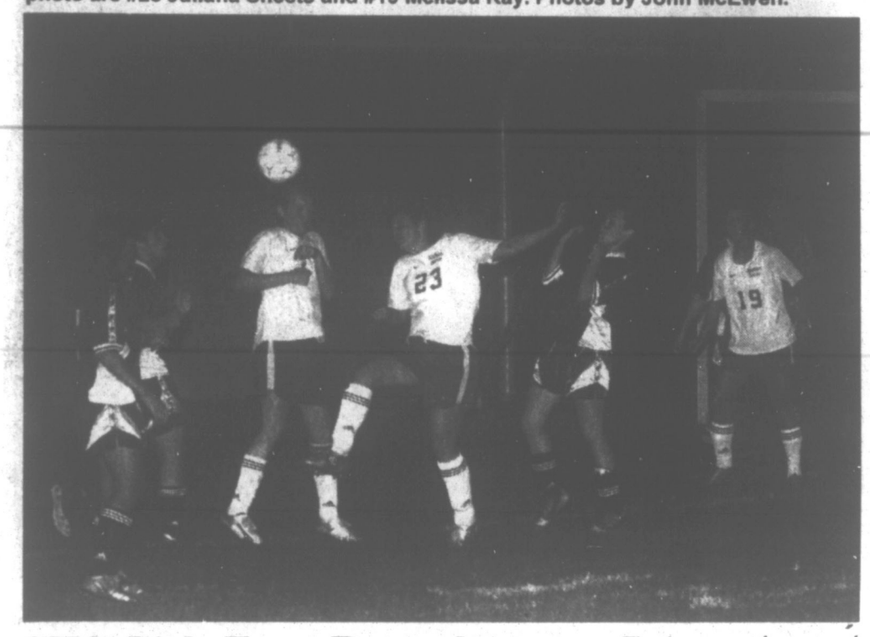
RAMS EDGE BW SPARTANS — After dropping their season opener, the Southern High School girls' varsity bounced back for an exciting 3-2 win over visiting Bishop Walsh on Saturday. The winning goal was scored with just 1:09 left in the match. Southern's first goal was recorded by Corey Lewis, pictured above (#10) as she moves in for a steal. Getting an assist on the goal by Lewis was Brittney Scheffel, pictured below with the ball just above her head. Other Rams in the photo are #23 Juliana Sheets and #19 Melissa Ray. Photos by John McEwen.



SHS Girls Even Record At 1-1 By Edging Bishop Walsh

It was an exciting victory for the Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team on Saturday when the Rams broke a 2-2 tie with just over a minute remaining in the match to defeat Bishop Walsh, 3-2, in a Garrett County Tournament match.

The win evened the Rams' record at 1-1, and they will go after win #2 this evening at home against Fort Hill.

Corey Lewis scored a goal off an assist by Brittney Scheffel 5½ minutes into the match with Bishop Walsh.

BW's Megan Finan evened the score at 1-1 with a goal at the 16:08 mark of the first half, with Lydia Hughes earning an assist.

The Rams regained the lead midway through the second half when Lauren Neville took a feed from Julie Swerbinsky and scored.

An unassisted goal by Kara Miller for the Spartans with 11:05 left in the match knotted the score again at 2-2.

The match officials were unable to determine for sure who scored the final goal of the match with 1:09 left on the clock, but it was either Neville or Swerbinsky for the Rams, giving them the win.

Jessica Petrella was credited with eight saves in goal for the Rams, while Megan Eversole turned away nine of the Rams' shots on goal.

The loss was the second in four matches for the Spartans.

After tonight's match with Fort Hill, the Rams will host Allegany on Saturday, play at Northern next Tuesday, and entertain Beall next Thursday.

Saturday's match times with Allegany are noon (junior varsity) and 1:30 (varsity). The respective matches at Northern will kick off at 6 and 7:30 p.m., and next Thursday's home contests with Beall will begin at 5:30 and 7 p.m., respectively.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest is sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Results for the week ending September 10 are:

Largemouth bass: 3 lbs., 18½ ins., caught by Christine Malone, Washington, D.C.

Bluegill: 12 ozs., 10 ins., caught by James Gallagher, Nottingdon, Pa.

Weekly winners receive a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must take their catches to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House, 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

JRL Boat Ramp Closing Sept. 15

The Howell Run Boat Launch at Jennings Randolph Lake will be closed to boats requiring a trailer beginning September 15 until further notice, as a result of low water levels in the lake, according to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The launch will remain open to all boats not requiring a trailer. Additionally, the entire lake is now accessible to shoreline fishing.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources boat launch located on Mt. Zion Road off Maryland State Route 135 remains open for boats with trailers.

For current JRL information, persons may call the Corps park office at 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 on weekdays, or consult the Baltimore District website at www.nab-wc.usace.army.mil/wc/potopub.html for current lake elevation.

For information about the Maryland DNR boat launch, persons may call the Herrington Manor State Park at 301-334-9180 on weekdays.

Northern Girls Open With Victory, Then Drop A Pair

With new coach John Milbourne at the helm, the Northern High School girls' varsity opened their 2005 campaign with a 4-3 victory over Bishop Walsh in an opening match of the Garrett County Tournament, which was hosted by the Huskies.

The Huskies then dropped a pair of tough, 1-0 contests, falling to Preston in their second tournament match and to visiting Allegany in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest played Tuesday evening.

In the win over BW, the Huskies fell behind 1-0 when Spartan Kara Miller recorded the first of her three goals for the match, scoring an unassisted goal at about the 19-minute mark.

The Huskies tied it at 1-1 when Brittany Stein scored off an assist by Ainsley Raley with about 15 minutes to play in the half.

The Huskies broke the tie and took a 3-1 lead within the first 10 minutes of play in the second half, with Stein scoring her second of the night, unassisted, at the 37-minute mark and Sarah Voelkel recording an unassisted goal in the 31st minute.

But two more goals by Miller, both unassisted, at the 19- and 4-minute marks tied the match again and ultimately sent it into overtime.

With 4:18 to play in the extra period, Voelkel hit the winning goal, unassisted, to immediately end the match and give the Huskies the win.

It was the first loss of the season for the Spartans.

Northern keeper Kasie Fratz had 11 saves.

The Huskies were outgunned 10-2 by the Preston Knights in the first half of their second tournament match, but Fratz did not allow a goal, and the match was scoreless at intermission.

The game-winner was scored by Preston's Katelyn Lockwood, whose shot deflected off the back of a Husky defender and got past Fratz.

The Huskies were outshot by an 18-5 margin, and Fratz finished with nine saves.

Fratz and the Husky defense also played well Tuesday evening against Allegany, as the unbeaten Campers arrived at the Cove with eight seniors from last year's 10-2-1, area championship team.

The only ball that got past Fratz for the match was a well-placed shot by Alco's Becky Mathews with 8:16 left on the first-half clock. That proved to be the game-winner, as the remainder of the match was all defense.

Fratz finished with a dozen saves, as her team was out-shot by a 15-7 margin. Earning the shutout win in goal for the Campers was Lindsey Twigg, who was credited with five saves.

The Huskies had a 2-1 edge in corner kicks.

"We had two tough losses, but we are beginning to show signs of improving our defending shape and crating more scoring opportunities out of the midfield," stated Coach Milbourne.

The Northern junior varsity team played the Allegany jayvees to a scoreless tie in the preliminary match. Getting eight saves in goal for Northern was Justine Harvey.

The Huskies will try to get back into the win column this evening when they play at Beall. They will entertain Southern (6 and 7:30 p.m.) next Tuesday, and travel to Westmar next Thursday.

Our Precious Timmy

You gave us joy and so much love,
We feel we're truly blessed
That God entrusted you to us,
Ahead of all the rest.
Oh how we long to hold you
Like we did when you were small.
Instead we hold your memories
So beautiful to recall.
And when we get to Heaven
A smiling face we'll see,
Just like on Earth, you'll call to us,
"Hi Mom and Dad, it's me."
We'll wrap you up in our arms,
And hold you to our hearts.
Our joy within will be complete
We'll never have to part.

We miss you and love you very much

The highlight of the Southern High School golf campaign so far has to be a huge win in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League (WMIL) Tournament, which was claimed by the host Rams at the Oakland Golf Club Monday afternoon.

SHS, which put four of its golfers in the top half-dozen individual finishers, bested runner-up Fort Hill by a monstrous 21-stroke margin. Ram junior Seth Fike shot an 81 to earn low medalist honors, classmate Joe Albert carded an 85, senior Ivan Stutzman recorded an 87, and sophomore Derick DeWitt shot a 90 to tie for sixth lowest score with two other competitors.

The Sentinels came in second with a 364 and were paced by an 88 turned in by Jordan Wills. Beall's 378 was good for third place as the Mounties were paced by Josh Plummer's 86.

The Northern Huskies came in fourth with a 409 and were led by David Vagnetti's 96, while Allegany's Madison Martin shot a 91 to pace her squad to a 423.

SHS's tourney win avenged Thursday's one-stroke loss to Fort Hill in regular season play. See additional golf coverage for reports of other Southern and Northern matches of the week.

DCL Woman Makes Hole-In-One At Wisp

A duffer's dream – a hole-in-one – was recorded this week by Cathy Sloan at the Wisp Golf Resort, according to club pro Brian Heslop.

Sloan, a part-time Deep Creek Lake area resident, made the rare shot on Sunday on Hole Four, a 107-yard, par 3 hole, using a 5-iron. The golfer took up the sport in a serious fashion only within the past year, Heslop noted.

SHS Duffers Edged By FH; Beaten In W.Va.

A rollercoaster of a week for the Southern High golf squad ended with Monday's WMIL Tournament crown-clinching win sandwiched between a one-stroke loss to Fort Hill last Thursday, Sept. 8, and an uncharacteristic third-place finish – 14 strokes off Keyser's winning pace – in a quadrangular played yesterday afternoon in Canaan Valley, W.Va.

Fort Hill edged SHS by a 175-176 margin at the Oakland Golf Club last Thursday, while the Northern High Huskies finished in third place with a 205.

The Sentinels' Travis Bothast shot a 38 and teammate Mike Hainstock recorded a 42. Southern's Seth Fike matched Bothast for the low medalist award with a 38 of his own, while fellow Ram Joe Albert carded a 41. Northern's Zak Brosnihan paced the Huskies with a 44.

Yesterday in Tucker County the Rams met up with Keyser, Tucker, and Tygarts Valley for a quad match. The Golden Tornado blew through the course to net a 163, five strokes below runner-up Tucker's 168. SHS carded a 177, and Tygarts Valley brought up the rear at 201.

Tucker's Colby McKinnie was the individual low medalist with a 37, and fellow Mountain Lion Ryan Michael shot a 38. Fike tied for Ram team-low with 42, and Curtis Kramer shot a 40 for Tygarts Valley.

Southern (13-5) travels to the Cumberland Country Club this afternoon for a triangular with Bishop Walsh and Frankfort. The Rams will also take part in the Region Tournament on Tuesday, set to tee off at 9 a.m. on Hagerstown's Black Rock Country Club course. Next Thursday, Sept. 22, SHS will return home to host Keyser and Beall in a 4 p.m. triangular match.

Blind Partners Play Of Day For Women Golfers

Members of the Women's Golf Association of the Oakland Golf Club met last Thursday for their final day of tournament play, with Blind Partners as the selected match. The team of Diana Winter and Cheryl Wotherspoon won, carding a 59. Tying for second place with 60s were the teams of Jessie Stowell and Debbie Weissgerber, and Sherry Grant and Ruth Kight.

The top two finishers in each flight for the fall tournament, with total scores for two games, were: first flight, Sherry Grant, 181, and Jessie Stowell, 182; second flight, Diana Winter, 200, and Pearl Daniels, 209; and third flight, Cheryl Wotherspoon, 235, and Debbie Weissgerber, 240.

Husky Golfers Finish Third In Home Match

Action for the Northern High School golf team this week included a home course match yesterday afternoon at the Wisp Golf Resort, where the Huskies came in third behind Fort Hill and Preston. (See additional golf coverage for other Husky match results of the week, including the WMIL Tournament.)

The Sentinels carded a 190 to take first in the triangular, with Travis Bothast and Mike Hainstock each shooting 46s. NHS's 207 tally was led by David Vagnetti, who shot a 51, while teammate Andrew Goslin carded a 54.

The Huskies are idle until Tuesday, when they visit the Cumberland Country Club to take on Allegany and Bishop Walsh.

Southern Girls Win Frankfort Meet, Then Defeat Hampshire

On a great run, literally, this week are the members of the Southern High School girls' cross country team, who defeated nine teams in the Frankfort Invitational on Saturday, and then topped one of those nine teams – Hampshire – again on Tuesday in Romney, W.Va.

The female Runnin' Rams finished with 29 points in Saturday's race on the Falcons' course to defeat Frankfort with 51 points, Keyser with 76, Tucker County with 77, Fort Hill with 127, and Allegany, Westmar, East Hardy, Hampshire, and Pendleton, all with incomplete scores.

In Tuesday's win over Hampshire, the Rams finished with 21 points, while the Trojan girls had an incomplete score.

Meanwhile, the Southern boys placed sixth among nine teams in Saturday's invitational, and were second to the Hampshire boys on Tuesday, scoring 36 points while the Trojans won with 19.

Pacing the Southern girls in the invitational was Sarah Cosner, who placed sixth individually with a time of 23:28. Teammates Melinda Smith, Courtney DiSimone, Elizabeth Thayer, and Jennifer Cosner were close behind in 8th, 9th, 10th, and 12th places, respectively. Southern's Leah Warnick was 17th, and Rachel Skipper placed 29th.

SHS, NHS BATTLE IN OAKLAND – The first 2005 high school volleyball match on a Garrett County court took place in Oakland last night, where the host Southern High School Rams downed their Northern Husky counterparts 3-0. NHS junior Nicole Espada (#24) is featured above going up for a tap, surrounded on the far side of the net, from the left, by fellow Huskies Jessica Fratz, Carly Chase, Kara Bowser, and Tara Devine. Crouching in defensive posture on the near side of the net are Rams Chelsea Wassell, Natalie Rohrbaugh, and Adrienne Yoder. Ram senior Randi Bennett (#23) is pictured below going up for one of her match-high 11 kills, backed up by Wassell, while Huskies Leah Biser (#25) and Jackie Rodeheaver get ready to attempt to block the spike. Laker Netters Hit Courts For Seven Matches In Busy Week

It's been a whirlwind of late for the Garrett College volleyball team, which played three regular matches and four tournament matches in the last nine days of action. The Lakers recorded wins over Allegany College of Maryland and Jamestown Community College in the Butler Community College Tournament over the weekend, but stumbled in each of their five other outings against Penn State-Fayette, Columbus State, Lakeland, Potomac State College, and an unbeaten Hagerstown squad.

The first contest took place last Tuesday, Sept. 6, as the Lakers fell to Fayette by a 3-1 margin. GC was edged in the first game 30-27 and downed in the second 30-21. The Lakers then rebounded for a 30-19 victory before dropping the final game 30-21.

Sophomore Yolonda Anthony paced Garrett with two aces, 13 digs, and seven kills, while classmate Johnna Newby had eight kills and three blocks. Freshman Kayla Nazelrod recorded 11 service points, nine digs, and seven kills, sophomore Tabitha Beitzel put up 13 points, and freshman Julia Bosley had 10 digs.

The Butler Tournament took place Friday and Saturday in Pennsylvania.

The Lakers opened tourney play Friday evening by falling to Columbus State, 30-25 and 30-17. Freshman Jayme Miller and Nazelrod had six points each, Beitzel contributed five digs and two aces, and Butler had five digs.

Garrett stayed alive by downing Allegany in its following contest, 2-1, by taking the opening game 30-22, narrowly losing game two by a 30-28 tally, and coming back to claim the tiebreaker by a convincing 15-7 margin.

Bosley paced the Lakers with five aces and 13 service points. Beitzel had 14 digs, and Anthony and Bosley each had seven digs. Newby tallied seven kills, Bosley five, and Nazelrod four, while Miller and Anthony contributed seven and six service points, respectively.

The Lakers beat Jamestown 2-1 in the third-round opener the following day. Jamestown won the opening game 30-18, but GC took the next two 30-26 and 15-6.

Nazelrod recorded three aces, while Bosley and Miller had 10 digs apiece. Beitzel contributed seven digs, and Miller netted 10 service points while Anthony had five.

Garrett was eliminated from competition when Lakeland took a 2-0 sweep by 30-24, 31-29 margins.

Bosley had four aces in the contest and Miller had two. Beitzel recorded eight digs, Miller seven, Anthony six, and Bosley five. Newby tallied seven kills, while Anthony and Jackson had five each. Nazelrod and Beitzel recorded six service

Husky Netters Drop Matches At Alco, SHS

The Northern High School volleyball team got off to a slow start this week, as the Huskies dropped their first two matches on the road to Westmar Monday and Southern last night (see SHS account for coverage of that contest). The Huskies are still almost a week away from their home opener in their friendly Igloo confines, slated for Tuesday, with a visit to Meyersdale coming up the night before that contest.

NHS opened Westmar match in fine fashion by dropping game one by a 25-20 margin, but struck back hard in the second game to take a 25-18 victory. The host Wildcats went on to record 25-21 and 26-24 triumphs over the final two games.

Northern junior Jackie Rodeheaver paced the Huskies with a dozen points, while Westmar's Lexi Gentry had 10 service points and five kills.

The Husky junior varsity turned in a 2-1 win, taking the first game 25-13, dropping the second 14-25, and recording a 15-10 in the third contest. NHS sophomore Hanna Winter had nine points to lead Northern to victory, while Hannah Rawlings recorded eight points for the 'Cats.

Both Monday's road match with the Red Raiders and Tuesday's home opener against Fort Hill get under way with JV play at 6 p.m., and varsity action following immediately afterward.

Rams Take Revenge Against Keyser; Crush Allegany, NHS

An impressive opening salvo was fired off by the Southern High School volleyball team this week, as the Rams took their first three matches of the season. SHS debuted by downing a tough Keyser squad on the road by a narrow 3-2 margin, then the Rams crushed host Allegany Monday night 3-0, and swept past Northern last night in their Oakland home opener by an identical margin.

The win over Keyser went to a full five games last Wednesday, Sept. 7, as the Rams had to overcome a first-game loss, 25-17, by taking game two 25-18. The Golden Tornado edged SHS in the third contest, 26-24, but Southern roared back to take the final two meetings by convincing 25-13, 15-9 margins.

SHS senior Chelsea Wassell had a team-high 15 kills, classmate Randi Bennett had 13 kills, three blocks, and four aces. Fellow senior Sarah Rexroad had 13 points, six aces, and five kills, and junior Natalie Rohrbaugh contributed 11 assists.

Keyser was led by Megan Webb with nine points, seven assists, and six kills. Aushia Beavers had eight assists and six kills, and Kayla Smith had nine kills.

Southern's junior varsity found itself embroiled in a true battle, as the Rams lost their first game, 25-15, before rebounding to take the second game 25-16. An exciting tie-breaking match went well beyond regulation as the Rams finally prevailed by a 31-29 tally.

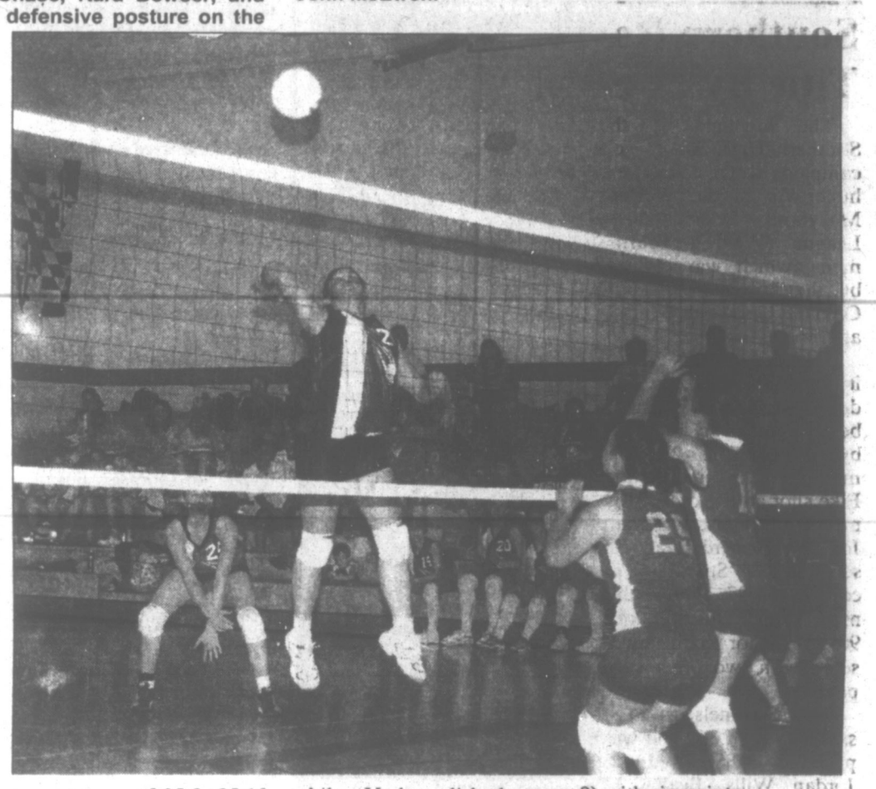
SHS had a cakewalk against Allegany as the Rams swept to 25-14, 25-20 and 25-16 wins for a three-game sweep.

Wassell netted eight points, seven kills, and five digs, and Bennett recorded eight kills, five aces, and three blocks. Rohrbaugh dished out nine assists and tallied five kills, while junior Adrienne Yoder handed out eight assists and senior Jenna Wagner contributed eight points.

For Allegany, Kelsey Smith finished with 15 digs, four kills, four blocks, and two aces, while Leslie Crosten had 14 digs, four blocks, two kills, and an ace.

The Rams won the junior varsity contest by the scores of 25-15 and 25-16. Alex Barnard paced the Rams in service aces, and Shayna Sweitzer led in assists.

Last night against Northern SHS put together another convincing sweep by game scores of 25-9, 25-10, and 25-9.



Bennett and Yoder paced the Rams with 12 service points apiece, and Bennett added six aces and 11 kills while Yoder dished out seven assists. Wassell tallied six kills, and Rohrbaugh put together five kills and nine assists.

Jessica Fratz led NHS (0-2) with six points.

Southern took the JV match, 25-13 and 25-23.

The unbeaten Rams are slated to visit Beall Monday and Westmar Wednesday.

Derek Upperman placed fourth to lead the SHS boys, recording a time of 20:39. Teammates Mike McConnell, Ben Warnick, and Joe Bever were 5th, 9th, and 10th, respectively.

Hampshire's Bryan Potter, Michael Shanholtz, and John Paul Binotto took the first three places, respectively.

The next meet for the Runnin' Rams will be Saturday, Sept. 24, when they travel to Preston High School in Kingwood to vie in the Mountaintop Combo Invitational.

points apiece, and Bosley contributed five.

Monday night's battle at Potomac State went a full five games, with GC falling at the end by a 3-2 tally. PSC took the opener 30-25, the Lakers answered with a 30-19 victory in game two, the Catamounts took a thrilling third game by a 30-28 margin, and Garrett set up a tiebreaker by claiming the fourth game 30-21. The deciding game went to PSC by a score of 15-6.

Nazelrod led the Lakers with 17 service points, 10 kills, and four solo blocks. Miller netted 15 points and four aces, and Beitzel had 10 points and 17 digs. The Catamounts' Felicia Sharff had 14 kills, seven aces, and two blocks.

Last night's match against Hagerstown ended in a Laker loss by game scores of 30-20, 30-13, and 30-11.

Miller had an ace, while Butler recorded eight digs, Beitzel had six, and Bosley and Miller had four each. Bosley tallied four kills, while Butler, Nazelrod, and Newby contributed three apiece. Butler and Miller each recorded four service points, and Nazelrod contributed four solo blocks and one assist.

The Lakers (2-6) have a home stand to look forward to this week, beginning with a 6 p.m. match tomorrow evening against Butler. Garrett hosts its first-ever home quadrangular match on Saturday, with Frederick, Cecil, and Louisburg arriving for a 2 p.m. start, then on Monday Allegany pays a 6:30 p.m. visit.

Northern JVs Open With Two Shutout Wins

The junior varsity squad of the Northern High School football program is taking no prisoners so far this season, as the young Huskies have outscored their opponents 55-0 over their first two contests. NHS is showing flashes of a sparkling running game that could bode well for the program's future.

Northern's debut on Wednesday, Sept. 7, against North Star ended in a 14-0 Husky victory before delighted home fans.

Freshman halfback Zack Fratz scored on a 15-yard run in the first quarter on his way to a 56-yard game tally on 15 carries, and sophomore halfback Eric Espada scampered 12 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. Espada led all rushers with 94 yards. Sophomore fullback Ben Diehl contributed 50 rushing yards, and led the Northern defense in tackles. Freshman defensive end Kyle Gillum intercepted a pass, and defensive back Fratz and sophomore linebacker Dustin Platter each recovered a fumble.

The Huskies hosted Clear Spring on Monday night, and came away with a 41-0 triumph. Espada gained 114 yards on just three carries and scored three touchdowns. The sophomore got the scoring going in the first stanza when he reeled off a 75-yard punt return for a touchdown. In the second quarter, Fratz scampered 50 yards for a score before Espada scampered 77 yards for his second TD. Diehl churned out a 70-yard touchdown run before the stanza's end to put NHS up 28-0 at the half.

Espada scored from 25 yards in the third quarter, and Diehl added a defensive touchdown in the third quarter when he alertly pounced on a Blazer fumble in the Clear Spring end zone.

Diehl's' nine tackles and two sacks paced Northern's stingy defense.

The Huskies visit Meyersdale for a 7 p.m. contest Monday. The Red Raiders are also 2-0 in the 2005 campaign.

Sets Hearing

the PSC in July, when a DNR contractor said that 16 turbines should be able to provide the power generating capability Synergics seeks while posing less of a potential threat to the environment.

A history of the PSC hearing process concerning the Synergics application is available for viewing on the Internet on the commission's web site at www.psc.state.md.us, where interested persons can utilize the "Case Search" field to view case jacket 9008.

The case file is also available for viewing at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

The building permit applications submitted by Synergics to the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development can be viewed by the public at that department's Oakland Courthouse office. Persons are asked to schedule a viewing appointment by calling that office at 301-334-1920.

Persons who cannot attend the Thursday meeting at Southern High can submit written comments on the project to the Maryland Public Service Commission, 6 South Paul St., Baltimore, MD 21202, referencing PSC Case 9008/Synergics Energy. The deadline for written comments is Thursday, Sept. 22.

In preparation for the upcoming public hearing, the anti-wind project group Friends of Backbone Mountain, a coalition of local citizens, environmentalists, real estate professionals, and land developers opposed to both the proposed Synergics project and the already approved Clipper Wind power facility (PSC Case 8928), will host meeting of its own from 6 8 p.m. on Monday Sept. 1 at the Ruth Enlow Libra in Oakland.

Northern Class Of 1965 Holds 40th Reunion

The Northern High School class of 1965 celebrated its 40-year graduation reunion on Aug. 27 at the picnic pavilion of St. John's Lutheran Church, located along Cove Road near the high school.

A total of 42 classmates attended the reunion picnic.

Polly Hanst, former home economics teacher and class advisor, was among the special guests of the day.

"At the young age of 98, she still gets around and enjoys visiting with former students," said classmate Gerald Beachy.

Other guests were former principal Robert Rodeheaver and his wife Rosetta, and former teacher Matthew Stieringer and his wife Fran.

NHS CLASS OF 1965 – A total of 42 classmates from the Northern High School class of 1965 attended their 40th reunion last month. Pictured above, front row, from left, are special guests Matthew Stieringer, Polly Hanst, and Robert Rodeheaver. In the second row are Linda (Margroff) Strider, Linda (Fisher) Edwards, Linda (Bowser) King, Patty (Savage) Martin, Kathy (Coddington) Youngblood, and Christine (Carlson) Johnson. In the third row are Peggy (Bowser) Close, Dottie (Thomas) Sines, Nancy (Bowser) Durst, Esther (Mast) Merson, Linda (Sheffield) Handwerk, Betty (Metheny) Byron, and Jean (Kolbfleisch) Shafer. In the fourth row are Sandy (Schlossnagle) McGraw, Dorla Mazer, Peggy (Featherman) Warner, Connie (Friend) Burow, Carol (Edwards) Williams, Mary (Beachy) Presgraves, Jim Richter, Reed Rodeheaver, Susie Coddington, and Gerald Beachy. In the fifth row are Gary Buckel, Ralph Miller, Fred Bowser, Harry Hetz, Roy Sexton, Albert Hetrick, Charles McCrobie, and Donald Sebold. In the back row are Ronnie Durst, Colin McGraw, Regis Bittinger, Henry Oester, Larry Suter, Bill Klotz, David Bentz, and Ronnie Sines. See story.

A special memorial service, led by Harry Hetz, was held in honor of deceased class members and advisors.

The classmates were given door prizes, and took chances at a guess box, a 50/50 drawing, and a raffle of three homemade items. Carol (Edwards) Williams made and donated a quilt, Nancy (Bowser) Durst made and donated a flannel blanket, and Bill Edwards donated a drawing.

"Thanks to all who made this reunion successful," Beachy said. "Your help was appreciated."

Anyone who would like to help with the next reunion is asked to contact Jean Shafer at 304-788-6014 or jntshafer@pennswoods.net.

10-Acre Corn Maze Features "County Roads"

by Brenda Ruggiero

At Cove-Run Farms Corn Maze, customers are not offended when someone tells them to "get lost." In fact, getting lost in a 10-acre maze of tall cornstalks is part of the fun of being at Cove-Run Farms north of Accident, owned and operated by Bob and Alice Bender and their family.

An aerial view of the maze reveals a map of Garrett County. Visitors enter the maze on a wide path labeled "I-68," and can traverse the entire county on state and county roads.

Questions at intersections guide adventurers through the maze.

"We integrated the questions with the Maryland pre-kindergarten through fifth grade curriculum, as well as with the Cub Scouts' and Boy Scouts' learning objectives," Alice said. "We have questions about agriculture, Garrett County, and even Bible trivia, so kids and adults can pick the type of learning they do."

Recent improvements at Cove-Run Farms include a new picket-fenced play area for children with benches for parents. The farm also features picnic pavilions, pedal tractors and bikes for the kids' hay bale maze, and a concession stand.

"Improvements at Cove-Run Farms have made it a great, affordable destination for local and tourist families," said Cheryl DeBerry, agriculture marketing specialist for Garrett County Economic Development. "The maze isn't just for kids — adults have a lot of fun taking a relaxing walk through a cornfield, looking for the Garrett County roads they have traveled."

The process of creating the maze spanned several months this spring and summer. The entire maze is plotted out on paper using global positioning technology. The corn is first planted in a criss-cross fashion over the entire field. Then, when the corn is about two feet tall, the paths are cut with a lawn and garden tractor using a global positioning unit.

Willie Lantz, Garrett County Extension educator for agriculture and natural resources, has helped the Benders cut their maze paths ever since the maze opened five years ago.

"It really is a high-tech process," he said. "We work hard to make it as accurate as possible."

Individuals can visit the maze during operating hours, Fridays from noon to 10 p.m., Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Sundays from 2 to 6 p.m. Other days are available by appointment. School, church, Scouting, and other organizations are invited to schedule groups, as well. For more information, persons may visit www.CoveRunFarms.com or call 301-746-8161 or 301-746-6111.

MHEC Provides Grants To Improve Teacher Quality

The Maryland Higher Education Commission is accepting proposals from institutions of higher education interested in providing teacher training as part of the federal government's "No Child Left Behind." The purpose of the grants is to provide professional development to teachers and principals in core academic subject areas.

The awards total approximately $1.7 million with a maximum grant of $220,000. Grants will be awarded to K-16 partnerships which include at least one public or private institution of higher education and its division that prepares teachers and principals, a school of arts and sciences, and a "high-need" local education agency (LEA), which is defined by law as a school system with a high number of students living in poverty and a high percentage of teachers who are either teaching outside the areas in which they were trained or who lack full certification.

The partnership may also include additional LEAs, nonprofit cultural organizations, an educational service agency, a teacher or principal organization, businesses, and certain other entities.

The grants will be awarded on a competitive basis and must be used to improve teacher quality, increase the number of highly qualified teachers and principals, and increase the academic achievement of Maryland students.

A technical assistance meeting is scheduled for Nov. 4 at the Gateway Business and Technology Training Center, Room 6, in Columbia. Proposals are due on Jan. 18, 2006, and grant awards will be made in March.

The RFP is available online at www.mhec.state.md.us/Grants/ITQ/ITQ.asp.

For more information about the grant, persons may contact Paula Fitzwater at 410-260-4504 or Candace Caraco at 410-260-4578.

Adorable Adoptables

"THE THREE STOOGES" NEED HOMES – The three young male orange/white tabbies pictured above have been dubbed the Three Stooges because of their playfulness and entertaining antics. They have been housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter for several weeks and need new homes. Also available for adoption are two young female brown tabbies, below, that are described as very sweet and playful. Also looking for a home is a 10-month-old male black Lab mix named Scrappy who was given up by his owners. "He's very energetic and would love a place to run and play," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Last week's mixed male dog was taken by a rescue, and Lady was adopted, but many cats still need homes. "If each pet owner would have his or her pet spayed or neutered, there would be a lot less homeless animals in our communities and animal shelter," said the spokesperson. For more information about adopting these or other pets, persons may call 301-334-3553 or visit the shelter at 152 Oakland Sang Run Road.

Garrett College Honors Program Opens Doors For High Achievers

by Jo Donaldson

The Garrett College Honors Program recently inducted 10 new members, according to Honors coordinator Dr. Greg Jenkins. With five members held over from last year, total enrollment in the program for the fall 2005 semester is a robust 15, the second highest figure ever.

"Excellence is what the program is all about," said Jenkins. "We seek the highest achieving and most responsible students we can find."

Once accepted into the program, students receive a 50 percent reduction in their tuition. They are also afforded the opportunity to partake as a group in two specially chosen "enrichment activities" per semester including plays, concerts, and sporting events, and they enjoy closer interaction with their instructors.

"It isn't easy to get accepted into Honors," Jenkins noted. "But students who do make it in find that the rewards are substantial."

The current members of the Honors Program hail from different locations and have a variety of interests.

Craig Canfield comes to Garrett from Lower Burrell, Pa. A baseball player, he says one of his goals is to change the false perceptions some people have about athletes.

A resident of Grantsville, Caressa Frazee took her first course at Garrett at the age of 15. Still just 17, she hopes to become a clinical psychologist.

Erika Fike went to high school at Governor Thomas Johnson in Frederick. She plans to turn her interest in science into a career in medicine.

Most recently of Finksburg, Lauren Gibson was born in Scotland and lived for three years in Okinawa, Japan. She hopes to become a wildlife specialist.

A salutatorian at Northern, Heidi Hare hasn't yet settled on a career path. She says she puts everything she has into her projects "nothing less than a hundred percent."

Kristina Kask is a native of Estonia, where she developed a passion for competitive shooting. With her skill in various languages, she may enter international banking.

Another traveler, Britta Lais of Grantsville has made friends in Japan, Spain, and Chile. She hopes to find a corporate position that will allow her to continue her adventurous ways.

James Michaels, who lives in Oakland, is devoted to art, especially watercolors. He plans to pursue a career as either an artist or an art teacher.

A resident of Swanton, Sarah Mullenax has recently taken up skydiving. She hopes to move south one day and work for an advertising company.

Tina Opel lives in Accident and is fascinated with nature. She is seeking a degree in natural resources and wildlife technology and would like to be a wildlife biologist.

Also from Accident, Caroline Stahl is both a singer and a euphoniumist. She would like to parlay her musical talent into a career as a singer or music teacher.

Rachel Stanton, who resides in Grantsville, has traveled to Kenya, among other places, to do missionary work. She'd like to be a teacher, preferably in or near Garrett County.

From Erial, N.J., Andrew Storms will pitch for the Lakers' baseball team. He envisions himself as either a teacher or an accountant one day.

Ashley Zeigler of Oakland has also done some missionary work, having traveled to Mexico. She looks forward to starting her own family and, perhaps, to a career in education.

Her brother, Jon Zeigler, a hunter and fisherman, is likewise active in church. When he finishes with his schooling, he may acquire his own car repair business.

Garrett College is always searching for potential Honors students. Applicants may qualify for the program in various ways, including high test scores, excellent grades in high school or college, or evidence of exceptional creative or artistic talent. Persons interested in the Garrett College Honors Program can obtain further information by contacting Dr. Greg Jenkins at 301-387-3122 or via e-mail at gjenkins@garrettcollege.edu. The next deadline for applications is Monday, Dec. 5.

OHS Class Of 1951 Gathers For Reunion

Classmates from the Oakland High School class of 1951 gathered for a reunion recently at Will O' the Wisp.

Master of ceremonies Joe DiSimone shared highlights of the class's history with 39 classmates and their guests. A special guest was class advisor Elmer "Bill" Crone.

The alumni voted to continue to schedule a yearly brunch on the Sunday following the Oakland High School Reunion.

The 1951 Alumni Committee seeks new members on an ongoing basis. For more information, persons may contact Pat Steyer (chairperson) or Frances Gnegy (secretary).

The class of 1951 was the last class to graduate from Oakland High School, which was located at the former Fourth Street site of the Board of Education building.

Fund Raising For Public Groups Workshop Slated

A videoconference workshop titled "Fund Raising for Public Organizations" is slated from 1 to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 27, at three separate locations in western Maryland, including Garrett College. The event is sponsored by the Development District Association of Appalachia and co-hosted by the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland.

The videoconference will feature David G. Bauer, president of David G. Bauer & Associates, and the session will allow participants to call, e-mail, or fax questions to him during the program. The agenda topics include numerous fundraising techniques, pro-active grant seeking, and proposal writing.

The cost of the videoconference will be $10, and pre-registration is required. For further information, or to register, persons may contact Patti Henry at 301-777-2158 or via e-mail at pjhenry@tccwmd.org.

NAMI To Host Family To Family Course This Fall

The Garrett County Chapter of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI) will host a Family to Family course at Garrett College each Monday from 6:30 until 9 p.m. from Sept. 26 to Nov. 14. Lessons will be taught by trained NAMI presenters.

The course is open to family members of individuals with mental illnesses, including bipolar disorder, clinical depression, and schizophrenia. Clinical treatments, knowledge, and skills for these illnesses will be discussed to help family members cope more effectively, noted a NAMI spokesperson.

All instruction and course materials are free for class participants.

For more information and registration, persons are asked to call 301-533-0552 by Sept. 19.

Military Support Meeting Slated

A military support meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 6:30 p.m. at the Deep Creek fire hall. The event is open to all retired, active, and reserve military personnel, their families, and any other interested persons.

Each family is asked to bring a dessert, and child care will be provided.

For more information, persons may call Judy Fazenbaker at 301-746-4016, Debbie or Phil Workman at 301-746-8717, or Mel or Kathy Menker at 301-334-5906.

Lt. Gov., Sallie Mae Launch New Program

Sallie Mae, the nation's No. 1 paying-for-college company, and Lt. Governor Michael Steele announced last week a new program designed to attract and retain teachers and nurses in Maryland. Sallie Mae's Teach for MarylandSM and Care for MarylandSM loan assistance programs will offer aspiring Maryland teachers and nurses up to 10 percent of their loans back after starting their careers in the state.

Sallie Mae's Teach for Maryland and Care for Maryland student loans are low-cost Stafford loans backed by the federal government. Through a partnership with the state, nursing or teaching students at any Maryland college or university who commit to work as teachers or nurses in the state are eligible for the program. Students who participate in this new loan program will be eligible to receive up to 10 percent of the total amount of their student loans back (based on the original principal amount of their loans) after making 36 months of regular on-time payments and teaching or nursing in Maryland for three years.

"When it comes to education and health care, Governor Ehrlich and I believe our families deserve the best," said Lt. Governor Michael Steele. "That's why Sallie Mae's initiative is so important. I am confident that it will not only bring the best and brightest teachers and nurses to the state but also keep Maryland's finest right here at home."

According to a 2003 report by the Center for Health Workforce Development at the University of Maryland, the state had a shortage of 3,000 registered nurses. By 2012, it projects that the shortage will reach 17,000. The Maryland State Department of Education reports critical teacher shortages in each of the state's 23 counties and Baltimore City, as well as in a variety of subjects including math, science, foreign language and special education.

"Our teachers and nurses are everyday heroes, educating our young people and caring for our families," said Kevin Moehn, executive vice president, Sallie Mae. "When demand outpaces supply, we must encourage more college students to pursue teaching and nursing careers. Our Teach for Maryland and Care for Maryland programs will help alleviate shortages in these areas, and all Marylanders will benefit."

For more information about the Teach for Maryland and Care for Maryland student loan programs, persons may call 1-800-826-7562 or visit www.salliemae.com.

FOP MAKES DONATIONS – Garrett County Lodge 99 Fraternal Order of Police recently purchased a hog during the Garrett County Fair. The lodge donated one-half to the Garrett County Community Action Committee's After-School Program and the other half to the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department. Community Action oversees three after-school programs in Grantsville, Friendsville, and Loch Lynn, with more than 100 students enrolled at the sites, according to Linda Green, Community Action's Community & Emergency Services program director. The proceeds from the hog will help fund after-school activities and the GVFD. In the photo at left are Capt. Larry Gnegy, FOP chaplain, and Green. Helen Kay Neel, secretary/treasurer for the GVFD, is shown with Gnegy in the photo at right.

Spaghetti Dinner Slated To Benefit Leukemia Patient

A spaghetti dinner will be held this Saturday, Sept. 17, at the Deep Creek fire hall, McHenry, from 5 until 8 p.m. Take-outs will be available.

The cost is $6 per person. Proceeds will benefit Rich Humberson Jr, who was recently diagnosed with leukemia and requires a bone marrow transplant.

Women's Club Sets Luncheon

The Oakland Christian Women's Club has slated a ladies' luncheon and guest speaker presentation for 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at the North Glade Inn.

The guest speaker will be Dianna Sutherland of Annandale, Va. Cindy Kitzmiller of Country Treasures will present a demonstration of decorating areas for the fall and Christmas seasons.

The cost for the luncheon is $8.50. For reservations or additional information, persons may call Betty Wolford at 301-334-9521. Babysitting services are available upon request.

Christian Women's Clubs are a ministry of Stonecroft Ministries, based in Kansas City, Mo.

Hurricane-Affected Children Enrolled In Md. Schools

More than 250 children who have been displaced by Hurricane Katrina have enrolled in public schools in 20 Maryland counties and Baltimore City, according to the Maryland State Department of Education. Additionally, thousands of students from Louisiana and Mississippi are being enrolled in neighboring states and other states nationwide. These numbers are expected to grow in the coming weeks.

"The Maryland Department of Education is in the business of educating students, and in addition to any efforts that direct funds for general relief efforts, we wanted to make sure that we do something to help students learn," said Maryland State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick.

Dr. Grasmick contacted superintendents in the affected and neighboring states, and they shared their concern for funds targeted specifically to assist with the education of "Katrina's Kids." Therefore, the Maryland State Department of Education has established a way for corporations and individuals to donate tax-deductible funds to help with the supplemental costs of educating students.

Persons may call 410-767-0011 or e-mail Katrina.Relief@marylandpublicschools.org for more information about monetary donations.

"We have begun a journey to aid these affected families that may last weeks, months, or even years," said Dr. Grasmick. "At the end of the day, I think we can all be proud of our efforts – as individuals, as schools, as school systems, as Marylanders, and as Americans."

The Maryland State Department of Education Katrina's Kids Education Fund is one of many efforts under way by the department, local school systems, and schools to aid the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

CHEVY ROCK & ROLL 400 REVIEW

Kurt Busch rules at Richmond

Five Roush drivers all make the Chase

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Richmond, Va.

Roush Racing ruled the night Saturday at Richmond International Raceway as Kurt Busch scored a runaway win in the Chevy Rock & Roll 400 and his teammates Carl Edwards and Matt Kenseth secured two of the last four berths in the Chase for the Nextel Cup. The Chase begins Sunday at New Hampshire International Speedway.

That put all five Roush drivers in the Chase — including Mark Martin and Greg Biffle, who had secured spots, and Busch, the defending series champion, who needed only to start the race to join the elite group.

The Roush domination also was evident in the finishing order of Saturday's race as Kenseth and Biffle finished second and third ahead of Kyle Busch and Rusty Wallace.

The other drivers taking Chase berths in the final race of the regular season were Jeremy Mayfield and Ryan Newman, who took the final Chase spot with a 12th-place run.

Busch, who led five times for 185 laps, including the final 78, indicated that his team is about to show even more strength. As he did last year during his run to the title, Busch has saved test sessions to use at tracks in the Chase.

"It's going to be a busy September and October," he said. "We're going to hit it hard."

Ten drivers entered the race vying for the final four berths in the 10-driver, 10-race battle for the championship.

Points leader Tony Stewart, Greg Biffle, Jimmie Johnson, Rusty Wallace and Mark Martin had secured Chase spots before Richmond.

Kenseth, who was 17th in the standings and 204 points out of 10th place in late July, capped off a remarkable reversal of fortune with his runner-up finish in Saturday's race, which put him ninth in the standings.

Jamie McMurray, who missed the Chase last year by 15 points, was in 13th place, within 18 points of making the Chase this year when he, Ricky Rudd and Tony Raines wrecked with 40 laps to go.

McMurray said he came up short long before Richmond.

"You have 25 other races to make it into this, and we just didn't run well enough in those," he said. "It's frustrating because you want to be in the Chase, but we just haven't run as well as we did last year."

Elliott Sadler was a long shot for a Chase berth entering Saturday's race — 13th in the standings and 52 points behind 10th place — but he was hampered by a spin on Lap 114 that banged up his No. 38 Ford.

He finished 17th in the race and 11th in points.

RICHMOND NOTEBOOK

Gordon suffers problems; doesn't make the Chase

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Richmond, Va.

NASCAR's 10-race, 10-driver playoff-style battle for the championship of NASCAR's elite division will be run without two of the sport's biggest stars. Dale Earnhardt Jr. was already eliminated coming into Richmond, and four-time series champion Jeff Gordon, who came into the race 30 points out of the top group, struggled all night, finishing 30th in the race and 12th in the standings.

GORDON

Although many in the sport had predicted that Gordon and his team would perform when the pressure was on, he never showed championship form.

His first major setback came during a round of pit stops that began during a caution period at Lap 114. His crew left a lug nut loose the first time through, necessitating a second stop that put him at the back of the pack for the restart.

He languished just outside the top 25 for several laps, radioing to his crew that his car was difficult to steer at speed.

He hit the wall on Lap 211 and lost a lap while his crew made repairs. He was never able to get back up to speed.

He said his focus now is on next season: "Now we can put this [Chase] behind us and find out what's wrong with our race team," he said. "The bottom line is we're way off, and we have a lot of work to do for next year."

Marlin says he'll return

Sterling Marlin indicated Saturday that he'll be back on the Nextel Cup circuit next year, most likely driving the Chevrolet now driven by Scott Riggs, who is leaving the MB2 team to drive a Dodge for Ray Evernham.

While Marlin wouldn't confirm the details, he indicated that the only thing holding up an official announcement is finalizing sponsor agreements.

"I'm locked in a Chevrolet," Marlin said.

The 2006 plans for the Wood Brothers racing team also hinge on the signing of sponsor agreements. Team officials say there will be three sponsors sharing space on the No. 21 Ford, and the team likely will add a Craftsman Truck Series entry with open-wheel standout Bobby East behind the wheel.

Veteran Ricky Rudd, driver of the team's flagship car, still hasn't decided whether he'll return for another season.

Chase field could grow in 2006

There were rumors in the Nextel Cup garage at Richmond International Raceway that the field for the Chase for the Nextel Cup could grow from 10 to 12 next season.

The argument is based on the fact that there have been at least 12 drivers in contention for a Chase berth up until the final laps of the final race of the "regular season."

NASCAR President Mike Helton said the sanctioning body will review the Chase at the end of the season to see if adjustments to the format are warranted.

COMMENTARY

NASCAR also feels gas crunch

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

Most of us sat home over the Labor Day weekend, stuck in our towns and cities because of gas prices. No beach trips, mountain trips or even trips to the local store, if we could help it.

No one wants to pay $3.29 for a gallon of regular gas, but at least there was an option to pay for fuel in most places. After all, having no gas is worse than having expensive gas.

But a gas shortage would also be bad for motorsports. Without gas, NASCAR's Chase for the Cup might be reduced to a bunch of crew guys pushing cars down the track.

"Any kind of fuel shortage is going to affect motorsports. How could it not?" Busch Series rookie T.J. Bell said. "That would be bigger than a lumber shortage in Major League Baseball or a pigskin shortage in the NFL.

"Man, that's even bigger than a lawyer shortage in the NHL."

Of course, NASCAR won't really run out of gas. Veteran Cup driver Ken Schrader pointed out that Sunoco makes the fuel available for the Nextel Cup Series, and teams aren't required to pay for it. Schrader said drivers and teams from local short tracks would suffer the most.

"Still, you know what? Racers are racers, and they will do whatever they have to do to race," he said. "If they took every drop of gasoline out of the United States today, you'd have 40 guys on bicycles somewhere trying to beat each other."

High gas prices and a possible shortage don't affect NASCAR on the track, but the impact is certainly felt en route to the races. The increased cost is evident in everything from transporting cars to shipping parts. Teams don't just travel from race to race, they travel from test to test as well.

Even using chartered jets has gotten more expensive.

"It's a big snowball effect, and we see the results in our wallet," said Ricky Pearson, Bell's crew chief. "It's absolutely ridiculous right now. The prices are so high, but I don't know what we can do about it. They certainly have to do something about it."

But Pearson is also worried about another group affected by the skyrocketing cost — the fans.

"A guy with a family of four who takes a week's vacation to come and see a race — and a lot of them do that — they may not be able to do that right now," he said. "They may not have the funds to go to a race 300 or 400 miles away."

As the Chase approaches, tracks that normally sell tickets from all over the country might see a disappointing turnout. It's hard to justify paying $90 each way to go to a race where the tickets already cost $100 apiece. And since NASCAR is more of a fan-based sport than any other, Craftsman Truck Series driver Brandon Whitt said he's willing to help out.

"I don't think Derek Jeter would drive a busload of fans to Yankee Stadium each week," he said. "Give me the keys, though, and I'm ready to pick 'em up."

Busch Series season a thriller even without 'Chase' playoff

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Richmond, Va.

NASCAR's second- and third-tier series are proving that it doesn't take a playoff format to have an exciting late-season points race.

TRUEX JR.

The Busch Series title race, which uses a conventional, season-long formula instead of the 10-driver, 10-race Chase format used in NASCAR's elite series, is rapidly becoming a thriller.

Points leader Martin Truex Jr. saw his lead over runner-up Clint Bowyer drop from 142 to 94 points during Friday's race at Richmond.

Truex lost two laps midway through the race while his crew taped down his flapping hood, then he took a wild ride down the backstretch wall after being crowded by Mike Wallace. Truex finished 27th while Bowyer was 11th.

The gap could close more this week because of Truex's televised obscene gesture at Wallace after the crash. NASCAR typically responds with penalties that include deductions in points and cash fines.

Three weeks ago, Truex had a 204-point lead over Bowyer.

The Craftsman Truck Series title chase also is getting better with each race for everybody except points leader Dennis Setzer.

Since winning at Indianapolis Raceway Park on Aug. 5, Setzer has seen his lead shrink from 227 to 49 points over Ted Musgrave. Both circuits have seven races left to run.

The Busch Series has a week off this weekend before resuming at Dover International Speedway on Sept. 24.

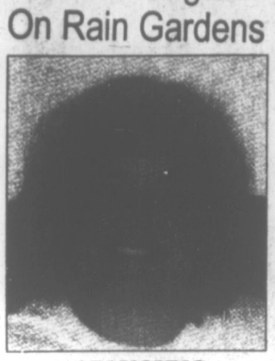
Garden Club To Present Program On Rain Gardens



LORI YOUNG

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will host a luncheon meeting set to begin at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at the Silver Tree Restaurant. Following a business meeting Maryland Cooperative Extension educator Lori Young will present a program titled "Rain Gardens." A luncheon will follow the program.

Young is an Extension educator in horticulture in Washington County. She holds a bachelor of science degree in horticulture from Penn State University, and her interest is horticulture therapy. While teaching horticultural skills, Young says she strives to make programs environmentally friendly and uses sound Integrated Pest Management practices. She has designed a greenhouse layout that allows individuals with physical disabilities to work in a greenhouse, and has also worked with individuals who have developmental disabilities, teaching them horticultural methods and life skills that can be useful for them to gain employment and be productive members of society.

Young lives on a small farm in Greencastle, Pa., with her husband and three children. Her family raises goats, chickens, rabbits, and steer in addition to a vegetable garden and perennial beds. She has a pond on the property at which she uses such riparian buffer practices as rain gardens to filter storm water before it reaches her pond.

The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs organization, which provides education, resources, and national networking opportunities for its members and promotes gardening, floral design, and civic and environmental responsibility. The local club, which is also a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland, is open to men and women.

The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club recently received notification of two certificates of appreciation from the state organization. The first was an award regarding the club's increase in membership, which has grown to 75 members. The second certificate under the title of "Greening an Historical Site" was in reference to the plantings at the Oakland Railroad Station.

Members will be contacted for lunch reservations. Non-members interested in attending the meeting, making a lunch reservation, or receiving information about the club may contact Louise Wilson at 301-387-7427.

FIVE FITNESS MYTHS BUSTED

1. Lifting heavy weights will make you bulk up.

Women simply do not have enough of the muscle-building hormone testosterone to get bulky. Some people will gain muscle faster than they lose fat, so they may be bigger until they shed some of the fat.

2. Muscle can turn into fat.

Muscle and fat are two completely different tissues that have different functions. When you stop exercising, muscles atrophy (get smaller), so you will lose the tone that you worked so hard to get. And if you do not adjust your diet, you will gain fat.

3. You do not need to warm up and cool down.

The best mode of injury prevention is a good warm up and cool-down that involved a milder form of the workout, such as walking before jogging. A warm-up prepares the muscles and joints for work. Cold muscles are more susceptible to injury. A cool-down gradually lowers the heart rate, body temperature, and blood pressure.

4. The calorie readout on exercise machines is accurate.

Do not count on it. Studies have done newer equipment have been shown to be as much as 70% off. This is because there has not been a lot of research on the newer pieces of equipment and or they do not require the user to enter in information for each user of the equipment. Machines that require the user to enter age and weight information before starting tend to be more accurate because of this.

5. Doing too many stomach exercises will give you a pooch.

Even if you add resistance or add challenging moves to your abdominal workouts, this will not cause your abs to stick out. The pooch you see is the layer of fat on top of your ab muscles. Only changing your diet and increasing the amount of cardiovascular exercise will burn off the fat.

Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center is open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Tuesday and Thursday from 12:30 to 7 p.m. For more information, please call 301-746-8050.

TV PIPELINE

Is Ephram soon to return to 'Everwood'?

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Gregory Smith

Q: I am a huge fan of "Everwood." Will Ephram return in the next season? –A.J. McKeever, Madison, Ohio.

A: We don't know exactly what the new scripts hold in store, but we'd bank on Ephram returning from his overseas trek and still being as involved in the saga as ever. The WB Network drama's fourth year starts Sept. 29, and Gregory Smith is still a member of the regular cast. He won't be drawing a paycheck for doing nothing, so simply on that basis, we'd wager Ephram will still be a part of "Everwood" to a considerable degree.

Q: My wife and I are big fans of the FX show "Nip/Tuck." Has it been canceled, or will it return? –Len Maiolatesi, Jarrettsville, Md.

A: You don't have long to wait now. The edgy drama series about plastic surgeons – played by Julian McMahon (also of the summer movie "Fantastic Four") and Dylan Walsh – starts its third season Tuesday, Sept. 20.

Q: I am wondering if "Tru Calling" is coming back. I'm looking forward to seeing it again. –Lori Zaino, Morton Grove, Ill.

A: Unless a cable network picks up the existing hours, which wasn't known at this writing, the show's run is done. Its fate was pretty well sealed when Fox sliced last season's order for it from 13 episodes to six, which ultimately included an episode that never got on the air. The drama's driving force, creator-producer Jon Harmon Feldman, has since moved on to the new Fox series "Reunion." Since Fox Home Entertainment released the first season of "Tru," it's possible the same could happen with the second; again, that wasn't certain at this writing.

Q: When are the programming idiots at ABC going to stop juggling the schedule for "Grey's Anatomy"? Every time I tune in, it's missing, moved or gone. –David Stromberg, Chicago.

A: We feel your pain, David ... although maybe not with quite the same degree of forcefulness. Rest assured that everything will be fine as of Sept. 25, when "Grey's Anatomy" begins its second season. That's the same night "Desperate Housewives" starts year two, and we're confident that once the regular television season is under way, ABC will know better than to mess with its Sunday success.

Health Dept. Slates Week Of Rabies Clinics

The Garrett County Health Department will sponsor its final series of rabies clinics for 2005 from Monday through Saturday, Sept. 19-24, at various locations throughout the county. Failure to vaccinate pets against rabies in Maryland is a violation of state law, and may be punishable by a fine of up to $500 per animal.

The rabies vaccination clinics will be offered from 5 to 6 p.m. at Grantsville Elementary School on Monday, Sept. 19; at the Swanton Community Center on Tuesday, Sept. 20; at Crellin Elementary on Wednesday, Sept. 21; at Friendsville Elementary on Thursday, Sept. 22; and at the Kitzmiller Community Center on Friday, Sept. 23. A sixth clinic will be offered from 10 a.m. to noon at the Garrett County Health Department in Oakland on Saturday, June 24.

The vaccination cost is $5 per animal, and Health Department officials remind the public that only pets under the control of a responsible person may be brought to a clinic. Dogs must be on a leash, and cats and ferrets must be in a cage or tightly secured box with air holes. If a cage/carrier is not available cats must be carried in a pillowcase or suitable cloth sack. No other animals will be vaccinated.

County dog and cat licenses will be available at each clinic.

For further information on the clinics or on the rabies disease, persons may call Environmental Health Services at 301-334-7760.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

CELL PHONES
by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Why does my cell phone's battery start to get hot after I've been talking for 10 minutes or so?

Every battery in the whole world, including your cell phone battery, has an internal resistance. The rate at which charge flows is the current. When current flows out of the battery, it dissipates energy going through the internal resistance, and the energy turns into heat. It really is that simple.

At first, the amount of heat is so little that you don't notice it. But after a while (10 minutes or so) the warming-up can be noticeable.

A cell phone of good design with an efficient battery can stay on for a long time without heating up very much.

Q. What uses the most charge with my cell phone battery: Playing cell-phone video games with bright colors? The "vibrate" function? Regular talking?

When it comes to running down the battery, total charge is all you care about.

"Vibrate" uses up charge at the fastest rate during the time it's on – it draws the most current. Fortunately, that's only a few seconds, so the total charge used up by "vibrate" is small. The bright colors of video games make no difference at all; the embedded chips are very efficient. However, it's easy to spend a half hour playing games, and therefore the cell phone draws current for longer, which means the total charge used up is greater. Finally, regular talking draws a little more current than video games, because you're transmitting a signal.

Q. How come sometimes I can hear someone talking on the phone, but they can't hear me?

"Can you hear me now?" It's not just a TV slogan – we've all said it at one time or another.

A real telephone system doesn't operate according to the simple visualization that most people have – the old image of a wire connecting the two phones is long gone. Telephone calls are transmitted via electromagnetic waves. Each channel carries waves of a different frequency. Moreover, several telephone conversations at once can be transmitted over the same channel by a process called multiplexing. To transmit thousands of phone conversations simultaneously, it is most efficient to send your voice over one channel and the other person's voice over a different channel.

Most of the time, everything works fine. But once in a while, some electronic glitch will occur that interrupts one of the channels. When that happens, one direction of the phone conversation is getting through, but the other direction is not. When your words are carried on that interrupted channel, it's annoying and frustrating.

The better the cell-phone network, the less that sort of thing happens. When it does, just hang up and try again, and the connection will probably be fine next time.

Sporting Clay Shoot To Benefit Katrina Victims

A sporting clay shoot to benefit the Hurricane Katrina recovery efforts of the American Red Cross is set to begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 2. The event will take place at the Wings of Challenge sporting clay course near Friendsville, where a picnic will be served following the shoot.

A family of flood evacuees will be the special guests at the benefit. The donation to participate is $200 per four-person team, and the event is open to all skill level shooters – beginners to pros – of all ages.

Local businesses have the opportunity to sponsor one of the trap stations for a $100 donation. The use of the course is being donated for the fundraiser by Wings of Challenge, and the Wisp is donating food for the picnic.

To register, persons may call Ron Beeghly at 301-387-4057 or 301-616-6897, or Rick Broadwater at 301-616-0135.

4-H Club News

COUNTRY KIDS

The Country Kids 4-H Club has just concluded a very busy summer full of activities. In June, the club's annual camping trip was held at Swallow Falls State Park.

In July, the club traveled to Sandcastle Water Park in Pittsburgh, Pa., and sponsored a petting zoo for St. Peter's Catholic Church. Farm tours were also held and members' farms were visited and demonstrations given.

Members were busy in August preparing for and participating in the annual Garrett County Fair. Club members exhibited in market animal classes, sewing, crafts, photography, and much more.

The Country Kids invites any youth, age 8 to 18 years, who is interested in 4-H to their next meeting. It will be held Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 7 p.m. at the Deer Park Community Building.

COUNTRY EXPLORERS
by Katelyn Gnegy, reporter

The monthly meeting of the Country Explorers 4-H Club was held on Sept. 2. The program for the night was "Bats, Bugs, and Boxes," presented by Liz McDowell and Ron Biser. There were no demonstations.

Reports were given on the Mtn. Fresh Ice Cream Social. Members who participated were Aaron and Levi Lantz, Katelyn Gnegy, Faith and Nathan Tichnell, Catlin Carrico, and Mikail Perrine.

Several members attended the Maryland State Fair, Aug. 24-28. Those who attended and competed in events or classes were Catlin, Dairy & Meat Goats and Computers; Aaron, Goats and Small Engines; Levi, Goats and Computers; Eric and Nathan Tichnell, Lawn & Garden and Bicycles; and Greg and Faith Tichnell, Bicycles. Eric will represent Maryland in Lawn & Garden at the National Show in Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 24-28.

We decided that we would bring any extra change to our next meeting to donate to the Hurricane Katrina Fund.

Our trip to Washington, D.C., will be April 22, 2006, and we will have fundraisers to help with the trip. We will sell Joe Corbi pizzas in October. County beef raffle tickets were given to members to sell.

This year, 4-H Days will be held at the 4-H Camp on Saturday, Oct. 22. We will teach classes on the .22 rifle, archery, and stockman's classes, plus several other topics. Everyone is invited to attend. This is a great way for youth to find out something about 4-H.

We need people to carry signs for the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 15. Those interested may call the Extension office.

Our next meeting will be held at Swan Meadow School at 7:30 p.m., and the program will be on gun safety.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled for this week at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Daily: Monarch Tagging (call for times) – A naturalist will explain the life cycle of monarch butterflies, then will "tag" a butterfly to keep track of its movements on the way to Mexico (30 mins; program dependent upon availability of newly hatched butterflies).

•Sat. 9/17: 10:30 a.m. – Slitherin' Up Snakeroot – A short hike that features interesting plants, and an opportunity to see wildlife and animal tracks (1 hr.).

•Sun. 9/18: 10:30 a.m. – Got Cavities? – A guided hike in search of animal cavities, nests, and dens (45 mins.); 1 p.m. – It's Bearly a Hike – Walk through prime black bear habitat, search for scat and tracks, see a possible den site and some favorite foods of Maryland's largest mammal (1 hr., 15 mins.; in case of rain, a slide show on black bears will be held in the Discovery Room).

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

Herbs Used For Urinary Problems

Saw palmetto is a type of palm tree. Its berries contain an oily compound, which is extracted and formulated into capsules and softgels. The extract from saw palmetto berries has been used extensively for the relief of urinary symptoms associated with benign prostatic hyperplasia (GPH), a non-cancerous swelling of the prostate gland in men. It occurs in greater than 50% of men over the age of 50. Common symptoms of BPH include decreased force of urine stream, hesitancy, post-void dribbling, sensation of incomplete bladder emptying, overflow incontinence, inability to stop urine flow, increased urinary frequency, and irritation.

Nettle root is derived from the root of the nettle plant. Although it has been studies less, nettle root exhibits activity similar to saw palmetto. A recent study published in the World Journal of Urology reported that men who took a supplement twice daily containing a combination of saw palmetto extract and nettle root extract for 24 weeks had a greater reduction in urinary symptoms than men who took a placebo. The incidence of side effects was low and similar in both groups.

There's a great satisfaction in surf fishing at sunset. Why? Is it the beauty and immensity of the ocean, the stunning colors of the sky as the sun retreats, the solitude on the beach? Is it because happiness is found in the serenity of the evening, or the time spent in God's creation? Where does happiness come from?

Our moods, as well as our interests, determine what happiness is for each of us. And our emotions, our longings, and our appreciation of nature all play a part. What we believe makes a difference, too. There are countless individuals for whom happiness arises from faith, believing and trusting in God. And there are others who lack this spiritual ingredient, faith, and wonder why they aren't happy. This faith is elusive, "the faith and love that spring from the hope that is stored up for you in heaven...." (Colossians 1:5)

You don't have to search for this faith alone. At your chosen house of worship you can find a community of love and support, and hear this message of faith. Go and find faith this week.

Given that no one has ever figured out a way to change the past, it is ironic that we spend so much time regretting it. The only value in thinking about the failures of the past may be as cautionary tales so as to not repeat them. As the philosopher Santayana said, "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." Otherwise, our regrets are quite useless. In fact, they are worse than useless, because dwelling on the negative events from our past has a tendency to make us depressed, resentful, and even bitter. So, if you must dwell on the past (and it isn't recommended), try to think about the positive events of your past. And, even if there are plenty of bad events in your past, be mindful that those bad events don't have to determine your future. It is better to think about ways in which we have overcome our past than to think of it as something that absolutely determines our future. In any case, we are better off focusing on where we are going rather than were we have been.

Let your eyes look directly forward, and your gaze be straight before you.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

• Statistically speaking, park rangers have the most dangerous job in American law enforcement. A ranger is 13 times more likely to be injured or killed while on the job than a drug-enforcement officer.

• If you travel to the Pantanal region of Brazil, you might get a chance to see otters. Be prepared, though — the otters here can grow to 6 feet in length and weigh up to 70 pounds.

• Practically everyone in this country — and many others, I'm sure — grew up hearing the Golden Rule quite frequently: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Poet W.H. Auden, though, had his own take on it: "I and the public know / What all schoolchildren learn, / Those to whom evil is done / Do evil in return."

• Those who study such things say that the average American consumes 24 gallons of bottled water every year.

• Bing Crosby, Diane Sawyer and Jules Verne all attended law school, but none of them earned law degrees.

• British novelist Ian Fleming achieved great success and widespread fame as the creator of James Bond. Writing wasn't one of his original aspirations, though; he wanted to be a diplomat. Unfortunately, he failed the Foreign Office exam. He ended up working in British intelligence during World War II, then moved to Jamaica to spend his time gambling, fishing and watching birds. Fleming finally decided to try his hand at writing and was intrigued by the idea of secret agents. And where did the name "James Bond" come from? Fleming named his protagonist after the author of a book on bird-watching.

• The word "camera" comes from the phrase "camera obscura," which simply means "dark room" in Latin.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 23, 1875, 15-year-old Billy the Kid is arrested for the first time, for holding a stolen bag of laundry for an acquaintance. Only after his two-day imprisonment for hiding the laundry did the good-natured and hard-working William Bonney start down the road to becoming the murdering outlaw Billy the Kid.

• On Sept. 20, 1878, Upton Sinclair, Pulitzer Prize-winning writer, is born in Baltimore. An assignment on meat-packing plants led to his best-selling Chicago stockyard novel, "The Jungle." The book's gritty portrayal of labor abuses and unsanitary conditions led to the passage of the Pure Food and Drug Act of 1906.

• On Sept. 21, 1921, following the scandal caused by the arrest of actor Fatty Arbuckle on suspicion of manslaughter, Universal announces it will require its actors to sign a "morality clause" in their contracts.

• On Sept. 25, 1957, under escort from the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division, nine black students enter all-white Central High School in Little Rock, Ark. Gov. Orval Faubus later ordered Little Rock's three high schools closed rather than permit integration.

• On Sept. 19, 1960, "The Twist," by Chubby Checker, hits the top of the charts. The only song to top the charts twice — it was No. 1 again in 1962 — "The Twist" stayed on the charts for a total of 39 weeks.

• On Sept. 22, 1989, songwriter Irving Berlin dies at the age of 101. A self-taught piano player who played by ear, he wrote 1,500 songs, including "God Bless America." Berlin was able to play in only one key, F sharp, and had a special piano made for him that could be set to different keys using a gear shift.

• On Sept. 24, 1996, best-selling author Stephen King releases two new novels at once. The first, "Desperation," was released under King's name, while the second, "The Regulators," was published under his pseudonym, Richard Bachman.

Sick Cats Face Eviction

Q. My friend at work has two cats, both 8 years old and brothers. He also has two children, ages 1 and 5. Lately, one of the cats started throwing up all over, and the other is having bowel movements on the carpet. This is happening daily. My friend is ready to just get rid of them. Is there anything else that may work to stop this? — Vicki M., via e-mail

A. The first thing your friend should do is take both cats to the veterinarian. Such a sudden onset of illness — even though both are experiencing different problems — indicates that something has happened to both of them. They could have contracted some sort of illness, or they could have ingested something poisonous.

The vet may find that one pet is ill, while the other is not. Pets that are close to one another can sense each other's distress and react accordingly. For example, if one of the cats is ill and losing bowel control, the other may do likewise or show some other sign of distress, like vomiting.

If the vet finds nothing physically wrong, then something could be emotionally upsetting them. One factor is your friend's children. A 1-year-old may not be much of a threat to a cat, but a 5-year-old can be terrifying. Are the cats being chased, their tails pulled, or are they otherwise being knocked out of their daily routine by rambunctious kids? Is either of the children carrying food down to the floor or actually attempting to give their snacks to the cats? Was anything spilled recently and perhaps been missed during cleaning? Do the cats have access to areas where cleaning chemicals, antifreeze or other toxins are stored?

You friend must check all of these possibilities to try and find the source of the problem, and should make the option of taking the cats to a shelter a last resort.

Q. I have two original Frederic Remington castings: Wooly Chaps and Mountain Man. No one in this area knows much about the value of Remington items. Can you help me? — Dorothy, Crossville, Tenn.

A. Frederic Remington was an accomplished painter, sculptor and illustrator, and one of America's most important artists. He was born in Canton, N.Y., in 1861, and studied at the Yale Art School. He later moved West, where he became a rancher and cowboy. A chance commission by Harper's Magazine triggered his interest in Western art, and so began his most productive period.

Manny Sgaool is knowledgeable about Remington bronzes and might be able to help you establish a value for the two you have. His address is 72 West Washington St., Hagerstown, MD 21740. For a second opinion, contact Remington experts James and Peg Aplan, 21424 Clover Place, Piedmont, SD 57769.

Q. My mother-in-law gave me several $50 bills that are dated 1929 and 1934. Are they worth more than face value? — Helen, Kissimmee, Fla.

A. I suggest you consult a good reference book. Although there are several good ones available, one I especially recommend is The Official Blackbook Price Guide to United States Paper Money by Marc and Tom Hudgeons (House of Collectibles, $6.99). Now in its 34th edition, it contains basic information, including current values, history and valuable how-to tips about collecting American paper money, from colonial currency to the mylar-protected bills of the 1990s.

Women Of ELCA Hold Monthly Mtg.

Women of the ELCA (Evangelical Lutheran Church in American), Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting last Wednesday.

A nine-session Bible study, "Act Boldly in the Fruit of the Spirit," was introduced. The study was written by Rev. Sue Gamelin, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church in High Point, N.C. A graduate of Duke University, N.C., in 1965, she earned her master of divinity degree in 1980 from Lutheran Theological Seminary in Gettysburg, Pa.

The first lesson in the series, "Act Boldly in Love," was led by Leota Baker.

"The primary goals of the study were to become better acquainted with the fruit of the spirit that Apostle Paul names for us in his letter to the Galatians, and to deepen one's understanding of the bold actions that love nourishes in our lives," said a Zion unit spokesperson.

Devotions closed with the hymn "Love Consecrates the Humblest Act."

A letter of thanks was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Box Elder, Mont., for a package of sweaters from the Zion ELCA unit for its clothing give-away.

The unit received nine dozen potholders during a recent shower. Those potholders, along with the 15 made by the group, were sent to the Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa.

An assortment of canceled postage stamps was also sent to the National Lutheran Home in Rockville for its stamp club. The stamps are removed from the envelopes by the club members and then sold to collector agencies. All proceeds received are used to purchase items for the home, according to the spokesperson.

The meeting adjourned with the missionary benediction.

Conversational Pa. German Class Set In Grantsville

"Mir Lanne Deitsch," a six-session course in conversational Pennsylvania German, is slated from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday evenings, Oct. 6 through Nov. 10, at the Grantsville Outreach Center.

The course will provide an introduction to Pennsylvania German pronunciation, basic vocabulary, and common phrases and communication for simple conversations. The learning will be undertaken at a relaxed pace, with no tests.

"The Pennsylvania German language is well-known in popular culture for its association with the Amish," a college spokesperson said. "Amish history, customs and folklore will be discussed."

The course will be instructed by Marvin Yoder, principal of the Mountain View Christian School. He is fluent in the language, having been reared in an Amish Mennonite home where Pennsylvania German was the daily household language.

This course is being offered through the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College. For more information or to register for this course, persons may contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-3368 or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

BROAD FORD STUDENTS HELP WITH HURRICANE RELIEF EFFORT – Students at Broad Ford Elementary School recently participated in raising funds and donating supplies to help those affected by Hurricane Katrina. Students who donated 50 cents could wear a hat to school that day, and those who donated an extra 50 cents could also wear slippers. They collected such items as toys, cleaning supplies, laundry supplies, baby supplies, and bathroom items. These items were delivered to Accident. One truck was driven by Warren Reinhart Jr. to Tennessee and then on to Mississippi. Mike Murphy of Frederick took another truck to Texas. The coordinator at Broad Ford was Emily Elmlinger, with help from Ms. Lynne's second grade class, and Garrett County organizers were Pam Schroth of Accident and Teresa Baker of Oakland. Those helping load the trucks and deliver the items to Accident were Suzanne Sincell (principal), Don Sincell, Teresa and Austin Browning, Amy, Alex, D.J., and Brooklynn Flanigan, Helen Schrock, and Emily and Lynne Elmlinger. "We really appreciate everyone's support, especially our principal, Suzie Sincell. We couldn't have done it without her support," said Lynne Elmlinger. Some students drew pictures for the children and sent notes. One note said, "I know you don't know me, but I love you."

Charges Against Baltimore Woman Dismissed In Court

Charges against a Baltimore woman were recently dismissed by order of the state's attorney in Garrett County Circuit Court. Timmena Sophia-Nakia Wilkins, 22, had been charged with malicious destruction of property and theft of property valued at less than $500.

Maryland State Police charged Wilkins in May 2004 following an incident in the Garrett College dormitory, McHenry. Wilkins had been charged with damaging another student's clothing, books, room fixtures, and other personal property, and stealing her money and jewelry.

Dale could not have been any better to us. He was very attentive, and always looking out for us. I would strongly recommend him. He was very informative. He knew the lake area very well. He was always there for us no matter what day or time it was. He was always available for us, and always looking for properties for us. We were very impressed with how he took care of us, even though he knew it wouldn't be a huge sale. He was very attentive to our wants, and seemed to know what we wanted when we weren't really sure.

IN HONOR AND REMEMBRANCE

WOW Lodge 45 hosted its third annual In Honor and Remembrance ceremony to remember the victims of Sept. 11, 2001, and to honor local citizens who serve and protect every day. Approximately 145 citizens attended. A welcome was given by Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, and the invocation was given by Pastor Sarah Snyder.

The honored guests were introduced by Burton Lytle, and included: Garrett County commissioners Fred Holliday and Dave Beard, Maryland State Police trooper Delauder, Garrett County Sheriff's office Major Gary Berkebile and Deputy Randy Resh, Brig. Gen. Dale Schroyer, members of the Friendsville Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept., Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, Friendsville area veterans, and the Mayor and Town Council, including Alice Spear and Robert Sines. The flag-raising ceremony was also held, with veterans Ed Kelley and Troy Fike raising the flag.

A new flag was also presented to the Friendsville Fire and Rescue Dept to replace a worn flag. Chief Terry Spear honored deceased member Ross Selby, who served as a member of the department for 56 years. Mary Friend honored deceased members Lenis Vitez, who was a past member of the Rescue Squad, and Robert Humberson, who gave many years as a driver. Judy Livengood read a poem titled "Remembering a Firefighter." Judy's son is currently serving in Iraq.

Special music was provided by the Accident Concert Band under the direction of Wilfred Karsten, which included "God Bless America" and the national anthem. Darlene Coddington was the guest soloist.

The guest speaker was Brig. Gen. Dale Schroyer, whose speech is printed on this page.

The benediction was given by Pastor Roland Nairn, and the ceremony ended with the lowering of the flag and playing of

Proud to Be One of Them

by Brigadier General Dale Schroyer

The following is a copy of the speech given by Brig. Gen. Schroyer during the In Honor and Remembrance Ceremony.

You know our land is most precious to us. We pray for its safety. Our fathers, sons, and daughters have given their lives to protect and save it.

The American Dream is what we strive for. On Dec. 1941, the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, the day President Roosevelt said would "live in infamy," and a couple of weeks ago we remembered the surrender of the Japanese in 1945.

Our land has been bombed from within Oklahoma City. Remember the picture of the little child being carried from the burning building by the fireman, a first responder. Our soil was invaded by terrorists on Sept. 11 in New York City, Washington, D.C., and Shanksville, Pa. I know we will never forget that day either, when we watched the death of so many of our people, including the death of so many first responders. We are here today because we will never let that day be forgotten. Every night we hear of the number of fathers, mothers, sons, and daughters dying in Afghanistan and Iraq. This is now!

We live in an era of instant news. There is no room for a mistake. It took hours to hear about Pearl Harbor, minutes to hear about Oklahoma City, but we were able to see the plane hit the World Trade Center.

We are the greatest and strongest nation on this planet, but we cannot underestimate our adversary. There are no more boundaries or borders. It is one tough job to juggle all the world's politics, keep our nation safe, and try not to sacrifice American lives. Our president and the administration, no matter the politics, has to keep in mind our precious soil and plan to keep it safe, regardless of what is happening in other parts of the planet.

September 11 is what we are here today to remember, and hope and pray that something like it will never happen again. It will take all of us to stay alert. Anyone traveling Rt. 70 can see the signs asking citizens to report suspicious activity. Keep in mind during our daily toils that there are so many families getting along without their loved ones, loved ones who are keeping us safe.

Many years ago I remember my father, Wade Schroyer, and many of his friends returning from WWII and my uncle "Bud" Friend marching in the parades down Maple Street in Friendsville. I used to run along beside them on the sidewalk. I was so proud of them! I recently received a phone call to ask if I would march in the Friendsville Days Parade. I knew that I had other things I was supposed to do, and I said "sorry, no." After I hung up, I remembered my father and others, and how I was so proud of them marching, so I called back and said it would be an honor to march and carry a rifle, and I am so glad that I did. It was an absolute honor to march in the same parade with my fellow veterans. The years of history and bravery that have marched down the main street in Friendsville is unequaled by any other town in this wonderful country of ours. I am proud to be one of them, a retired member of our United States Army and a native son of our town.

Before I close, although I know we are here honoring the fallen of 9/11, we should remember all of the Americans who are suffering because of the hurricane Katrina. God bless our fallen heroes here and abroad. God bless our troops everywhere, and God bless America!

Been There

OF SWANS AND OBIE

As we grow older and have more time to reflect on years passed, we realize that some people we have known are unforgettable. Sometimes a deja vu experience will instantly transport us to another time and one of these people. It happened to me on a recent summer evening.

We were sitting on the deck enjoying the sunset over the water when silently out of the distant past it appeared. There, across the water, its white neck curved against the dark trees on the far shore, glided the swan boat. When I saw it, memories came rushing of the original swan boat on the lake 41 years ago, and of the man who built it–"Obie"–D. Noel Obenshain. Anyone who was on this part of the lake then would remember the boat and the man.

I remembered my daughters and granddaughters with their friends waiting on the dock for their turn to ride, boaters coming into our cove just to see it moored at the dock a few hundred feet from ours, and I remembered Obie and his enduring fascination with swans.

He was my neighbor for 35 years before he died. A kind and gentle person, he was a man for all seasons, a creative inventor with over 70 patents to his name. When he first decided to live at Deep Creek Lake he researched many available lots, walked around them, and finally determined that the best view of the lake was here at the property on Hazelhurst. He designed the house so that every room shared this view and supervised the construction according to his specifications. When it was completed, he named it "Danovista."

Inside was a shop heated by solar panels with every tool meticulously stowed. There he worked on his inventions. The inventions were small gadgets that made life easier–a grapefruit spoon that deflected the juice, a clamp that rolled up the used end of a toothpaste tube, a door stopper that kept a storm door from slamming–and larger items like boot dryers and an electric car. Many objects in his home attested to his creative genius. He built an electric organ and taught himself to play it. I still have the tape he made for us of his favorite songs. He also built an organ for his church, where he played it every Sunday. An intricate project was the coffee table he made with a mosaic tile map of the lake for its top. To get the exact contour of the shoreline, he had a photographer fly over the lake at specified times taking photos of the coves and inlets. He had swan vases and swan bookends and a model of the swan boat. In front of his house he designed and built a sun dial with a ceramic swan on either side, and in back an oversized mailbox in the shape of the swan.

Obie's best known project was the swan boat. Launched July 1, 1964, it cruised the waters of Deep Creek Lake until it was "retired" in 1991. In 1989 Obie had a 25th birthday party for the Swan, complete with ice cream and birthday cake. Over 5,000 persons had ridden on the big bird during its cruising years. The 21-foot boat was ingeniously constructed with running lights in the eyes, a horn in the beak that opened, and a 14-foot-high neck that would retract to go under the bridges. I understand that the new swan built by the Madsen family of Pittsburgh has all of these features, according to Obie's original drawings.

Before he retired, Obie was an engineer for Westvaco and he remained a consultant for the paper-making process long after his full-time employment. Many evenings when my husband and I would drive past his house, we would see him through the window working at his drafting desk.

Though relatively small in stature, Obie was very athletic. We would watch him swim, dive from the tower beside his dock, and water ski behind his red outboard. When jet skis became popular, he had one of the first in this area. That year his Christmas card had a photo of him on the jet ski with the caption "Newest addition to the fleet." In the fall he went hiking, and in winter he cross-country skied and ice skated. He rigged a sail that he could strap to his shoulders and "sail" across the ice. One year when there was little snow on the lake he went all the way to the Glendale Bridge.

In addition to his love of outdoor sports, Obie was a lover of nature, especially of birds. He trained chickadees to eat from his hand and fed ducks and geese at his dock. From his window he watched migrating birds through his binoculars. His favorites were always the swans. We would see a few of them every fall and spring, and sometimes a small flock would stay for a few days.

The week before Thanksgiving in 1994, all of us here realized that something unusual was happening. Obie had been ill and in the hospital for several days, but had come home again. That Sunday evening after dark, we heard a loud commotion on the lake and knew that a large flock of birds had landed. The next morning we saw them–about 60 swans floating in our cove. We had never seen so many at one time.

I remember how excited Obie was as he walked along the lane with his binoculars. "Did you see the swans?" he would ask everyone who came along. When my husband invited him in for some homemade vegetable soup, all he could speak about were the swans.

Obie died that week the night before Thanksgiving. They found him the next morning lying on his back stoop. There was snow in the air, but he was without a jacket. They said he died of exposure. He had probably gone out through the night to see the swans.

When Friday came, the swans were gone. Another neighbor, Monsignor Paul Byrnes, wrote a beautiful poem he read at Obie's funeral service. It told how the swans had come to take him home.

Those of us who knew Obie are grateful to the Madsen family for the new swan boat. It will always be a symbol of happy times and an unforgettable man.

TOWN NEWS

When mowing lawns, residents are asked to not allow grass clippings to get into the streets, as this can clog up the storm drains.

Garbage should be put in trash containers and may be put curbside after 7 p.m. the day before pick-up. However, should the trash be put in bags, and animals, etc., open the bags before pick-up, it is the responsibility of the resident to have the litter picked up before the refuse company arrives. Containers must be removed by 7 p.m. the day of pick-up.

Recycling is always the first Friday of the month. Residents may recycle newspapers (without shiny, color inserts), non-waxed cardboard, aluminum beverage cans, glass bottles (clear or colored). At this time, they are not accepting plastics at the Friendsville site. Residents are asked to have all recycled items separated. Household batteries can be recycled at Wal-Mart and Battery Warehouse.

Anyone wanting to rent the park pavilions should contact Alice Spear at 301-746-5639.

There will be a Mayor and Town Council meeting held Tuesday, Sept. 20, at 7 p.m. There will be a Community Legacy meeting next Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. Residents are invited to attend either or both meetings.

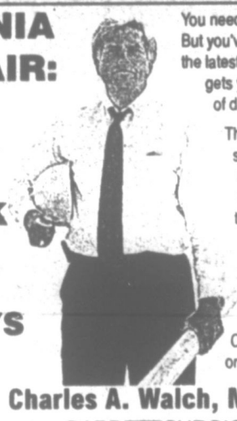
HERNIA REPAIR:

BACK TO WORK IN JUST 3 DAYS



You need to work. You want to play. But you've got a painful pinch. Now, the latest in outpatient hernia repair gets you active again in a matter of days. Instead of weeks.

This is a balloon videoscopic surgery. No big cuts in your muscles. It only requires a few incisions—each smaller than a dime. Not the traditional four to six inch cut near the groin.

Less trauma. Less pain. Quicker recovery!

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army National Guard Sgt. James W. Amos recently completed two weeks of required annual training at Camp Pendleton, Virginia Beach, Va. He is a member of the Maryland National Guard assigned to the Joint Forces Headquarters, 5th Regiment, based in Baltimore.

More than 180 guard members and various subordinate support elements from Maryland participated in field and classroom training. The soldiers received training in marksmanship, security operations, and tactical planning; performed military specialty tasks; and honed their basic soldiering skills.

Amos is a food service specialist with 18 years of military service.

He is the son of Charles L. and Mary V. Amos of Swanton.

Miss Miller, Mr. Brinegar Exchange Vows In Virginia

Tina Melissa Miller and David Wayne Brinegar were married August 7, 2005 at their home in Mt. Jackson, Va. The bride is the daughter of Earl and Merlee Miller of Stephen City, Va., and the groom is the son of the late Robert Brinegar and Betty Brinegar of Oakland, who currently resides in Mt. Jackson. Rev. James Stanley of Manassas officiated the wedding ceremony.

The bride wore a white gown with a lace jacket. She carried the groom's grandmother's handkerchief and a bouquet of white and lilac roses.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with a white dress shirt, a lilac checkered vest, a deep lilac tie, and a lilac rose boutonniere.

The matron of honor was Ashlyn Brown of Winchester, Va. The bridesmaid was Mary Danley of Edinburg, Va.

The best man was Gerald Bohus of Mt. Jackson, and groomsman was Sam Bohus.

The flower girl was Camryn Rosenberger, the groom's niece.

Christain Gulley, the bride's nephew, and Logan Rosenberger, the groom's nephew, were the ring bearers and escorted the bride down the aisle.

The bride is a nurse at Winchester Medical Center and is currently enrolled in Mountain State University, where she is seeking a bachelor of science degree in nursing.

The groom is employed at Winchester Fire and Rescue as a firefighter/EMT, and is currently a student at Lord Fairfax Community College, where he is studying to become a paramedic. The groom is also a volunteer with the Mt. Jackson Rescue Squad, where he serves as a lieutenant.

The couple honeymooned in New England, primarily Bar Harbor, Maine.

The couple now resides at their new home in Mt. Jackson.

Miss Becker To Wed Mr. Shaffer

Frank and Nancy Trotta of Garrett County announce the forthcoming marriage of their son, William (Bill) Shaffer, to Brigit Margaret Becker, daughter of Bruce and Kyle Becker of Carroll County.

The prospective groom is a graduate of Frostburg State University with a degree in biology. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Towson University with a degree in mass communication.

The wedding is planned for Oct. 22.

SWANTON

Homecoming is set for this Sunday, Sept. 18, at Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church. Everyone is welcome to come spend the day, beginning with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.

Volunteers are needed to prepare for the Apple Harvest Festival October 1 and 2 in Burlington, W.Va. Apple peelers are needed Saturday, Sept. 24, to get apples ready for the start of butter making on Monday, Sept. 26, and each day through Sept. 30.

Thursday, Sept. 29, is Swanton Otterbein U.M. Church's day to help. Those going will car-pool from the church. Some are going other days also. All proceeds from this mission are to help the Burlington Children's Home.

Apple butter will be sold every day after Monday, Sept. 26, and all kinds of things, including baked goods, will be available during the Apple Harvest, Oct. 1 and 2, on the Burlington Children's Home grounds along U.S. Route 50 in Burlington.

PERSONALS

Mary Beckman is home from the hospital and is recuperating.

Recent visitors of Mary June Harvey the past week were her granddaughter Rosella Hogue, Philadelphia, and her granddaughter Ellida and husband Jamie Bernard, Warrenton, Va.

"SEND SOCKS HOME" EFFORT AFOOT – (Or is it Apaw?) After seeing this little dog running along the roadside near Dorsey's Curve last month, Kitzmiller residents Don and Juanita James volunteered two weeks of their free time to try to locate the traumatized miniature Doberman pincer named "Socks." The pooch belongs to a New Mexico resident who had been involved in a mishap, and once Socks had been found the Jameses decided to do whatever it took to reunite doggie and owner. Therefore, anyone interested in helping defray the costs of Socks's transportation can forward their donation to "Send Socks South" at HC84 Box 12, Keyser, WV 26726. Socks is shown above in the arms of Juanita James, with Gail Armstrong to the right.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•There will be a Planning Commission meeting on Sept. 19 at 5 p.m.

•There are a few adult and child size sweatshirts, T-shirts, and hats left over from our Homecoming celebration. The shirts and hats are imprinted with "Loch Lynn Heights, MD." Persons interested in purchasing any of these items may call the Town Hall for pricing and to see what sizes are available at 301-334-8339 on Monday, Tuesday, or Thursday.

•There will be a town council meeting on Sept. 20 at 6 p.m. to open bids for the Athletic Field Parking Lot Paving Project and the 2005 Street Paving Project.

•More than 120 residents, past and present, attended each day of the recent Loch Lynn Heights picnic and homecoming. An authentic Civil War encampment with more than 15 re-enactors provided a living history, food samples, games, and drills of that era. Pleasant Valley Dream Rides transported more than 80 residents and visitors through several streets in town with a historical narration by resident George Perrine. Musical entertainment was provided by JC and the Boys, the Remley Family, Hammers & Strings, and Karen and Matthew Bright. The mayor and town council selected Janet and Eugene Friend as Citizens of the Year.

The next regularly scheduled town council meeting will be Oct. 4 at 7 p.m.

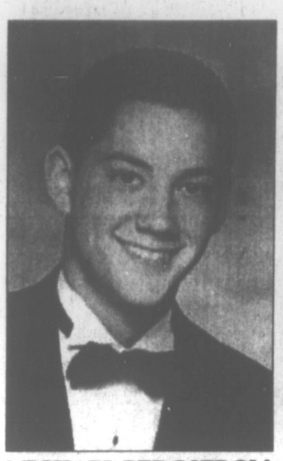
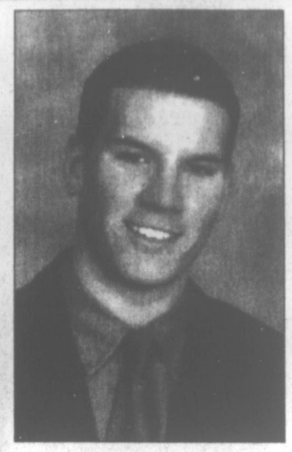
Garrett Awards More Scholarships



MICHAEL BERGSTROM

JAYME MILLER



DARRICK LOWDERMILK

MICHAEL WOLF

CORY BOSLEY

BRETT DUGAN

HEIDI LIVENGOOD

The Garrett College Foundation has awarded a number of scholarships for the 2005-06 academic year to help local students defray the cost of their college education, and several more scholarship awards were announced recently.

Three Michael Vaughn Vitez Memorial scholarships were awarded Michael Corey Bergstrom, Aaron Jacob Rawe, and Jayme Elizabeth Miller, all 2005 graduates of Northern High School. Two Railey Realty Skip Bernard Memorial scholarships were awarded to Friendsville residents and fellow 2005 NHS graduates Darrick Ervin Lowdermilk and Michael Seth Wolf. Cory Robert Bosley, a 2005 Southern High graduate, and current SHS senior Brett Michael Dugan, were awarded the Junior Woman's Civic Club Scholarship Award.

The Ann Dilgard Scholarship and the Helen B. Rostosky Volleyball Scholarship were awarded to 2005 SHS graduate Julia Kalice Bosley, and classmate Jonathan Richard McCartney received the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Bill Ravenscroft Memorial Scholarship. A 2005 Preston High graduate, Heidi Nicole Livengood, was awarded the American Association of University Women Scholarship.

•Bergstrom was active in golf and baseball and was in the Letterman Club in his junior and senior years. He enjoys golf, skiing, snowmobiling, boating, and fishing.

The business administration major hopes to own his own business one day. He has been employed at Will O' the Wisp since the ninth grade, and between his freshman and junior years he also assisted with after-school activities at Accident Elementary School. Michael is the son of Mark C. and Melissa G. Bergstrom of Accident.

•Rawe, like Bergstrom, hopes to start his own business some day. His college major is accounting, and his hobbies are snowboarding, soccer, swimming and running. Aaron is the son of David and Camilla Rawe of Grantsville.

•Miller was a member of the girls' varsity volleyball, basketball, and softball squads. Majoring in teacher education, she hopes to become a physical education teacher or an athletic trainer.

Active in the Crossroads Youth Group at Western Maryland Christian Center, Jayme is the daughter of John and Chris Miller of Accident.

•Lowdermilk played junior varsity and varsity baseball and football, plus JV soccer, and served as treasurer of the Letterman's Club and as a volunteer with Central Garrett's youth sports leagues. Besides baseball, football, and umpiring games, he enjoys hunting, camping, and constructing house models.

Darrick is studying to be an architect, he is beginning his studies at Garrett College, plans to transfer to a four-year university to earn a bachelor's degree and then to move on to complete a master of architecture degree. Named to Who's Who Among American High School students for two years, Darrick served as president of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club for two years and as vice president for one year and participated in the Garrett County Agriculture Fair Beef and Swine Livestock Market and Showmanship and in Adopt-A-Highway. Darrick is the son of Ricky and Cindy Lowdermilk.

•Wolf was president of the Letterman's Club at Northern, and was active in football, wrestling, and baseball. He enjoys hunting and fishing. He was involved in the Snowy Creek 4-H Club and Adopt-A-Highway, as well as the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren.

The son of Michael and Linda Wolf, Michael plans to graduate from college with an engineering degree.

•Cory Bosley played basketball and football all four years at Southern, and baseball for three years. Besides his love of sports, he has been an active participant in Garrett County's Relay for Life for six years. Cory is majoring in general studies mayor at Garrett. He is the son of Jim and Mary Lynn Bosley of Oakland.

•Dugan, who will graduate in 2006 from Southern, is undecided about his major, but said he hopes to make a difference in society. He is interested in hunting, target shooting, and almost any outdoor activity. In high school, he was his class student body representative for three years and played varsity soccer for one year. Brett is the son of Matthew and Tamya Dugan.

•Julia Bosley is majoring in elementary education and plans to become an elementary school teacher. She has volunteered at the Junior Woman's Civic Club booth at the fair, was a score keeper for service club basketball, and assisted at the volleyball camp. She received a Minds in Motion award, and was a member of the 2004 Southern Rams girls' state champion basketball squad. She played volleyball, basketball, and softball in high school. She loves sports, including gymnastics. Julia is the daughter of Craig and Todd Bosley of Oakland.

•McCartney will major in computer sciences and looks forward to working for a large company. He is active in his church league basketball and bowling, and enjoys a variety of sports. He played soccer in high school. Jonathan is the son of Bill and Linda Anderson of Mtn. Lake Park.

•Livengood was treasurer of the Christian Fellowship Club and a National Honor Society member. She also was a member of the Hazelton Church and Youth Group and of the Sandy Creek Congregational Choir. The business and information technology major intends to transfer her Garrett College credits to the Assistance Dog Institute in California to pursue her goal of training assistance dogs. Heidi is daughter of William and Wendy Livengood of Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Message from the Dean's Desk

Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

For some time, I've been humming the tune to "See You in September," and now, suddenly, September has sprung, classes have started, and I'm seeing new faces and welcoming returning ones to Garrett College.

At Garrett, we're seeing lots of students returning to what we know will be a great year. In some cases, the students are returning in order to participate in Franklin University's partnership with Garrett. This is a great way for students to earn a four-year degree without ever leaving Garrett County, since they can take over 80 credits at GC – at our tuition rates – and then complete their degree online. With programs such as Public Safety, Accounting, and Business Administration emerging as real winners for our students, we see our Franklin partnership as vital to promoting education in our county, and we're delighted that several of our graduates are now back "home" with us in pursuing the Franklin degree.

Of course, we're also delighted to welcome back students who are returning to Garrett for other reasons, too. Several of our county's senior citizens, for instance, are taking advantage of auditing courses such as Beth Luers's Twentieth Century History class, while others have expressed interest in our fine arts programming or in our computer technology area. Other individuals are coming back to GC out of interest for some of our new programs and courses, such as our Certificate in Graphic Design, a program that Ron Bertolina has worked hard to help us promote, and our Spanish classes taught by Fran Reynolds. In other cases, we have students who are continuing their studies in majors such as math/science, perhaps one reason why we have a record enrollment in our Calculus class taught by Dr. Jeff Reitz and why Professor Carolyn Deniker's Biology and Anatomy and Physiology classes are seeing super numbers of students, too.

Speaking of strong enrollments and numbers, we're also delighted that our Honors program is welcoming several returning students in addition to greeting those new to the program, as headed by Dr. Greg Jenkins. In the coming weeks, I'll be writing specifically about those students and the initiatives on which Dr. Jenkins will lead them, but for now, I'm delighted that so many are able to take advantage of the college's unique program for gifted students.

Unique programs aren't limited to our Honors students, however. This year, we are delighted to be able to welcome a record number of individuals to our Global Education program, which has attracted students from more countries than ever before. We're delighted that students from Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, South Africa, England, Canada, and India are now part of Garrett College's family, and we look forward to sharing stories and memories with them as they settle into their new home.

It's not simply students that we're welcoming these days, however. We're delighted that Lydia Reiser has joined our team as director of our Garrett Information Enterprise Center, fondly known as GIEC. Lydia replaces Paige Quigley, who relocated to New Hampshire after having done a great job here at the college. It's worth noting that our Continuing Education division has been enjoying record enrollments this past year, thanks to the great energy the Con Ed crew uses in promoting their offerings, whether in Grantsville, in Oakland, or in McHenry.

We're also glad to welcome Kathy Zimmerman back to Garrett College, home to her years ago when she worked in our Business Office. She's back "home," now, as the director of the Business Office, and we're delighted to have her on board as a part of a super team headed by Mike Kilgus, dean of administration.

As delighted as I am to see all of these individuals this September, I'm also always glad to hear from those students who've been with us in Septembers past. For instance, it was with pleasure that I took a call from Lee Pennington recently. Lee, who was a student at Garrett and also a baseball player for us, called to catch up with me. He's graduated from Alderson-Broaddus, nearly competed a second degree at West Virginia University, and competed coursework at the West Virginia State Police Academy, all resulting in his being a state trooper for West Virginia, his home state. It was a real treat to hear from Lee, who took three courses with me and who has always remained a cheerful, upbeat, and caring person who makes a very fine public servant.

In fact, September always brings a real treat for us at Garrett, for it gives us a chance to celebrate those who are starting with us, to honor those who are returning to us, and to remember those who have left us and gone on to new ventures. Although the month will be over before we know it, I'm glad that for me, seeing people in September has held all kinds of joy and anticipation of the great year we have in store.

Mosquito Bites: Prevention and Treatment

Mosquitoes are attracted to things that remind them of nectar or mammal flesh. They are attracted by some body odors, and for this reason they choose some individuals over others in a crowd. They bite more frequently when the weather is hot or humid. The simplest anti-itching compound is a paste made of baking soda and water. Use just enough water to make a sticky paste, then spread it on the bite. Calamine lotion works in a similar way, and usually the effect lasts longer. A ~~topical anesthetic~~ containing pramoxine can take away the pain and itching.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends using an insect repellent on exposed areas of the skin. The most effective compound is DEET (N,N-diethyl metatoluamide), an ingredient in most insect repellents. However, insect repellents containing DEET should be used sparingly in children. Don't apply it under clothes, or too much of the toxic substance my be absorbed. Also, avoid applying repellent to portions of the hands that are likely to come in contact with the eyes and mouth. Pediatric insect repellents with only 6-10% DEET are typically available at your local pharmacy.

It's a great way for busy people to attend college. Most classes run Monday-Thursday from 5:30 - 9:00 p.m. for one week. Each General Studies class is worth one credit which may be used for general elective credit in most Garrett programs. After six credits, placement indicators are required. Visit our web site for a complete list and description of all the classes.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The way the thermometer drops during the nighttime hours makes it very clear it is not long until we need to run our heating systems, and that is a pretty grim prospect when heating oil is approaching $3 per gallon. A gallon of oil will run my furnace for maybe one hour. In Bittinger the heating season is at least eight months long, at about 700 hours per month. I am not sure many people can afford to heat their homes.

Of course, people in the oil business and people in high offices do not have that problem, especially when they are living in the top 10 of public housing so they don't have to pay for their own oil. Who bears this burden of cost but the taxpayers? At the same time, programs like the fuel assistance program will probably run out while our government funds billions of dollars to pay for Iraq and when aid is needed for the Gulf Coast.

I wish I had a man around my house to cut firewood. It seems I have exited from the hundred of worries I am under. Every hour of television watching give me another load of worries because of the most powerful tool of selling products. You just want to keep your kids healthy, but their schools request you donate Clorox wipes. I can't understand why the American people couldn't see that education wasn't a top priority in the last election.

This September's sunshine is certainly wonderful, especially since we still have lots of green leaves on our trees. But the yo-yo between daytime temperatures of 90-degree weather and then plunging into the 40 degrees after dark is quite discerning. But compared to the Gulf Coast and Florida, and now the shoreline of the Carolinas, we have a wonderful climate. Even our blizzards do not cause the damage to our quality of life as the tropical storms do to our nation's sunshine belt. Remind me of that when we get a foot of snow, howling winds, and sub-zero temperatures in mid winter, especially when I am snowed in and the roads are not fit to be on. The reason I am housebound now is because my car is in ICU and unlikely to recover. Either way, I am stuck alone with only my worries to keep me company.

An old friend of mine once said "Money is just like toilet paper. To be without either one is tragic, but with toilet paper you can substitute tissues or even paper towels. However, these days nothing can substitute for a decent income."

The thoughts about Christmas make my blood run cold. I used to be able to make clever homemade gifts for my little girls, but that does not work now for teenagers. I feel like I can't face the holiday season, but I have no choice except to do my best to satisfy them. Even though I am satisfied with my clothes from Goodwill or yard sales, I can't stand to disappoint my beautiful girls, as they deserve the best.

A sad event this week was the burial of Bill Green of Cumberland in the Bittinger Cemetery. Bill was the husband of the late June Buckel and the uncle of Sheila Southerly, Denny Buckel, Sally Poholsky, and Cindy Stanton, as well as the brother-in-law of Ferne Beachy and Bea Buckel. As Sheila said, "What a way to get our family together." A meal was served at the Bittinger fire hall.

Bill was 88. Bill and June lost their daughter, Rita Burton, last year. It is much better to get your family together in happy times instead of waiting for a funeral. But it is too easy to get caught up in your daily life to make time for your extended family. It is better when your hugs are accompanied by smiles instead of tears. Yet it is good to have family when trouble comes.

The many people who came to help me when I first became ill were so appreciated, but I now miss them. It is true I do not need them as much now that I am home with a somewhat orderly life instead of in the hospital. But I am even more alone now.

My Meredith got her first playing time in a Northern junior varsity volleyball game at Westmar High School. Mere's team scored its first victory. She enjoyed the experience, but trying to get any details from a 14-year-old girl is pretty hard. Last weekend Meredith accompanied her father to visit her ailing grandfather, Al Sussman, in Silver Spring.

Gary and Sharon Buckel, Rodney Glotfelty, Emma Bass, Bill and Sheila Southerly, and probably some other fans will travel to College Park this weekend for the Maryland-West Virginia football game. Although my Claire is now officially a Mountaineer, she still has some lingering loyalty to Maryland. She will join some of her friends to go down for the game. She plans to stay with her cousin, Blakely Glotfelty. She still is not sure if Blakely was able to get her a ticket for the game. Last weekend Rodney and Marci Glotfelty attended the Clemson-Maryland game, but were disappointed at their close loss. Of course, they enjoyed seeing Robbie and Blakely.

Hazel and Wayne Gaumer from Hagerstown and Henry, Bonnie, and Mary K. Bower from Harrisonburg, Va., visited with their mother and grandmother over the weekend.

Aaron and Patty Stanton had a family first birthday party for McKenna on Saturday at their home.

ACCIDENT AREA CHURCH TO HOLD REDEDICATION – St. John's Lutheran Church, LCMS, has just completed a major refurbishing of the interior of its worship area. After many months of hard work and a lot of dust, the congregation will hold a rededication celebration on Sunday, Sept. 25. The event will consist of a special worship service at 10:30 a.m., followed by a catered meal at noon in the church's pavilion. After the meal there will be a short program. The renovation included a new paint, altar, pulpit, lectern, and carpeting. "The people of St. John's are excited about their newly refurbished worship area and think that those who see it will be awestruck by the beauty," said Rev. Douglas Kabell. "If you are unable to attend the worship service, please come to the meal and/or program. The church will be open all day for everyone to see the beautiful renovations." St. John's is located one mile from Northern High School along Cove Road. For more information, persons may call the church at 301-746-8466.

Local Health Clubs Holding "Workout" To Benefit Children

Oakland Health and Racquet in Oakland and Mountain Fitness in McHenry will conduct a "Workout for St. Jude" Sept 24 through 30. During the event, participants will collect donations from friends, family members, and co-workers to earn prizes. Proceeds benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Locally, Connie Eggleston and Kristen Walker will coordinate the program.

"The money raised in this event will help to ensure that children with cancer and other life-threatening diseases will have a better chance to live," said a St. Jude spokesperson.

To register for the program, persons may call Oakland Health & Racquet at 301-334-1766 or Mountain Fitnes at 301-387-6966.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is internationally recognized for its pioneering work in finding cures and saving children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. Founded in 1962 by the late entertainer Danny Thomas and based in Memphis, Tenn., the hospital shares its discoveries with scientific and medical communities around the world.

No family pays for treatments not covered by insurance, and families without insurance are never asked to pay. More information is available online at stjude.org.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Large Group Of Garrett County 4-H'ers Excel At Md. State Fair

One of the largest delegations of Garrett County 4-H'ers for several years attended the Maryland State Fair recently. The state fair, which is held in Timonium, is the state competition for many of the 4-H contests and livestock shows.

Becky Berkebile, the Garrett County Agriculture fair queen, represented Garrett County in the Miss Agriculture Contest. She also showed two steers. One placed second in the shorthorn class to the steer that eventually became the overall champion. The other placed third in the cross-breed class.

Ashley Rodeheaver's market steer placed second in its class, and Ashley also placed second in the 13-year-old beef showmanship class. She exhibited two beef heifers, and one, named Miss Juliet, was named reserve champion in the "all other breeds" division. The other heifer placed second in her class.

Randi Rodeheaver placed second with her market steer, and fifth in her showmanship class.

Tracy Bowman placed first in her class with her market steer. She also exhibited a breeding heifer, which placed first in her class and was named champion commercial heifer.

Sara Holler placed third in the market steer class, and also placed third in her showmanship class.

Lee Custer's market steer placed fourth, and Lee and his steer also placed fourth in showmanship.

Justin Ashby's market steer placed sixth, and they placed second in the showmanship contest.

In the market lamb show, Ryan Fitzwater placed first in his class, and Brandon George placed second in the same class.

Ryan Fitzwater's 138-pound market lamb was awarded a trophy for winning the rate of gain contest and automatically qualifying for the market livestock sale. Ryan's lamb gained over .7 pounds per day.

State Increases Subsidies For Cover Crops

by Mary Ellen Slayter, Capital News Service

The state has sharply increased its support for a conservation program that pays farmers to plant crops that prevent erosion – known as cover crops – during the winter.

An added $1.4 million made available by the state last week brings to about $5 million the total amount allocated for the initiative – the largest sum ever, agriculture officials said.

Kim Coble, executive director of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, said her group has been working to forge better relations with the region's farmers, and the popularity of this program suggests the efforts are working. "It shows that when the resources are available, they (farmers) want to participate in efforts to protect the Bay."

Winter cover crops, which include certain types of rye and wheat, are not intended for harvest. By promoting the planting of such low-maintenance vegetation in the off-season, the state hopes to lessen soil erosion and fertilizer runoff into the Chesapeake Bay. Fertilizer runoff is a particular concern because it contributes to the spread of oxygen-starved "dead zones" in the bay.

Coble said cover crops are one of the most cost-effective ways to improve the health of the state's waterways. Cover crops can also be profitable for farmers, helping them maintain soil quality and allowing them to make a bit of money on land that would otherwise lie fallow in winter.

The exact payout farmers will receive depends upon how early they plant. Farmers who put down cover crops by Oct. 1 are eligible for $50 an acre, which includes $10 from the federal government. Farmers who plant by Oct. 15 can receive $40 an acre. Farmers who plant by Nov. 5 are eligible to receive $25 an acre.

It costs farmers an average of $28 an acre to plant a cover crop, Coble said.

This was the first year the program had applicants from every county, said Sue DuPont, a spokeswoman for the Maryland Department of Agriculture. The greatest participation, measured by acreage, was in Kent, Dorchester, and Frederick counties. Calvert County had the greatest increase in participation over last year, jumping 82 percent to 1,157 acres.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture estimated that about 150,000 acres of cover crops will be planted this winter as part of the program, which is primarily funded by the Chesapeake Bay Restoration Fund through a monthly fee collected from wastewater system customers and septic system owners.

Not all of Maryland's farmers are eager to sign up for the state's program, however, even if they already endorse the use of cover crops.

Robert Chase, a vegetable farmer, uses cover crops on his 77 acres in Davidsonville, but he will not be participating in the state's program because the deadlines do not coordinate with his planting and harvesting schedule. Extra money is always nice, he said, but "sometimes government programs can be more headache than they're worth."

first in the Suffolk ewe lamb class. His flock, consisting of a ram and two ewes placed second. Justin also placed second in the 16-year-old sheep showmanship contest, finishing behind the 4-H member who eventually became the champion overall showman.

Ryan Fitzwater placed fifth in the 13-year-old showmanship contest.

Ryan Miller exhibited two market lambs, placing second and fourth. He also exhibited a Suffolk ram lamb, which placed third, and his flock placed fourth.

Ashley Rodeheaver also exhibited a market lamb, which placed fourth in its class.

Cecalie George also assisted with the sheep show.

Aaron and Levi Lantz and Catlin Carrico exhibited market goats and breeding meat goats. Levi placed third in the yearling doe class and fourth in the market goat class. Aaron's market goat placed fifth. Catlin Carrico placed third in the production doe class. She also exhibited four dairy goats and participated in dairy goat showmanship.

Ashley Rodeheaver exhibited two market hogs. She placed first and second in her market hog classes, and placed first in her showmanship class. She was also selected as the champion intermediate swine showman.

Four animals from Garrett County were selected to participate in this year's market livestock sale at the 2005 Maryland State Fair. Animals for the sale must meet certain criteria before becoming eligible for the sale. 4-H members must next nominate their animals and have them selected by the judge for one of the sale slots.

This year, six market goats, 20 lambs, 20 hogs, and 10 steers were selected for the sale.

Aaron Lantz's 80-pound market goat sold for $5 per pound to Dr. James Hansen, director of Maryland Cooperative Extension.

Ryan Fitzwater's 138-pound champion rate of gain lamb sold for $2.50 per pound.

Brandon George's 113-pound lamb sold for $2.60 per pound.

Both Ryan's and Brandon's lambs were purchased by a group of five local Garrett County agricultural businesses, which included Oakland Southern States Cooperative, Manor Home Center — John Deere Sales and Service, Fire Fly Farms, Lakeside Creamery, and Tractor Supply, Inc., of LaVale.

Ryan Milier sold a ewe lamb in the livestock sale for $2.75 per pound to University of Maryland Eastern Shore livestock farm, which intends to use the ewe in their breeding herd.

The Maryland State Fair is also host to the State 4-H engineering contests.

In the computer event, Levi Lantz was selected as the champion junior participant, and Catlin Carrico was selected as the champion intermediate.

Aaron Lantz participated in the small gas engine contest, and was selected as the champion junior participant.

Eric Tichnell received first place and champion in the senior division of the lawn and garden tractor contest.

Andrew Pritts placed first and champion in the senior division of the tractor operation contest. Eric and Andrew will now represent Maryland at the National Engineering Contest. Eric will receive an expense-paid trip to the national contest, which is held in Lafayette, Ind.

Nathan Tichnell placed second in the intermediate division of the lawn and garden tractor contest.

Eric, Nathan, Greg, and Faith Tichnell all participated in the bicycle operation and safety contest.

Aaron Lantz participated in the photo challenge contest. Each participant was given a disposable camera and one hour to shoot pictures. The pictures were developed and delivered to the 4-H building, where participants had about half an hour to select five pictures and mount them on a poster board. Aaron received third place in the 10-year-old class.

The 4-H educational booth constructed by the Trailblazers' 4-H Club received a blue ribbon.

Thank You

The Town of Oakland, Mayor Asa McCain, Oakland Town Council, Chief John K. Sines, and the staff of the Oakland Police Dept., wish to express their sincere thanks to the following businesses and individuals that donated their time and money for the purchase of Oakland City Police Department's new K-9 dog (Bodie).

Handler Cpl. Shawn Fratz and his new partner, K-9 Bodie, started service with the Oakland City Police Department on 08/15/2005 after undergoing extensive training. Cpl. Fratz and K-9 Bodie were trained as a team at Castle's K-9 Academy in Carlisle, Pennsylvania. Cpl Fratz and K-9 Bodie received National Accreditation through the North American Police Work Dog Association, in the areas of Obedience, Agility, Article Search, Area Search, Building Search, Tracking, Narcotics Detection, and Aggression Control.

It became necessary to replace K-9 Uro, Oakland City's previous K-9 dog, after Uro developed health problems which affected his performance in the line of duty. K-9 Uro was handled by Officer David A. Holler. K-9 Uro is now retired and lives at home with Officer Holler, as a family pet.

Through the efforts of individuals and businesses in Garrett County the Police Department was successful in raising the $9,400 to cover the purchase of the K-9 dog, as well as cover the expenses of training the K-9 team of Cpl. Fratz and K-9 Bodie.

Sincere Thanks to the following businesses and individuals, as well as those persons who wished to remain anonymous.

4-H Club News

by Michael O'Connor

Marisa Bachtel called to order the September meeting of the Aurora Pioneers. Lena Cole led the Pledge of Allegiance. Samantha Ford led the 4-H pledge. Hailey Rocha led the group in "The George Song," and Michael O'Connor led the group in "John Jacob Jingleheimer Schmidt."

The club is giving Trater Park a new flag in the spring.

Our club talked about the haunted trail, and it will take place the second Saturday in October.

Livestock project books are due at the next meeting after the Preston County Buckwheat Festival.

There is going to be another field day for all the 4-H clubs in Preston County.

Members talked about form sheets that are needed to receive 4-H pins, and we handed the forms out to the members with three or more years in 4-H.

The club elected new officers for the new year. They are president Marissa Bachtel, vice president Ryan Rocha, treasurer Michael O'Connor, and reporter/secretary Daniel O'Connor. The song leaders are Katelyn Radford, Haley Rocha, Watt Snider, and Leana Cole. Game leaders are Dylan Radford, Hunter Radford, Samantha Ford, and Amber Grimm.

The club talked about the yard-of-the-month contest in December for the best Christmas decorations.

We also discussed the lamb dressing contest at the Buckwheat Festival. We have to be at the cow barn at 4 p.m.

White Oak Church Sets Homecoming

The annual White Oak Church homecoming is slated for Sunday, Sept. 18, beginning with a covered dish dinner at noon followed by a hymn sing at 1:30 p.m.

The church is located along Cranesville Road, 4½ miles from Terra Alta.

Preston County Chorus Seeking New Members

The Preston County Chorus has extended an invitation to all residents to sing with the group, in preparation for its annual Christmas Cantata. The event will be held Dec. 10 and 11.

Under the direction of Wayne Williams, practices will be held each Monday evening at 7 p.m. at the Terra Alta United Methodist Church beginning Monday, Sept. 26.

"A variety of songs will be featured for the concert, and a good representation of the county is urged," said a group spokesperson.

Anyone having questions may call Wayne at 304-789-6871 after 5 p.m.

Annual Aurora Barn Dance Set For Sept. 24

The annual Aurora Barn Dance will take place at the Brookside Farm, located behind Cathedral State Park, on Saturday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m. (rain or shine).

Traditional Appalachian dance music, ballads, and banjo tunes will be presented by Born Old, featuring Doug Van Gundy and Paul Gartner along with a caller.

All guests are invited to bring musical instruments for an open jam session after the performance.

The Aurora Barn Dance is a fundraiser sponsored by the Aurora Project Inc., a non-profit community arts initiative developing a new cultural center in Aurora. Founded in 2001, the Aurora Project and its board of directors, with the assistance of grants and community donations, have made strides towards the restoration of six historic buildings adapting them for reuse for an Artists Residency Program and educational activities.

Tickets for the dance, including the music, food, and refreshments, are $10 per person and will be available at the door. The funds raised will benefit the Aurora Project's facilities and programs. Donations will also be accepted.

For more information, persons may contact Michele Moure at 304-735-3620 or email: auroraproject@frontiernet.net.

ANNUAL SING AT TEXAS CHURCH

The annual Texas Bethel United Methodist Church Sing will be held Sunday, Sept. 25, at 1:15 p.m. Various groups will present their selections for an afternoon of music. The church is located at Horse Shoe Run.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

A celebration to honor Lois Teets Adams on the occasion of her 80th birthday will be held Sept. 25 from 2 until 4 p.m. at the Union Ambulance squad hall in Aurora. The family invites all friends and relatives, but asks that there be no gifts. One's presence and a card would be appreciated. Cards may be addressed to her at RR 1, Aurora, WV 26705.

NEW BUSINESS

A new business has opened in Aurora and is located in the former Fred Teets home. The Apple Basket is open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday and displays local craft products, gift items, and antiques. Sandi Kisner is the owner, and Janice Tackett the manager.

AHS CLASSES OF '41-'42 REUNITE

A reunion of the 1941 and 1942 graduating classes of Aurora High School was held Aug. 27 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

Those in attendance from the class of 1941 were Fred and Dortha Forman, and Gay Rembold and wife Carol.

Camp Horseshoe To Host Quilting Retreat Weekend

A Gone Crazy Quilt Retreat Weekend will be held at the YMCA's Camp Horseshoe from Oct. 5 to Oct. 8.

"The humming of sewing machines will replace the usual sounds of children's laughter during the three days of fun, sewing, [and] great fellowship," said Mary Smith, who coordinates the program. She added that the event is also a "terrific way to get some new ideas and meet a wonderful group of people."

Quilters will have a choice of three projects/classes: "Heirloom Crazy Quilt," instructed by Ruth Gotinsky of Parsons; "Picnic Crazy Quilt," presented by Sue Davis of Martinsburg; and "Tango Quilt," taught by Harlene Kranz of Ashtabula, Ohio.

Other projects include a thread bag, "sew cozy" organizer, ruler holder, and kitchen towel pillow.

"At camp there are no chores, meals to cook, or phones to answer," Smith said. "Join us for a great learning experience. You will be completely spoiled as we sew, eat, and sleep."

Camp Horseshoe is located near Leadmine in Tucker County's Monongahela National Forest. For more information about the retreat or for a brochure, persons may contact Smith at 304-478-2481 or Mary@hi-y.org.

SUPPORT SOLICITED

Anyone in favor of abolishing the 6% food tax is asked to contact Representative Debbie Stevens and Senator Jon Hunter.

AURORA/EGLON

Classmates of 1942 were Mary Virginia Lewis Benson and friend Walt Ralph and Barbara Lee, Mary Stemple Jackson and granddaughters Stacy and Ana, Arva Wotring Baker and Stanley, Mildred Donham Teets and Hancell, and Kathy Hardesty.

In discussion of the length of their marriages, the group found a newly wed couple, Gay and Carol Rembold, who had been married just five months.

A short business meeting was held with a memorial of remembrance for recently deceased members: Robert Craig, Charles Bernard McCrum, and Eldred Wotring. Poems read for them were "God's Plan" and "There Is No Death." The group also heard a song by Jessica Shillingburg, a guest.

A steak dinner was served, and the next reunion is planned for August 26, 2006, at 4:30 p.m., again at the Aurora U.M. Memorial Building. Invitations will be sent by Stacy D'urso. Group pictures were taken by Stacy, and were printed. The table was set with name cards and copies of the group picture in a frame.

AAHS MEETING

In a Sunday, Sept. 11, presentation, James Slawter presented names and stories of the early settlers of the Aurora area, which included discussion of the various outlying areas. Work continues by the Society to establish information into computer form and have it available at the General Store.

The General Store is open every Friday from 10 a.m. until 3:00 p.m., first and third Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., and presently, Mondays from 3 until 8 p.m., although that is subject to change. Persons may also call JoAnn Helton at 735-5832 or Jeanette Adams or Virginia Martin to arrange a convenient time for a tour of the facility.

HELP SOUGHT

The West Virginia Farm Bureau and West Virginia Department of Agriculture have joined with the W.Va. Cattleman's Association, and W.Va. Poultry Association to provide relief aid to farms affected by Hurricane Katrina. Fences in that area have been swept away, crops flooded, and there is no fuel allotted for farmers.

Commissioner of Agriculture Gus Douglass reportedly feels that there is yet a chance for corralling the animals and saving some of the crops if there is help sent that way.

Persons who wish to help in this effort may send a check to the West Virginia Farm Bureau Foundation and address it to the WVFB, Attn.: WVFARK, 1 Red Rock Road, Buckhannon, WV 26201. For details or updates on the program, their web site is www.wvfarm.org/evfark.htm.

PERSONAL MENTION

Douglas Rumer of Amboy is a patient at Ruby Memorial Hospital, where he is being evaluated and treated for seizures and a possible brain tumor.

Doug's nephew, Danny Rumer, fell from the roof of the home he is constructing, and fractured his arm.

Lucky victims of accidents last week were Alan Hartsell, who escaped injury at his home in the upset of a skid-steer loader, and on Saturday, Mark Bachtel received a fractured wrist but escaped further injury when run over by an empty forage wagon.

Wilma Rembold was treated at Garrett Memorial Hospital Friday evening after fracturing bones in her foot. She is recuperating at her Aurora home.

Word was received here that Renelda Frazee, a former teacher at Aurora Elementary School, is experiencing several health problems.

Cheryl Donham of a Oklahoma City, Okla., arrived Saturday evening to spend a week with her aunt, Jessie Winters, in Eglon, and visit the cousins also.

Several of Maple Spring congregation went Sunday to Leadmine for a picnic at Camp Horse Shoe.

Harlin Wolfe II of Horse Shoe Run was able to return Monday, Sept. 12, to work at the Aurora DOH garage. He has been injured there when a tire exploded 1½ years ago. He had not been able to work since that time.

The secured party herein, if a bidder, shall not be required to post a deposit. The purchaser will be required to complete settlement of the purchase within TEN (10) DAYS of the ratification of the sale by the Court, otherwise the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the purchaser. Taxes and water rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or Metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes and all other costs incident to the settlement shall be borne by the purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowner association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Purchaser agrees to pay $250.00 at settlement to the seller's attorney, for review and/or preparation of the settlement documents. If the Substitute Trustee is unable to convey good and marketable title or a resale is to take place for any reason, the purchaser (s) sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the aforementioned deposit. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustee. (File No. 50152-05)

IN THE MATTER OF THE APPLICATION OF SYNERGICS WIND ENERGY, LLC, FOR A CERTIFICATE OF PUBLIC CONVENIENCE AND NECESSITY (CPCN) FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF A WIND POWER FACILITY IN GARRETT COUNTY

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Maryland Public Service Commission Case No. 9008

A Public Hearing will be held on Thursday, September 22, 2005, beginning at 7:00 p.m. at the Auditorium, Southern High School, 345 Oakland Drive, Oakland, Maryland, on the application of Synergics Wind Energy, LLC, for an authorization to construct of a Wind Power Facility in Garrett County, Maryland. Synergics Wind Energy, LLC, seeks authority to install a Wind Power Facility at the Backbone Mountain in Garrett County, Maryland.

Under the provisions of State law, the issuance of the CPCN by the Maryland Public Service Commission will constitute the State's authorization to construct. The Power Plant Research Program of the Department of Natural Resources (PPRP) has reviewed the application to assure that the proposed facility will meet all applicable federal and state regulatory requirements. The state has completed its review and is now ready to receive public comment on the application. Copies of the CPCN application, recommended conditions, and the supporting documents are available for public inspection at the following location: Oakland Branch Library, 6 N. Second Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550. Interested persons may submit written comments to the Maryland Public Service Commission, 6 St. Paul Street, 16th Floor, Baltimore, Maryland 21202, no later than September 22, 2005, or may provide comments at the hearing.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The purpose of this Notice is to identify actions to be taken by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

On or about September 23, 2005, the above named Board of County Commissioners will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds from the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Water Street South. Purpose: Acquire 6-unit Mod-Rehab Building. Location: 319 S. Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550.

Finding of Categorical Exclusion

Notice is hereby given that the Garrett County Board of Commissioners has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined said project to be Categorically Excluded under the provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 as amended. The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of this project is available to public examination at the offices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., at 104 East Center Street in Oakland, Maryland, during the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on week days excluding holidays.

Request for Release of Funds

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will undertake the project described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant funds. This notice also certifies that Ernest J. Gregg, serving in the official capacity of Chairperson of the Board, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is to be brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental reviews, decision making and action; and certifies that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval the Garrett County Board of Commissioners may use the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant funds, and also the Department of Housing and Community Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Objection to Release of Funds

Objection to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the Garrett County Board of Commissioners Environmental Review Record for the project indicated omission of a required decision finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review Process; or (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Officer to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places, or found eligible such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 36 CFR Part 800 (d) Objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., to the SCCDBG Program Manager, Md. Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, Maryland 21032-2023. All such comments must be received no later than October 10, 2005.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY
Oakland, Maryland 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Larry Douglas Kight and Amelia Dawn Kight, dated October 19, 1999, and recorded in Liber 788, folio 0893 among the Land Records of Garrett County, MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustee will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Courthouse Door, 203 South 4th Street entrance, Oakland, MD, on

September 30, 2005, at 12:00 PM

ALL THAT, FEE SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND BEING DESCRIBED by a metes and bounds description and containing 2.61 acres more or less, situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. Property being also known as Tax Account ID No. 16-006335.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, agreements, easements, covenants and rights of way of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale; A deposit of $3,000.00 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certified check, or other form as the Substitute Trustees determine acceptable. No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids on the property at sale. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, time being of the essence for purchaser. In the event of default, the deposit shall be forfeited and all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Trustees may then readvertise and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaultant purchaser; or, without reselling the property, the Trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to receive the surplus, if any, even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustee. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. There shall be no adjustment of taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, and same are to be assumed by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustee does not convey title for any reason, including but not limited to the Secured Party executing a forbearance agreement with the borrower(s) described in the above mentioned Deed of Trust, or allowing the borrower(s) to execute their right to reinstate or pay off the subject loan, prior to the sale, with or without the Substitute Trustee's prior knowledge, the foreclosure sale shall be null and void and of no effect, and the Purchaser's sole remedy in law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit without interest. Further terms and particulars may be announced at time of sale, and purchaser may be required to execute a Memorandum of Sale at the time of auction. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents. (Matter #12412-N)

Educator Plans 19-Day Trip To Great Britain

Gary Galloway, principal of Dennett Road Elementary School, is organizing a July 2006 trip to England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland, with an itinerary that will include such sites as the Blarney Castle, Loch Ness, Bath, and Stonehenge.

The 19-day tour will also include a visit to Paris via the channel tunnel to see Notre Dame Cathedral, the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre, and the Arc de Triomphe.

The package, which is being coordinated with EF Educational Tours, includes airfare, a full-time professional guide, lodging, full breakfasts and dinners, most admissions, and tips.

Persons wishing to register and/or obtain more information may telephone Galloway at 301-359-3958.

Church Sets Homecoming

The Pine Grove Church of the Brethren has slated its homecoming for Sunday, Sept. 25. Sunday school will begin at 10 a.m., with a worship service following immediately afterward. A covered dish lunch will be served at approximately 12:30 p.m.

An afternoon program will feature the gospel and country music of Mtn. Lake Park resident Karen Tyree, who has plans to record a CD. An object lesson and skit will also be presented.

The Pine Grove Church of the Brethren is located along Oakland Sang Run Road, and Rev. Don Matthews is the interim pastor. For information, persons may call 301-387-4335.

MAKING LAST-MINUTE KNOTS – Swan Meadow students and parents are pictured above knotting their "Helping Hands" handmade quilt that they have made for the 56th annual Harvest Sale. This queen size quilt, featuring the hand prints of Swan Meadow School's third through fifth graders, will be auctioned at the PTO's annual Harvest Sale on Friday, Sept. 23. Proceeds from the sale of the quilt will be sent to Maryland Kids Care: Collecting Pennies and More for the Victims of Hurricane Katrina, which is a statewide public school initiative sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education. Funds collected will be sent to the American Red Cross. A P. Buckley Moss print titled "Back to the Barn" will be auctioned at the sale to benefit the school's Gortner Oral History Project. Western Maryland Public Libraries, a sponsor of the project, is the official recipient of the print, which is autographed by P. Buckley Moss and professionally framed. The print shows a father and daughter returning to their barn through a field of shocked wheat in a horse-drawn open buggy. See story.

George Ferguson Named County's "Most Beautiful"

George "Junior" Ferguson was recognized this week by the Garrett County commissioners as the county's "Most Beautiful Person." The Oakland resident, known to many as "The Cookie Man," was chosen from a list of 14 nominees by a local selection committee.

An awards ceremony for the nominees was held in the commissioners' meeting room at the courthouse on Tuesday before a standing-room-only audience.

Maryland's Most Beautiful Person Volunteer Awards honor individuals or groups who have made a difference in their communities by donating their time, talents, and efforts. One person is chosen from each county and the city of Baltimore as the "Most Beautiful." Carol Riley, the commissioners' administrative assistant, coordinated the local selection process.

"It was an absolute pleasure to be a part of this," said selection committee member Jim Shaffer of WKHJ radio. He noted that though it was a very difficult task to choose just one person, it was "very uplifting" to read all the positive comments about the local candidates that were written by their nominators.

"Junior is a man who works full time as a volunteer for the community," wrote Hospice of Garrett County executive director Brenda Butscher about Ferguson. "He is kind, compassionate, and always willing to help others in a time of

"COOKIE MAN" NAMED GARRETT COUNTY'S MOST BEAUTIFUL PERSON – George "Junior" Ferguson was named Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person this week during a ceremony in the commissioners' meeting room. Known to many as "The Cookie Man," Ferguson has baked thousands of cookies for many charitable events. That's in addition to volunteering for Hospice of Garrett County, the Historical Society and museum, his church, a girls' basketball team, American Red Cross, and other causes. He was chosen from of 14 nominees by a local se-lection committee. See story for details. Pictured, left to right, are Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Dave Beard, Del. Oakland Man Receives Eight Years In DOC

An Oakland man was recently sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court in five cases. Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced Michael Ray Schmidl to a total of eight years and 30 days in the Division of Corrections. Five years and 30 days of the sentence were suspended, and he will serve three years in prison.

Of the original sentence, Schmidl received five years for the burglary of the Blue Ribbon Lumber office, and one year each for theft of money from an Oakland restaurant, for theft of the contents of a safe, and for being in possession of a stolen handgun. He also received 30 days for possession of marijuana.

Schmidl, 19, was initially investigated for the November 2004 theft of the contents of a safe from an Oakland area residence. When officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation searched Schmidl's residence in mid February of

Milton DeWitt Sentenced To 40 Years In DOC For Murder Of James Savage

Oakland resident Milton Charles DeWitt, 53, pleaded guilty Monday in Garrett County Circuit Court to first-degree murder for the December 2004 stabbing death of James Patrick Savage, 52, also of Oakland. The case was heard by Judge G. Gary Leasure, Allegany County Circuit Court, specially assigned.

DeWitt was sentenced to 40 years in the Division of Corrections. This sentence was one that the state and defendant agreed to and jointly recommended to the court prior to the hearing, noted State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch. Having been provided details of the crime, as well as information concerning DeWitt and the victim, Judge Leasure accepted the recommendation.

"Given Mr. DeWitt's age and health, the sentence is essentially a life sentence," Welch said. "The opinions and desires of Mr. Savage's family were part of our considerations. With this outcome, they will not have to go through the trial process that would include some of them testifying as witnesses. They were pleased that the court system and the taxpayers will not have the burden of trial, with Mr. DeWitt admitting his actions. Also, there will be none of the appeals that follow a trial and conviction, so there can be finality."

DeWitt was charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation days after Savage was found stabbed in his 8th Street apartment on Dec. 14. Information gathered from various sources led to DeWitt, who eventually confessed to officers when confronted by the evidence against him.

SHS To Host PSC Windpower Hearing Tonight

The Maryland Public Service Commission has slated a public hearing to solicit citizen for 7 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Sept. 22, in the Southern High School auditorium in Oakland, to gather citizen comment on the application by Synergics Energy Services to place wind turbines along the ridgeline of Backbone Mountain for its proposed 40 megawatt Roth Rock Wind Facility.

A history of the PSC hearing process concerning the Synergics application is available for viewing on the Internet on the commission's web site at www.psc.state.md.us, where interested persons can utilize the "Case Search" field to view case jacket 9008. The PSC's approval process for the Clipper Wind power facility can be viewed in case file 8928.

These case file are also available for viewing at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

To correct an error in last week's paper, the building permit applications submitted by Clipper – not Synergics – are available for public viewing at the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development's office in the county courthouse. Persons are asked to schedule a viewing appointment by calling that office at 301-334-1920.

Synergics is not at the point of submitting building permits at this time.

Whitewater's Best Named To Inaugural Hall Of Fame Class

The names of the whitewater pioneers and champions who will lead the 38th annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 15, were revealed yesterday afternoon as the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) announced the names of the six members of the inaugural class of the Whitewater Hall of Fame. The inductees will be inducted in a formal ceremony at a dinner in their honor slated for Friday, Oct. 14, at the Wisp Resort, where the event will begin with a 6:30 p.m. reception. Tickets are available for $25 per person and can be purchased by calling ASCI's Becky Polce at 301-387-3250.

Selected to the Hall of Fame, which will be located on the ASCI "campus" that will be constructed atop Marsh Mountain, were former Massachusetts resident Bob McNair (deceased); Rob Lesser of Boise, Idaho; Davey Hearn of Bethesda; Jon Lugbill of Richmond, Va.; Payson Kennedy of Wesser, N.C.; Garrett College part-time Adventure Sports instructor Charles Walbridge of Bruceton Mills, W.Va.; and Bill Endicott of Bethesda.

The International Whitewater Hall of Fame and Museum recognizes individuals who have made significant accomplishments in, and contributions to, whitewater related activities. The history, development, and major achievements made in these activities will be depicted through displays of related equipment, art, artifacts, mementos, and other items, according to ASCI director Brian Trusty. 56th Annual Harvest Sale Set For Friday

The Swan Meadow School PTO's annual fundraiser, the Harvest Sale, will be held on Friday, Sept. 23, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, south of Oakland. This annual auction of farm produce, handmade items, and baked goods features items provided by Amish and Mennonite families and students of Swan Meadow School. This is the 56th year of the Harvest Sale.

Doughnuts made by mothers of the students on the day of the sale will be available for purchase by 5:30 p.m. Also for sale by 5:30 p.m. will be homemade caramels, taffy, cookies, fudge, and gallons of apple cider.

"These items will be available for the first time at a tent located close to the front door of the Pleasant

Churches Feeding Residents Who Struggle, Despite County's Boom

by Glenn Tolbert

Despite what many describe as a booming economy in Garrett County, three local churches are doing a booming activity of their own – feeding the needy.

The three churches are St. Matthew's Episcopal, St. Peter's Roman Catholic, and the Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

"Not everyone is sharing in the economic growth going on in the county," said Marjorie Carlino, a member of the food committee at St. Peter's.

When she made the remark, Carlino was looking at the parish hall of St. Peter's, where some 100 people were all enjoying a free meal of spaghetti, complete with salad and a dessert. The free dinner is served the second Monday of each month.

Caroline says she is sure more people would participate if it weren't for the fact that many people in the community think that the event is only for church members.

"There's also the problem of a stigma being attached to coming to a free meal," she said.

Over at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, much the same scene takes place on the last Wednesday of each month.

"We serve between 180 and 220 people every meal," said Rev. Mel Menker, pastor of the church.

The church also provides bus service to bring in the infirmed and some nursing home patients. Rev. Menker says the need is so great that he wishes there were some way to provide a meal every day for these people.

Reverend Doctor Chip Lee is pastor of St. Matthew's, which offers a free dinner the next to the last Thursday of every month.

Autumn Glory Fest Buntings Are Available

As in past Autumn Glory festivals, the upcoming 38th annual event will feature the display of Autumn Glory bunting by businesses, office buildings, and homes throughout the county. The Visitors Center of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce in McHenry has buntings available for the festival, which is set from Wednesday through Sunday, Oct. 12-16, at a cost or $75 per set.

"More than 100 businesses now fly the Autumn Glory bunting, said Deb Clatterbuck, the chamber's deputy administrator for marketing and tourism. "Many businesses and organizations traditionally hang the Autumn Glory banners early to let people know the county's major festival is approaching."

"Autumn Glory is almost here. Get into the spirit by hanging our Autumn Glory bunting on your business or home," added chamber president Charlie Ross. "The colorful buntings add to the festive fall atmosphere and invite visitors into local establishments."

For individuals who would like a smaller memento of the festival, Autumn Glory candles are available in the Shoppe at Heritage Square in the 1884 Oakland Train Station. The set includes the scents Autumn Glory, Mountain Maryland, and Swallow Falls, and the candles can be purchased in a set of three for $20 or individually for $7.

GC Commissioners Allocate Funds For Gypsy Moth Population Survey

The Garrett County commissioners allocated $5,000 this week for the Maryland Department of Agriculture to conduct a survey of the gypsy moth population. Department personnel met with the commissioners on Tuesday, stressing the need to be proactive in combating another potentially devastating gypsy moth infestation in county forests.

"Our whole philosophy is to protect the trees before they're defoliated," said Robert Tichenor, the department's chief of forest pest management. Gypsy moth caterpillars prefer to eat the leaves of healthy oak trees, especially those in higher elevations They also like dry conditions.

"These trees are slow to grow and slow to recover," Tichenor noted about oaks. Additionally, once damaged, all trees are more vulnerable to other harmful insects.

Department personnel have been conducting an informal survey during the last few weeks on state-owned land and are concerned about the status of gypsy moths on private property as well.

"We're seeing a big jump in the gypsy moth population," Tichenor said. A more thorough survey is needed in order to determine where the moths are and the extent of the infestation. Though based on the informal study, the northeastern portion of the county is the most heavily infested, according to Tichenor.

"That's the same area

UNFURLING AUTUMN'S GLORY – Local businesses, other organizations, and homeowners can get into the spirit of the upcoming Autumn Glory Festival by hanging Autumn Glory bunting. Over 100 businesses fly the bunting each year, and new sets are available from the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. For more information, persons may contact the chamber's McHenry Visitors Center office at 301-387-4386 or its Oakland Train Station gift shop at 301-334-1243.

LOCAL SUPPORT CONTINUES FOR HURRICANE VICTIMS – Yough Glades Elementary School students and their parents are just some of the residents of Garrett County who are still collecting donations for the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Students sold items and participated in various activities to raise funds. The pre-kindergarten students sold bracelets, the second graders paid a donation to wear a crazy hat or slippers, and the fifth graders were responsible for collecting and counting the daily donations. Principal Keith Harvey said he and the school would like to thank the parents for all their support. The classes raising the most, Miss Martin's fifth graders and Mrs. Friend's kindergartners, are pictured above. A total of $1,791.44 was raised and will be sent to the American Red Cross.

Three Arrested After Reported Disturbance

Three men were arrested following an investigation into a reported disturbance at a residence on Roanoke Avenue in Loch Lynn early Wednesday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Scott Allen Hebb, 27, Loch Lynn, Eric Scott Myers, 43, Loch Lynn, and Phillip Allen Hebb Sr., 44, Swanton, were all arrested and charged with fourth-degree burglary and trespassing. Scott Hebb was also charged with second-degree assault.

All three are currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

Driver Allegedly Falls Asleep, Injured In Crash

A Swanton woman was injured when she allegedly fell asleep or fainted while driving and her vehicle traveled into the path of a tractor trailer on Maryland Highway near Turkey Neck Road early Wednesday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Sara Vance, 23, was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries. The truck was operated by Clarence Hall, 49, Tunnelton, W.Va. He was not injured, police said.

Deer Park firefighters also responded to the 7:34 a.m. accident. Charges are pending following an investigation by the Sheriff's Office.

GBI Issues Scam Alert

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) has issued another scam alert, this time involving a telephone service company.

According to the GBI report, local citizens may receive telephone calls from a company called either Skynet Securities or Profile Protection Inc., both supposedly of New York City. The company offers telephone fraud devices along with an information package about how to avoid being the victim of fraud.

The cost of the entire offer is $299. The company requires the citizen's bank account number and Social Security number to withdraw money directly from the bank account. The company apparently claims that this is the only way to pay for the service.

As always, persons should never give such information out on the telephone.

Suicide To Be Meeting Topic On October 13

by Glenn Tolbert

Because of an alarming increase in the number of suicides in Garrett County, a public meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. until noon at the Garrett County Health Department meeting room to discuss the issue.

The session is being put together by the Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Board, and will feature Suzi Burg of the Maryland Youth Crisis Hotline as speaker.

Burg will talk about the 24-hour hotline (1-800-422-0009), compare Garrett County suicide data to that of Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties, and lead a discussion about what types of strategies are used in other counties to respond to suicide attempts.

There have been five suicides in the county from the period of November of last year through July of this year. This compares with one for the entire year of 2001, three for 2002, and two for 2003. There is no valid data available for attempted suicides.

Suicide rates in rural and frontier areas are often significantly higher than those of urban areas, according to an article in Advancing Suicide Prevention magazine, which goes on to say that the impact of suicide is much greater in rural America because of its tight-knit, integrated nature.

"When a person in a rural area takes his or her own life, it reverberates through small communities where it's likely we know the victim well," it says in an article written by Spiro M. Manson of the University of Colorado.

Manson goes on to say that, on the brighter side, the tight-knit nature of rural relationships can offer great hope for reducing suicide.

"In these relationships, early indicators for risk may be more easily detectable," he says.

Anyone wishing to attend the October 13 meeting is asked to call 301-334-7440, as meeting planners want to ensure that they make proper seating arrangements

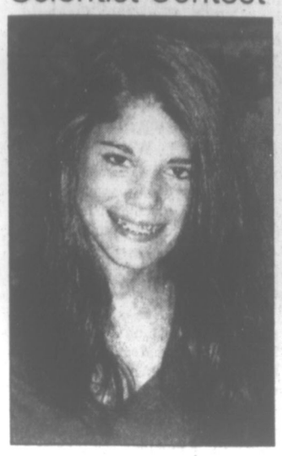
Guy Selected As Finalist In Young Scientist Contest



The countdown to choosing the nation's top young scientist entered its final phase this week as Discovery Communications announced the 40 middle school students from around the country selected as finalists in the 2005 Discovery Channel Young Scientist Challenge (DCYSC). Joanna Guy, currently a freshman at Southern High School, was selected as the Maryland finalist.

The DCYSC is the nation's premier science competition for students in grades 5-8. The cutting-edge competition gives the finalists the opportunity to demonstrate their scientific know-how and push the limits of their knowledge in the quest for the title of America's "Top Young Scientist of the Year."

Joanna's project was titled "What Do You Expect: Does Expectation of Difficulty Level Affect Student Test Performance?"

The 40 finalists will travel to Washington, D.C., October 15-19, where they will take part in the DCYSC finalist competition at the Cole Field House at the University of Maryland. The finalists will compete in team-based, interactive challenges designed around the theme of "Forces of Nature."

In the wake of the recent natural disasters that ravaged the Gulf Coast of the United States and Southeast Asia, each student will face simulated challenges – from fog banks to hurricanes to tsunamis – that allow them to utilize their broad range of knowledge in order to understand the implications and scope of natural disasters. The action-packed activities will be taped for broadcast on the Discovery Channel.

The students will compete for more than $100,000 worth of scholarships and special prizes, as well as the title of "America's Top Young Scientist of the Year."

"Our forty finalists have been chosen from an impressive pool of students nationwide. We are excited to put their science skills to the test as they conquer the 'Forces of Nature' challenges and compete for the top middle school scientist of the year," said Steve Jacobs, DCYSC head judge.

The finalists were chosen based upon the excellence of their projects presented at local Science Service-affiliated fairs across the country. During the DCYSC finals, the finalists will present their research projects to judges to demonstrate their communication skills and creative thinking.

Joanna is the daughter of John and Elizabeth Guy.

HANLIN FAMILY HONORS FATHER, SON – The Letha Hanlin family of Kings Run Road recently donated a statue to the Veterans Park in Oakland. The donation was made in memory of Letha's late husband, A.J. Hanlin, who served 25 years in the United States Air Force. The statue is of an Air Force airman, and was supplied by Buck Martin of the Shawnee Trading Post in Deer Park. It was given to honor Letha Hanlin's son Jerry as well, as he currently works at the Pentagon. See story. Pictured above from left are Janet Hanlin Roderick, Letha Hanlin, Joni Hanlin Blum, Art (Jim) Hanlin, and Jay Moyer, town councilman. Shown below is a photo of A.J. Hanlin at left, and his son Jerry.

Hanlin Family Donates Statue To Vets Park

Another statue to honor veterans, this time of the United States Air Force, has been donated to the town of Oakland's Veterans Park, located at the corner of Oak and Third streets. Letha Hanlin, Oakland, and her children, Art Hanlin, Joni Blum, Jerry Hanlin, and Janet Roderick, have made the donation in memory of the late A.J. Hanlin, husband of Letha.

The statue is also placed in honor of Mrs. Hanlin's son Jerry, who is currently serving at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C.

A.J. Hanlin was a 1947 Oakland High School graduate and a 1984 graduate of Garrett Community College. He served 25 years in the U.S. Air Force as a wide band communications maintenance technician and supervisor. During this time, he maintained numerous national security communications systems around the world, having been stationed in such places as Japan, France, England, Italy, and Greece. Hanlin also had remote assignments in Alaska and Morocco, as well as several stateside assignments. He served as detachment commander at several of these locations throughout his career.

Early in Hanlin's career, he was assigned to the Loring Air Force Base as a video engineer, one of the several airmen who operated the USAF's first television station. He later appeared in the "Brass Button Broadcasters" show by Trent Christman.

Hanlin retired as a master sergeant in 1975 and returned to Oakland, where he worked for several area businesses.

The statue, now located at the park, was provided in part by Buck Martin of the Shawnee Trading Post in Deer Park.

County Launches Second Magazine Recycling Project

The Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling Division, General Services Department, with the assistance of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, is conducting another magazine recycling project this fall.

"So, don't throw away your magazines!" said Kim Madigan, the division's recycling coordinator. Residents and businesses are invited to participate in the magazine recycling program.

A container has been placed in the parking lot at the Visitors Center located at 15 Visitors Center Drive in McHenry. The program will be offered for two months, and the container will be picked up on or about Nov. 15

Once again, magazines, catalogs, guides, obsolete brochures, or paper with a high-gloss or shiny appearance may be brought to the container for recycling.

"Please deposit the materials directly into the container," said Madigan. "No bags or cardboard boxes." These items could cause the entire container to be rejected. All of the materials collected will taken to the Pen-Mar Recycling Center in Cumberland.

"During the spring pilot program, 6.49 tons of materials were delivered for recycling. Great job!" Madigan said. "We would like to thank the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for their continued support with this recycling project."

If additional information is needed with regard to the magazine recycling project or any other recycling issue, one may call Madigan at 301-387-0322.

Valley Community Center," said a school spokesperson. "This way people who come to the Harvest Sale for homemade goodies have the option of purchasing them outside of the community center, then taking them to their vehicles before going inside for dinner and the auction."

Dinner items, such as taco salads, chili dogs, sloppy joes, hot dogs, coffee, and assorted drinks, will also be sold at that time. The evening will begin with the 6th, 7th, and 8th graders of Swan Meadow School singing songs at 6:45 p.m. The auction will begin at 7 p.m.

Some special items to be auctioned include a quilt made by the school community to provide help to Americans displaced by Hurricane Katrina and note cards featuring photographs of monarch butterflies the students have been raising and tagging.

"Back to the Barn," an autographed and framed print by artist P. Buckley Moss, will be auctioned as well. Proceeds from the print will help fund the Gortner Oral History Project being developed by Western Maryland Public Libraries, Swan Meadow School, and Maryland Traditions, which is a partnership of the Maryland State Arts Council and the Maryland Historical Trust. The project is also partly funded by a grant from the Delsignore Foundation.

The Swan Meadow School History Book, filled with photographs and memories, will also be sold. To reach the Pleasant Valley Community Center, persons may travel on Route 219, south of Oakland, turn left onto Paul Friend Road, then turn right onto Joni Miller Road. The Pleasant Valley Community Center is on the right.

Home, Not So Sweet Home...

If a tornado happened to wipe out a significant portion of one or more of Garrett County's towns, it is likely that the great majority of persons affected would want to rebuild in the same location. One's home is one's home, and it is not just a place, but part of one's history and literally one's identity. We would want to rebuild on the same property, and we would probably expect some financial assistance in that effort, either from insurance companies or the government.

However, if for some strange reason tornadoes returned every few years, or even every decade or so, and decimated the same town repeatedly, basic logic would dictate that, home or not, it's time to move and rebuild elsewhere.

This is now the dilemma that must be faced on a much larger scale, not only in the entire Gulf Coast region of the United States, but also in coastal Florida and the Carolinas. New Orleans, in particular, sits on the coast, but is also well below sea level and, worse yet, has been sinking lower and lower for many years. Despite its history, its charm, its "greatness" as a U.S. city, and the fact that it is the beloved home to tens of thousands of Americans, how logical is it to rebuild what has been lost there? The price tag is expected to run somewhere around $200 billion to clean up the mess wrought by Hurricane Katrina, and that meter is about to start spinning again when Hurricane Rita smacks Texas in less than two days.

Shortly after Katrina did what it did, Speaker of the House Dennis Hastert (R-Ill.) questioned the logic of rebuilding New Orleans and was immediately blasted by Gov. Kathleen Blanco for his comments. But really, should our government (aka, we taxpayers) be expected to continue to pay for such reconstruction, over and over and over? Yes, in the case of New Orleans we should do all we can to salvage and rebuild those areas of the city that are generally in a safer location (higher ground, such as the French Quarter), but we should not pour money into rebuilding those low-lying areas of the city that will (not might, but will) be destroyed again.

If a man decides to build a house on a railroad track, should the rest of society be expected to fund its reconstruction every time it gets hit by a train?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I agree with your September 15, 2005, editorial, "Not Apples to Apples." The government should not restrict one's belief in God; nor should it restrict one's right not to believe in God. That's what separates our great country from the rest of the world. One must discover one's belief – or nonbelief, for that matter – in God on one's own terms.

My father-in-law once told me that, when he was in a foxhole during an artillary attack at the Battle of the Bulge, a known athiest soldier who was huddled next to him asked how to pray. His immediate conversion to God was voluntary and personal, and on his own terms. No court ruling or government law should forbid our right to make such a decision.

To the Editor:

Four years later, the DCL Policy and Review Board is again attempting to change the lake rules and regulations to allow up to three 45' "tour" boats (barges) to operate on Deep Creek Lake.

This is an overt slap in the face to the interested, concerned public that overwhelmingly rejected a similar proposal four years ago. The only difference is that the current proposal limits the length of the barge to 45' in lieu of the proposed 62' four years ago. This difference is comparable to being just a little bit pregnant.

This self-serving proposed change to the lake rules and regulations is also in direct contradiction to the warnings and recommendations incorporated in two completed, independent reports, commissioned at taxpayer expense, regarding the carrying capacity, crowding, and future of Deep Creek Lake.

I would urge all interested citizens to voice their opinions and concerns to the following contact: Carolyn Matthews, Acting Lake Manager, Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area, 898 State Park Rd., Swanton, MD 21561; Tel: 301-387-4111; Fax: 301-387-4462; E-mail: camatthews@dnr.state.md.us.

This proposed change to existing regulations is simply not good for Deep Creek Lake!

To the Editor:

How could Mr. Bush take his time to help the people that suffered from the hurricane? Could it be that they are not wealthy or from another country? He seems to be the first to act when they need help.

I for one don't complain about the fuel prices. My vote didn't put him in office. It sure seems that he has put this country in worse shape than it's ever seen.

People must be blind to say this country is a lot better now than in Clinton era. I kind of enjoyed paying $.89 a gallon for gas. Compared to $3.49 a gallon. The budget was balanced with a surplus instead of being in more debt than we ever were.

If this country would worry more about their own instead of everybody else, we wouldn't have many of these problems.

A lot of people hold the one big thing that Clinton did against him!

I believe it's just he got caught while all the others haven't.

Who knows who our next president is going to be, but I guarantee, we will never enjoy like our days with Clinton.

Mr. Clinton was a man with respect to all, not just for the rich like your typical Republican.

If Mr. Bush was really worried about our fuel prices, don't you think he would do something? I doubt it, considering he and Cheney probably still own stock in fuel companies. That would cut into their profit.

James Tasker
Meyersdale, Pa.

To the Editor:

This letter is addressed to any of you people who, for reasons beyond my understanding, still think our president is doing a good job. His numbers continue to fall, and with good reason.

My guess is that most of you are single-issue voters. Probably members of the Christian Taliban or NRA gun huggers with your head in the sand about any other issues. You're worried about the color of the ship and it's sinking, my friends.

Here we have a president who failed in all three of his business ventures prior to being president. Obviously he has learned nothing. He is leading us down that failed path again.

Tell me, Mr. President, where are we getting 200 billion dollars for the "war" in Iraq and another 200 billion for the hurricane relief? By making the tax cuts permanent? By repealing the estate tax for the 1% it actually affects? By giving a 14 billion dollar tax cut for the oil companies? (Exxon will make a cool 10.4 billion dollar profit this past quarter!) Any fool knows you don't spend money you don't have! So we borrow more money from China. Money borrowed to pay interest on the debt. This is crazy! What happens when China calls in the debt?

Mr. Bush's plan for hurricane relief? Repeal the Davis-Bacon Act that ensures "prevailing wages" (not union wages) for those working to rebuild their towns, homes, and lives–the idea being that they have nothing, so they'll work for nothing. Sound fair? There is, however, no limit to profits made by Halliburton.

As a registered Republican, I am embarrassed by George Bush. Where is a balanced budget? Where is any sense of leadership? As president, the man is pathetic. He spends all summer at the "Lazy W" While Rome burns and Rove spins. For God's sake, he can't even speak, explaining why they only let supporters attend his speeches. (A first in presidential history. Free speech, my foot.)

Wake up and smell the coffee, you diehards. History will reveal the foolishness of this 3rd rate president. Let's just hope there are some horses left by the time we get the barn door closed!

To the Editor:

This is in response to the letter written last week by Charlotte Harkins regarding the salary of the American Red Cross president, Marsha Evans, a retired vice admiral of the United States Navy who has been in this position for several years.

It is true that Ms. Evans' salary is in the range of $450,000-500,000 per year, but I think most people would be surprised to know that we have people here in western Maryland earning salaries in that range with far fewer responsibilities and far fewer people to account for. But my motivation in writing this letter is not to try to defend such a high salary, but rather to point out some very important facts that need clarification.

Ms. Harkins stated, "It is sad to hear that homeless people and poor people are giving to the Katrina hurricane victims only to help pay the director's salary." That is not true. The salaries of all of our national sector employees are paid out of the general funds, which is money that local chapters pay to our national organization for the privilege of having a chartered unit in our communities.

Not one single penny of disaster funds is ever used to pay anyone's salary in this organization. Dollars donated for disasters are used to help the people affected by disasters, and we have an esteemed reputation for maximizing our donations. Money magazine has frequently rated us as one of the top organizations in the country worthy of donations because we routinely ensure that 92 cents of every donated dollar goes directly to helping people.

Another point raised by the writer is whether or not the TV stations are donating their time, and the answer is a resounding yes, as are local radio stations, cable companies, and newspapers.

I want to thank everyone who has donated to the Hurricane Katrina relief effort. As I write this we have received about $85,000 from local individuals and organizations, and the number is sure to climb higher. It is already fast approaching the amount that was donated in 2001 after 9/11, which may make this our local chapter's largest single fundraising event in our history. It refreshes our spirit to know that so many people in our communities care so much about people they're never met, and are willing to give so freely. One of the reasons we choose to live in this area is because we have the greatest neighbors in the world!

Churches Feed

"It's a time when the food stamps and money in the family begins running out," he said. "It not only provides a free meal, but also a chance to get out and socialize," adding that anywhere from 10 to 50 people attend the monthly feeding.

Much of the reason for the interest in the free meals has to do with the fact that some 15 percent of households in the county live at or below federal poverty levels. Still more are at what Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., calls the "150 percent poverty level rate," meaning if someone in the family loses a job or there is some other kind of emergency, such as a car breaking down, they do not have the means to handle the crisis.

For a family of four the national poverty rate is around $19,000. Twenty-eight thousand per year is considered the "150 percent poverty rate," according to Yoder.

Statewide, the median income is $61,350. In Garrett County it is $37,050, according to 2004 figures. Tom Rosser, assistant director for Family Investment at Garrett County Social Services, says 16 percent of the families in the county receive medical assistance, the highest percentage among all counties in Maryland and second only to Baltimore City. Some 1,004 people are receiving food stamps in the county, and in over 60 percent of those cases, someone in the household is employed.

Jim Hinebaugh, Garrett County director of economic development, says he is well aware of the existence of local poverty, but maintains that even the poor are benefiting from the current economic boom.

"First of all, you're not going to find anyone in Garrett County who will work for minimum wage anymore," he said. "The economy is just too good. Wages are rising."

He added that 60% of the county's tax revenues come from the lake area, "which means a tremendous savings in taxes for our local residents."

Hinebaugh has long been known and respected for his tireless efforts at trying to attract companies into the county that not only pay well, but also provide benefits. He and his colleagues have met with some success in the recent recruitment of ClosetMaid and Woodmark.

"That's one of the first things we look at," he said, "an assurance that the company will pay a livable wage and that benefits are offered."

Hinebaugh's job in attracting these types of businesses has been made tougher in the past few years by the loss of manufacturing jobs to overseas markets and the general decline of the middle class. And with the cost of health insurance benefits increasing, fewer companies are willing to offer them to employees.

"Anyone who wants a job in Garrett County can find one," said Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg. "The economy is the best that it's ever been."

Fellow commissioners Dave Beard and Fred Holliday echoed the sentiments. Pointing proudly to what may be a 5½ percent county unemployment rate by the end of the year, they see little or no reason for anyone wishing to work to not be able to do so.

But they admit that perhaps more could be done to provide individuals with

Keep Taxes Low, Economy Strong

by Daniel B. Kline

President Bush must ignore those calling for a tax increase to fund efforts to recover from Hurricane Katrina. Raising taxes in this time of economic insecurity would almost surely send the United States into a recession.

Though the U.S. has minimal unemployment, historically low mortgage rates, and other strong indications of a growing economy, the public clearly has fear for the future. We're paying more for gas, have seen little growth in our retirement accounts, and are unsure whether the housing bubble will burst. Increasing taxes would do little to quell these fears and would likely be the tipping point that causes fear to become reality.

If the people who have money don't spend it because they're worried about tomorrow then the economy shrinks. If middle-class families feel financially pinched, they cut back on vacations, luxury items, meals in restaurants, and all sorts of other things that create jobs.

The rebuilding efforts will cost billions of dollars and that money must come from other government programs, not the already over-burdened taxpayer. Increasing taxes, which Democrats have called for but Bush has pledged not to do, would simply transfer the problem from the Gulf Coast and spread it out across the nation.

The impact of tax increases on the economy works counter intuitively. Lower taxes and you have economic growth, raise taxes and everything shrinks. If people pay less to the government they buy more stuff, giving other people money to do the same. When they must pay more, the purse strings get tighter and everyone below them on the economic ladder suffers.

No matter how you look at it, history has shown that an increase in taxes generates a decrease in revenues collected by the government. In addition to the public having less to spend, this decrease leads to the government spending less. That eliminates jobs, increases poverty, and generally sends the whole country rocketing down a steep cliff. Many elected officials like to ignore these facts because holding press conferences where you pledge to raise taxes on the wealthy generally wins you a lot of votes.

The question of how much the government should charge in taxes generally breaks down along party lines. Democrats, who see themselves as the working class party want higher taxes – specifically on those they perceive as rich. Republicans want lower taxes, mostly for the same so-called wealthy folks. None of this has anything to do with economic theory or what's best for the country; it's all basically a marketing plan to appeal to the most voters.

The public must remember that governments never spend money well. Since keeping your job has nothing to do with maintaining fiscal responsibility, elected officials are free to blow billions on bureaucracy, needless infrastructure, and endless hearings about how to create even more roadblocks to doing things efficiently.

Politicians lack the pressures facing those running actual businesses. There are no balance sheets, no stock prices to worry about, and no shareholders demanding better returns. With only the electorate to please, those in office don't have to worry about spending our money wisely. Instead, their only task is spending enough of it badly in ways that please a lot of people.

Everyone wants to help the victims of Hurricane Katrina and nearly everyone would sacrifice their money to do so. It's tempting to think that a tax increase would give the government more money to aid in rebuilding.

The reality is that higher taxes would draw dollars away from the Gulf Coast. Skip the rhetoric and use common sense. Give what you can to charities that help the victims, but fight to keep the government from taking even more of your dollars.

Paper Voting Record Advocates Gain Support

by Kaukab Jhumra Smith
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON

Maryland advocates of paper records for electronic voting machines are renewing their cause after a report this week from a panel headed by former President Jimmy Carter recommended receipts to alleviate voting security issues.

Critics of the Maryland State Board of Elections were buoyed by federal election reform recommendations released this week by the Carter-Baker commission — named for its leaders, Carter and former Secretary of State James Baker III — and by the unexpected softening of two former opponents toward voter-verified paper records.

"Voting machines must be both accessible and transparent," the Carter-Baker report said, adding that direct recording electronic machines, the kind Maryland uses, usually don't allow voters to check if their ballot was recorded correctly. Some can't be used for an independent recount, it said.

Maryland's adoption of electronic voting has been criticized since the state purchased its first machines in 2001.

Critics charge the State Board of Elections spent millions of dollars on unproven machines from Diebold Elections Systems that are poorly made, crash frequently, and require rebooting — sometimes, as a report on last year's election by Montgomery County said, while voters were mid-ballot.

A Diebold spokesman said the machines are reliable and not likely to crash. "They've been proven election after election," David Bear said. "There has never been a security issue with touch-screens."

By far the most publicized issue with the machines is their failure to produce an individual record of a ballot for the voter.

Twenty-six states have passed laws requiring a paper record, according to TrueVoteMD, a nonprofit organization devoted to the issue.

Maryland's Diebold machines provide paper records for audits by officials, but individual voters don't get a paper copy of their vote before their ballot is cast, Bear said. Although Diebold makes machines with voter-verified paper records, Maryland has not bought them because state law doesn't require them, he said.

Maryland advocates say it is imperative to print a separate paper copy so voters can determine whether their vote was recorded correctly and allow for a recount.

The advocates, including Senate Minority Whip Andrew Harris, R-Baltimore County, and Takoma Park Councilman Marc Elrich, have a lawsuit pending against State Elections Administrator Linda Lamone, which says Lamone stuck with the Diebold machines despite knowing of problems with their security and reliability.

Independent U.S. Senate candidate Kevin Zeese, who often works with TrueVoteMD, is making voter verification a campaign issue by sending a letter to his opponents in the race.

"In the last two days, seismic changes have occurred that make the case opposing paper records untenable," Zeese said.

In addition to the commission report, one of Lamone's allies against voter verified paper trails, Georgia's secretary of state Cathy Cox, said Tuesday she had changed her mind.

Maryland and Georgia were among the first states to adopt electronic voting technology and Cox and Lamone traditionally shared the same dislike for paper records, said Linda Schade, TrueVoteMD executive director and another plaintiff in the lawsuit against Lamone.

Also Tuesday, a spokesman for Maryland Gov. Robert Ehrlich told the Associated Press that the governor was "receptive" to the idea of a paper trail, a comment that advocates pounced on.

"Linda Lamone has to be sweating today," Schade said. "I think that more evidence is coming and there are clear trends in public opinion moving towards voter verification. I think that Administrator Lamone will feel the pressure of the voting community."

The State Board of Elections doesn't know where public opinion lies on voter verification, said Ross Goldstein, deputy state administrator.

The board has commissioned two studies with the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, and the University of Maryland, College Park, to gauge public opinion and to study alternative ways to verify votes, including audio and video verification rather than paper copies, Goldstein said.

If a voter-verified paper trail were to be approved, all sides agree, Maryland could buy new machines or retrofit its existing 16,000 Diebold machines with printers.

FIRST UNITED BANK AND TRUST DONATES TO HURRICANE RELIEF – The more than 400 employees of First United Bank and Trust voted overwhelmingly to donate funds designated for the annual employee appreciation party to victims of Hurricane Katrina. A check totaling $9,650 was donated to the American Red Cross National Disaster Relief Fund. The monies will go toward running shelters, supplying food and medicine, and helping transport relief supplies. "Such a generous move is not unprecedented for First United and its associates," said William B. Grant, CEO and chairman of the board. "In 1985, following the devastating floods in West Virginia, our annual party was canceled and the funds sent to help the flood victims." Members of the First United Bank and Trust Employee Action Team are pictured above presenting a check to Debbie Bishop, president of the board of the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross. In the front, from the left, are Eric Nutter, Bishop, Amy Law Garner, Susan Brenneman, Margaret Luzier, Dianne Armentrout, and Rick Thayer. In the back are Preston Sharps, Lesa Snyder, Stephanie Hauser, George Evans, Sherry Rodeheaver, and Dionne Bolyard.

tual components are also being planned as part of the museum's offerings.

Nominations for the Hall of Fame were submitted by affiliate organizations to a screening committee of peers, and 40 international whitewater members voted for the candidates. Six new inductees, in five categories, are slated to be enshrined in the hall each year.

McNair was recognized in the Pioneer category as an individual no longer living who made early and significant contributions to any area of whitewater. "Bob wrote 'the book' for basic river canoeing techniques," Trusty stated. "He was instrumental in forming the American Whitewater Affiliation by uniting clubs across America, and was a key proponent in the formation of the American Canoe Association Slalom Committee."

Lesser was selected in the Explorer category, which recognizes an individual who was/is engaged in exploration of unknown regions and areas of whitewater activity. "Rob set the standard for exploratory kayaking on big, Class V, water; was the first paddler to run the Grand Canyon of the Stikine River in Northern Canada, and the North Fork of the Payette River; and made several first descents on difficult rivers in U.S. and Canada," Trusty commented.

Hearn and Lugbill were named to the HOF in the Champion category, which honors an athlete or coach with a distinguished record.

Hearn, a two-time world champion gold medalist in single canoe (C-1) competition, also took six gold medals as a C-1 team member, and possesses eight silver medals. "Davey was a dominating force in canoe slalom, where he produced paddling techniques and boat design innovations over a fabulous 26-year competitive career," stated Trusty. "He's also holder of a Top 10 Sportsman of The Year award presented by the U.S. Olympic Committee."

Lugbill is the only whitewater athlete in history to have won 12 world championship gold medals, and has been recognized as the best paddler ever in whitewater canoeing (C-1) competition. He has been an NBC commentator in two Olympics, a winner of Wheaties' "Search for Champions," and was a U.S. Olympic Top 10 Sportsman, in addition to several other national awards.

Kennedy and Walbridge were selected in the Advocate category, denoting an outstanding contributions to the sport.

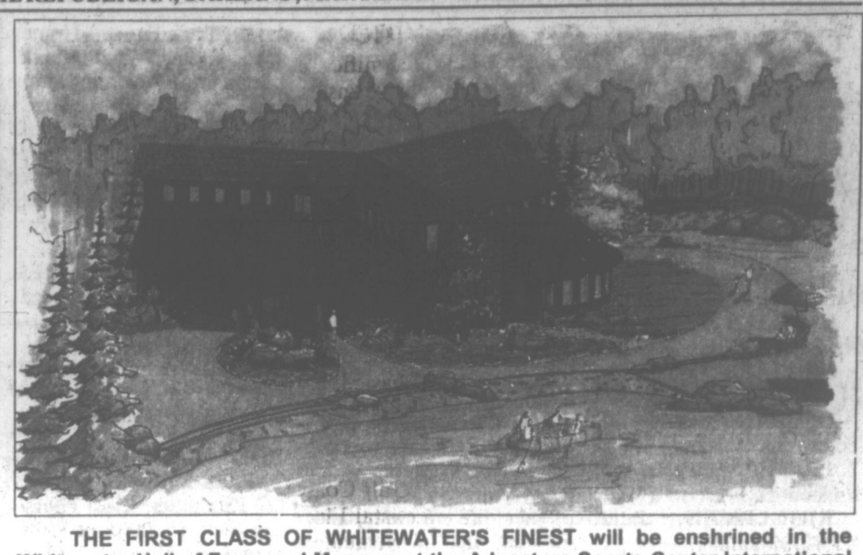
Kennedy co-founded the Nantahala Outdoor Center, which he built into the largest outdoor education/training center in the world. He has earned six national championships in two-man canoe (C-2), and is an "ardent supporter of slalom and wild water racing, having helped produce several U.S. Olympic racers," observed Trusty.

Walbridge's work in whitewater safety and rescue is recognized for saving countless lives and is known and replicated worldwide. "Charles has developed an array of innovative safety and rescue devices, and is an active speaker who ceaselessly promotes safety," stated Trusty.

The Life Time Achievement Award, established and sponsored by the ASCI board of directors, recognizes Endicott "for his outstanding and substantial life-long contributions to whitewater sports and related activities nationally and internationally," Trusty explained. "Bill is a 16-year coach of the U.S. Whitewater Team, and he has vastly influenced whitewater slalom in the this country and internationally for 30 years."

Endicott coached athletes who won 57 medals in world championship, World Cup, and Olympic competitions, 27 of them gold. He co-created the Canoe Slalom World Cup, which features multiple major international competitions held on at least two continents every year since 1988. He is also the author of two books on whitewater, one on whitewater racing history, and one on wild water racing, as well as a sprint racing book.

"Honoring these first inductees into the Hall of Fame recognizes the importance of Garrett County to the history and future of whitewater activities," Trusty concluded.



THE FIRST CLASS OF WHITEWATER'S FINEST will be enshrined in the Whitewater Hall of Fame and Museum at the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) next month, as the names of the initial inductees were announced yesterday. The six honorees (one deceased) will be honored during the upcoming Autumn Glory Festival, as they and family members have been invited to serve as the Grand Marshals of the 2005 Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, slated for Saturday, Oct. 15. The Whitewater Hall of Fame and Museum, shown above in an artist's rendering, will be located atop Marsh Mountain.

COMMUNITY SUPPORTS RECOVERY MONTH – The Garrett County commissioners signed a proclamation on Tuesday declaring September 2005 as National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month in Garrett County. Many residents were on hand to show their continued support of the county's substance abuse treatment programs, including policy makers, health care providers, educators, law enforcement, religious leaders, and Garrett County Addictions Advisory Board members. "The community support shows the commitment to work together to convey the message that substance abuse is a treatable disease and that recovery is possible," said a Garrett County Health Department spokesperson. In addition, Minority Leader George Edwards presented the GC Addictions Advisory Board with a citation from the Maryland House of Delegates celebrating the 16th year for National Recovery Month. Pictured, left to right, in the front row are Dr. William Pope, Kerrie Margroff, Commissioner Ernie Gregg, Melissa King, Commissioner Dave Beard, Nancy Brady, Patty Sines, and Commissioner Fred Holliday. In the back row are Edwards, Les McDaniels, Capt. Larry Gnegy, Bob Stephens, Cheryl Pachilis, Hazel Hinebaugh, Ed Campbell, Brooke Schneider, Phil Lauver, Rick DeWitt, Crystal Stewart, Steve Sauder, and Anna Bishop. In Memory of
on his birthday
WINGS OF THE ANGEL
A gentle wind blew cross the land
Reaching out to take a hand
For on the winds the angels came Calling out a father's name.
Left behind, the children's tears
Loving memories of the years
Of joy and love, a life well spent
And now to God a father's sent.
On angel's wings, a heavenly flight
The journey home, towards the light
To those who weep, a life is gone
But in God's love,
'tis but the dawn.

Adorable Adoptables

SPARKY NEEDS A NEW HOME – Sparky, pictured at left, is a collie mix and is currently housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter, awaiting a new home. "Even though he is very nice boy, his owners were moving and did not take him along," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also at the shelter is a male terrier mix, center, that looks like Benji. He was picked up as a stray by the railroad tracks near Swanton. At right is Tramp, a large male shepherd/Lab mix that is eager for someone to play with him. Two other Labs are also available for adoption. Last week's featured kittens were taken to a rescue downstate. "Some of them had been at the shelter for three weeks and it was so full that we were happy the rescue could take them to where they would be adopted into good homes," said the spokesperson. "Please note that rabies vaccination clinics are being held around the county this month." For more information about these or any other pets, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

Dear Friends,

After thirty-four years of serving the community, I have decided to step down as owner of the Durst Funeral Home because of health reasons. I am proud to announce that David Burdock will be the new owner of the Burdock-Durst Funeral Home in Oakland. Dave has over thirty years' experience, and I have complete confidence that I am leaving my family's business in very capable hands. I will maintain a personal interest and continue to work along side him. Dave has obligated himself to honor all pre-need accounts.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many families who placed their trust in my father and me and assure you that Dave and I will continue to provide the same professional care that you've grown to trust since 1961.

Very sincerely,

Mark Durst

Miss Maryland Rachel Ellsworth To Attend AGF

Rachel Leigh Ellsworth, Miss Maryland 2005, will be one of the many distinguished guests at this year's 38th annual Autumn Glory Festival. Her attendance is once again being sponsored by Gregg's Pharmacy, Oakland.

Miss Maryland graduated from Allegany College of Maryland with an associate of science degree in nursing. She said she plans on obtaining a master's degree in nursing as a specialized neonatal nurse practitioner.

Her platform issue is diabetes awareness and education.

Ellsworth is from Fort Ashby, W.Va.

MISS MARYLAND RACHEL ELLSWORTH

4-H Club News

GRANTSVILLE
by Ethan Broadwater, reporter

The August meeting of the Grantsville 4-H Club was held recently, with members finalizing plans for the county fair. Duane Reminded members that they were to help in the corn booth on Wednesday evening at the fair from 4 to 9 p.m.

Orientation and clean-up day for members and exhibitors was Aug. 10.

All of the members received their fair money after the meeting.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 3 at 7 p.m. at the Sportsman's Club.

RED HOUSE
by Sarah Brenneman

The September meeting of the Red House 4-H Club was held at St. John's Lutheran Church.

Delita Friend was our Clover Bud activity leader this month, and the Clovers – Austin, Cheyenne, Lucas, and Rachael – completed a fall leaf project. The Brennemans are our community project leaders.

This month's business included reviewing the animals that were purchased at the Livestock Sale and donated to the club.

As a result of those donations, our annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be held Oct. 22 at the Pleasant Valley Community Center beginning at 4 p.m. More plans will be made at our next meeting. Rachael Skipper will design a poster for the dinner to post at local businesses for adverstement.

Matt Fitzwater, Ryan Fitzwater, Ryan Miller, and Sara Holler participated in the Maryland State Fair and gave the club a report about the events and shows they were in.

Family Fun Day was held at Funland on Sept. 11. Everyone who attended had a great time. We had 11 4-H'ers, 2 guests, and 7 adults attend this event.

Each member was given County Council beef tickets to sell, which need to be returned at our next meeting in October.

The annual dinner of the Garrett County Livestock Association will be held on Oct. 2 at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger beginning at 1 p.m.

The club voted to give a donation to the Hurricane Katrina evacuees who are at Camp Dawson in Kingwood, W.Va. We will be donating paper products, hand soap, and hand sanitizers.

To join 4-H, youths may call the Extension office at 301-334-6960.

Lodge Luncheon Set For Sept. 28

Oakland Lodge #192, Ancient, Free, and Accepted Masons, will hold its monthly High Noon luncheon next Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic hall along First Street. All members and their guests, as well as Eastern Star members and their guests, are invited. There will be no business conducted before, during, or after the luncheon, according to the lodge secretary.

Eighth Annual Car Show To Be Held At Broadford Park

The Mountaintop Cruisers Car Club will sponsor its eighth annual Autumn Glory Antique and Classic Car Show at Broadford Lake Park on Sunday, Oct. 16, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., rain or shine. This year's event will include trucks and tractors. Admission is free for spectators.

The event will be a judged show with 15 classes. Dash plaques will be awarded to the first 100 vehicles that are registered. Sign-up will be held from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. The cost is $10.

This popular event will also include a 50/50 raffle, Chinese auction, and door prizes. Food will be available as well.

Proceeds from the event benefit local organizations.

Vendor space is available for those who sell car-related items. For more information, persons may call 301-334-2838 or 304-735-5226, or e-mail mttopcruisers@yahoo.com.

BPW Seeks Women With Military Svc.

The Business and Professional Women (BPW) of Garrett County has announced that it will honor an entire group of women when it bestows its 2005 Woman of the Year Award, not an individual honoree as is customary. The BPW will honor Garrett County women who have, or are serving, in the armed forces of the United States.

"We are looking for these women and need help from the community to give us names of women, alive or dead, who have served their country," said spokesperson Joanne Harsh, noting that she already has names and contact information for approximately 20 women. "This can include women who served in the second World War, as well as more recent conflicts, and in the various branches of service."

The names of these women will be presented at BPW's meeting on Thursday, Oct 20.

Persons interested in submitting names of women who have served their country can call Phyllis Trickett at 301-334-4810 or Harsh at 301-334-9766.

Breast Cancer Seminars Slated In Swanton, Kitzmiller

A program on breast cancer will be presented on Monday, Sept. 26, at the Swanton Senior Center, and Thursday, Oct. 6, at the Kitzmiller Senior Center. These Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Speakers Bureau program presentations will begin at 11:30 a.m.

The presenter will be surgical nurse manager JoAnn Forno, RNFA, MPM, CNOR. Forno will discuss the various diseases of the breast, but will concentrate on breast cancer, its signs, symptoms and treatment, as well as the effects it has on both men and women.

Persons interested in reserving a speaker on this or another topic may contact Kearstin Hinebaugh in the public relations office at 301-533-4041.

Miss Fratz Marries Mr. Kyle In June Ceremony

Lori Ann Fratz and Ronald Ray Kyle were united in marriage on June 18 at Emmanuel United Methodist Church, Frostburg, with Pastor Dan Agnew officiating.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, William and Barbara Fratz, Avilton.

The groom is the son of Ray and Shirley Kyle, Frostburg.

The matron of honor was Kathy Williams, sister of the bride. Serving as bridesmaids were April Kyle, sister of the groom, and Heather Thomas, friend of the bride. Flower girls were Montana and McKenzie Mahler, nieces of the bride.

David Kyle, brother of the groom, served as the best man. Groomsmen were Jesse Broadwater and Dustin George, friends of the groom. The ring bearers were Austin Williams, nephew of the bride, and Andy Kyle, cousin of the groom.

The guestbook and programs were attended by Sara Fratz, sister of the bride, and Susan Deal, friend of the bride.

Music during the ceremony was provided by organist Nancy Klink, and the photographer was Mary Minnick. Videotaping was done by Randy Kyle, cousin of the groom.

A casual reception was held following the ceremony at the Eastern Garrett fire hall, Finzel. The meal was prepared and served by the Ladies Auxiliary. The wedding cake was made by Cora Weese, friend of the bride.

Music was provided by Music Express of Frostburg. The couple shared their first dance to "Forever's As Far As I'll Go" by Alabama.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Ocean City, and now reside in Frostburg.

Hymn Sing Set At Jennings UM Church

The Jennings United Methodist Church will host a hymn sing on Sunday, Sept. 25, at 7 p.m., featuring the Larualand Quartet from Meyersdale, Pa.

The church is located 4 miles south of Grantsville along the Jennings Road.

Course In Growing Strawberries Set At Garrett College

University of Maryland small fruit specialist and plant breeder Dr. Harry Swartz will conduct a short course in Strawberry Growing this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 23-24, at Garrett College. The course will begin at 6 p.m. Friday with a 3-hour classroom session, meet again at 10 a.m. the following day for a short classroom session, then move to a nearby farm for a planting demonstration and discussion of strawberry management. The session will conclude at approximately 3 p.m.

This Strawberry Growing course is designed to provide an introduction to the production and marketing of the berries. Course instructor Swartz has worked on strawberry breeding and management systems all over the world. His main focus is on developing high-quality varieties of day neutral (everbearing) strawberries. Swartz has been cooperating with farmers in Garrett and southern Somerset counties for the past three years on growing breeder plants for his breeding program.

Swartz and Garrett County Extension agent Willie Lantz also are submitting a grant to help fund the development of a day neutral strawberry integrated network in the region, which would include nurseries, growers, and marketing of the product.

For cost and other information about the course, persons may contact Richard McCrobie at 301-387-3329.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

The town of Loch Lynn Heights will hold an election for two council seats on Monday, Nov. 7, unless a primary election is required. The terms of councilwomen Ruth Foley and Betty Wolford expire at the end of this calendar year. Persons wishing to be nominated for an elective office in the town for the 2006-07 term may do so by filing a certificate of nomination at the office of the clerk at Town Hall on or before 4 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 3.

Residents not registered to vote either in the town of Loch Lynn Heights or with the Garrett County Board of Elections and who wish to vote on Oct. 17 if the primary election is needed – or on Nov. 7 in the general municipal election held at Town Hall – may do so by registering at the Garrett County Board of Elections on or before 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7. Residents must have resided within the state of Maryland for at least one year preceding any town election and must have resided within the corporate limits of the town for six months next preceding any town election.

The next regularly scheduled council meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m.

HOLY FIRE TO PERFORM AT AUTUMN GLORY FEST – The Holy Fire Drama Team will present a 45-minute performance on Saturday, Oct. 15, on the Front Page Stage during the Autumn Glory Festival. The drama team is composed of young people from the Loch Lynn Church of God who minister through dramatic movements called "human videos." Coached by Debbie McCrosky, the award winning Holy Fire Drama Team has performed throughout the tri-state area.

OTT Presenting Two Original Plays; Avery Urges Area Teens To Attend

Two plays, penned by Jane Avery and dealing with the angst of being a teenager, will be presented at Our Town Theatre in Oakland next week. A show titled Bullies will be given at the theatre on Wednesday, Sept. 28, and Friday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m., and The Goodbye Kids is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 29, and Saturday, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m. Each production will last about an hour. Reservations (which can be made by dialing 301-334-5640, option 1) are suggested, but not mandatory. There is no charge for the productions, although Avery noted that the hat will be passed.

The plays each deal with trials faced by teenagers nearly every day.

"Last year at a teacher's workshop at Our Town Theatre, Sara Ramsey asked me to write a dramatic piece about bullying," Avery said. "It has taken me a year to get my act together, but the play, titled Bullies, is finally ready for production. Geared specifically toward middle school students, Bullies is a work that will encourage thought in anyone over the age of 8. A series of skits about the subject, commented on by the narrator, will at times entertain and at other times distress the audience, but all of the vignettes will provoke thought about bullying."

The second show on the playbill is The Goodbye Kids, also written by Avery and focusing on high school drop-outs. The series of monologues was first presented some years ago at Our Town, specifically for a Southern High School faculty enrichment event. The cast of Bullies presented Goodbye Kids at another faculty opening-day workshop recently. Avery said the cast members asked if they could repeat Goodbye Kids in tandem with Bullies, which led to the scheduling of the two plays next week.

"I've been working with a group who renews my conviction that Garrett County grows terrific kids," Avery said about the cast. "Alexis Brenneman, Carolyn McGehee, Christie Hamilton, Evan Thayer, Matt Steyer, Megan Viar, Rob McEwen, and Rose Jackson are a warm and talented group."

As to the youths' request to give both shows next week, Avery said they felt that the plays' messages were something that Garrett County teens really need to hear.

Avery cautioned that The Goodbye Kids does contain strong language because it is written in the words of teenagers. Even so, she said she and the cast "strongly encourage parents to bring their youngsters to these productions."

"In addition to the general public, teachers, administrators, counselors, social workers, and ministers would probably benefit from seeing these performances," Avery added.

IT'S NOT EASY BEING A TEEN – And that's the message given by these actors in Our Town Theatre's production next week of two original plays, both dealing with such stresses as bullying, alienation, peer pressure, parental neglect, and other difficulties often endured by teenagers. Two stage shows, Bullies and The Goodbye Kids, penned by Jane Avery, will be presented at the Oakland theatre on the following schedule: Bullies on Wednesday, Sept. 28, and Friday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m., and The Goodbye Kids on Thursday, Sept. 29, and Saturday, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m. Each production will last about an hour. Reservations (which can be made by dialing 301-334-5640, option 1) are suggested, but not mandatory. There is no ticket cost for the productions, although Avery noted that donations will be accepted. Bullies focuses on both bullies and those who are bullied, and The Goodbye Kids is a series of monologues by teens who tell why they dropped out of high school. Avery said she hopes lots of young people and their parents come to the shows, which are geared toward middle school and high school age audiences. She did caution that there is some strong language, especially in Goodbye Kids. See separate story. The cast is pictured. Seated in the front are Alexis Brenneman (left) and Robert McEwen. In the center are Matt Steyer and Carolyn McGehee. In the back, from left, are Megan Viar, Christie Hamilton, Evan Thayer, and Rose Jackson.

Musical Benefit Slated At VFW

VFW Post 10077 will host a musical benefit on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 7 p.m. until midnight. Five bands will play continuously throughout the evening.

The cost is $5 per couple or $3 per person. All proceeds benefit the relief fund for Hurricane Katrina victims.

The post is located near Deer Park along Rt. 135.

Agency On Aging Has Openings For Kringle Play Trip

Openings are still available for the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging's trip to the Growing Up Kringle play and shopping trip on Nov. 18.

In the play, the gossipy ghost of Santa Claus's brother teaches the audience about how Kris Kringle became Santa. "It's a funny, heart-warming musical adventure for the whole family to enjoy," said a spokesperson.

The trip includes motor coach transportation, brunch at 10:30 a.m., and a show ticket for the play. The bus will stop at the Valley Mall (Pa.) en route for holiday shopping and dinner. The bus will depart Oakland Wal-Mart's parking lot at 7 p.m., and will stop in Accident and Grantsville for pick-up.

The cost for the trip is $65 per person, and reservations and payment are due by Oct. 15. To reserve a seat, persons may contact Pat Steyer at 301-334-9431, ext. 134, or Leona Lavin at 301-895-5818.

His Oldest Friend
by Sonny Kleinfield
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer
Times Books, c. 2005, $24, 288 pages

When you were in grade school, remember being best friends with someone on Wednesday and snarky enemies by Friday? Yes, grade school is filled with smashed friendships and broken hearts.

And then you grew up, some friendships "clicked," and the good ones last a lifetime.

In the new memoir His Oldest Friend by Sonny Kleinfield, you'll read about a that friendship won't last for generations, but bridges them.

Elvis Checo was 9 years old when he came from the Dominican Republic to New York City. If you ask him what he most remembers about his childhood, he'll tell you that he misses the way the ground smelled of rain. He'll tell you that he used to steal fruit from trees so he could buy candy. He recalls being cherished by the grandmother who took him in when his mother left. He remembers moving to New York City to be with his mother, and the long hours spent on her food truck, cooking chimis and getting a spotty education because he was needed to help support the family.

These days, Elvis lives in a semi-furnished room in a neighborhood where bullets are as common as bricks and drugs are easy to score and sell. But Elvis doesn't make money that way. He works at a nursing home on the Upper West Side of Manhattan, the same place where he met his friend, Ms. Oliver.

Margaret Oliver was born in the South, the daughter of an African American/Irish man and a hard-working woman who died young. The family lived in Ohio at that time, but New York relatives took the young girl in and raised her. Over the years, Ms. Oliver led a relatively comfortable life. She was twice-married, the mother of twin girls, and had had a fulfilling career as a seamstress. Once upon a time, she loved to travel.

Now, Ms. Oliver is wheelchair-bound and nearly sightless. She spends her days at the nursing home, listening to opera, doing mental exercises, and waiting for a visit from her friend Elvis.

Oh, I almost forgot this part: Elvis is 20 years old. Ms. Oliver is 93. And this is one of the sweetest books you'll read this year.

Author Sonny Kleinfield followed Elvis and Ms. Oliver over the course of many months, and His Oldest Friend is about the bond of friendship that the pair have, as well as the life experiences they share. Although there were small passages of this book that dragged a bit, I truly loved the story. Most of all, I appreciated that Kleinfield didn't make this a preachy, listen-to-your-elders type of book; he was always careful to note that Ms. Oliver learned from Elvis, as much as the other way around. I also particularly liked that Kleinfield could have given his book a tear-jerker ending or made it maudlin, but he didn't.

His Oldest Friend is a wonderful book for anyone of any age. Get it, savor it, and share it with your own amigos.

Colonial America To Come To Life In Grantsville Area Living History Event

George Washington will be among famous early Americans portrayed at a Living History program Saturday, Oct. 1 in Grantsville, where demonstrations and presentations will take place between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. both days. The programs feature actual encampments, a trading post of artifacts, historical characters in period dress, movies, and a tasting of colonial cooking.

Living historians will also be at the site Wednesday and Thursday for educators wanting to learn more about the programs and for people interested in becoming involved. Programs will be presented Friday for children from Swan Meadow School.

The program commemorates the ill-fated trip of British general Edward Braddock. Guided tours of the public portion of the Braddock Road, along with additional demonstrations, will be presented by local historian Bob Bantz.

"This is a chance to learn what life was like when Washington passed through these mountains," noted Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "It was a young Col. George Washington who led colonial militia across northern Garrett County in 1754 heading toward Fort Duquesne."

The event's encampment site beside the Casselman River, next to Spruce Forest, is a perfect place to hold the program, according to Ross. "We can revisit that time and reconnect with the people who were forming the future of our nation. It is a chance to come face to face with history."

"George Washington, who had traveled through Garrett County previously, was one of the few who survived these early battles of the French and Indian War. His skills as a leader of men were developed along this trail. As a surveyor, soldier, and government representative, he matured with each trip," Ross explained.

"The man who was to become the first president of the United States followed the Nemacolin Indian Trail in 1753. Then in 1754, Washington's troops cut a road somewhat following this trail. Later, in 1755, Braddock's troops hacked through the wilderness to forge a new road. Washington marched to his destiny along this road."

Washington will be portrayed at the living history camp by committee member Jack Caruthers, who said, "George Washington got his start here. He found out he could lead men in combat."

For the past two years, frontier men and women and Indians have shared stories from the 1750s while participating at the trading post and encampment during Living History programs in May and November. Ross said he wants to continue promoting these types of events for county students, and to expand them to offer these programs to young people from outside the county, as well as to visitors in the area. The Living History programs for Garrett County school children are scheduled for May 2006 at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger.

For further information, persons may consult the web site www.deepcreeklakeinfo.com or call Ross at 301-387-4386.

FSU To Present Shakespeare's Works (Abridged)

A preview of The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged) has been slated for 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 28, in the Frostburg State University Performing Arts Center. The production is an offering of FSU's Cultural Events Series.

The play, which features three actors who perform 37 Shakespearean plays and 154 sonnets in just under two hours, was a smash off-Broadway hit and is the longest-running comedy in London.

"The play is a whirlwind roller coaster tribute to the immortal bard," a series spokesperson said. "All 16 comedies are brought together into one story containing a shipwreck, an influential duke and his three sets of identical twins."

The Cultural Events Series is looking for schools and organizations that would be willing to bring groups to the morning performance. There are a limited number of seats available. For further information, or to make arrangements to attend, persons may contact the FSU CES box office at 301-687-3137.

Artist To Hold Autumn Glory Open House

Local artist Joyce Tekavec will hold an open house during the week of Autumn Glory at her studio on 701 I Street, Mtn. Lake Park.

She does fine art in several mediums: oil, acrylic, and color pencil. She is currently instructing color pencil classes at Garrett College and the Thomas Education Center, Thomas, W.Va. Pieces of her art can also be seen at the Gallery in Oakland.

Her studio hours for the week of Autumn Glory are Wednesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday and Monday, 1 to 6 p.m.; and otherwise, by appointments only.

Currently, she is working on a barn owned by Sam and Helen Roth located between Red House and Thomas, W.Va. There are four horses painted on the barn, and she is repainting them.

For more information, persons may call 301-533-3264.

skills that would generate larger paychecks. When asked if there were one thing missing right now in Garrett County to assist in this effort, all three commissioners agreed that a central training facility would be it. Such a facility would train and certify people in such trades as masonry, carpentry, and other construction skills.

"I know that there are bits and pieces of this going on in the county," said Commissioner Gregg. "There is some training going on in the high schools and some at the college, but if we had one central facility where people could get certified in a skill or two, it would really help push local wages up."

Figures provided by the Board of Education indicate that the quality of the local work force is improving. This year an estimated 2.49 percent of high school students will drop out. That number is a sharp improvement over 2001 when the figure was 4.57 percent. The state average for this year is 3.70 percent.

One of Hinebaugh's priorities is to create an economy so that, when a local person graduates from high school or even from college, he or she is not forced to leave the area to find professional paying jobs.

"It's going to happen," he said. "It's going to get there."

Thomas Rosser of Social Services agrees that there has been some improvement in the economy lately, but he says that, as far as his clients go, it has been minimal.

"There may be more jobs, but they are low-paying jobs," he said. "From where I sit, in many ways things are the same as they were 10 years ago. There is a desperate need for food stamps and medical assistance. But maybe some of this economic boom will eventually trickle down to the people we serve."

Hinebaugh believes that to be the case. In addition to the fact that property owners at Deep Creek Lake pay 60 percent of the taxes in the county, he is convinced that the low unemployment rate and other healthy economic indicators will eventually reach all segments of Garrett County society.

HOLY FIRE TO PERFORM AT AUTUMN GLORY FEST – The Holy Fire Drama Team will present a 45-minute performance on Saturday, Oct. 15, on the Front Page Stage during the Autumn Glory Festival. The drama team is composed of young people from the Loch Lynn Church of God who minister through dramatic movements called "human videos." Coached by Debbie McCrosky, the award winning Holy Fire Drama Team has performed throughout the tri-state area.

OTT Presenting Two Original Plays; Avery Urges Area Teens To Attend

Two plays, penned by Jane Avery and dealing with the angst of being a teenager, will be presented at Our Town Theatre in Oakland next week. A show titled Bullies will be given at the theatre on Wednesday, Sept. 28, and Friday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m., and The Goodbye Kids is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 29, and Saturday, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m. Each production will last about an hour. Reservations (which can be made by dialing 301-334-5640, option 1) are suggested, but not mandatory. There is no charge for the productions, although Avery noted that the hat will be passed.

The plays each deal with trials faced by teenagers nearly every day.

"Last year at a teacher's workshop at Our Town Theatre, Sara Ramsey asked me to write a dramatic piece about bullying," Avery said. "It has taken me a year to get my act together, but the play, titled Bullies, is finally ready for production. Geared specifically toward middle school students, Bullies is a work that will encourage thought in anyone over the age of 8. A series of skits about the subject, commented on by the narrator, will at times entertain and at other times distress the audience, but all of the vignettes will provoke thought about bullying."

The second show on the playbill is The Goodbye Kids, also written by Avery and focusing on high school drop-outs. The series of monologues was first presented some years ago at Our Town, specifically for a Southern High School faculty enrichment event. The cast of Bullies presented Goodbye Kids at another faculty opening-day workshop recently. Avery said the cast members asked if they could repeat Goodbye Kids in tandem with Bullies, which led to the scheduling of the two plays next week.

"I've been working with a group who renews my conviction that Garrett County grows terrific kids," Avery said about the cast. "Alexis Brenneman, Carolyn McGehee, Christie Hamilton, Evan Thayer, Matt Steyer, Megan Viar, Rob McEwen, and Rose Jackson are a warm and talented group."

As to the youths' request to give both shows next week, Avery said they felt that the plays' messages were something that Garrett County teens really need to hear.

Avery cautioned that The Goodbye Kids does contain strong language because it is written in the words of teenagers. Even so, she said she and the cast "strongly encourage parents to bring their youngsters to these productions."

"In addition to the general public, teachers, administrators, counselors, social workers, and ministers would probably benefit from seeing these performances," Avery added.

IT'S NOT EASY BEING A TEEN – And that's the message given by these actors in Our Town Theatre's production next week of two original plays, both dealing with such stresses as bullying, alienation, peer pressure, parental neglect, and other difficulties often endured by teenagers. Two stage shows, Bullies and The Goodbye Kids, penned by Jane Avery, will be presented at the Oakland theatre on the following schedule: Bullies on Wednesday, Sept. 28, and Friday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m., and The Goodbye Kids on Thursday, Sept. 29, and Saturday, Oct. 1, at 7 p.m. Each production will last about an hour. Reservations (which can be made by dialing 301-334-5640, option 1) are suggested, but not mandatory. There is no ticket cost for the productions, although Avery noted that donations will be accepted. Bullies focuses on both bullies and those who are bullied, and The Goodbye Kids is a series of monologues by teens who tell why they dropped out of high school. Avery said she hopes lots of young people and their parents come to the shows, which are geared toward middle school and high school age audiences. She did caution that there is some strong language, especially in Goodbye Kids. See separate story. The cast is pictured. Seated in the front are Alexis Brenneman (left) and Robert McEwen. In the center are Matt Steyer and Carolyn McGehee. In the back, from left, are Megan Viar, Christie Hamilton, Evan Thayer, and Rose Jackson.

Musical Benefit Slated At VFW

VFW Post 10077 will host a musical benefit on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 7 p.m. until midnight. Five bands will play continuously throughout the evening.

The cost is $5 per couple or $3 per person. All proceeds benefit the relief fund for Hurricane Katrina victims.

The post is located near Deer Park along Rt. 135.

Agency On Aging Has Openings For Kringle Play Trip

Openings are still available for the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging's trip to the Growing Up Kringle play and shopping trip on Nov. 18.

In the play, the gossipy ghost of Santa Claus's brother teaches the audience about how Kris Kringle became Santa. "It's a funny, heart-warming musical adventure for the whole family to enjoy," said a spokesperson.

The trip includes motor coach transportation, brunch at 10:30 a.m., and a show ticket for the play. The bus will stop at the Valley Mall (Pa.) en route for holiday shopping and dinner. The bus will depart Oakland Wal-Mart's parking lot at 7 p.m., and will stop in Accident and Grantsville for pick-up.

The cost for the trip is $65 per person, and reservations and payment are due by Oct. 15. To reserve a seat, persons may contact Pat Steyer at 301-334-9431, ext. 134, or Leona Lavin at 301-895-5818.

His Oldest Friend
by Sonny Kleinfield
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer
Times Books, c. 2005, $24, 288 pages

When you were in grade school, remember being best friends with someone on Wednesday and snarky enemies by Friday? Yes, grade school is filled with smashed friendships and broken hearts.

And then you grew up, some friendships "clicked," and the good ones last a lifetime.

In the new memoir His Oldest Friend by Sonny Kleinfield, you'll read about a that friendship won't last for generations, but bridges them.

Elvis Checo was 9 years old when he came from the Dominican Republic to New York City. If you ask him what he most remembers about his childhood, he'll tell you that he misses the way the ground smelled of rain. He'll tell you that he used to steal fruit from trees so he could buy candy. He recalls being cherished by the grandmother who took him in when his mother left. He remembers moving to New York City to be with his mother, and the long hours spent on her food truck, cooking chimis and getting a spotty education because he was needed to help support the family.

These days, Elvis lives in a semi-furnished room in a neighborhood where bullets are as common as bricks and drugs are easy to score and sell. But Elvis doesn't make money that way. He works at a nursing home on the Upper West Side of Manhattan, the same place where he met his friend, Ms. Oliver.

Margaret Oliver was born in the South, the daughter of an African American/Irish man and a hard-working woman who died young. The family lived in Ohio at that time, but New York relatives took the young girl in and raised her. Over the years, Ms. Oliver led a relatively comfortable life. She was twice-married, the mother of twin girls, and had had a fulfilling career as a seamstress. Once upon a time, she loved to travel.

Now, Ms. Oliver is wheelchair-bound and nearly sightless. She spends her days at the nursing home, listening to opera, doing mental exercises, and waiting for a visit from her friend Elvis.

Oh, I almost forgot this part: Elvis is 20 years old. Ms. Oliver is 93. And this is one of the sweetest books you'll read this year.

Author Sonny Kleinfield followed Elvis and Ms. Oliver over the course of many months, and His Oldest Friend is about the bond of friendship that the pair have, as well as the life experiences they share. Although there were small passages of this book that dragged a bit, I truly loved the story. Most of all, I appreciated that Kleinfield didn't make this a preachy, listen-to-your-elders type of book; he was always careful to note that Ms. Oliver learned from Elvis, as much as the other way around. I also particularly liked that Kleinfield could have given his book a tear-jerker ending or made it maudlin, but he didn't.

His Oldest Friend is a wonderful book for anyone of any age. Get it, savor it, and share it with your own amigos.

Colonial America To Come To Life In Grantsville Area Living History Event

George Washington will be among famous early Americans portrayed at a Living History program Saturday, Oct. 1 in Grantsville, where demonstrations and presentations will take place between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. both days. The programs feature actual encampments, a trading post of artifacts, historical characters in period dress, movies, and a tasting of colonial cooking.

Living historians will also be at the site Wednesday and Thursday for educators wanting to learn more about the programs and for people interested in becoming involved. Programs will be presented Friday for children from Swan Meadow School.

The program commemorates the ill-fated trip of British general Edward Braddock. Guided tours of the public portion of the Braddock Road, along with additional demonstrations, will be presented by local historian Bob Bantz.

"This is a chance to learn what life was like when Washington passed through these mountains," noted Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "It was a young Col. George Washington who led colonial militia across northern Garrett County in 1754 heading toward Fort Duquesne."

The event's encampment site beside the Casselman River, next to Spruce Forest, is a perfect place to hold the program, according to Ross. "We can revisit that time and reconnect with the people who were forming the future of our nation. It is a chance to come face to face with history."

"George Washington, who had traveled through Garrett County previously, was one of the few who survived these early battles of the French and Indian War. His skills as a leader of men were developed along this trail. As a surveyor, soldier, and government representative, he matured with each trip," Ross explained.

"The man who was to become the first president of the United States followed the Nemacolin Indian Trail in 1753. Then in 1754, Washington's troops cut a road somewhat following this trail. Later, in 1755, Braddock's troops hacked through the wilderness to forge a new road. Washington marched to his destiny along this road."

Washington will be portrayed at the living history camp by committee member Jack Caruthers, who said, "George Washington got his start here. He found out he could lead men in combat."

For the past two years, frontier men and women and Indians have shared stories from the 1750s while participating at the trading post and encampment during Living History programs in May and November. Ross said he wants to continue promoting these types of events for county students, and to expand them to offer these programs to young people from outside the county, as well as to visitors in the area. The Living History programs for Garrett County school children are scheduled for May 2006 at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger.

For further information, persons may consult the web site www.deepcreeklakeinfo.com or call Ross at 301-387-4386.

FSU To Present Shakespeare's Works (Abridged)

A preview of The Complete Works of William Shakespeare (Abridged) has been slated for 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 28, in the Frostburg State University Performing Arts Center. The production is an offering of FSU's Cultural Events Series.

The play, which features three actors who perform 37 Shakespearean plays and 154 sonnets in just under two hours, was a smash off-Broadway hit and is the longest-running comedy in London.

"The play is a whirlwind roller coaster tribute to the immortal bard," a series spokesperson said. "All 16 comedies are brought together into one story containing a shipwreck, an influential duke and his three sets of identical twins."

The Cultural Events Series is looking for schools and organizations that would be willing to bring groups to the morning performance. There are a limited number of seats available. For further information, or to make arrangements to attend, persons may contact the FSU CES box office at 301-687-3137.

Artist To Hold Autumn Glory Open House

Local artist Joyce Tekavec will hold an open house during the week of Autumn Glory at her studio on 701 I Street, Mtn. Lake Park.

She does fine art in several mediums: oil, acrylic, and color pencil. She is currently instructing color pencil classes at Garrett College and the Thomas Education Center, Thomas, W.Va. Pieces of her art can also be seen at the Gallery in Oakland.

Her studio hours for the week of Autumn Glory are Wednesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday and Monday, 1 to 6 p.m.; and otherwise, by appointments only.

Currently, she is working on a barn owned by Sam and Helen Roth located between Red House and Thomas, W.Va. There are four horses painted on the barn, and she is repainting them.

For more information, persons may call 301-533-3264.

Oakland VFD Slates Oldies Dance At Hall

skills that would generate larger paychecks. When asked if there were one thing missing right now in Garrett County to assist in this effort, all three commissioners agreed that a central training facility would be it. Such a facility would train and certify people in such trades as masonry, carpentry, and other construction skills.

"I know that there are bits and pieces of this going on in the county," said Commissioner Gregg. "There is some training going on in the high schools and some at the college, but if we had one central facility where people could get certified in a skill or two, it would really help push local wages up."

Figures provided by the Board of Education indicate that the quality of the local work force is improving. This year an estimated 2.49 percent of high school students will drop out. That number is a sharp improvement over 2001 when the figure was 4.57 percent. The state average for this year is 3.70 percent.

One of Hinebaugh's priorities is to create an economy so that, when a local person graduates from high school or even from college, he or she is not forced to leave the area to find professional paying jobs.

"It's going to happen," he said. "It's going to get there."

Thomas Rosser of Social Services agrees that there has been some improvement in the economy lately, but he says that, as far as his clients go, it has been minimal.

"There may be more jobs, but they are low-paying jobs," he said. "From where I sit, in many ways things are the same as they were 10 years ago. There is a desperate need for food stamps and medical assistance. But maybe some of this economic boom will eventually trickle down to the people we serve."

Hinebaugh believes that to be the case. In addition to the fact that property owners at Deep Creek Lake pay 60 percent of the taxes in the county, he is convinced that the low unemployment rate and other healthy economic indicators will eventually reach all segments of Garrett County society.

NHS Overcomes Penalties To Down Berkeley Springs, 18-6

"It's better to win ugly than lose pretty," was the truism Northern High School varsity football coach Phil Carr cited after Friday night's 18-6 victory at Berkeley Springs, where the Huskies nearly let the game get away from them with a few extremely ill-timed penalties and mistakes. Those miscues flat-out killed four separate possessions where Carr's squad had an opportunity for first-and-goal situations as, incredibly, NHS came away from each without a single point.

"We've got to cut down on our mistakes," Carr said. "That's when we'll start finding out how good we really can be."

An indication of just how good the Huskies can be evolves during an examination of several important team and individual indicators from the outing. The NHS special team unit played an important part in the win by continually pinning Berkeley's returners down for little or no gain. "If we gave out game balls I'd give one to the special team guys," Carr stated. "They had great return coverage on kickoffs and punts through their hustle and hard hitting. The guys just flew through Berkeley's wedge by getting real physical.

Northern's defense played an exceptional game as well, holding the Indians to just 28 yards rushing, a far cry from the 200-plus yards Berkeley's talented halfback accrued by himself just the week before. Junior linebacker Corey Carr was a tackling machine with 14 solo and 19 overall tackles to go with a crucial, drive-killing interception.

On offense, the Huskies got a huge play out of senior quarterback Casey Kamp, who is showing every sign of living up to the high expectations Coach Carr placed on his shoulders in his preseason prognostications.

Kamp help seal NHS's win Friday by breaking free for a 43-yard touchdown run on an option keeper with just over three minutes to play. "Casey popped the option perfectly on that play," Carr remarked. "The defenders had no clue that he still had the ball as he was tearing down the sideline. You couldn't ask for anything more, from him or his blockers.

"Casey's leadership is what brings these kids home in a tough game like this. He has a presence in the huddle – he's a leader," the NHS coach said of the overarching intangible that isn't measured by any statistic. Kamp also turned in 11 solo tackles from his ballhawking free safety position on defense.

The Huskies and Indians battled through a scoreless opening quarter, and NHS finally dented the scoreboard on Berkeley's tough defense early in the second stanza when senior Corey Yoder booted a 29-yard field goal at the 10:15 mark. Then, with just 55 seconds remaining in the half, Corey Carr scored on a three-yard run. Tyler Warn's successful point-after run made the score 10-0 in the Huskies' favor going into the intermission.

That 10-point halftime advantage could have easily been quadrupled had NHS's offense not made some devastating mistakes in the first half.

A nice 30-run run by Warn had ended at Berkeley's one yard line, and the Huskies thought they were knocking at the door to the end zone with a first and goal; however, a holding penalty nullified the play.

Later, Corey Carr tossed a pass off a halfback option play, and the strike found tight end Brock Glotfelty for a 36-yard gain, putting the ball on the Indians' five-yard line; but two consecutive offensive motion penalties dug the Huskies a first and 15 hole from which they couldn't escape.

Also in the first half, a fumble by NHS halfback Mitch Fost was scooped up by Carr, who appeared to carry the ball to the Berkeley five for another first down on the cusp of the end zone. That time a referee's inadvertent whistle blew the play dead prematurely, and the ball was brought back out to the 15-yard line. Again, Northern was unable to score from that relatively short distance.

After the half, the opponents played scoreless ball throughout the third quarter. Early in the fourth stanza NHS embarked on a scoring drive that put the ball (where else?) on Berkeley's five-yard line. The Huskies then proceeded to make their own bad luck by committing a holding penalty that moved the line of scrimmage back 10 yards, and followed that miscue with a botched exchange between the quarterback and running back that lost additional yardage. Again, Northern came away from the scoring opportunity empty-handed.

That sequence seemed to breathe life into Berkeley Springs, as after the ball was turned over on downs the Indians put together a long drive that resulted in their only touchdown of the night.

With their quarterback rolling out to gain some extra time and distance from the Husky pass rushers, the Indians moved the ball downfield through a series of pass completions. The drive was capped at the 5:21 mark when BS quarterback Joe Whitehead found target Ryan Moore with a 14-yard touchdown pass. The scoring play put the Indians well within range of the lead at a score of 11-6 with plenty of time left to take the game away from Northern.

On Berkeley's ensuing kickoff the Huskies were lying in wait for an onside kick, and the Indian kicker placed the ball perfectly in between the front and second lines of the assembled NHS return squad. However, junior Bryce Manges turned in a heads-up play by diving on the ball to give Northern excellent field position just shy of midfield.

Kamp's 43-yard option keeper around the right side took place less than two minutes later, putting Northern up by 12 with 3:26 to go.

After a nice kickoff and good return coverage that put Berkeley on its own 35, Northern's "Grave Digger" defenders pinned their ears back and went to work – but with the Indians' potent offense beginning to click, the Huskies were far from safe haven. "We began to tire a little with 15 of our kids playing both ways the entire game, while the Indians have enough kids on their roster to platoon their squad and keep everyone fresh."

Berkeley proceeded to quickly march 60 yards downfield to perch on the NHS five (ironically enough) with first-and-goal with 2:40 remaining. Northern's defense stiffened there with some big plays. On the first attempt, sophomore stand-up nose guard Matt Mason read the play perfectly and launched himself into the backfield to drop the BS ball carrier for a huge five-yard loss. With no timeouts the Indians were forced to go to the air, and after a pair of incompletions it was fourth-and-goal at the 10. Berkeley's Whitehead tossed one more pass, and Corey Carr picked it off at the goal line and returned it to the six, where the Huskies took over with 1:57 showing to seal their win.

"That was a huge series obviously, where our defense really showed its stuff," Coach Carr commented. "We knew we could hold them, we just had to step up and do it."

Stats bear out that assessment, as over the first half of the contest Northern held BS to a negative three yards of total offense on 13 plays, while approximately 80 percent of the Indians' 224 offensive yards came in the fourth quarter. During that stanza the Huskies were playing off the line a bit in order not to give up a big play that could have changed the game's complexion with a single blow.

"Our 4-3 defense worked real well all night long," Carr said. "Overall we shut their running game down completely." Berkeley totaled just 28 yards rushing on 26 attempts, despite having a very talented runner in its backfield. In the air, Whitehead went 13 for 26 for 266 yards, with all completions and yardage coming in the second half. Carr and senior strong safety Nick Payne recorded interceptions for Northern's defense.

Warn was the Huskies' top ground gainer with 99 yards on 19 carries. Northern gained 210 yards as a team on the ground and 258 total. Corey Carr's 36-yard completion anchored the Huskies' 48-yard passing attack. "We struggled some on offense because Berkeley played some good defense by stacking the line and playing hard," observed Coach Carr. "But the bottom line could have turned out to be our penalties.

"It's always tough to win here," Carr said of the Indians' home field. "Berkeley Springs always has some fine players, and they can slow the clock down if you play just to hang on."

The Huskies return to the friendly confines of their "Dog Pound" for their home opener tomorrow night, where they will host a familiar foe in the Turkeyfoot Rams.

"Turkeyfoot always gets psyched up for us and puts out a good effort," said Carr. "A lot of the kids are friends off the field, and they'll be looking to hit each other hard and give their buddies something to remember. We're not expecting an easy time by any means."

Rams No Match For Beall, Drop Second Outing, 40-0

Possibly still stinging from a defeat in their season opener the previous week after allowing a 16-0 lead to evaporate, the varsity football team of Southern High School was simply no match for host Beall last Friday night, as the Rams were hammered by the Mountaineers, 40-0.

The home team amassed a total offensive output of over 400 yards and six touchdowns, while its defensive unit limited the Southern offense to 180 total yards, all on the ground. The contest was decided in the first half, as the Mountaineers scored 14 points in the first quarter and 20 in the second stanza to take a commanding 34-0 lead into the locker room at intermission.

A 55-yard touchdown run by Pat Winebrenner in the first minute of the first quarter set the stage for the evening, and Matt Wininger booted the extra point to make it 7-0.

Josh Harper put the Mountaineers' next points on the board, breaking loose for a 47-yard touchdown carry and crossing the goal line with just one second left in the first quarter. Wininger again tacked on the extra point.

The next score came on a 75-yard run by Beall's Logan Thomas with 9:43 left in the half, and Winebrenner struck again, this time on an 11-yard TD run with 4:50 to play in the half. Wininger kicked both extra points.

Wrapping up the first-half scoring was Robbie Knieriem, who hauled in a 14-yard scoring pass from Thomas with just 14 seconds to play in the half. The conversion kick failed.

The only points of the second half were scored by Beall's Thomas, who broke loose again, this time on a 47-yard touchdown jaunt. The kick again failed, giving the Mountaineers their 40-0 lead with 8:50 remaining in the third quarter.

Thomas finished with 145 yards rushing on just seven carries, while Winebrenner and Harper each recorded 72 yards on only five carries apiece.

Spearheading the Beall defensive effort were Jimmie Kline, Jordan Shipe, and Chris Lindeman.

It was the second win in as many starts for the Mountaineers.

"I don't mean to take anything away from Beall," Southern coach Fred Gregg said, "because they are a very good team. But we just didn't show up.

"We were very disappointed with our effort and our execution. We made plenty of mistakes, but a team is going to make mistakes in every game. The difference is that with effort you can usually overcome a lot of your mistakes," he said.

"We spent a lot of time Monday looking at the game films with the kids, and, of course, films never lie," he said. "What we thought was happening was made clear to them, that we just did not execute."

Gregg said that he believed his team really had not completely recovered from its disappointing loss the week before to St. Vincent Pallotti, a squad that rallied from a 16-point deficit to win late in the fourth quarter.

"We could tell in the pregame warm-ups that our guys were just flat," he said. "We tried and tried to get them going, but nothing worked. We can't stress enough that we have only 10 games on our schedule, and we can't afford to give any of them away."

When asked how he and his staff are addressing the Rams' attitude, Gregg said, "By being honest with them. Anything less than that I believe is a disservice to them. Screaming and yelling has only a short-term effect and really doesn't work very well in the long run, so we try to keep that to a minimum."

Most Ram fans believe that their team will be the favorite this Friday evening when they host Westmar, a team that is also 0-2 and struggling, but Gregg is in no way ready to chalk up a win over the Wildcats.

"If we play like we did last week, we'll be in big trouble again," he said.

One of the things that concerns Gregg and his staff is the Wildcats' wide open offense that features sweeps, the option, shotgun, spread with twin receivers, and nearly every other possibility. They are led offensively by junior running back Justin Keller (5-9, 200) and sophomore quarterback Jeremy Shingler (5-7, 155).

"Keller is a big, tough running back, and Shingler runs their offensive very well. He is confident, a good runner, and can throw the ball well, especially in timing patterns," Gregg said, adding that one of his favorite targets is senior Alex Metz (5-8, 150).

The Westmar 5-2 monster defensive unit is anchored by the same two aforementioned players, Keller at a linebacker spot and Shingler as nose guard.

"Keller is strong and quick, and despite Shingler's small size, he gets low to the ground and plays like a much bigger guy at nose guard," he said.

Gregg said that the Rams are physically somewhat bigger overall, while team speed is about even.

Southern's starting fullback and linebacker, senior Nick Gregg, who was injured early in the Rams' first game of the season two weeks ago, is listed as "possible" for this week's contest, while lineman Shane Rounds and quarterback Adam VanBogelen are still sidelined with injuries.

"We definitely took a step backward last week," Gregg said, "so we are really working hard to get things back on a positive track this week."

Friday's kickoff on the Southern athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

game time) directly across from the NHS stands will be assistant Ram coach Marcus Rugg, a standout for Carr's squads in the late 1990s. "Marcus knows our schemes, and in our scouting we've seen some similarities between our style and what he's brought to Turkeyfoot," Carr said of his former protégé, with pride in his voice. "He was a tough, smart ballplayer, and he'll get a lot out of his guys."

The Rams will likely mix it up on offense, at times using a Pro-I set, and at other points switching to a wishbone that bears resemblance to NHS's successful attack. They employ a lot of play-action fakes, rollouts, and bootlegs that take advantage of junior quarterback Cody Colflesh (5-9, 170), a two-year starter with good mobility and a good arm.

Joining Colflesh in the backfield are speedy junior Nathan Glass (6-0, 190), who operates as a fullback in the I formation and a halfback in the wishbone, and freshman Josh Valdez (5-7, 170), a halfback in the I and fullback in the wishbone who is an "impressive, tough, strong runner for a freshman," observed Carr. The favorite passing target is senior split end Craig McClintock (6-0, 155).

On defense the Rams normally operate a 4-4 lineup with a good deal of blitzing. A pair of good sized junior defensive tackles – Jeremy Hoover (6-3, 235) and Phillip Wass (6-0, 275) – anchor the Rams' line, while a fine four-man linebacking crew features Glass and Valdez in the middle along with senior outside linebacker George Durstine (5-7, 160).

"It's going to be a typical hard-hitting Northern-Turkeyfoot game," predicted Carr. "This means bragging rights for these two schools, almost par with Northern-Southern."

Tomorrow night's kickoff is slated for 7 p.m. at Northern High.

Southern Jayvees Crushed By Alco

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School was crushed Monday night by visiting Allegany, 44-0.

Alco's Brian Mathews scored on runs of 30 and 28 yards, Travis Orange had a one-yard scoring dive, Jeff Babich scored on a 30-yard run, Chris Scott pulled in a 23-yard scoring pass from Orange, and Brandon Link, who kicked two extra points and tackled a Ram ball carrier in the end zone for a safety also scored a touchdown on a three-yard carry.

Ram Duffers Top Quintet In Run-Up To Big Matches

The Southern High School golf team ran away from four other squads in its only match of the week, a Thursday, Sept. 15, outing at the Cumberland Country Club. The victory gave the Rams a superb 17-4 season mark heading into a huge week that features a meeting with West Virginia powerhouse Keyser this afternoon, and the Maryland Regional Golf Tournament Tuesday.

SHS put together a 176 team score in the match, far ahead of a field that bunched up in the rear. Beall shot a 192, Frankfort finished just behind the Mounties with a 193, and Allegany turned in a 196. Bishop Walsh forfeited.

The Rams were paced by Derick DeWitt's 41, which tied the SHS golfer for low-medalist honors with Alco's Corry Brown and BW's Lyle Butts. Southern's Seth Fike turned in a 42, tying for second place with the Mounties' Josh Plummer.

The Rams host Keyser and Beall in a 4 p.m. triangular today at the Oakland Golf Club. The Region I Tournament gets under way at 9 a.m. Tuesday on the Black Rock Country Club Course in Hagerstown. SHS visits the Wisp on Wednesday to take on the Northern Huskies and Beall in a 4 p.m. triangular.

Huskies Tie For Third In Five-Way Golf Tourn.

The Northern High School golf team finished in a third-place tie yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club, where the Huskies finished 17 strokes behind a winning Fort Hill Squad.

The Sentinels recorded a 178 to take top honors, while Beall carded a 182, Allegany and NHS tied at 195, and Bishop Walsh played the caboose with a 210.

The Huskies' Zack Brosnihan recorded a 43, and fellow NHS duffers David Vagnetti and Neal Kamp turned in 49s.

FH's Sam Griffith shot a 39 to share low medalist honors with the Mountaineers' Josh Plummer.

Northern's next scheduled outing is the Maryland Region I Tournament, which gets under way at 9 a.m. Tuesday on the Black Rock Country Club Course in Hagerstown. NHS hosts Southern and Beall Wednesday in a 4 p.m. triangular at the Wisp.

Former Southern Golfer Debuts For Towson University

Oakland resident Matt Skidmore, a freshman at Towson University, played in his first collegiate golf tournament recently when he competed in the Towson University Invitational. Skidmore is a 2004 Southern High School graduate who represented the Rams in last year's Maryland State Golf Tournament.

Skidmore shot a pair of 73s for a two-day total of 146 in his college debut, coming in third on his Towson team and good for 16th place in the tourney's 65-player field. Towson finished fourth behind Campbell, George Mason, and James Madison, and ahead of Rutgers, Boston College, Temple, Navy, Hartford, Loyola, and Long Island University.

The Towson Invitational was played on the 6,900 yard, par 72 Musket Ridge Golf Course in Myersville.

The Towson Tigers' golf team has reached the NCAA Golf Tournament for the past two years.

Huskies Halt Beall's Long Streak, Whip Alco To Remain Unbeaten

Two more big victories, both in Western Maryland Interscholastic League contests, were recorded this past week by the Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team, as the Huskies got by defending state and three-time area champion Beall, 2-1, last Thursday at the Cove and then manhandled host Allegany Tuesday evening, 5-0, at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland. The pair of wins upped the Huskies' perfect record to 6-0 overall and their WMIL mark to 4-0.

It appeared late in last Thursday's clash with Beall that the match would go into overtime, as the score was knotted at 1-1 with less than three minutes to play in regulation. But the contest was suddenly decided when Northern's Derek Cutter put the ball into the net off an assist by Chris Speicher with just 2:20 to play.

The victory was the first by a local team over the Mountaineers in nearly three years, with their last defeat being in October of 2002, a 3-1 loss to Allegany.

Cutter's winning goal was recorded off just one of 10 shots on goal taken all evening by the Huskies, while Beall finished with 24. However, Husky keeper Eric Wood finished with 16 saves.

The Huskies took a 1-0 lead at the 28:00 mark of the first half when Zack Lipscomb scored an unassisted goal.

They enjoyed that advantage for less than eight minutes, as Beall's Matt Fliorita took a pass from teammate Adam Sommers and put the ball past Wood with 20:15 remaining in the half.

The score would remain tied at 1-1 until Cutter's game-winner nearly 58 minutes of action later.

Tanner Nelson recorded six saves for the Mountaineers.

"There is no question that this was a big win for us," stated NHS coach Tom Ables. "But we will have to play them again in the regular season down at Mt. Savage, and possibly after that in the playoffs."

Five different Huskies had one goal each in Tuesday's 5-0 whitewashing of Allegany, with all but four of them scored in the second half.

Ryan Bowser was the first to score, getting an unassisted goal at the 24:40 mark of the first half, the rest of which was all scoreless defense.

A goal by Zack Lipscomb off a feed by Chris Speicher was recorded just over 13 minutes into the second half to make it 2-0.

Neil Buckel put the next point on the board for the Huskies, scoring off an assist by Lipscomb with 17:25 left on the clock.

Cutter was next in the scoring line, putting the ball into the net with 6:13 to play off a pass from Lipscomb to give the Huskies an insurmountable 4-0 lead.

Speicher tacked on the fifth goal with just 1:47 remaining off a feed by Cutter to conclude the scoring.

The Huskies finished with a 23-18 lead in shots, and held a 4-3 edge in corner kicks.

Wood was credited with eight saves for Northern, and Justin Zimmerman turned away five shots for the Campers, who fell to 2-3 overall and 1-2 in WMIL play.

The junior varsity match ended in a scoreless tie.

The Huskies will go after win #7 and another WMIL victory this evening when they host Southern. They will entertain Bishop Walsh next Tuesday and play Allegany again next Thursday, also at the Cove. Starting times for all three evenings will be 6 p.m. (junior varsity) and 7:30 (varsity).

MIXING IT UP in this photo during Tuesday night's soccer clash between the Southern and Northern varsity girls are Sarah Voelkel of Northern, #2, and Southern's Chanda Remley, #12. Despite the fact that the Huskies finished with double the shots on goal (18-9), the Rams recorded a rather comfortable 4-1 victory to up their overall record to 3-2 and their Western Maryland Interscholastic League standing to 2-1. Also in the right background of the photo is Southern's Ashley Metcalfe. Sophomore Brittney Scheffel scored two of the Rams' goals. SHS Girls Top Sentinels And Huskies, Nipped By Campers

Despite one loss in three Western Maryland Interscholastic League matches, it was overall a successful week on the soccer pitch for the Southern High School girls' varsity.

The Rams defeated visiting Fort Hill last Thursday night, 3-1, and handed host Northern a convincing 4-1 loss Tuesday evening at the Cove. Sandwiched in between was the loss on Saturday in Oakland, but it was to undefeated Allegany and only by a 1-0 score.

The results left Coach Susan Clark and her squad with an overall record of 3-2 and a WMIL mark of 2-1.

After spotting Fort Hill one goal less than two minutes into last Thursday's match, Southern sophomore Lauren Neville responded with her first career hat trick, scoring all three of her goals in the first half.

An unassisted goal by Kelsey Parker at the 38:07 mark put the Sentinels up 1-0, and the score remained unchanged for over 20 minutes.

Neville tied it at 1-1 with a successful penalty kick at the 17:28 mark, and put the Rams ahead for good with an unassisted goal, scored with 13:13 remaining in the first half.

She completed her hat trick with a goal off an assist by Corey Lewis 4:51 before intermission.

The second half was all scoreless defense.

The statistics, except for the final score, were dead even, with each team taking 14 shots and three corner kicks. Jessica Petrella had 10 saves in goal for the Rams, while Fort Hill's keeper turned away 13 of the Rams' shots.

The loss evened the Sentinels' overall record at 2-2 and their WMIL mark at 1-1.

The Southern junior varsity was victorious in the first match, handing the Fort Hill jayvees a 2-0 defeat. Scoring for the Rams were Kim Stephens and Krista Hollingsworth.

Southern and Allegany both played outstanding defense in Saturday's match, as the Campers had a total of only six shots on goal, and the Rams finished with five.

Petrella stopped all but one of Allegany's attempts, which was a penalty kick by Jackie Boor with 13:24 left in the match.

First Half

FH - Kelsey Parker unassisted, 38:07.

S - Lauren Neville penalty kick, 17.28.

S - Neville unassisted 13:13.

S - Neville assisted by Corey Lewis, 4:51,

Lindsey Twigg, goalkeeper for the Campers, recorded her third consecutive shutout and had five saves.

The victory was the fifth in five starts for the Campers, who are 4-0 in WMIL play.

The SHS jayvees were likewise edged in the first match, 1-0.

Brittney Scheffel, another sophomore on the Southern varsity, scored a pair of goals in the Rams' 4-1 win over host Northern on Tuesday.

Her first came off an assist by Lauren Neville about midway through the first half.

Neville then made it 2-0 with an unassisted goal less than a minute later.

Scheffel's second score came less than 3½ minutes into the second half, this time off an assist by Lauren Shue.

Julie Swerbinsky, yet another sophomore striker for the Rams, put her team up 4-0 at the 31:15 mark by scoring off a feed by Corey Lewis.

The Huskies averted a shutout when Brittany Stein scored an unassisted goal with 11:11 remaining in the match.

The Rams finished with a far better percentage with their shots on goal, as the Huskies connected on but one of 18 shots, while Southern scored four goals on just nine attempts. The Rams finished with a 5-4 edge in corner kicks.

Petrella had another strong performance in goal for the Rams, turning away nine of the Huskies' shots, while Kasie Fratz had two saves for the Huskies.

The loss dropped Coach John Milbourne's team to 1-4 overall and 0-3 in WMIL play. The Huskies also dropped a match to Beall this past week (see separate story).

The Southern junior varsity recorded a 3-1 win in the preliminary match, with Ram goals scored by Kerry Conroy, Kim Stephens, and Joanna Guy. Hitting the Huskies' lone goal was Stephanie Shapiro off an assist by Devan Yoder. The Huskies finished with a 15-11 advantage in shots, with Justine Harvey getting five saves for Northern.

The Rams will face a strong challenge this evening at home against Beall, and will host Westmar next Tuesday. Match times for both evenings will be 5:30 (jayvee) and 7 (varsity).

The Rams will travel to Frankfort next Thursday.

Ram Booters Hammered By Sentinels; Record Dips To 1-4

The Sentinels of Fort Hill proved to be too much for the Southern High School varsity boys' soccer team, as the Rams were hammered by the host team, 6-1, last Thursday evening at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland.

The loss dropped the Rams to 0-2 in Western Maryland Interscholastic League competition, and 1-4 overall. Fort Hill improved its overall mark to 3-1 and its WMIL record to 2-1.

The Rams held their own quite well in the first half, allowing only one Sentinel goal. It was recorded by Jay Hemmis off an assist by Zach Bible about 12 minutes into the match.

But things rapidly fell apart for Southern in the opening minutes of the second half, as Fort Hill's Brian Jeffries scored two goals and got an assist, all in less than 6½ minutes. He would ultimately finish the evening with a hat trick.

Jeffries scored off a feed by Jay Hemmis just a minute and 15 seconds into the second half. Just over two minutes later, Bible scored a goal off a corner kick by Jeffries to give the Sentinels a 3-0 advantage.

Southern's Taylor Crabtree finally put his team on the score board just over a minute later with an unassisted goal at the 35:13 mark, but Jeffries answered with another goal off an assist by Hemmis less than two minutes later to give the home team a 4-1 lead with 33:36 to play.

The Sentinels added two insurance goals within 14 seconds of the final 4-plus minutes of the match, as Wes Smith hit an unassisted goal at the 4:16 mark and Jeffries completed his hat trick with a goal off an assist by Nick Bible with 4:02 remaining.

The Rams were outgunned in shots on goal by a 33-12 margin, and trailed in corner kicks, 6-1. Mike Edwards was credited with a dozen saves in goal for the Rams, and teammate Crabtree had four saves.

Fort Hill keeper John Means turned away nine of the Rams' attempts.

The Southern junior varsity squad was also defeated in the preliminary match, 3-1. Tanner Polce recorded the only Ram goal, while Brooks Woodring, Patrick Serpone, and Brenden Harness each had a goal for the Fort Hill jayvees.

The Rams will face another tough challenge this evening when they play at Northern. Match times are 6 p.m. (junior varsity) and 7:30 (varsity).

They will travel to Bishop Walsh next Monday, with match times set for 3 and 4:30 p.m., and will host Beall next Wednesday (5:30 and 7 p.m.).

TOURNAMENT WINNERS — The Cornerstone Assembly of God II softball team from Boynton, Pa., recently won first place in the Western Pa. Assembly of God Tournament in Pittsburgh. The Cornerstone II team won the "C" flight by defeating Cornerstone I in the semi-finals with a score of 7 to 6 and Faith of Butler, Pa., in the finals with a score of 17 to 11 to achieve a first place win. The team plays in the Garrett County Men's Christian Softball League, and this was their first tournament. Pictured above, front row, from left, are Ron Sines and Brent Thomas. In the second row are Jimmy Yoder, Pastor Jamie Smith, manager Buzzie Swauger, and Randy Green. In the back row are Tony Bittinger, Spanky Johnson, Davy Short, Dave Kennell, Neil Hare, and Mike Menges.

Struggle Continues For NHS Girls; Fall To Beall, Southern

Still struggling on the soccer field are the members of the Northern High School girls' varsity squad, who dropped a pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League matches this past week.

The Huskies were blanked by host Beall last Thursday, 3-0, and then fell to visiting Southern on Tuesday, 4-1, despite outshooting the Rams by a 2-1 margin (see separate story on match with SHS). The losses dropped the Huskies to 1-4 overall and 0-3 in WMIL competition.

The first half against Beall was virtually a toss-up, with neither team able to score, and the Mountaineers finishing with a slight lead in shots on goal (10-8).

Three quarters of the second half was also scoreless, but then in a span of less than eight minutes, the Mountaineers put the ball in the net three times to record the win.

Beall's Brooke Africa broke the scoreless tie with a goal off a throw-in assist by Tasha Wilhelm with 9:48 to play.

Shawna Free then made it 2-0 with a goal at the 4:24 mark off another throw-in by Wilhelm.

An eight-yard shot into the net by Kierstin Stevenson, unassisted, with two minutes to play concluded the scoring for the evening.

The Huskies were outgunned by their hosts by a 21-12 advantage, and trailed in corner kicks, 4-2. Kasie Fratz recorded 13 saves in goal for Northern, and Jenna Delaney was credited with nine for Beall.

The win improved Beall's overall and WMIL records to 2-1.

The preliminary match ended in a scoreless tie between the Northern junior varsity and the Beall jayvees, despite the fact that the Huskies had a lopsided 15-2 lead in shots. Justine Harvey had two saves in goal for Northern, and Jasmine Lewis turned away seven shots for the Mountaineers.

In commenting on the Huskies' varsity match with Southern, which his team finished with an 18-9 lead in shots, but lost 4-1, Coach John Milbourne said, "You just can't win games when you can't find the back of the net with your shots.

"But I'm proud of the way our girls played and advanced the ball. We had a lot of opportunities, but just didn't get the job done. We're going back to the basics and work on finishing our shots.

"These girls have a lot of heart," he added. "They'll bounce back and compete."

The Huskies will try to bounce back this evening when they travel to Westmar, and they will entertain Fort Hill next Tuesday. Matches both of those evenings will begin at 6 (jayvee) and 7:30 (varsity).

Northern JVs Sustain First Gridiron Loss

The Northern High School junior varsity football squad fell to Meyersdale in a 26-7 defeat Monday night on the Red Raiders' home field. The defeat was NHS's first loss in three outings this season.

The Huskies were down 14-7 at the half, with their touchdown coming on a second-quarter, 18-yard scoring run recorded by freshman Zak Fratz. Kyle Gillum connected on the extra-point kick.

The Raiders increased their lead on the opening drive of the third quarter by marching down the field to score a touchdown. Northern's defense turned in a fine short-field stand late in the fourth quarter when, on fourth and goal from the five, the Huskies prevented Meyersdale from scoring.

NHS classmates Randy Wiley and Fratz paced the Huskies' offense with 94 and 90 yards rushing, respectively.

Northern's JV hosts Beall at 7 p.m. on Monday.

Lions Hosting 10th Annual AG Run/Walk

The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club will host its 10th annual Autumn Glory 5-K Run/2-Mile Walk for sight on Saturday, Oct. 15, at Broadford Lake Park. Registration will begin at 7 a.m., with the race starting promptly at 8:30. Admission is free for spectators.

Participants may run the five kilometers or walk the two miles. The race, which is on a mostly flat course, will start and end at Broadford Lake Park.

The age categories are as follows: 13 and under, 14 to 19, 20 to 29, 30 to 39, 40 to 49, 50 to 59, 60 to 69, 70 to 80, and over 81.

At $50 cash award will go to the first male and first female runner/walker, and a $25 cash award will go to the second male and female runner/walker. Awards will also be given to the top three finishers in each age group as well. There will be no duplication of awards.

Additionally, a grand-prize drawing for participants will be held, with the winner taking home a Trek mountain bike.

Registration is $16, if received before Oct. 1. A souvenir sweatshirt will go to the first 150 entrants. An additional $2 is required for an XXL sweatshirt. Late registration (after Oct. 10 and the day of the race) is $17.

Proceeds from the event benefit persons with sight and hearing impairments.

The event is sponsored by Team One Auto Mall. For more information, one may call Paul Schockey at 301-334-4287 or Diana Washburn at 301-334-9494. Information and entry forms are also available online at iplayoutside.com.

GC Proves "There's No Place Like Home" By Winning Four Straight

The pieces of the puzzle may have begun coming together for the Garrett College volleyball team this week, as the Lakers followed a narrow 3-2 loss to Butler Friday with four straight wins, including a perfect showing in a home court quad match Saturday with wins over Cecil, Louisburg, and Fredrick. On Tuesday Garrett recorded a three-game sweep over visiting Allegany College of Maryland to improve to 6-8 (2-0 in the Maryland JUCO).

After taking the opening game against Butler by a 30-20 tally, the Lakers lost three of the next four.

Sophomore Tabitha Beitzel had 17 points with two aces and 13 digs, freshman Julia Bosley finished with 17 digs, five digs and three aces, and sophomore Lindsay Butler contributed 16 digs and eight points. Freshman Kayla Nazelrod had 10 kills, eight points and three blocks, and sophomore Johnna Newby had nine kills.

The Lakers hosted their first home quadrangular the following day, and turned in a perfect 3-0 showing for the event.

Garrett opened with Cecil by taking the first game 30-21 before being edged 31-29 in a thrilling game two. The Lakers strode to a 15-8 tiebreaking win.

Freshman Jayme Miller had 10 points with three aces, Bosley had eight points, seven digs, and four kills and Butler had 12 digs to lead the way.

Garrett also went 2-1 against Louisburg, winning the first 33-31, dropping the second 30-26, and claiming the third 15-7. Bosley had 16 points with four aces, 11 digs, and three kills, and Nazelrod finished with nine digs, six kills, and three blocks.

The Lakers swept Frederick, 31-29, 30-18, and 30-25. Beitzel had 11 points and 15 digs, Butler had 12 kills, and sophomore Yolanda Anthony had 11 digs, eight points, and four digs.

Garrett's string continued as the Lakers crushed Allegany Tuesday night in a three-game sweep by game scores of 30-27, 30-17, and 30-18.

Nazelrod recorded 15 kills, one ace, and nine digs, while Anthony had seven kills, an ace, and 11 digs. Jackson netted six kills, Bosley contributed three kills and nine digs, Beitzel had two aces and 10 digs, Miller had nine digs, and Butler had one ace while Brittany Jackson recorded six kills.

Allegany (1-13) was led by Casey Wilson, who was 17-for-20 with five kills.

The Lakers have a pair of road outings coming up, with a Saturday visit to Cecil and a Tuesday jaunt to Essex.

Huskies Still Seeking First Win At Net

The Northern High School volleyball team still has to turn the corner to find its first victory of the season, as the Huskies dropped their fourth straight outing this week in a 3-1 defeat at the hands of unbeaten Fort Hill.

NHS fell in the first game 25-7, took the second in a 26-24 thriller, but were thumped in the next two 25-9, 25-14.

Husky junior Jackie Rodeheaver turned in nine attacks, five points, and two kills, while senior teammate Jessica Fratz recorded six attacks and three points, and sophomore Lindsay Wolf had five attacks and four kills.

The Sentinels were paced by Natalie Athey's 18 service points, six aces, and eight kills, while teammate Lindsey Holliday had a match-high 17 kills.

Northern dropped the junior varsity meeting by game scores of 25-11, 25-19. Johanna Winter had five points, and Nicole Opel three points and two attacks for NHS.

Northern hosts Beall this evening and Westmar Tuesday, before traveling to Bishop Walsh on Thursday, Sept. 29. All match times are 6 p.m. for jayvee play, with varsity contests to follow.

Lander Lighting Up Elizabethtown Tennis Courts

Former Northern High School standout tennis player Heather Lander has been turning in some excellent play this season for her Elizabethtown (Pa.) College Blue Jays.

The Accident native's last match, played Saturday at Moravian College, featured a 6-1, 75 singles win and an 8-5 third-seed doubles victory recorded with partner Alice Yu of Athens, Ga. The Blue Jay squad was edged by Moravian, however, in a 5-4 battle.

Lander swept to a 6-0, 6-0 fifth-seed singles match victory on Tuesday, Sept. 13, against Juniata College, and she and Yu took an 8-1 doubles win to help spark a 9-0 win. On Saturday, Sept. 10, the sophomore defeated her Meredith College singles opponent 6-1, 6-0, and she teamed with Yu for an 8-0 doubles sweep that helped pace E-town to a 9-0 triumph. The Blue Jays took an 8-1 team victory on Thursday, Sept. 8, over Susquehanna, where Lander won 6-1, 6-3, in fifth-seed singles play, and she and Yu won 8-1 in No. 3 doubles.

Elizabethtown's tennis squad is 4-1 overall, and plays Monday at Franklin and Marshall College.

Ram Netters Roll To Fifth Straight Win; Huge FH Showdown Looms

The undefeated Southern High School volleyball squads – both the varsity and junior varsity units – squad ran their season streaks to five straight wins as the Rams swept past Beall and Westmar.

SHS rolled past the Mounties Monday by game scores of 25-18, 25-16, 25-8. Ram junior Adrienne Yoder led the way with 14 points, eight aces, and eight assists, while classmate Natalie Rohrbaugh recorded nine assists and three kills. Senior Chelsea Wassell netted eight points and seven kills, while classmate Randi Bennett contributed eight points and four aces.

Rebekah Phillips led Beall with six service points.

Southern's junior varsity dominated its match by scores of 25-6 and 25-11. Alex Barnard put up 14 points and six aces for the Rams, while teammate Sierra Wassell had nine points and three aces.

Last night's trip to Lonaconing ended with SHS putting together its fourth consecutive sweep over the past two weeks, as the Rams rolled up game victories of 25-11, 25-8, and 25-13.

Yoder recorded 12 points with six aces, and Rohrbaugh contributed 11 points, 11 assists, and five kills.

The Wildcats were led by Chrissy Steiding's five points and two kills.

Not to be outdone by their elders, the Southern JVs kept their perfect streak alive by taking a 25-13, 25-22 sweep behind Barnard's nine points with seven aces.

Kori Sarfino and Corey Suite had six points for Westmar.

The undefeated Rams visit Fort Hill Tuesday to face the unbeaten Sentinels in a huge showdown. Southern and FH shared the WMIL crown last season. On Thursday, Sept. 29, Southern hosts Beall in Oakland. Both matches get under way at 6 p.m. with JV play, and the varsity battles will follow immediately afterward.

NO NEED TO TELL WHOPPERS ABOUT THESE WHOPPERS, as this pair of Deep Creek Lake fish tipped the scales and stretched the measuring tape in a big way at Bill's Outdoor Center on Sunday morning. The northern pike shown above, caught by Greg Oakley of Erie, Pa., measured 43½ inches and weighed 18 lbs. 8ozs. The channel catfish pictured below, caught by Swanton resident Bill Reams, was 30 inches long and weighed 12 lbs.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest is sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Results for the week ending September 17 are:

Northern pike: 9 lbs. 12 ozs., 34¾ ins., caught by Michael McClain, Frederick.

Smallmouth bass: 1 lb. 8 ozs., 15½ ins., caught by Dan Ruffini, Coram, N.Y.

Walleye: 14 ozs., 15 ins., caught by Dale Beyers, Pittsburgh.

Chain pickerel: 1 lb. 4 ozs., 18¼ ins., caught by Dan Ruffini, Coram, N.Y.

Weekly winners receive a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers must take their catches to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House, 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Allocate Funds

that was devastated 12 or 15 years ago," Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted. He added that two ice storms in recent years further damaged the trees there.

To emphasize the need for a survey, the Ag Department personnel showed the commissioners a tree bark sample they had recently collected. Deposited on the inside of the bark were several gypsy moth egg masses. An egg mass can contain more than 12,000 eggs.

There is potentially a 50-fold increase in the gypsy moth population with each generation, according to Tichenor.

He said the county's share of the cost for a survey would be between $4,000 and $5,000. If it costs any more than that, the department will "eat it," he said.

The commissioners unanimously agreed to fund the survey. In past years, the county has allocated $5,000 for a survey, but no money was budgeted for one this year. Tichenor noted that the county's last thorough survey was conducted in 1994.

He and the commissioners will review the results of the new survey sometime after Thanksgiving, and, if needed, discuss spraying the affected areas with a bacterial type pesticide. As in past years, the Ag Department and county would evenly split the cost of an aerial spraying project. The county's portion would be about $15 an acre, Tichenor noted.

Approximately 10,000 acres in both rural and residential areas may need to be sprayed, according to the department. The spraying would take place in May, after leaves begin to come out on the trees.

The department is seeking the public's assistance in conducting the survey, especially private land owners. "We'll really need some help," Tichenor said.

Residents are asked to report gypsy moth sightings to the Maryland Department of Agriculture's field office in Cumberland at 301-777-3601. The department is planning to issue more information about gypsy moths and the survey to help the public learn more about the infestation problem.

Other actions taken by the Garrett County commissioners this week included:

•Adopting the National Incident Management System (NIMS). A directive of President George Bush and administered by the secretary of homeland security, NIMS was designed to be a "constant nationwide template to enable all government, private sector, and nongovernmental organizations to work together during domestic incidents."

•Approving an amendment to the Garrett County Water and Sewer Master Plan to extend the Shady Acres Sanitary District boundary.

•Adopting a formal policy for water tap fees for the Garrett County Sanitary District. The policy includes connection fees, based on the physical size of a line to be connected to the water system.

•Adopting a wastewater flow table policy for the Deep Creek Lake Sewer System to help determine the number of equivalent residential units that customers will need to purchase.

The details of the policies may be viewed online at garrettcounty.org or by calling the Garrett County Department of Public Utilities at 301-334-6983.

need. With his Hospice duties, he is helping the terminally ill and their families at the most difficult time of their lives."

Ferguson has been a Hospice volunteer since 1990.

"He [has delivered] medical equipment to patients' homes in all of Garrett County in the rain, snow, and ice for many years," Butscher wrote.

He is also a member of the Hospice Newsletter Team – helping to assemble the letters and transporting them to the post office – and assists with the annual Christmas Luncheon, Memorial Service, and Walk for Hospice.

"His community service extends well beyond Hospice," Butscher added.

Ferguson has spent countless volunteer hours with the Historical Society and Museum. He helps maintain the building, picks up artifacts, does guided tours, and works on the renovation of the museum, she noted.

He is also known as "The Cookie Man." Ferguson has made thousands of cookie and sold or distributed them at charitable events, including American Red Cross blood drives. After giving blood, many local donors look forward to getting one of Ferguson's baked treats.

"Our patients love him, and many of our families have enjoyed his cookies," Butscher said.

Additionally, Ferguson helps the Southern High School girls' basketball team and is an active member of his church – mowing the lawn, shoveling snow, and cooking meals.

"George Ferguson has definitely made a difference in Garrett County," Butscher said.

The other most Beautiful Person nominees were Jean Marple, Anna Maxine Beachy Broadwater, Nancy Helbig, Virginia Grove, Pastor Mel Menker, Bob and Marcene Huebner, Ben Sincell, Terry Spear, Sandy Paugh, Amelia Wolf, Dot Leuba, Betty Mattingly, and Bea Crosco.

Stressing that they were all winners, Shaffer read a brief description of each of the nominees' volunteer services. The commissioners presented them with a certificate and paper weight embossed with the Garrett County seal.

House Minority Leader Del. George Edwards also presented Ferguson with a resolution from the Maryland House of Delegates, recognizing his selection as the county's Most Beautiful. Edwards congratulated him and commended all the nominees for their volunteerism.

"Thank you for all you do," Edwards said.

Ferguson will participate in the 38th annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade in Oakland on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m.

Gov. Robert L. Ehrlich Jr., Lt. Gov. Michael S. Steele, and other state and local officials will pay tribute to Ferguson and the state's 23 other honorees at the 19th annual Maryland's Most Beautiful Ceremony in November in Annapolis.

Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person last year was David C. Moon of Sunnyside.

A CROCUS MEMORIAL FOR Leah Welling Huber

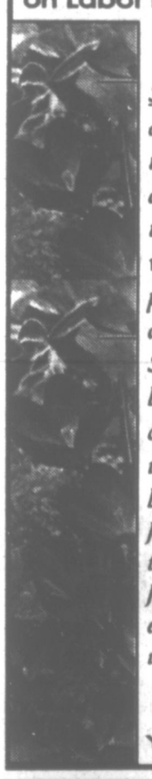
who stepped into Heaven on Labor Day Monday, 2004



The day after Leah died, there were Spring crocuses blooming in September, outside our parents' door. In thankfulness to God for still giving us demonstrations of His comfort and Love, in thankfulness to all of you in this loving community who helped with Leah's care and said prayers that let God help her through it all, please plant a crocus in her memory. So it will remind you of God's promises being real–knowing that even though we do not have our departed loved ones with us here now, we have them in our future because of His Heavenly Hope:

John 11:25 "He that believeth in me, even though he were dead, yet shall he live."

Jeremiah 31: "I have loved you with an everlasting Love...therefore, I will draw you unto myself."

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN – The sun spends nearly all of October in Virgo, entering Libra on Oct. 30. The amount of daily sunlight drops in October; the month opens with 11 hours and 45 minutes and ends with 10 hours and 31 minutes of sunlight. In early October the sun rises about 7:15 a.m. and sets around 7 p.m. (Daylight Time), while by the end of the month sunrises are at 6:45 a.m. and sunsets are 5:18 p.m. (Standard Time). The sun's mid-day height during October drops from 47 to 36 degrees. (After Oct. 6, your day shadow is always longer than your height; this condition lasts through early March of next year.) Twilight lasts about an hour throughout the month, meaning that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour before sunrise and the fainter stars appear an hour after sunset. In mid-October, we have about 11 hours each night for star gazing.

Before retiring on Oct. 29, we set our clocks back one hour as we shift from Daylight Time to Standard Time. So on Sunday, Oct. 30, the sun rises at 6:45 a.m. – an hour earlier than on Saturday, Oct. 29, when it rose at 7:44 a.m. Sunset on Oct. 30 is 5:18 p.m., an hour earlier than the sunset of Oct. 29. Standard Time will be in effect until the first Sunday of April.

THE MOON – As October begins, the moon is a razor sharp crescent low in the eastern dawn. On Oct. 3-4 the moon hides in the sun's glare, and on Oct. 6 its reappears as a very sharp crescent very low in the western dusk, below and to the right of the brilliant planet Venus. On Oct. 10, the moon will appear half full (like a letter "D") the best shape for crater and mountain viewing with binoculars or telescope. The evening moon is fullest on the evening of Oct. 16, shining all through the night. This is the Hunter's moon, the full moon that lingers in the early evening sky for the next few evenings. On Oct. 18, the nearly full moon appears near the bright planet Mars in the mid evening sky. On Oct. 25-26, the moon appears near the bright planet Saturn in the southern dawn sky. As October ends, the moon is a slender crescent low in the eastern dawn.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steadily, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. The brilliant planet Venus shines low in the western dusk for the first hour after sunset. During October, the rising time of Mars drops from 9 p.m. (Daylight Time) early in the month to 5:30 p.m. (Standard Time) as the month ends. Look for Mars as a bright tinted point of light in the eastern evening sky. The planet Saturn improves its night visibility as its rising time moves from 2:20 a.m. early in October to 11:20 p.m. (Standard Time) at the end of October. The innermost planet Mercury is too close to the sun to be seen in October.

THE EVENING STARS – The brightest star is white-blue Vega, shining high in the west at dusk. Vega and two other bright stars form the Summer Triangle, the brightest star group now visible. The Big Dipper is very low in the north, and in the north-northeast is Cassiopeia, a zigzag pattern formed by five stars. Late in the evening in the east you can see the Seven Sisters star cluster, appearing as a tiny starry dipper.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES – The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 21, at the LaVale Public Library. All sky gazers are welcome.

The FSU Planetarium's free public program for October is "Our Moon – Past and Future," which begins at 4 and 7 p.m. each Sunday. The 45-minute program features a live tour of the mid fall evening skies. The moon's violent past and its future as a mining site for space manufacturing will be discussed. The Planetarium is located in Tawes Hall, Room 302, with free parking nearby. The free public programs begin promptly (no latecomers admitted), and persons may call 301-687-4270, ext. 2, for directions and further information.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for beginners who would like to identify the brightest starts, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions, or get a beginner's guide to the night sky and/or a planetarium brochure, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270, ext. 4. Doyle hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and 96.3 FM in the Oakland area. The FSU Planetarium web site address is www.frostburg.edu/planetarium, and Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

DEWITT SPEAKS TO GRANTSVILLE ROTARY — Rick DeWitt, director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services, was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Grantsville Rotary Club. He explained that the vision of the department is that it be recognized as "the service industry performance leader, which empowers individuals and families to achieve their fullest potential and live free from abuse and neglect." Their mission is, in part, "to support family preservation, protect vulnerable children and adults, and serve the individual needs of all customers with dignity and respect." DeWitt is pictured above with Grantsville Rotarian Earleena Tressler.

Welch added that she "was pleased with the thoroughness of the investigation and its quick results."

According to an autopsy by the Maryland State Medical Examiner's Office, Savage died of a single stab wound to the chest.

In addition to first-degree murder, the GBI charged DeWitt with armed robbery, felony theft, and violation of a protective order.

According to police, DeWitt's wife was living at the victim's residence, and DeWitt was prohibited from entering that residence by a court order. There was no forced entry into the apartment, and money was allegedly stolen from the victim, police said following DeWitt's arrest and confession in December.

DeWitt had been scheduled to plead guilty in June, but Judge Leasure had ordered a competency examination to assure DeWitt was aware of his decisions and their consequences in pleading guilty. A report was received by the court in mid August that confirmed DeWitt was competent to stand trial, Welch said.

this year, evidence related to the burglary of the Blue Ribbon Lumber office and a handgun stolen from another Oakland resident were found and recovered, said the state's attorney.

Schimdl was also determined to be involved in the burglary of Arby's near Oakland that occurred in early January 2005. When he was arrested, Schimdl was found to be in possession of marijuana.

Upon his release from prison, Schmidl will be on supervised probation for four years, with conditions that include the payment of more than $7,600 to the various victims.

In other Circuit Court news, Qualyn Rachelle Lee, 27, Fairmont, W.Va., was sentenced to two years in the Division of Corrections for possession with intent to distribute cocaine. That sentence was suspended, and Lee is on two years of supervised probation, during which she will spend the first year on home confinement.

Lee had pleaded guilty in June, but sentencing was postponed until a presentence investigation report could be completed.

She was arrested in November when officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force found a quantity of cocaine and marijuana in a car she was driving on I-68.

Krispy Kreme Sale Slated To Benefit Broad Ford School

Students at Broad Ford Elementary School will once again be selling fresh Krispy Kreme doughnuts during the weekend events of Autumn Glory to raise funds for new playground equipment.

The students, along with parents and teachers, will be selling doughnuts and refreshments throughout the Autumn Glory festivities. The doughnuts are being delivered fresh from a Krispy Kreme store. This sale is one of the first activities of the Bobcat group, a parent-teacher organization at Broad Ford.

This year, there are three types of doughnuts being sold: a dozen glazed are $6, a dozen glazed with chocolate icing are $6.50, and a dozen glazed crème filled are $7.

Doughnut sales will take place at two different locations on Saturday, Oct. 15. The doughnuts will be sold at the craft fair at Broad Ford Elementary School following the parade and at a residence along Route 219 across from the Christmas Chalet at Deep Creek Lake.

Any person or business interested in ordering a dozen or more doughnuts in advance may call Kim Smith now to place an order at 301-387-7134. All orders must be pre-paid and will be delivered to the school on the afternoon of Wednesday, Oct. 12.

"In Appreciation"

The family of "Rod McWilliams" would like to say "Thank You" to those who kept Rod in their prayers. Family, co-workers, business acquaintances, and friends meant a lot to Rod. The visits and cards that gave Rod strength and support when he needed it the most.

The family thanks the home health nurses and physical therapists who came to the house to care for him. Kathy, Phil, and Marina, you do a great job caring for others.

A special thank you goes to the doctors, nurses, and CA's, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, 9th floor, West/Bone Marrow Unit. They are such wonderful people who do their job well.

It's been one month since Rod left his family and friends and we know he is enjoying his new life with God. We will always miss him, but we have great memories. Rod touched many lives with his wonderful smile, love, and personality.

Also, the family appreciates any donation that was given to the memorial fund for his children.

Sincerely, Rod's Family

Bartlett, House Republicans Propose Budget Cuts To Fund Katrina Relief

by Jacqueline Ruttimann
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Rep. Roscoe Bartlett joined other House Republicans Wednesday in proposing $500 billion in spending cuts — including reductions in federal funds for the Inter-County Connector — to pay for Hurricane Katrina relief and reconstruction efforts.

At a news conference Wednesday, the Republican Study Committee launched "Operation Offset," a detailed list of proposed budget savings options so that the reconstruction costs of Katrina, estimated at upwards of $200 billion, will not be passed onto future generations in the form of unmanageable debt.

"Representatives in the Congress have a credit card with the world's largest credit limit — it's our voting card," said Bartlett, R-Frederick. "It has no limit."

Bartlett brandished the card that allows him to cast his vote as a member of Congress, mimicking American Express advertising spokesmen.

"When we vote in the Congress for deficit spending, we know that we won't pay back this debt," he said. "We have to remember that it will be our kids and our grandkids who will have to pay back the debt."

The 20 House Republicans at the news conference highlighted programs that could be either eliminated or reduced. Among the savings options were delaying prescription drug benefits and increasing premiums under Medicare, increasing co-payments for Medicaid, and limiting grants for first responders to large, at-risk communities.

"Our analysis suggests that there is more than enough room for cuts in the federal budget to pay for Katrina," said Rep. Mike Pence, R-Ind., study committee chairman, indicating a pile of papers representing the federal budget flagged with yellow Post-It notes.

The fiscal 2006 highway bill, which contained over 6,000 earmarks worth around $25 billion, was a favorite target. Members cited a $200 million "bridge to nowhere" serving 50 island residents in Alaska as expendable.

Earmarks that would affect the Maryland area include $75 million in Metro system funding, according to the study committee report, as well as funding for the Inter-County Connector, which would connect Interstates 270 and 95.

"While we get some money for the ICC, the majority comes from other funding sources," said Maryland Department of Transportation spokesman Jack Cahalan, who confirmed the ICC was a target of the spending cut proposal.

Maryland's space industry also could be affected by proposals to cancel NASA's new Moon and Mars initiative and elimination of the Energy Star Program, a federal- and state-funded energy savings program that is personally endorsed by Gov. Robert Ehrlich.

NASA spokesman Dean Acosta said the proposed cuts would hurt rehabilitation efforts of the hurricane-stricken Gulf Coast since two of the main space centers, the Lockheed Martin-operated Michoud Assembly facility in New Orleans and the John C. Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis, Miss., suffered damage but are operable.

"NASA has been an integral part of the Gulf Coast region for many decades," said Acosta. "If you want to ensure jobs and continue recovery, NASA will play a key role."

Maryland Energy Administration Director Michael Richard, whose department supports the Energy Star Program, said that while he has a lot of respect for the RSC for their being the "voice of fiscal responsibility" he would want to have a discussion with them on their conclusions related to the program.

"I would hope," said Richard, "that Congress and the administration would renew their commitment that was expressed in the national energy strategy."

Lutheran Group Helps Hurricane Katrina Victims

Through the auspices of the social ministry organization Community Lutheran Partners Inc. (CLP), a 53-foot tractor trailer left West Virginia on Tuesday loaded with supplies for Hurricane Katrina victims and bound for a distribution center in Jackson, Miss.

Pastor Randy Nairn of Accident made the arrangements for the truck, and CLP put out the notice around the West Virginia/Western Maryland synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) for relief items.

Collection sites were established at ELCA congregations throughout West Virginia.

"Collection has been going on for about two weeks, and from every indication, when the truck leaves Tuesday, it will be loaded to the brim, and another trip will need to be arranged," Pastor Brian O. Bennett, CLP treasurer, said late last week. "Support throughout the synod has been crucial for the wonderful response seen so far."

The tractor trailer was parked at the St. Mark's Lutheran Church lot in Oakland for three days. Volunteers worked to pack the truck with local donations before the vehicle was moved on.

The truck passed through Morgantown and stopped at one of the collection sites, St. Paul Lutheran Church along Baldwin Street, Tuesday morning. There it was loaded up with supplies donated by Lutheran congregations in the northern panhandle and western Maryland.

The truck also made stops at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Clarksburg, Cross of Grace in Hurricane, and St. Timothy Lutheran Church in Charleston before heading for Jackson.

Much of the organizational work was done by Sarah Soltow, CLP executive director.

Garrett County Memorial Celebrating 55 Years; Gala Planned For Nov. 12

Garrett County Memorial Hospital is celebrating 55 years of providing healthcare to area residents and visitors. In celebration of this milestone, the hospital's Foundation is planning a "black tie optional" Garrett County Memorial Hospital Gala for Nov. 12, to be held at the Lodge at Wisp Resort in McHenry.

Gala festivities will include music by local band The Remedy, a live and silent auction, raffles, and a sit-down meal. The theme for this year's event will be "The Starlight Ball: A Night on the Town."

The evening is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. with the display of silent auction items. Guests will be seated at 7 p.m. and served a six-course dinner. Following dinner, a live auction will take place, followed by guest speakers.

"We will finish the evening with great music, dancing and a lot of fun," said Kathy Greaser, foundation director.

To date, the event has four primary corporate sponsors. Deep Creek Mountain Resort has signed on as a sponsor at the silver level again this year, Greaser said. Railey Realty is sponsoring the event at that same level.

Thomas Moran and Beitzel Corporation are sponsoring the gala as bronze level supporters.

The DelSignore Foundation will be honored at the event.

Over the past five and a half decades, GCMH has progressed to a 61-bed acute and 10-bed sub-acute care facility with a fully staffed emergency room, and a radiology department that includes mammography, ultrasound, nuclear medicine, computerized tomography, stress testing, and echocardiography.

The hospital houses a laboratory and departments in physical therapy and cardiopulmonary, offers inpatient medical/surgical care, operates intensive and progressive care units, and provides inpatient and outpatient surgical services, recovery room care, obstetrics and newborn services, and social work services, along with a wide range of support services.

Throughout its progression from a 30-bed facility, the original mission of the hospital has remained the same, Greaser said: To serve the medical and healthcare needs of the community in the most effective way.

"The hospital is continually positioning itself to remain a vital healthcare institution. Improvements in the physical plant, clinical services, equipment, and certified staff have all contributed to making GCMH a progressive medical facility," Greaser said.

Through a generous bequest from George W. Loar and the dedication of a group of concerned citizens, the vision of Garrett County Memorial Hospital became a reality. The original hospital consisted of an emergency room, laboratory, operating room, and 30 patient beds. The medical staff included eight doctors, along with a courtesy staff of physicians and surgeons from Cumberland, Morgantown, W.Va., and Philippi, W.Va.

Since the doors opened in 1950, the hospital has continued to grow. The facility currently has 36 physicians in general and specialty areas on its active and consulting staff, along with allied health professionals ranging from nurse practitioners to occupational therapists and speech therapists. Complementing the medical, professional, and support staff at the hospital are volunteers who offer their services in various areas. The hospital extends its services to the community through outreach programs designed to encourage and help people develop healthier lifestyles.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital is fully accredited by the Joint Commission of Healthcare Organizations, is licensed by the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and is certified by the Health Care Financing Administration and the U.S. Department of Heath and Human Services for the care of Medicare and Medicaid patients.

Since its formation in 1987, the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation has consistently engaged in efforts to increase the public's awareness of the equipment and capital needs of the hospital, as well as to facilitate the fundraising to meet those needs.

"The foundation's success is made possible through the generosity and support of the community," Greaser said.

Tickets for the event are available though the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation office or by calling 301-533-4178. Parties interested in becoming sponsors or advertisers for this event can contact the public relations department at 301-533-4041.

A BRAND NEW SIGN was installed recently at the Grantsville Community Museum. It features a photographic image of the iconic old stone bridge over Little Crossings of the Casselman River near Grantsville. The sign was designed, painted, and installed by Charles Murray, owner of Murray Signs, Grantsville. The Grantsville Community Museum, affiliated with the Garrett County Historical Society, recently held an open house to showcase the collection of historic photographs taken by Leo J. Beachy. The show featured 20 photographs of early 20th century local buildings, rural life, and scenic shots in the area surrounding Grantsville. The Beachy photographic display was made possible by a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council. Under the auspices of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, a state of Maryland Community Legacy Grant was obtained for the town of Grantsville. The museum sign was funded through a portion of this grant. Pictured above are Murray and Alice L. Faith-Trauger, volunteer curator of the Grantsville Community Museum.

Grantsville Library Begins Children's Programs For Fall

The Grantsville Library's fall slate of childrens programming is under way, and includes a "LapSit" activity and a Preschool Story Time.

The 30-minute LapSit program is currently offered at 11 a.m. each Wednesday through Nov. 16. Designed for children from birth to 3 years old, and their caregivers, LapSit promotes motor coordination, language development, visual perception, and mental stimulation.

A one-hour Preschool Story Time is currently being offered at 11 a.m. on Fridays through Nov. 18. The program provides an hour of stories and crafts for preschoolers ages 3-5.

Ending dates for both programs may be extended depending upon community response and need. For more information, persons may contact Jennifer Wiley at the Grantsville Library, 301-895-5298, or visit the website at www.relib.net.

Longtime Garrett Instructor Joins President's Staff

After instructing at Garrett College for 16 years, Jim Allen is now serving as special assistant to the president. He says his number one goal is to establish a strategic planning process.

"We have been moving in that direction and do have planning strategies, but we want to make it more of a systematic on-going process," Allen said. "The idea is to move everybody along with the process, to get input from everybody. I would like to have a workable process everyone understands. Everyone should feel like they have ownership."

Garrett College does have a five-year plan, but the concern is how many people are aware of it at different levels and how it affects their planning, according to Allen. "When making decisions, personnel should ask 'How does this relate to the plan?'" he said.

"I've known Jim Allen for about 15 years and he is a consummate professional," said Garrett College president Dr. Steve Herman. "I am delighted that he is assuming this position as special assistant to the president. His responsibilities will include planning initiatives, grant writing, as well as continuing his duties as lead coordinator of the accreditation program."

Allen plans to continue teaching two classes each semester. "I enjoy teaching," he said. "I enjoy working here and would like to feel I've made some contributions to the college through my work."

Allen said he has seen a lot of changes at the college since he arrived there in October 1989. As director of technology, he has seen that department and the college grow. Most technical and career programs now have individual directors.

Allen has his master's of science from the State University of New York in environmental and resource engineering. He received his bachelor of science in agricultural engineering technology from the University of Delaware.

Big Senate Field Could Result In Splintered Vote

by Kaukab Jhumra Smith
Capital News Service

A motley group of half a dozen Democrats vying for the first open U.S. Senate seat from Maryland in 20 years could splinter Democratic support during next year's primary, making a party nominee hard to predict, political observers said.

Rep. Ben Cardin and former NAACP head Kweisi Mfume, both of Baltimore, are widely regarded as early front-runners for the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by retiring Sen. Paul Sarbanes. However, votes siphoned off by grassroots campaigns could tip the nomination from one to the other, analysts said.

And if Delegate Anthony G. Brown, D-Prince George's – an Iraq war veteran, Harvard-trained lawyer, and House majority whip who says he is considering statewide office – decides to run, he could significantly detract from Mfume's advantage as the only African-American candidate, observers said.

"Throw Anthony Brown into the race and there will be a third strong candidate" for the Democrats, said Paul Herrnson, a politics professor at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Both Cardin and Mfume have considerable congressional experience, but with his charisma and recent tour of service in Iraq, Brown has "a star shining over his shoulder," Herrnson said.

Cardin served 20 years in the state legislature, including five as Maryland House speaker, and was elected to the U.S. House in 1987. Mfume served five terms in Congress from Maryland's 7th District and was president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People until Dec. 31 last year.

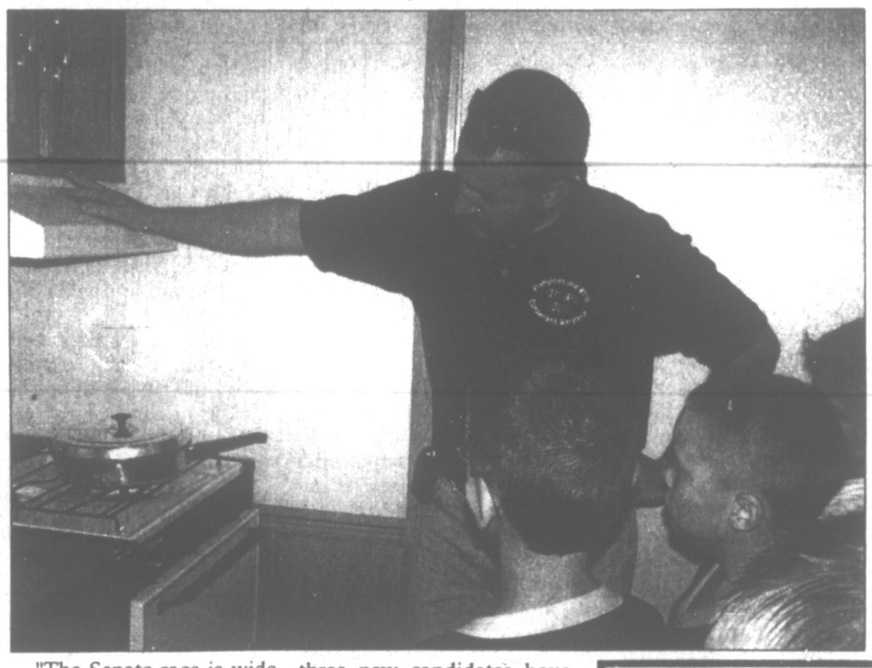
Brown, on the other hand, may be a "relatively green" state delegate, but has already developed a savvy reputation with House leadership, political experts said. And he's from the historically important constituency of Prince George's County.

If Brown runs, said Tom Schaller, a political science professor at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County, "I think it would hurt Mfume's candidacy in the sense that it would split the black vote."

African-American voters are expected to cast 35 to 40 percent of the votes in the Democratic primary, said state Democratic Chairman Terry Lierman.

Brown said he's weighing a run for the state attorney general's seat or the U.S. Senate, based on support from his constituents and elected officials.

STUDENTS LEARN ABOUT FIRE SAFETY – The Cumberland Firefighters' Local 1715 recently brought the FIRESAFE (Fire Information Resource Educating Safety Awareness For Everyone) House to Garrett County elementary schools. The house, which has three rooms, is used to help show everyday hazards in homes. Any of the rooms can have smoke added to simulate a fire environment and also have the doors heated to indicate fire on the other side. They also have the ability to have a 911 operator in the control room to answer simulated 911 calls during the children's lesson, according to a spokesperson. Some of the topics discussed with the children were testing doors for heat, rolling out of bed, calling 911 properly, planning a home escape, and using an escape ladder. Pictured above is Madison Robey, a Route 40 student, exiting through a window of the trailer with the assistance of a Cumberland firefighter. Below, Doug Beitzel, Cumberland firefighter, discusses kitchen hazards such as a pot handle turned outward or a burner left on without a pan or supervision. Photos by Lisa Broadwater.



"The Senate race is wide open," Brown said. "Only if one is forced to identify a front-runner would one say it's Ben Cardin. But it's so early."

In the last few weeks, three new candidates have entered the race, two of them Democrats. All position themselves as political outsiders who want to return the government's focus to affordable health care, higher education, and planning an exit strategy from Iraq.

The list of announced Democratic candidates now includes Cardin, Mfume, political historian Allan Lichtman, forensic psychiatrist Lise Van Susteren, both of Bethesda, and social activist A. Robert Kaufman of Baltimore.

At least two more potential candidates are debating runs: Joshua Rales, a real estate mogul who switched parties last year after a decade as a Republican, and Dennis Rasmussen, an Annapolis lobbyist and former Baltimore County executive.

"I think it's a real problem for the Democrats to have so many candidates," Schaller said. It pulls votes "about seven ways" in the primary and drains resources from the general election campaign, he said.

Republicans, meanwhile, seem united behind Lt. Gov. Michael Steele, who has not yet announced a run for Sarbanes' seat.

"Every time a new candidate announces [a campaign]," Schaller said, "it's good news to Michael Steele and the Republicans, who get to sit back and watch all these candidates – who really have no chance whatever in the primary, let alone the general election – eat each other up."

Most of these candidates will get just single-digit support in the primary, he said.

"I don't think anyone would recognize Van Susteren if she didn't have a sister on TV," Schaller said, referring to Van Susteren's younger sister Greta, who works as a Fox News anchorwoman. "What's the constituency there?"

But both Schaller and Herrnson agreed that even long-shot campaigns can bring issues to the table that otherwise would be ignored.

"Some of these people know that they don't have a chance to win, but they run because they care very deeply about some issues and want to put those on the political agenda," Herrnson said. "Other people run because they say, 'Hey, it's America.' Even though they go down in crushing defeat, they enjoy it."

Lierman called the list of candidates "terrific," saying it encouraged healthy debate, showcased the state's diversity, and increased the ranks of volunteers and donors.

That's not how Republicans view the field.

"The stable of radical liberals that are coming out for the Senate seat only demonstrates how out of touch the Democratic Party is with the people of Maryland," said Audra Miller, a Maryland Republican Party spokeswoman.

Ultimately, success for the Democrats will depend on the ability to bring dissatisfied voters back into the fray, Brown said.

A successful Senate candidate must not only galvanize the traditional, more liberal, progressive base of the Democratic Party, Brown said. That candidate must also "attract and welcome back and encourage the return of our moderate and conservative voters."

NEW HAMPSHIRE REVIEW

Newman gets win at New Hampshire

NASCAR Chase opens with promise of severe penalties for wild antics

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Loudon, N.H.

The NASCAR Chase for the Nextel Cup got off to a bang Sunday after Ryan Newman made a daring pass for the lead on Tony Stewart with less than two laps remaining to win the Sylvania 300.

On a day when seven of the top eight finishing positions were occupied by Chase contenders, NASCAR announced severe penalties are expected to be issued this week to drivers involved in a series of wild on-track and off-track activities.

Three separate bumping incidents — involving Kurt Busch and Scott Riggs, Kyle Busch and Kasey Kahne, and Michael Waltrip and Robby Gordon — had officials summoning drivers after the race.

After the day's final caution, which set up a 15-lap run to the finish, the stage was set for a late race to the checkered flag between Newman and Stewart. The two didn't disappoint the capacity New Hampshire International Speedway crowd.

After Stewart wrestled the lead away from Newman on Lap 292, Newman returned the favor six laps later as the duo battled to the white flag.

"I never expected to have a second shot at Tony," Newman admitted. "First of all because it's Tony, and second of all because of track position.

"When Tony got by me I thought I was done. But he just never walked away and I got back underneath him coming off of [Turn 2]."

Stewart never second-guessed his decision to drive his No. 20 Chevrolet underneath Newman's Dodge with eight laps remaining, instead of opting for a last-lap pass.

"It was hard enough to get by when I got by," Stewart said. "It wasn't like a Daytona or Talladega situation in the old days where the slingshot was in effect and you may have gone too soon."

NASCAR

Ryan Newman leads Tony Stewart in the closing laps of Sunday's Sylvania 300. Newman won the race, the first event in the 2005 Chase for the Nextel Cup.

As Newman and Stewart streaked across the finish line, Matt Kenseth and Greg Biffle electrified the crowd with their own private battle.

"If it would've been any other time in the race [Biffle] would have gone right by me," said Kenseth, who edged his Roush Racing teammate for third. "But right there you've got to race all you can for that position. And the way the leaders were going at it, I thought it maybe could've been for the win."

Biffle, whose fourth-place finish leaves him second, 20 points behind Stewart in the Chase for the Cup, said it was satisfying to see this year's top drivers surface to the top of the leaderboard at the finish.

"I'm just happy to see our sport is so equal," Biffle said. "To see [Newman and Stewart] race for position and me and [Kenseth], after 300 laps, race for position like that is pretty incredible."

Dale Earnhardt Jr. finished fifth, his best effort since his victory at Chicagoland Speedway in July. Rusty Wallace edged Mark Martin for sixth, while Jimmie Johnson, Jeff Burton and Kevin Harvick rounded out the top 10.

After the race, Gordon, Waltrip and Kahne were summoned to the NASCAR trailer to discuss their roles in incidents that occurred during the event.

NASCAR Vice President Jim Hunter said the sanctioning body is prepared to address the recent string of extracurricular activities.

"You're going to see some pretty stiff penalties coming out of this," Hunter said, referring to Kahne's tirade against Kyle Busch and Gordon, walking on the track to fling a helmet against Waltrip's car.

"(NASCAR President Mike Helton) said we're going to do whatever we need to do, whether it's park a guy for a week or park a guy for nine weeks. We're going to prevent retaliation on the race track, particularly under the caution."

NOTEBOOK

Busch runs red-hot after costly mishap

By JEFF HOOD
Cox News Service

Loudon, N.H.

Kurt Busch's defense of the Nextel Cup championship suffered a major setback on Lap 3 of Sunday's Sylvania 300. That's when Scott Riggs' Chevrolet tagged Busch's Ford and sent the No. 97 spinning into the Turn 2 wall.

"We've had issues with the 10 car in the past, and this isn't the place to repay somebody," said Busch, who finished 35th and fell from fifth to 10th in the Chase for the Cup standings.

After driving his crumpled machine to the garage, Busch climbed atop the No. 10 pit box and confronted Rodney Childers, Riggs' crew chief.

"Kurt said they've had some past experiences with stuff," Childers said. "Kurt took us out at Indy when we were running in the top 10.

"That was an accident, and we forgave him for that. And this was an accident. He'll have to forgive us."

Anger becomes theme of the day

Tempers flared at the midpoint of the Sylvania 300 between several nonparticipants in the Chase for the Nextel Cup.

Kyle Busch's Chevrolet slid into Kasey Kahne and forced his Dodge to back into the Turn 2 wall on Lap 165. The following lap, Kahne drove his battered car in front of Busch's car as the field circled the track under caution.

"If people are going to run over you for no reason and think they're going to get away with it, you just go out there and ruin their day too," said Kahne, who finished 38th.

Eleven laps later, Michael Waltrip clipped the rear of Robby Gordon's Chevrolet, sending the No. 7 nose-first into the backstretch wall when Gordon was in the process of slowing for a caution flag.

Gordon attempted to back his car into Waltrip's car one lap later. The following lap, he heaved his helmet at Waltrip's Chevrolet. Gordon capped off his afternoon by uttering an expletive directed at Waltrip on TNT's broadcast of the event.

"I'm not worried about the penalties," said Gordon, who finished 37th but was running fifth when the incident occurred. "Michael wrecked me plain and simple."

COMMENTARY

Prediction: Kenseth is choice to win 2005 Cup title

By JEFF GLUCK
Cox News Service

In the wee hours of Sept. 11, Matt Kenseth leaned on a metal barrier and spoke openly and frankly to a small group of sportswriters.

Kenseth had just qualified for NASCAR's Chase for the Cup at Richmond International Raceway, riding a surge of momentum that carried him from a dismal season into what could become a championship year.

One writer asked about driving more aggressively in the Chase. Kenseth debunked that myth, saying drivers already race hard anyway.

So what about momentum? Is that a myth, too, or does it actually mean something?

"You know, I've always thought it's worth a lot," Kenseth said. "But one thing about momentum is it can stop at any lap."

Kenseth looks to his own career for evidence. When the momentum is on his side, he's gone through some of his most successful stretches.

"It does work in cycles sometimes," he said. "You wish it didn't, but it really does. Look at Jeff Gordon and you'll see the same thing.

"When everything's going right, it just feels easier, you know what I mean?"

KENSETH

Like a wild-card team in baseball, late-season momentum will be the factor that decides the Chase year after year. The hottest driver heading into the playoff, I predict, will win. That's why I'm picking Kenseth to win his second championship in three years. Here's what will happen with the rest of the top 10:

2. Kurt Busch: So what if he doesn't have many fans and doesn't seem to be well-liked? That doesn't factor into driving ability, and this guy has it. He could very easily win back-to-back titles, because he's great at many of the Chase tracks.

3. Tony Stewart: The hottest driver over the past couple months just can't keep it up. If he can, he'll certainly win the Cup. How can one team be so dominant for 10 more weeks? It never lasts (see Jimmie Johnson and Greg Biffle). Stewart may have peaked too early.

4. Rusty Wallace: There's nothing to lose for Rusty, and he badly wants to go out on top. He said after the Richmond race that he'd prefer to drive as well as ever, so-well that people will ask why he retired for years to come. Still, he doesn't run up front enough to win the whole thing.

5. Mark Martin: I can see Martin finishing higher than this, but I can also see him getting into a couple of wrecks and having everyone shake their heads and say, "Aww, that's a shame." If he stays out of trouble, he could win it.

6. Jeremy Mayfield: Flying under the radar has been an understatement for Mayfield. If he hadn't won the Michigan race via fuel strategy, no one would have acknowledged his consistent season. He'll better his 10th-place finish from last year, but Mayfield can't win the championship with numerous top-15 finishes.

7. Greg Biffle: This was such a surprising story when it first happened: Biffle making the top 10, winning race after race and always finding himself in contention after virtually no one picked him to make the top 10 this year. He ran so well in the first half of the year, but the momentum seems to have run out.

8. Jimmie Johnson: I know it's surprising to pick Johnson so low, but something is wrong with his team lately. Johnson, who works out of the same shop as the disappointing Gordon, is backing into the Chase. I just don't see how a team can win — or contend — for the Cup with nothing going for it.

9. Ryan Newman: Although he won Sunday's race at New Hampshire, it doesn't seem like his team has been able to consistently string together good finishes, so he won't do much in the Chase.

10. Carl Edwards: As one of the few writers to pick Edwards to make the playoffs this season, I'm glad the young driver was able to back me up. But it seems like he occasionally drives too aggressively, and that could cost him in the Chase.

Crawford tops in truck race

Rick Crawford edged Dennis Setzer and Ted Musgrave in a frantic four-lap shootout to win Saturday's Craftsman Truck Series Sylvania 200 at New Hampshire International Speedway.

Crawford, who led 26 of the 200 laps including the final 15, benefited from the day's final caution period, which was waved on Lap 194 as Setzer and Musgrave appeared ready to drive past him.

"Actually it helped us a little bit," said Crawford, who won by .221 seconds. "We overheated the front brakes with 15 laps to go. That caution cooled the brakes and cooled the tires.

"And for that four laps at the end I was able to stretch out a couple of truck-lengths lead over Dennis and Musgrave."

Clay Rogers, the 2004 Hooters Pro Cup Series champion, finished a career-best fourth. Ron Hornaday Jr., who led 56 laps, was fifth.

Melanoma Cells and Curcumin

Curcumin is a substance found in the spice tumeric. Tumeric is found in many different types of curry powders, which are commonly used in Asian and Middle Eastern cuisine. It has been used in the treatment of indigestion and as an anti-inflammatory agent. Melanoma is a type of skin cancer. It accounts for only 4% of all skin cancer cases; however, it causes more deaths than any other type of skin cancer.

A recent study published in the journal Cancer reported that curcumin interferes with the growth and proliferation (spread) of melanoma cells. Scientists exposed 3 different types of melanoma cells to varying doses of curcumin in test tubes for 4 to 5 days. They found that curcumin decreased the activity of two proteins that malanoma cells use to live and grow. In addition, melanoma cells that were exposed to curcumin were more likely to die. Further studies evaluating the ability of curcumin to suppress melanoma cell activity in animals are being planned. No studies evaluating the ability of curcumin to reduce the risk of cancer in humans have been performed yet.

Never Look Down

Standing at the bottom, the rock face appears as a challenge to test our strength and skill. Experienced climbers would say "never look down, take it one step at a time". Yet, the higher we climb, the more dangerous it becomes; so we search for firm footing with every step and never look down until we reach our goal.

Life places before us obstacles that appear insurmountable, yet with God's help we can possess strength we did not have, making the seemingly impossible possible. Psalm 40:2 tells us of God, "...he set my feet on a rock and gave me a firm place to stand." With faith firmly planted in the Almighty we can reach our goals.

Visit your house of worship this week. As you enter, look around you and behold the beauty within. Look up and feel God's presence. As you reach for Him, know that your highest aspiration is as near as a prayer. Remember, look up toward Him... never look down.

Sometimes a SMILE...

When was the last time you surprised a friend or family member with something out of the ordinary? Giving someone flowers for no special reason is always a welcome surprise. And, surprising someone doesn't have to cost a cent. Flowers picked from a field can be just as nice as the ones delivered by a florist. Calling or writing someone you haven't been in touch with in a long time is another low-cost way to pleasantly surprise someone. In these times of electronic mail and instant messaging, an old-fashioned letter delivered by the mailman can be a wonderful surprise. Baking cookies and bringing them to work to share with co-workers is not only a nice surprise, but also a special way to keep on good terms with those at work. Inviting someone to dinner who wouldn't otherwise expect it is another good way to surprise someone. And perhaps, the ones who would be most surprised by an act of kindness are not our friends or family, but our enemies.

Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you.

TV PIPELINE

Actress made movies, then set up 'House'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Jennifer Morrison

Q: Is the actress who plays Dr. Cameron on Fox's "House" the same person who played Richard Gere's daughter in the movie "Intersection"? My husband and I are debating this. –Erin Hartfile, Columbus, Ohio.

A: If you're the one who believes it's the same actress, you have a good eye. Jennifer Morrison did indeed co-star in "Intersection" a decade before she began "House," in the days when she billed herself as "Jenny Morrison."

Q: I see that "Charmed" is back for an eighth season. Is there any chance for the first seven seasons to come out on DVD? –Kent Irby, Fernley, Nev.

A: A really good chance, since Paramount Home Video already has released the first two seasons of The WB Network series (also seen in repeats on TNT) about the literally witchy Halliwell siblings. The show's second season came out on disc just a few weeks ago.

Q: I have seen two write-ups about Jeremy Piven that mention shows he's been on, like "Entourage" and "The Larry Sanders Show." Wasn't he also on "Ellen" with Ellen DeGeneres? Doesn't he want that show on his resume, or do I have the wrong actor? –Barbara Brungart, Lebanon, Pa.

A: You have the right actor, and maybe it's not so much his neglecting his "Ellen" tenure as it is what the given writer chose to write about Piven. (For that matter, we don't see much mention these days of Piven's earlier series "Cupid," which we adored.) "Entourage" is the project that clearly is earning Piven the most attention these days – and, we'd venture to say, the most attention of his career thus far. His Emmy bid this year for the HBO comedy series, in which he plays manic Hollywood talent agent Ari Gold, serves as testimony to his solid work on the show.

Q: We are addicted to the vintage "What's My Line?" series on Game Show Network. The show has been running in the middle of the night, and we've been taping it. Is it available on DVD? –Melissa Whelan, Whitefish Bay, Wis.

A: Not in and of itself, but certain episodes can be found in interesting places. For instance, MPI Home Video recently released the first season of the late-1960s "The Doris Day Show" in a DVD set also including two "What's My Line?" episodes in which Day appeared as the "mystery guest." Especially intriguing is that those shows are from different phases of her career – first when she was known principally for her singing, then when she had established herself as a Hollywood star, around the time of her screen version of "The Pajama Game."

Garrett County Humane Society Reviews Funding Expenditures

The Garrett County Humane Society recently held its annual fundraiser, Christmas in July for Our Best Friends, at the fairgrounds in McHenry. The event included a 50/50 drawing, flea market, and silent auction.

Now that the members have had a chance to review their fundraising efforts, Humane Society president Lisa Baker said she wanted to let people know how their contributions would be spent. She noted that the winner of the drawing was John Lytle of Westernport, who received 50 percent of the ticket sales proceeds.

"The other 50 percent of the ticket sales money and the money raised at our auction, flea market, and contests will go into our general fund," Baker said. "Most of the money will be used to help pet owners with the cost of having their pet spayed or neutered."

Baker said each month she receives an average of 12 phone calls from people asking for help with these procedures. Humane Society executive director Bernadine Friend also receives numerous calls.

"Last year we gave out over 300 spay/neuter certificates," Baker said.

In addition to the certificates, the organization has also paid for medical expenses for injured or neglected dogs that people have found or have been brought into the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

"On occasion, we have also purchased dog houses to 'loan' to those in need," Baker added. "And during winter months, we provide free straw for pet owners to use to insulate their dog houses. We gladly donate to the local rescue, HART of Garrett County, which has rescued and transported hundreds of animals from our shelter to no-kill breed rescues in the tri-state area."

HART stands for Homeless Animal Rescue and Transport.

Baker noted that with gas prices increasing, it will take more money to transport these animals to somewhere where they will be adopted into "loving homes."

Some of the more notable pets that the Humane Society and HART have helped are as follows:

•Max, a collie/shepherd mix, who was adopted from the Garrett County Animal Shelter once, but eventually showed back up at the facility. He remained there for almost three weeks before being accepted by and transported to a rescue downstate. "Max has since then been adopted into a loving home!" Baker said.

•Meecko, a Siamese cat, was rescued from her uncaring owner. The feline was nearly starved and very flea-ridden. "She was taken to a local vet, bathed, vaccinated, fed, and loved until she was adopted!" Baker said.

•Yellow, pictured at the beginning of this article, was a little Lab mix who was brought to the animal shelter as a stray with an injured leg. He was taken to a veterinarian, treated, and was later adopted.

•Dozens of kittens have also been rescued from possible euthanasia and taken to a rescue in Waldorf by HART. "If they had stayed here, it would have been impossible to find homes for them in Garrett County," Baker said. "There are just too many homeless kittens out there."

"We are a small, dedicated group of volunteers who just want to make Garrett County a more pet-friendly place," she said. "The community is supportive, but we need residents to continue to strive to obey the pet ordinance, which includes the requirement that your pet have a rabies vaccination and a county license."

She said everyone should also commit to help eliminate the feral cat population by bringing in the strays to the Garrett County Animal Shelter and by having their cats "altered."

"Please report animal abuse or neglect – no animal should suffer due to apathy," Baker added.

The Garrett County Humane Society's next meeting will be held at the Maryland State Police Barracks in McHenry on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 7 pm. For further information, persons may call Baker at 301-387-4425.

NEW PEER HELPERS RECEIVE TRAINING – Southern Middle School recently held training for new peer helpers for the 2005-06 school year. The training was implemented by several of last year's peer helpers. The new peer helpers will attend a more formal training on Oct. 11, by the Northern and Southern high school peer counselors. Peer helpers are students advised by the school counselor who are trained to help other students resolve conflicts in a peaceful manner. Once the students are trained, they will be available for conflict resolution, tutoring, and other activities. This year's peer helpers said they would like to thank last year's helpers for taking the time to assist them with learning some of the techniques involved with the conflict resolution process. In the front, from the left, are Katlyn Swift, Brittany Perron, Katie Gindlesberger, Justin Weeks, Rachel Flinn, and Michael Bowser. In the middle are new peer helpers Jordan Henson, Jerica Bennett, Jackie Fries, Abby Wildeson, Kelly Bean, and Brittany Slaubaugh. In the back are last year's peer helpers Kelsie Umbel, Emily Lipscomb, Katie Welch, Tori Tichinell, Tiffany Matthews, Kristi Davis, Rebekah Rush, and Brittany Morgan.

Local Citizen Review Panel Slates Meeting

The Local Citizen Review Panel (LCRP) will host an open meeting on Thursday, Sept. 29, from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the Department of Social Services in Oakland. DSS is located at 12578 Garrett Highway.

LCRPs provide oversight for Maryland's child protection system by advising the State Citizens' Review Board for Children and the State Council on Child Abuse and Neglect on how effectively state and local agencies are fulfilling their responsibilities related to child protection. This is to be accomplished by ongoing local system reviews and individual case reviews.

"LCRPs offer the community a real opportunity to strengthen its care of children and youth," a spokesperson said. "LCRP members include individuals with interest and expertise in the prevention and treatment of child abuse and neglect."

All local LCRP members are appointed by the Garrett County commissioners. For further information persons may contact Crystal Stewart at 301-334-1189.

Correction Noted

Last week's issue printed a submission about the Oakland High School class of 1951 which stated that class was the last to graduate from the school. The submitted information was incorrect, as the final class of OHS graduated in 1952.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It's been reported that the Tasmanian devil can consume up to 40 percent of its body weight in half an hour. In human terms, that would be the equivalent of an adult eating 50 pounds of beef at one sitting.

• Actor Roger Bowen played the role of Lt. Colonel Henry Blake in the 1970 film version of "M*A*S*H"; actor McLean Stevenson portrayed the same character in the long-running TV series. In a weird coincidence, they died within one day of each other — Stevenson on Feb. 15, 1996 and Bowen on Feb. 16, 1996 — and from the same ailment: a heart attack.

• It's still not known who observed, "Of all the ways of paying for a thing, cash is the cheapest."

• The world's largest species of flower, the titan arum, has a lifespan of 40 years and can reach up to 18 feet in height. It only blooms a few times over its life, but it's quite an event when a flower emerges. In order to attract insects for pollination, the bloom emits an odor that's been likened to that of rotting flesh. Perhaps unsurprisingly, then, another name for the plant is "corpse flower."

• By itself, California constitutes the world's fifth-largest economy.

• Though Rome didn't sink into powerlessness all at once, the date usually given by historians to the fall of Rome is Aug. 28, 474 A.D. Of course, there have been many theories regarding the empire's decline, but one of the more interesting ones centers on the water supply. Rome was dependent on a vast system of aqueducts to bring in the water needed to supply the population. The aqueducts, however, were lined with lead, which has led some researchers to speculate that the Romans slowly went mad from lead poisoning.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 1, 1856, the Revue de Paris publishes the first segment of "Madame Bovary" by Gustave Flaubert. The novel, about the romantic illusions of a country doctor's wife and her adulterous liaisons, scandalized French traditionalists. Flaubert was brought to trial for obscenity in 1857. He was acquitted, and the book became a popular success.

• On Oct. 2, 1922, the New York Stock Exchange opens the doors to its new offices. Like its predecessor, the 11-story building was located in downtown New York City, at 11 Wall Street.

• On Sept. 27, 1935, 13-year-old singer and actress Judy Garland signs her first contract with MGM. In 1939, Garland became a major star after playing Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," a role originally intended for Shirley Temple. Garland received a special juvenile Oscar for her performance.

• On Sept. 26, 1945, Lt. Col. Peter Dewey, a U.S. Army officer with the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) in Vietnam, is shot and killed in Saigon when he refuses to stop at a roadblock manned by the Viet Minh. Dewey was the first American soldier to die in Vietnam.

• On Sept. 30, 1954, the U.S. Navy commissions the world's first nuclear submarine, the USS Nautilus.

• On Sept. 28, 1968, the Beatles' single "Hey Jude" hits the top of the charts. Paul McCartney wrote the song about the same time that John Lennon was divorcing his wife Cynthia. McCartney once claimed the song started out as "Hey, Jules," and was meant to console John and Cynthia's son, Julian.

• On Sept. 29, 1988, Stacy Allison of Portland, Ore., becomes the first American woman to reach the summit of Mount Everest, which at 29,035 feet above sea level is the highest point on earth. About two dozen climbers died in attempts to reach the top of Everest in the 20th century.

Our latest selection of pet books features strange-but-true cat tales, a great guide to pet cleanup and a cookbook for delicious dog biscuits.

In "Mews Items: Strange But True Cat Tales," by Allan Zullo and Mara Bovsun (Andrews McMeel Publishing, $9.95), you'll meet Car Cat, a kitten trapped in a block of ice; Pip, who got himself accidentally FedExed to the Midwest; and Duffy McNab, the king of ship's cats. These are just three of the book's true tales of felines falling into misfortune or adventure and landing feet first. It's an entertaining read and well worth the price.

"Pet Clean-Up Made Easy" by Don Aslett (Adams Media, $9.95) should be on every pet owner's shelf. This handy reference shows you which cleaners, deodorizers or other cleaning products to use when dealing with any pet mess. It also shows how to assemble a ready-to-use cleaning kit to tackle messes immediately.

And finally, I've received many requests from readers for homemade pet-food recipes. Instead of relying on my dubious cooking ability, let me recommend the "You Bake 'Em Dog Biscuits Cookbook" by Janine Adams (Running Press, $12.95). More than 50 recipes, including dietary and other special-needs treats, are offered up for you to bake and your pooch to enjoy.

So look up these three great books at your local bookstore or online. They'll be certain to keep you reading — when you're not trying out the recipes — all this fall!

Q. I have a pair of Satsuma vases that are at least 50 years old. I would like to know their value. — Sandra, Brattleboro, Vt.

A. Satsuma is pottery that was named for a warlord who brought skilled Korean potters to Japan during the 17th century. It is generally tin-glazed, finely crackled with a cream, yellow-cream or gray-cream color. Satsuma figurines were popular as exports during the Victorian era.

Two sources that might be helpful are Joseph Belperio, 1303 Hawthorne Court, Sewell, NJ 08080; and Bill Eberhardt, c/o Harry A. Everhardt & Son, 2010 Walnut St., Philadelphia, PA 19103.

Q. I have several pieces of milk glass manufactured by Fenton. Where can I get current values? — Marie, Fairfield Glade, Tenn.

A. One of the better groups is the National Fenton Glass Society, P.O. Box 4008, Marietta, OH 45750. Margaret Whitmyer has written two books about Fenton glass and is a nationally known collector. Write to her at K&M Antiques, P.O. Box 30806, Columbus, OH 43230.

I also recommend Warman's Fenton Glass by Mark F. Moran (Krause Publications, $24.99). It has current prices for more than 1,000 items, with histories, colors and designs of the various issues. This fascinating book is brimming with more than 800 illustrations, all in full color.

JROTC PROGRAM STARTS NEW YEAR RIGHT

The first ever Southern Garrett High School Leadership/Army Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC) Program is well under way. "With 30 highly motivated 'cadets' for this semester and 34 signed up for next semester, Southern Garrett's JROTC Program is steadily growing. The mission of JROTC is to motivate young people to be better citizens," said LTC (ret.) Jack Riley.

The JROTC Program teaches life skills that include leadership, responsibility, dependability, time management and organizational skills. However, it is not all classroom work; students participate in outdoor adventure training, parades and ceremonies, the JROTC Color Guard, and community service projects while earning awards and decorations.

The "Rams" Battalion JROTC Program is run by the Corps of Cadets. The first ever Cadet Battalion Command for the "Rams" Battalion is senior Cadet Lieutenant Colonel (C/LTC) Beeghly. "She is in command of the entire "Rams" Battalion and is doing a tremendous job," said Riley. The entire cadet leadership will be introduced in a later "Rams" update.

If you would like to be a part of this dynamic, structured, and disciplined organization, stop by and see either one of the JROTC nstructors, C/LTC Beeghly or a guidance counselor.

Donations Flee Maryland For Katrina Victims

by Christopher Stollar
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – Some Maryland charities have been receiving less money and supplies since Hurricane Katrina, and they are growing concerned that people's donations will continue to flow south.

"Everyone's dealing with poverty in Louisiana, but there's poverty in Baltimore," said Tobi Morris with the Franciscan Center. "Our needs won't stop, and poverty in Baltimore won't stop. We are praying that our donors will remember our daily work to the poor in Baltimore, as well as those suffering in the Gulf Coast."

The nonprofit's in-kind and cash donations were down 33 percent from last year, Morris said. She has watched fewer emergency items roll into the charity, which provides socks, shoes, T-shirts, and toothpaste to 1,600 men per month.

In' Howard County, a similar fear loomed at Toni Volk's Congregations Concerned for the Homeless Inc.

Volk helps 12 families, and she expected people to give less money – similar to what happened after the South Asian tsunami and the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

Some contributors and organizations that supported Volk's non-profit didn't donate as much, she said, and instead focused on the high-profile emergency needs, which resulted in a financial cut of 35 percent during each disaster.

"People become focused in one area," Volk said. "It's a logical course to take. Their pockets are only just so deep."

But Volk worried people will forget about Marylanders.

"You have homelessness right here," she said. "We have people living out of cars. Our needs are here, and they will remain here. You don't need a disaster to be homeless."

Or be without food.

Bill Ewing, director of the Maryland Food Bank, has seen a decrease of up to 30 percent in some supplies.

Ewing's non-profit became so focused on helping people on the Gulf Coast that he didn't even look at how that affected local operations until a reporter called Friday.

"My first reaction was, 'Let's just empty out the food bank and send it down there!'" he said. "These people are making choices not just between eating and not eating, but eating and living. We've been working so darn hard just to support the efforts that we did not look at what the consequences might be."

While some charities worried about the future, others remained confident in their donors.

Penny Baker, development assistant for Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, said summer is always a slow time for the non-profit, and she never saw a decrease after the tsunami or terrorist attacks.

"The people who are sending us money now really believe in our mission," Baker said. "They understand what we're doing here. People who are homebound and cannot afford to pay for their meals, they don't go away."

But Jon Rosa with the Make-A-Wish Foundation of the Mid-Atlantic Inc. said Marylanders must also think nationally.

"It's a tight time," he said. "It's difficult when things like this happen, but we have to step back and look at the greater good of the country."

"Westsylvania" Woman's History Program Slated

PAULA PURNELL

"Women of Westsylvania," a program of story and song, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 26, at the Folk Meeting House in Springs, Pa. The free program will be presented by Paula Purnell, Commonwealth Speaker for the Pennsylvania Humanities Council, and a musician and educator.

"The story of southwestern Pennsylvania, historically known as 'Westsylvania,' is marked by tough times, brutal conditions, and hard-won battles," Purnell said. "The women of Westsylvania stood side-by-side with men, often leading marches or attending union meetings at great personal risk. The program presents the stories of these amazing women and the songs honoring their heroism and tenacity."

Purnell is a songwriter and performer who specializes in the folk songs of previous generations. "Folk music gives us a window into another time," she said. "From these wonderful old songs, we can learn how people of long ago interacted with each other, their environment, and the world at large."

Purnell holds a master's degree in elementary education from Seton Hill University, and is the winner of the Parent's Choice Gold and Silver awards for Original Children's albums. She is the outreach artist for the Pittsburgh Children's Museum and the Children's Institute of Pittsburgh, and is co-founder of Mainstreet Music and the Family Arts Theater.

The presentation is a program of the Pennsylvania Humanities Council, supported in part by a grant from the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, and is sponsored by the Springs Historical Society.

The program will be presented in the Folk Meeting House on Springs Rd., Rt. 669 in Springs. For further information persons may call 814-662-4366.

Flowery Vale Fitness Center

Active Aging Week
September 26-October 3

To address the continuing high rates of inactivity among older adults, the ICAA and the U.S. Administration on Aging teamed up to start Active Aging Week. This year marks the third year of the Active Aging Week, which heightens the awareness of the health benefits gained from physical activity and healthy eating habits among older adults. This initiative also increases opportunities for adults in this age group to adopt physically active lifestyles. During this national health observance, Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center will open the doors to older adults ages 50 and older, offering free group fitness classes, educational sessions, and much more.

Open House
Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center
Monday, Oct. 3
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Come celebrate Active Aging Week and also celebrate the anniversary of our fourth year of operation. There will be: exercise demonstrations, tours of the facility, free exercise classes, educational sessions, light refreshments, door prizes, and more .

Please call 301-746-8050 for more information about this event.

10 Ways to Jump Start Your Workout!

Just visiting the gym each day and going through the motions is not going to give you the results that you dream about. It is important to switch up your routine from time to time, to keep your body guessing. Here are 10 ways to break the boredom and actually see a difference:

•Up the intensity. Increasing your usual pace will help you avoid hitting a plateau. For example, run an extra 5 minutes each day, increase the incline on the treadmill, or increase your speed a little.

•Quality over quantity. Exercise less, but with more effort and better technique.

•Hire a personal trainer. Concentrate on what you are doing now and let your trainer think of what's next. It will also keep things new and fun.

•Eat clean and drink water. Your body needs lean proteins, complex carbohydrates, and tons of water to feel energized and for the repair of damaged muscles.

•Use mind and body training. Really concentrate on each muscle contracting for better results.

•Concentrate on breathing. When lifting weights, exhale on the exertion phase of the lift.

•Get a gym buddy. You will go more if you have a gym partner relying on you.

•Work out at the best time for you. Figure out when your energy level is the highest and hit the gym at that time.

•Use a heart rate monitor. Gauge how hard you are working and stay within your target zone.

•Listen to music. For a boost, play your favorite tunes on your iPod or Walkman during exercise.

Lander Named College Scholar At Elizabethtown

Heather Lander of Accident has been named a College Scholar at Elizabethtown College, located in central Pennsylvania. A junior, Lander is majoring in political science.

A College Scholar is a currently enrolled full-time student who, having completed at least 60 credits in consecutive semesters of full-time study at Elizabethtown, has achieved a cumulative grade point average of 3.75 or higher.

Scholars are identified at the end of the spring term and are recognized at Convocation at the beginning of the following academic year.

Three Northern Graduates Earn AP Scholar Award

Three graduates of Northern Garrett High School, Margaret Mastej, John Maxim, and Scott Pusateri, have earned the designation of AP Scholar by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Program (AP) Exams. They qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP examinations, with grades of 3 or higher.

The College Board's Advanced Placement Program offers students the opportunity to take challenging college-level courses while still in high school, and to receive college credit, advanced placement, or both for successful performance on the AP Exams. Almost 18 percent of the more than 1 million high school students in more than 15,000 secondary schools worldwide who took AP exams performed at a sufficiently high level to merit the recognition of AP Scholar.

Students took AP exams in May 2005 after completing challenging college-level courses at their high schools. The College Board recognizes several levels of achievement based on students' performance on AP exams.

Most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit, advanced placement, or both based on successful performance on the AP exams. More than 1,400 institutions award a full-year's credit (sophomore standing) to students presenting a sufficient number of qualifying grades.

In 2005, 34 AP exams were offered in a wide variety of subject areas, each consisting of multiple-choice and free-response (essay or problem-solving) questions (except for the Studio Art exam which evaluates students' original artwork).

DCL VOTED TOP GETAWAY – Add the moniker "Favorite Weekend Getaway" to the descriptors of Deep Creek Lake, courtesy of the readers of the Daily American, a daily newspaper that covers several nearby Pennsylvania counties. "We're proud that our neighboring communities view our region as a special getaway destination," commented Karen Reckner, director of special events and training for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. The pictured crystal trophy awarded to the vacation spot is on display in the chamber board's meeting room at the Visitors Center in McHenry. "Obviously many people in Somerset County, Pa., and the surrounding region enjoy visiting the Deep Creek Lake area," said chamber president Charlie Ross. "I hope they continue to come back and discover how much more Garrett County has to offer."

SWANTON NEWS

The Apple Harvest will be held October 1 and 2 at Burlington Children's Home. Help is needed this Saturday, Sept. 24, to get apples ready for butter making on Monday. Swanton Otterbein's work day as a church is Thursday, Sept. 29. Those going will carpool from the church.

Otterbein United Methodist Church is still collecting money to help Katrina hurricane victims until the end of this month, when money will be sent to UMCOR (United Methodist Committee on Relief).

Homecoming at Otterbein was held Sunday, with a Christian group called United providing the singing for the afternoon service. Members are Jamie Carter, Todd Miller, Dana Branson, and Laura Becker Groves, all from West Virginia.

The older folks were honored and given a gift. The oldest man present was Orval Teets, who turned 84 yesterday. The oldest woman present was Mary Brown, 93, and there were eight women 80 and over present. Longest married were Orval and Mareva Teets with 64 years. Everyone present was given a book mark ribbon and small gift.

Modena Turney, Westminster, and her daughter Lisa were among those attending the homecoming at Otterbein U.M. Church on Sunday. They returned home Sunday evening.

Fish Fry, Pie Sale Planned In Grantsville

Three Different Types of Pink Eye

The most obvious symptom of pink eye is exactly that - the pink or red color is due to inflammation. The eye may also hurt or itch. How the eye feels will sometimes give clues as to which type of infection is present. Bacterial conjunctivitis normally affects both eyes and causes a heavy discharge, sometimes greenish. Viral conjunctivitis usually affects only one eye and causes excessive eye watering and a light discharge. Allergic conjunctivitis affects both eyes and causes itching and redness in the eyes and sometimes the nose, as well as excessive tearing.

Both viral and bacterial conjunctivitis spread easily to others. Tips to help control pink eye include washing your hands frequently, and avoid touching or rubbing your eyes. Don't share washcloths, towels or pillowcases with anyone else, and wash these items after each use. Don't share eye drops or cosmetics such as eyeliner, eye shadow or mascara. To avoid re-infection, replace the cosmetics after you're healed. Your optometrist may recommend that you discontinue contact lens wear during this time or replace your contact lenses after you're healed. See your doctor for a diagnosis before using any eye drops in your medicine cabinet from previous infections or eye problems.

Annual Springs Festival To Be Held Oct. 7-8

The 48th annual Springs Folk Festival will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7 and 8, in Springs, Pa. The purpose of the festival is to preserve and accurately portray the arts and crafts of pioneers and mountain folk, according to its sponsor, the Springs Historical Society of the Casselman Valley.

More than 140 artisans will demonstrate their crafts during the event. Visitors will observe bread baking in a unique outdoor oven, apple butter simmering in large open kettles, artists painting, weavers making warm garments for the coming winter, quilting, candle dipping, rug making, woodworking, and more.

Along the trail through the woods will also be sheep shearing, muzzle loading, weaving, spinning, musical performances, and more.

The art of log hewing, railsplitting, and grain flailing will be demonstrated by the "old timers." Antique farm equipment, including a steam engine powered shingle making equipment and an old-time hay baler, will also be in operation.

Music programs, including blue grass and gospel, will be performed throughout the two-day festival. A pageant depicting life in the area in the 1800s and early 1900s will be presented by local talent both afternoons, with a special performance on Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. These programs will be presented in the music building, located on the festival grounds.

Also located on the grounds is the Springs Museum. Festival goers will be able to view thousands of local artifacts and documents and learn more about the life of early settlers in the 1750s, the religious history of the Casselman Valley, folk art carvings, early American home furnishings, and the tools used in make a living in the area.

A Pennsylvania Dutch dinner will be served in the Folk Meeting House, located near the museum. Home-made funnel cakes, doughnuts, ice cream, bread and apple butter, and hand-rolled pretzels baked on the premises will also be available for purchase at various locations on the festival grounds.

The festival hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Admission is $5 for adults, $2 for children 6 to 18 years, and free for children under 6. The price includes admission to the demonstration grounds, music building, craft building, and Springs Museum.

The festival grounds are located along Rt. 669 (Springs Road) between Salisbury, Pa., and Grantsville. For more information, persons may call 814-662-4158 or visit online at springspa.org.

Management Matrix Course Slated At GC

A course titled "Management Matrix" has been slated from 6 to 8:30 p.m. over six consecutive Wednesday evenings, Oct. 12 through Nov. 16, at Garrett College. The matrix focuses on six key elements, according to course instructor Michael Pellet – time, money, communication, quality, information, and growth.

"Managers and supervisors are constantly juggling multiple priorities," Pellet said. "The course will give supervisors the opportunity to discover proven tools to help them succeed in managerial duties."

The sessions will examine and discuss case studies and examples, providing information of use to new supervisors and managers, as well as experienced individuals who desire a refresher. Pellet suggests that two or more people from the same organization enroll in the course to maximize its benefits.

To register or obtain more information, persons may call the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College at 301-387-3069, or e-mail program director Julie Yoder at jyoder@garrettcollege.edu.

MOUNTAIN HERB SHOP

Mountain Herb Shop, which is located between Routes 219 and 135 on Smith Drive off Broadford Road, carries a full line of bulk herbs, vitamins, minerals, and supplements. The store also carries an array of herbal teas, tinctures, books, skin and beauty products, and a special section for children and general health, according to owner Sue Smith.

Hard-to-find herbs are available, plus all the new products that are advertised on television and on newspapers, such as the hoodia cactus for weight loss that is "sweeping the nation," said Smith. She also carries virgin coconut oil for healthy metabolic function.

Muscle response testing and nutritional consultation are also available upon request.

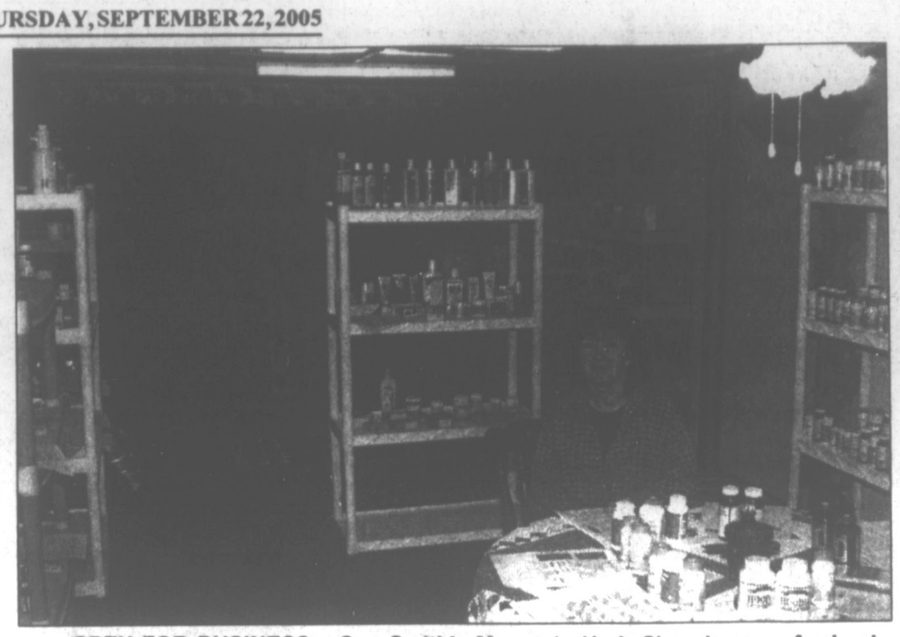
"Mountain Herb Shop hasn't forgotten man's best friend either," said Smith. The store carries a complete line of herbal formulas and supplements for cats and dogs. Hund-n-flocken pet foods are also available, which help maintain the animals' health. The brand also helps with chronic conditions, hot spots, itching, and "keeps your furry friend happy and healthy," said Smith.

Smith has worked in and used herbs for more than 25 years.

She said she hopes to expand the store in the future with a line of natural and organic foods.

"Whether you are looking for a specific herb or formula, or would like to browse and learn more about herbs' healing powers, the store is open daily Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.," said Smith.

She added that persons needing help finding the store or with a health issue may call the shop at 301-334-4991 and ask for Sue.



OPEN FOR BUSINESS – Sue Smith's Mountain Herb Shop is open for business and is located between Routes 219 and 135 on Smith Drive off Broadford Road. The store carries a full line of bulk herbs, vitamins, minerals, and supplements, as well as a wide array of various other items. See story.

State, Federal Health Officials To Stagger Flu Shots To Avoid Shortage

by Jacqueline Ruttimann
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON - Maryland public health officials are trying to stave off any scramble for flu shots this year by following federal guidelines to provide the vaccine first to those who need it most.

Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Director Dr. Julie Gerberding said this week there is an "optimistic outlook" as to the number of available flu vaccines this year, but she cautioned against the nation developing a false sense of security.

Gerberding, in a national news conference, called for voluntary, tiered scheduling of immunizations so that high-priority groups receive vaccines first, with other groups to follow after Oct. 24.

"We can never be 100 percent certain about how many doses we are going to have," said Gerberding. "This year we want to make sure that we get vaccines to the people that need it the most."

High-priority groups include adults age 65 or older, children age 6 to 23 months, patients with chronic health conditions, employees of health care facilities, and pregnant women. Hurricane Katrina victims living in crowded shelters have also been made a high-priority group.

According to the CDC, the nation's four flu vaccine providers, Sanofi Pasteur Inc., Chiron Corp., GlaxoSmithKline PLC, and Gaithersburg-based MedImmune Inc. are projected this year to produce 71 million to 97 million doses of the three injectable vaccines — Fluzone, Fluvirin and Fluarix — and the live, viral nasal spray vaccine FluMist.

Last year, British regulators prohibited Chiron Corp. from shipping its Fluvirin vaccine because it was contaminated, leaving the United States with less than half of its expected flu vaccine and in a national panic.

Despite last year's shortage, most counties ended up receiving more vaccines than they originally ordered through sharing among the counties, private donations and state supplies. Montgomery County, for example, ordered 2,000 doses last year and initially ended up with only 700-800 doses, causing the county to do its first-ever flu lottery for high-risk victims, said Carol Jordan, director of communicable disease and epidemiology for the Montgomery County Department of Health and Human Services. An unexpected 21,680 people registered, causing officials to screen callers for four days straight. Eventually, about 4,400 dosages were finally given out after to reallocation.

"Whenever there is a word of shortage or a delay, you're always going to get an overwhelming response," said Jordan.

Maryland county officials report they don't anticipate a shortage problem this flu season.

Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Chief of Clinical Epidemiology Dr. Jeffrey Roche cautioned that "not all vaccines might be ready at the beginning of the season" and that it might "take months" for all shipments to arrive.

Based on CDC projections, Roche said Maryland should "have enough vaccine to cover historical demand and possibly have enough for a small surplus."

Popularly known as "the flu," influenza, characterized by a high fever, chills, dry cough, headache, runny nose, sore throat, and muscle and joint pain is one of the most severe viral respiratory illnesses occurring during winter. CDC figures show flu annually contributes to 36,000 deaths and 200,000 hospitalizations in the United States.

The vaccines provide three to four months protection — the duration of the peak flu season, which typically runs from November to February. It takes two weeks upon receiving the shot to form immunity.

Recommended Computer Books Now On Display

Members of the community are welcome to review and comment on these materials. The program of studies and textbooks will be available weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. through Monday, Oct. 10.

Driver Arrested For DUI Early Friday Morning

A Baltimore woman was arrested for drunk driving early Friday morning after police stopped her vehicle on Garrett Highway near Trader's Landing, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The vehicle driven by Sabrina Michelle Green, 22, was observed speeding and failed to stop at a stop sign. She failed field sobriety tests. Gregg was arrested and charged with driving under the influence (DUI), DUI per se, and driving while impaired. She was later released, police said.

Real Estate Facts by...
Jeff Hovis
PRETTY AS A PICTURE!
You already know that a real estate agent usually accompanies the most serious buyers when they go to look at homes for a potential purchase. But if you're planning to list your home in the upcoming months, here's a sobering statistic: 70 percent of buyers view and compare pictures online before deciding which homes they would like to visit.
While they say one shouldn't judge a book by its cover, it's a sure bet that those buyers are doing just that. So what can you do to improve your chances of being selected for a closer look? Go out and take a picture!
Now take an objective look. Are the shrubs neatly manicured? Is the lawn mowed and are the edges trimmed? Are there some eye-catching landscape elements? Is the exterior pressure-washed, painted and sparkling? Is the front porch and entry inviting?
If you still have to make some cosmetic improvements that will be noticed once a buyer is already inside your home, there is always an opportunity to offer an explanation or to assuage concerns. These days, however, you may not ever get the chance if you don't offer stunning "curb appeal."
Before listing, have a real estate agent perform a "walk-through" and take photos of the exterior. Follow suggestions for improvements, and you'll soon be enjoying many visits from potential buyers and then a "picture perfect" sale!
If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

There is one big difference watching a football game at Northern High School and one at Byrd Stadium in College Park. I used to practically freeze to death as a member of Northern's marching band. It is tough to play a clarinet with gloves on as the autumn evenings often were pretty chilly. But in College Park last Saturday, even though it was September, the weather was steamy.

It is always a big game for a lot of Bittinger folks between West Virginia University and University of Maryland. Some of Northern's alumni who are now in school at WVU and a bunch of their friends traveled down to College Park to attend the game and visit with their friends and relatives. Rodney Glotfelty and his twins and Scotty Bass planned to sit behind the Maryland band, hoping to see Robbie with his tuba. Of course, I only caught the action on television, but still I searched the crowd for a clump wearing blue in the middle of the Terp fans.

Claire and Jason Thomas and friends planned to hook up with Claire's cousins, Matthew Bass and Blakely Glotfelty, to watch the game. Lynn and Carol Newman and son, Grantsville, Edward Herpel, and Emma Bass planned to go down to root for Maryland. I assume since there is no answer at the Southerly home means they are, as usual, attending the game as West Virginia fans. Their son Landon, a student at St. Mary's College in southern Maryland, planned to meet up at the game. The Southerlys were weekend guests of Sheila's cousins in College Park. Rodney, Scott, and Brooks DuBose were Saturday night guests of the Bulkas in Columbia.

You can hope to spot a familiar face in the crowd of 52,000 on TV, but it is pretty unlikely. I did hear the band clearly, but they only showed the Mountaineers' band.

For me it is almost hopeless to keep track of what is going on in the field. Football is just not my game, but I can follow baseball and basketball. The one football game during my years at college is the one when I picked up some spending money by roaming the stands carrying a heavy tray of Coke to sell. It was a tough job, but I earned about 15 dollars, which was a big deal in those days.

The game on Saturday was not good news for Maryland fans. It is a very small consolation that Claire and her friends are happy. My Meredith scowled at the game while watching in her Maryland Terrapin throw, while Caitlin cuddled up with her stuffed turtle named Gary Williams by my girls in honor of our basketball coach.

Later on Saturday afternoon I took a trip back into my past, and it made me cry as the movie Carousel took me back to my days in the back stage at the University of Maryland theater with other people I loved there. The song "If I Loved You" still reminded me of a lost love backstage, and the professor wouldn't allow bad feelings between Danny and me. At least we remained friends. The other song from that show that had special meaning to me was, "You'll never walk alone." I am walking in a storm now and I am trying to believe maybe at the end of the storm there will be a golden sunshine, that I can walk with my head held high and that I will never walk alone. Anything to give me a tiny glimmer of hope that I still cling to. I still hope once again after bad times a better day will come, as it always has during my 50 some years. My heart has broken many times, but I always somehow patched it up, so why not try to do it again? I wish I could think I could be even half as happy as I was most of my life. I am afraid the best I can hope for, as I fell down today, is that I will be able to get up and walk on.

I am sorry to admit I decided not to go to the Glotfelty cousins' picnic at Fort Frederick, even though it was one of the highlights of the year during my childhood days. I used to love to get together with my downstate cousins, to explore the beautiful old stone fort, play some baseball, swing on some unusual wooden horse swings, and seesaw on the playground area. Among the crowd this year were three sets of twins–Rodney and Marci's Darryl and Elliot, a pair of grandchildren of Alberta and Paul Nolder of Baltimore, and another set of 1-year-old babies whose grandmother was Marian Walsh of Salisbury. According to my mother Ruth, the little ones were adorable. Of course, little babies are always the "apple of everybody's eyes."

Ruth accompanied Carol and Emma Bass, in addition to Rodney, Darryl, and Elliot, Scott Bass, and Brooks DuBose, who stopped on the way back from Saturday's game. Our Eastern Shore relatives were well represented, and included Nancy Walsh, Marian's granddaughter, who during the summers used to visit our farm for several weeks. She was only about 6 when visiting our farm. We entered her in a lead line class riding sidesaddle. She was pretty cute riding sidesaddle on a very fat pony, Patches.

A fun feature of the horse show when I was young was the Costume Class. Carol was dressed in tin foil with a coat of arms shield and a lance, and little Scott was being led around as a captured, fierce dragon.

Speaking of scales, Sheila Southerly reported the sighting of several rattlesnakes around our "neck of the woods." Shane Buckel spotted one back at the beaver dam, and his father Denny ran over one at the Rock Lodge spring. To Sheila and me, the only good rattlesnake is a dead one. In fact, I hate all kinds of snakes.

Sheila heard that lots of people saw an unusual number in their yards this summer. I know that the rattlesnakes desert their mountain dens to look for water during a dry season like this summer.

The pack of coyotes hanging around the Peat Bog keep the Southerlys awake during the night. They also hear noises from a bunch of Department of Natural Resources bear dogs on a training mission in prime bear country. DNR does not train them to help hunters, but rather to track down bears for monitoring the positions of our bear population.

I was right about the Southerlys, as they did go to the game on Saturday. During their pregame tailgate party with Sheila's friends from the metro area, they were surprised to see some Garrett County friends from WVU also dressed in blue–Jason Thomas, Preston Sisler, Remington Friend, and my Claire and her roommate Frankie.

With the approaching of the first day of fall, you do not need a calendar to tell you that summer is over. Even though we occasionally get some hot days, our evenings and nights are cool enough that I had to turn on my furnace recently. My girls still like to dress for summer, no matter what season it is. When they are wearing flip-flops, I feel like wearing wool socks. I saw many falling leaves, even though still green, and yet falling.

No one reported any local news so I guess this is it for this week.

State Park Programs

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled for this week at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Further information can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Daily: Monarch Tagging (call for times) – A naturalist will explain the life cycle of monarch butterflies, then will "tag" a butterfly to keep track of its movements on the way to Mexico (30 mins; program dependent upon availability of newly hatched butterflies).

•Fri. 9/23: 8 a.m. – Let's Go Birding – Discover local breeding birds with one of Garrett County's most avid birders, learn how to bird by ear, and listen for distinctive songs on a birding hike (90 mins.; bring binoculars).

•Sat. 9/24: 1:30 p.m. – Scales & Tales campfire program – Meet some live birds of prey and scaled critters and hear their stories to appreciate the splendor of Maryland's wildlife (1 hr.; meet in the aviary; bring a blanket or folding chair).

•Sun. 9/25: 10:30 a.m. – Got Cavities? – A guided hike in search of animal cavities, nests, and dens (45 mins.); 1:30 a.m. – Historic Brant Mine Hike – Participants will hike along Meadow Mountain to visit an old 1920s mine site (90 mins.; wear appropriate footwear for the rocky trail).

Addison Group To Present Annual "Apparitions" Tour

The Old Petersburg/Addison Historical Society will present its annual Addison Apparitions Walking Tour on Sunday, Oct. 2, from 1 until 4:30 p.m. in Addison, Pa.

As in previous tours, participants will stop at various points of interest in the village, learning about its history from costumed performers portraying some of Addison's most notable citizens from the past.

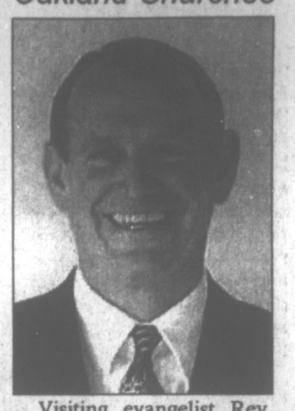
"We have a new cast of characters eager to share their stories with you," said a society spokesperson.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $3 for children ages 6 to 12, and free for those under 6 years.

New this year will be "car boot" sales in the Addison Methodist Church parking lot from noon until 5 p.m. Food will also be available for purchase at the church.

For more information, persons may call 814-395-5584.

Evangelist Set To Visit Friendsville, Oakland Churches



Visiting evangelist Rev. Tom Harmon will be speaking at churches in the Friendsville area and in Oakland during special services beginning tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 23.

Harmon speak at 7 p.m. services tomorrow and Saturday, Sept. 23-24, at the Sand Spring Church of God, located along the Fearer Road between Friendsville and Markleysburg, Pa. For more information on these services, persons may call Pastor Nevin Umbel at 301-746-5675.

Harmon will also speak at 6:30 p.m. services scheduled Sunday through Wednesday, Sept. 25-28, at Pleasant View Baptist Church, located along Garrett Highway south of Oakland, For information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-8515.

Harmon and his wife Joyce have traveled across the nation for the past 17 years speaking at churches, camps, and conferences. The Michigan native is a former Michigan State Police trooper who resigned from the force after 11 years of service to go into the ministry. He pastored a small church in the Lansing, Mich., area before becoming a full-time traveling evangelist.

75% Of Acreage In Compliance With Regulations

Nutrient management plans aimed at protecting waterways from excess crop fertilizers and animal wastes are now being used on more than 75 percent of Maryland's farmland, or 1.15 million acres, according to the Maryland Department of Agriculture. Enforcement procedures to bring farmers managing the remaining 25 percent of the farm acreage into compliance with Maryland's nutrient management regulations are under way.

"Maryland farmers have done an outstanding job of bringing their farms into compliance under the regulatory improvements recommended by farmers and other stakeholders, and passed last year by Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. and the General Assembly," said Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley. "We continue to work cooperatively with the remaining farm operators to bring them into compliance and further protect water quality in our streams, rivers, and the Chesapeake Bay."

Earlier this summer, MDA began mailing enforcement letters requesting a site visit with farmers who have not submitted their nutrient management plans. Following the site visits, which are ongoing, farm operators who are found to be out of compliance with the law are required to work with MDA inspectors to obtain and implement their plans.

"We are proceeding very deliberately to determine whether or not properties are truly out of compliance before we begin the enforcement process," said MDA assistant secretary for resource conservation Doug Scott. "We are finding some instances in which rented farmland is already covered under another plan and others for which a plan is not required on the operation in question; however, most farmers found to be out of compliance are cooperating fully with our inspectors to develop and implement nutrient management plans for their operations."

Farmers who fail to respond to the enforcement letters during the prescribed time frame face additional enforcement actions. The process begins with an official warning from MDA as required by law, and could result in penalties and fines of up to $2,250 a year. Extreme cases will be turned over to the Maryland Department of the Environment, which has authority to levy additional fines of up to $10,000 per day for non-compliance with Maryland's water quality laws.

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 requires farmers with gross annual incomes of $2,500 or more or livestock operations with 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight to manage their farms using plans that address both nitrogen and phosphorus inputs. The program has been implemented in phases since 1999. In 2004, regulations were changed to make the program more effective at protecting water quality and to ease the regulatory burden on farmers by removing a right of entry clause, reducing paperwork requirements, and certifying more farmers to write their own nutrient management plans.

A variety of incentive programs are available to help farmers comply with the law. Farmers can apply for cost-share funds to hire a certified nutrient management consultant to prepare their plans through the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share (MACS) Program. Cost-share funding is also available through MACS to help farmers transport excess manure identified by their nutrient management plan off their farm. Additionally, a two-day Farmer Training and Certification Program has been established that enables farmers to become certified to write nutrient management plans for their own operations.

Sept. 18-24 Is 62nd Annual Farm Safety Wk.

The week of Sept. 18 through 24 marks the 62nd Farm Safety Week, as proclaimed by United States presidents. The tradition dates back to Franklin D. Roosevelt, who signed the first proclamation.

"The week draws attention to the difficult and often dangerous work that farmers do to produce the world's safest and most abundant food and fiber. It's also a time to encourage everyone to do their part to make farms safer and rural communities healthier," a National Safety Council spokesperson said.

"Harvesting Safety and Health" is this year's theme. It emphasizes the importance of increased safety awareness and the "harvest" of these efforts — protecting the lives and livelihood of farmers and their families and employees. The National Safety Council sponsors this event each year and refers to agriculture as still being one of the most hazardous occupations in the United States.

For more information on National Farm Safety & Health Week, persons may visit the National Safety Council at www.nsc.org/necas.

A FAMILIAR SIGHT at this time of year is a farm tractor traveling to and from the fields on the road. Motorists are reminded to be on the lookout for slow-moving vehicles, and to be patient and wait until passing is safe. Bob Kamp is pictured above with his tractor at Kamp Farms along Chestnut Ridge Road in Grantsville. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

National Safety Council Notes Road Guidelines

Harvest season means an increase in farm machinery traffic on rural highways. As farmers and ranchers rush to meet harvest deadlines, vehicles and farm machinery can create a lethal mix on the road. The National Safety Council notes the following guidelines:

- If farm equipment operates at less than 25 miles per hour, a slow-moving emblem clearly visible from the rear should be displayed.
- Flashing hazard lights warn other vehicles about wide loads and frequent turns.

AURORA/EGLON

BARN DANCE

The Aurora Barn Dance in Aurora, W.Va., will take place at the Brookside Farm located behind Cathedral State Park on Saturday evening, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m., rain or shine. "Born Old" featuring Doug Van Gundy and Paul Gartner, and accompanied by a caller, will play traditional Appalachian music, ballads, and banjo tunes. Those who wish are invited to stay for a jam session after the performance, and may bring an instrument and join in.

The tickets, which include music, food, and refreshments, are $10 per person and are available at the door. The funds raised will benefit the Aurora Project's facilities and programs. Donations will also be accepted and there will be a raffle for a Volkmar Wentzel photograph. Cider will also be offered for sale, but for a quantity. Persons are asked to bring a container.

This fundraiser of Aurora Project Inc., which is working to restore the six buildings of the former Brookside Hotel into an Artist's Residency Program plus other projects, was first held last year. For further information, persons may contact Michelle Moure at 304-735-3620 or email: auroraproject@frontiernet.net.

TEXAS SING

An annual sing gets underway at 1:15 p.m. this Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Texas Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run. All are invited.

80TH BIRTHDAY

Lois Teets Adams of Aurora will be guest of honor Sunday at the Union Ambulance squad hall in Aurora when an open house from 2 until 4 p.m. will be held for her birthday. The family invites everyone who knows her to come and join in wishing her well, but asks that there be no gifts. Cards would be appreciated.

FUN NIGHT

The Aurora Charge United Methodist churches are planning a fun night from 4 until 8 p.m. at the Amboy Church on Oct. 8

MOUNTAINEER 4-H

Members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club met to close out the old year on Sept. 15. "Childhood Verses" was the theme of the devotions read by Caitlin Norwish. Cody Hardesty led the group in the pledges.

A citizenship program about the history and facts of The Star Spangled Banner was presented by leader Linda Lewis. Caitlin Norwish demonstrated how to make ironed bead designs and the group made some of their own.

Upcoming events were discussed. National 4-H Week is Oct. 2-8 and club members will wear shirts or make signs to wear in school on Oct. 4 to celebrate the event. County 4-H Report Forms are due Sept. 26. Kaitlyn Schalker designed a notebook cover for the secretary's reports. The club will serve the Mt. Lions Club on Oct. 6. On Oct. 22, Garrett County 4-H has planned an event at its camp near Bittinger, Md. October 8 is a new event for Preston County 4-H, when a fall field day will be held at the county 4-H camp.

New enrollment cards were previewed and are requested to be returned by Sept. 23 to Linda Lewis.

Election of officers resulted in the following slate: president, Debbie Collins; vice-president, Caitlin Roth; secretary, Kaitlyn Schalker; treasurer, Jesse Schalker; reporter, Nathan Cussins; song leaders, Jonathan Blamble and Trevor Spaid; and recreation leaders, Cody Hardesty and Chad Vandevender. County Officer Training and Achievement will be held Nov. 6 at Preston High School. An executive committee meeting to plan for the upcoming 4-H year will be held Oct. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Eglon Memorial Building.

The next regular meeting will be Oct. 10, with each member asked to make a Halloween dessert to be judged.

Kaitlyn Schalker gave her gold ribbon speech, titled "On the Spot," about the importance of giving blood.

PERSONAL MENTION

Douglas Rumer was able to return to his home at Amboy Sunday following treatment at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Carl and Shirley Lee of Oklahoma were recent visitors in Aurora with his sister and brother-in-law, Delores and David Stemple. They also visited other members before returning home.

Hancell and Mildred Teets of Aurora were in Shepherdstown Saturday to attend the wedding reception of friends of their grandmother's.

David and Wilma Mae Teets of Horse Shoe Run visited Friday to Sunday in Pittsburgh with Mrs. Teets' sister, Eileen Rembold. While there, they all attended an organ concert.

Ranelda Frazee Thomas is at home at 22 Foreman Avenue, Uniontown, PA 15401. This former Aurora Elementary instructor is ill and will appreciate cards.

Also ill is former Lantz Ridge resident Lois Knight. Cards may be sent to her at: Community Medical Center, Rm. 240, 2827 Fort Missoula Road, Missoula, MT 59804.

Carl Winters of Manassas, Va., spent Saturday afternoon with his parents, Claude and Jean Winters, Eglon.

The Rev. Glenn Nissly, co-pastor at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, was admitted Friday to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he is undergoing tests.

POTOMAC HIGHLANDS U.M. WOMEN MEET

The fall meeting of the Potomac Highlands District United Methodist Women was held Sept. 17 at the Aurora United Methodist Church, with 75 in attendance. Theme for the day was "Our World Through Study" and guest speakers were retired missionaries Dr. Chuck and Pearl Arnett who had worked in Nigeria. Special music was presented by Rita Harsh of Amboy.

CLASS OF 1960 HAS REUNION

The 45th anniversary reunion of the class of 1960, Aurora High School, was held July 16 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

Those attending were James and Delores Slawter, Stephen and Sue Hauser, Thomas Wotring, Terry and Phyllis Vandevender, Bernard and Carolyn Ball, and Frank and Wilda Harsh Blamble, all local; Carolyn Shaffer Spencer of Hubert, N.C.; Mary Wotring Delaney of Horse Shoe Run; Jerry and Barbara Hauser, and Ronald and Patricia Martin Stemple, all Oakland; Linda Sisler Terrant, Terra Alta; Lowell and Georgia Parsons, Belmont; Lawrence and Kim Hauser, Blissfield, Mich.; and teachers Virginia Martin and Martha Bolyard, both of Aurora.

"Smiley Faces" was the theme for the reunion. Patricia Stemple had the lucky plate and won a homemade doily. Lawrence Hauser traveled the farthest to attend. Guessing games and questions about Smiley Faces were asked, and the winners awarded prizes. The teachers received a special key chain. The class also had a moment of silence to honor the memory of deceased classmates Betty Martin Baker and Ralph "Junior" Bolyard.

The next reunion will be July 21, 2007, at Tom Wotring's farm.

TERRA ALTA SUBWAY RECEIVES AWARD – The Terra Alta Subway has received another High Sales Award from Subway corporate headquarters, along with the area's highest recognition in cleanliness, sales, and service, according to a spokesperson for the local sandwich shop. This is the second sales award that the sandwich shop has been given this summer. Terra Alta Subway has also received many secret shopper awards from the corporate headquarters, along with cash bonuses for the employees who were awarded. The shop is planning a celebration and special customer appreciation event in the near future in honor of these awards, according the spokesperson. Pictured, left to right, with the High Sales Award are manager Judy Sines and assistant manager Nicole Wiles.

UNITED JOINS BURLINGTON FEST LINEUP – The Christian Contemporary vocal group "United," will perform at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 2, at the annual Burlington Apple Harvest Festival. United's members, shown from the left, are Jamie Carter of Romney, Dana Branson of Inwood, Laura Becker Groves of Keyser, and Todd Michael Miller of Burlington. For information, persons may call 304-788-6755.

TERRA ALTA NEWS

WING NIGHTS

Moose Lodge wing nights will be Friday, Sept. 23 and October 7. Many varieties will be available, for eating in or carrying out, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Poker Run to benefit Chad Armstrong was deemed "a tremendous success," raising $1,030 though registrations, donations, silent auction, and 50/50 drawing. A total of 43 bikers and passengers attended.

The Grafton Lodge will be sponsoring one in October to benefit a young lady with cancer. The last one held by Terra Alta Moose Lodge netted $1,160 to help Megan Lantz.

HOLDS OPEN HOUSE

The Terra Alta Wellness Association had a big response from the community for the open house of the Wellness Center on Saturday. Nearly 30 people toured the various areas offering health information. Mary Ann Whitehair had a display with information on calcium and other subjects. Karen Bright with W.Va. Extension Office in Kingwood was there with handouts and a display area showing the amount of sugar, salt, and fats in some common foods.

Jennifer Mills from Monongalia General Hospital had a display with information on men's and women's health check-ups. She also gave away some pedometers, sun screen, and information on women's health and infant care.

Kathy Rosa had a display on a new faith-based weight loss program called Losing Winners. This program is sponsored by the TAWA, and will start with classes this week at the wellness center.

There was also a "Cookin' Up Health" display with cook books from the WVU Community Health Initiatives program. The Terra Alta Wellness Association had a display board of sponsored activities over the past year.

New weight-loss classes started this week at the Terra Alta Wellness Center. Registration is from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays each week. For more information, persons may telephone Kathy Rosa at 304-789-2784, or the Wellness Center.

VFW DINNER

The VFW is having a buckwheat cake and sausage dinner this Friday, Sept. 23, from 5 to 9 p.m. Karaoke nights are going to be held Saturday, Sept. 24, and Oct. 1, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

LIBRARY NEWS

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security and the American Red Cross have announced that they will co-sponsor National Preparedness Month 2005, a nationwide effort held this September to encourage Americans to take simple steps to prepare for emergencies in their homes, businesses, and schools. The goal is to increase public awareness about the importance of preparing for emergencies and to encourage individuals to take action. There is a table display in the library to remind all families of what to have on hand or pack in case of an emergency.

Another display in the library is for literacy. Governor Manchin proclaimed September as West Virginia Literacy Month. According to a spokesperson for the governor's office, more than 280,000 of West Virginia's adults experience literacy issues that impact severely their lives and families, their ability to work productively, and their full participation as citizens and residents of the state. The theme for the month is: Literacy is the Movement from Dark to Light.

Patrons recently donating books, periodicals, pamphlets, and/or puzzles include: Albert Ossman, Cindy Cramer, Kathy Lewis, Molly Vick, Brian Schoolcraft, Lori Gage, Cheryl Seeders, Connie Mason, Hal Argle, Lawrence Sypolt, and James Hart.

RIBBON-CUTTING

The playground ribbon-cutting ceremony will be held the morning of Saturday, Oct. 1. Persons may call Town Hall for the specific time.

Local Church To Serve Buckwheat Cakes All Day

The Women's Society of Terra Alta First United Methodist Church will hold an all-day-buckwheat-cake dinner on Thursday, Sept. 29, from 5 a.m. until 7 p.m.

The meal will include sausage, sausage gravy, and other items. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children.

The church is located along State Avenue.

TOWN NEWS

Trash containers are not to be put out for curbside pick-up until 7 p.m. the day prior to the scheduled pick-up, and must be removed from curbside by 7 p.m. the evening of pick-up. Should bags be torn open it is the responsibility of the resident to clean up the debris. Anyone wanting to sign up for curbside pick-up is asked to contact Town Hall at 301-746-5919.

Recycling is always the first Friday of the month. Residents may recycle newspapers (without shiny color inserts), non-waxed cardboard, aluminum beverage cans, and glass bottles (clear or colored). At this time they are not accepting plastics at the Friendsville site. All recycled items must be separated.

Anyone wanting to rent the park pavilions should contact Alice Spear at 301-746-5639.

The next scheduled Mayor and Town Council meeting will be held Oct. 3 at 7 p.m.

Residents are urged to start getting ready for fall cleanup in mid-October. The date will be announced soon.

Before building additions, putting up fences and signs, or placing new sheds, residents should contact Town Hall, as a zoning/building permit may be needed.

WOW LODGE 45

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 held its annual awards banquet at the Friendsville fire hall on Saturday, with 60 members and guests in attendance. WOW State Manager Tom Mathews and Angie Bain, fraternal coordinator, were also in attendance. Darlene Coddington entertained the group by singing several hymns. The honor plaque was presented to Walter Fearer, and the conservation award went to Bill Slagle, presented by Field Representative Burton Lytle.

FRIENDSVILLE LIBRARY QUILT RAFFLE NETS OVER $1,000 – A fund raiser sponsored by the Friendsville Library Quilters earned $1,029 for the Friendsville library when the group raffled off its latest quilt, "A House Without Books is Like a House Without Windows." The drawing was held recently at the library where, shown from the left, quilters Mimi Demaree and Mary Frazee held the ticket box while library patron Holly Lynn drew the winning ticket. The winner was Brenda Jenkins of Austinville, Va., a former Garrett County resident who is now caring for her aging parents at their home. Members of the Library Quilters piece and hand-quilt their project each year at the Friendsville Library, and all raffle proceeds go toward purchases of books and other materials. The winning quilt will be displayed Oct. 12-16 at the Autumn Glory Quilt Show in the social hall of St. Peter's Church.

OVER 100 GATHER TO REMEMBER 3,000 – Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 sponsored its annual Honor and Remembrance Ceremony on Sept. 11 in Friendsville, where the WOW Color Guard is shown presenting arms. Organizers reported that 125 people were in attendance for the event, just one of countless such remembrances that took place across the nation on the four-year anniversary of the terrorist attacks on America.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL PROPERTY
2626 Garrett Road
Oakland, Maryland 21550

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Larry Douglas Kight and Amelia Dawn Kight, dated October 19, 1999, and recorded in Liber 788, folio 0893 among the Land Records of Garrett County, MD, default having occurred under the terms thereof, the Sub. Trustee will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Courthouse Door, 203 South 4th Street entrance, Oakland, MD, on

September 30, 2005, at 12:00 PM

ALL THAT FEE SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND BEING DESCRIBED by a metes and bounds description and containing 2.61 acres more or less, situated in Garrett County, MD, and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust. Property being also known as Tax Account ID No. 16-006335.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, agreements, easements, covenants and rights of way of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale; A deposit of $3,000.00 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certified check, or other form as the Substitute Trustees determine acceptable. No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids on the property at sale. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, time being of the essence for purchaser. In the event of default, the deposit shall be forfeited and all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Trustees may then readvertise and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaultant purchaser; or, without reselling the property, the Trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser. In the event of a resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to receive the surplus, if any, even if such surplus results from improvements to the property by said defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustee. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. There shall be no adjustment of taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, and same are to be assumed by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustee does not convey title for any reason, including but not limited to the Secured Party executing a forbearance agreement with the borrower(s) described in the above mentioned Deed of Trust, or allowing the borrower(s) to execute their right to reinstate or pay off the subject loan, prior to the sale, with or without the Substitute Trustee's prior knowledge, the foreclosure sale shall be null and void and of no effect, and the Purchaser's sole remedy in law or in equity shall be the return of the deposit without interest. Further terms and particulars may be announced at time of sale, and purchaser may be required to execute a Memorandum of Sale at the time of auction. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement, to the Seller's attorney, for review of the settlement documents. (Matter #12412-N)

NOTICE TO THE RESIDENTS OF ACCIDENT

A Public Hearing will be held by the Accident Mayor and Town Council on Thursday, October 6, 2005, at 7:00 p.m. at the Accident town hail to hold the second reading and adoption of Ordinance 2005-1: Abandoned Vehicles; Ordinance 2005-2: Debris, Trash and Rubbish; Ordinance 2005-3: Zoning Ordinance Amendment for Municipal Infraction; Ordinance 2005-4: Trespassing on Town Property; and Resolution 2005-1: Municipal Infraction Fines.

A summary of each is as follows:

1) Ordinance 2005-1: Abandoned Vehicles. This ordinance states that abandoned vehicles will be prohibited within the town limits unless stored in a garage or storage building with the exception that the town will allow one abandoned vehicle which is: 1) located on property owned or rented by the owner of the vehicle, and 2) the vehicle is covered by a cover manufactured for that type or model of vehicle. In the event the violator is a minor, the enforcement provision shall apply to the parent, guardian, or other person directly responsible for the conduct of the minor. Violation of this ordinance is a municipal infraction.

2) Ordinance 2005-2: Debris. Trash and Rubbish: This ordinance states that debris, trash and rubbish must be stored in a building, out of sight; debris, trash and rubbish must not be set out more than 24 hours before scheduled pick-up; debris, trash and rubbish is permitted in a properly licensed salvage yard as long as the salvage yard is in compliance with the Garrett County Junk Ordinance; no lot, plot or parcel of land in one ownership will be held to be in violation of the prohibition against "tall grass and weeds 12 inches high or more" if the property meets one of the following criteria: (a). wooded or forested lot–any property which is a mature forest or woodland, in its natural state, that the tall grass and weeds are suppressed by the naturally occurring undergrowth; (b). unless contiguous with or adjacent to other property of the same owner, which has been improved with a building, so long as the property or portion thereof is mowed or cleared at least once annually and the grass and weeds are not allowed to exceed thirty (30) inches in height. In the event the violator is a minor, the enforcement provision shall apply to the parent, guardian, or other person directly responsible for the conduct of the minor. Violation of this ordinance is a municipal infraction.

3) Ordinance 2005-3: Zoning Ordinance Amendment For Municipal Infraction: This ordinance resolves Article 11 Section 1105, Remedies and Article 11 Section 1106, Fines and Penalties, as stated in the Town of Accident's Zoning Ordinance passed on July 7, 1997. Article 11 Section 1105 will now read that violation of any provisions of the Zoning Ordinance will be a municipal infraction and is subject to the Enforcement Ordinance, adopted October 2, 2003, and the fines or penalties provided in the Resolution of Fines for Municipal Infractions. The town, upon proper order from the District Court of Maryland, shall have the right to enter upon said property and remove the offending violation(s) and assess the property owner with the cost.

4) Ordinance 2005-4: Trespassing on Town Property: This ordinance states that it is unlawful for any person to trespass on town property, including: entering or remaining on town property after violating a posted notice or any notice, warning or protest given orally or in writing by the town or its authorizing agent; violating any posted notice; failing or refusing to leave town property after being asked by the town or its authorized agent; the town may send a notice or warning to any person to not enter town property by mailing the no-trespass notice to the person's last known address. in the event the violator is a minor, the enforcement provision shall apply to the parent, guardian, or other person directly responsible for the conduct of the minor. Violation of this ordinance is a municipal infraction.

5) Resolution 2005-1: Municipal Infractions Fines: The Resolution sets the fines for municipal infractions. Fines for violations of any town ordinance are as follows: 1st offense, $50.00; 2nd offense, $250.00, 3rd offense, $500.00. For continued violations of the ordinance, the fines for such municipal infraction shall be: 1st offense, $250.00; and 2nd and all subsequent offenses, $500.00.

Authorized by Mayor and Town Council of Accident, Maryland.

Grief Recovery Seminar Slated At SDA Church

Noted author and teacher Larry Yeagley will present a two-part grief recovery seminar titled "Life After Loss" on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7-8, at the Mountaintop Seventh Day Adventist Church. The seminar will get under way at 7 p.m. Friday evening, and will continue from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday (lunch provided).

The seminar will deal with how loss affects the entire family by covering topics including normal reactions and adjustments to loss, variables of how people grieve, the indicators of complicated mourning, and practical approaches to adjusting to loss. Time will be provided for class participation and questions, and a Saturday worship hour will focus on why loss is difficult, and how friends and church members can support those who grieve.

Author of five books, Yeagley is a pastor and chaplain who has lectured in over 250 cities throughout the United States and Canada. His book Grief Recovery is used in bereavement support groups, hospices, churches, and hospitals across the country. He has worked as a hospice and bereavement coordinator for the past 26 years, and co-developed the Good Hope Samaritan Hospice of Battle Creek, Mich., and Huguley Hospice of Ft. Worth, Texas.

Yeagley has conducted seminars on spiritual care for entire nursing staffs as well as hospices. He recently lectured on "Caring for the Terminal Ill" in Florida, Kentucky, Texas, and Illinois.

The Mountaintop SDA Church is located at 16335 Garrett Highway. For further information, or to register, persons may call 301-334-1455 or 301-334-8223.
